R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the sure cure. PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tinctures of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just what the sufferer has been so long in search of. The Corn Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolute cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

If We Would.

If we would but check the speaker
When he spoils his neighbor's fame;
If we would but help the erring,
Ere we utter words of blame;
If we would, how many might we Turn from paths of sin and shame.

Ah, the wrongs that might be righted
If we would but see the way!
Ah, the pains that might be lightened
Every hour and every day,
If we would but hear the pleadings
Of the hearts that go astray.

Let us step outside the stronghold
Of our selfishness and pride;
Let us lift our fainting brothers,
Let us strengthen ere we chide;
Let us, ere we blame the fallen,
Hold a light to cheer and guide.

Ah, how blessed—ah, how blessed
Earth would be if we'd but try
Thus to aid and right the weaker,
Thus to check each brother's sigh;
Thus to talk of duty's pathway
To our better life on high.

In each life, however lowly,
There are seeds of mighty good;
Still, we shrink from souls appealing
With a timid "If we could:"
But a God who judgeth all things Knows the truth is, "If we would."

—When the epizootic broke out in Chicago an expressman bought a horse badly afflicted with the distemper. He got him for $89, and began to dose him with a pint of gin and ginger twice a day. The stimulant kept up the spirits of the animal so that he worked all the time, and in less than a week earned $192. Unfortunately, however, the horse has acquired a taste for intoxicating liquor, and cannot do without it now. He smells it as he passes by saloons, and insists upon stopping; neither will he eat his food unless it is thus seasoned.

—Mr. Mansard and his topside contrivance have to take it just now. An eminent theologian has discovered that the extensive conflagration in Sodom and Gomorrah were not due to any special municipal iniquity in those cities, but is the prevalence of the French roof style of architecture.

The News.

A San Francisco dispatch says eleven men have been killed by the Modoc Indians, besides those in battle. Mrs. Brutherton defended her house three hours. The Indians fled and she was rescued next day by soldiers. Troops are on the way to exterminate the savages.

By an accident fifty miles west of Harrisburg on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, Friday, two Pullman cars were telescoped and five persons were killed.

One of the bodies found in the ruins of Walker's bazaar on Federal Street, Boston, has been recognized as that of George H. Pulson of Allston, Mass., 17 years old.

By the re-arrangement of the Senate committees Senator Cragin retains the chairmanship of that on naval affairs, is second on territories and is also a member of the Pacific Railroad committee. We understand that Mr. Cragin has appointed Mr. Charles B. Gafney of Rochester, clerk of the naval committee—an excellent selection.

The combined fortunes of Mr. Greeley's daughters is stated at $100,000 or more.

Charles F. Colby, a conductor on the Grand Street, New York, horse cars, courageously notified the passengers in his car early Saturday evening that a gang of pickpockets were on board and warned the passengers to beware of them. On his return trip the gang laid in wait and assaulted him as he was going home, but he escaped with a few bruises. On Sunday night the same gang assaulted him and tried to kill him, nearly succeeding in so doing. Two of the would-be murderers were arrested, but on being brought before the judge of special sessions on Thursday were discharged.

Aaron Wood, 80 years old, was murdered in Acton, Mass., Friday evening, by some unknown person.

Dr. Warren Stone, a famous surgeon, died at New Orleans, Friday, aged 65 years.

General Dyer, Chief of the Ordnance bureau, is very ill with Bright's disease.

The ship Utinia was abandoned by her crew, while on a voyage from Quebec for Bristol. Eight persons were washed off the vessel and drowned.

REVENUE REFORM.—The national House of Representatives has passed a bill reducing the number of special revenue agents from fifty to twenty-five, requiring the commission to effect the proposed consolidation by the first of July next at the latest, limiting the one-half per cent. allowed collectors to forty-five hundred dollars anually in the aggregate, and requiring collectors to give new bonds on assuming their new duties. The committee of ways and means expect, during the present session, to report a bill abolishing all remaining internal revenue taxes excepting those on whiskey and tobacco.

A CHALDEAN ACCOUNT OF THE DELUGE.—The London Daily Telegraph has received from Mr. George Smith of the British Museum the subjoined account of the record of the Deluge, which, as was announced a day or two ago, he has lately deciphered from the Assyrian monuments: "The cuneiform inscription which I have recently found and translated gives a long and full account of the Deluge. It contains the version or tradition of this event which existed in the early Chaldean period at the city of Erech (one of the cities of Nimrod), now represented by the ruins of Warka. In this newly-discovered inscription the account of the Deluge is put as a narrative into the mouth of Xisuthrus, or Noah. He relates the wickedness of the world, the command to build the ark, its building, the filling of it, the Deluge, the resting of the ark on a mountain, the sending out of the birds, and other matters. The narrative has a closer resemblance to the account transmitted by the Greeks from Berosus, the Chaldean historian, than to the Biblical history, but it does not differ materially from either; the principal differences are as to the duration of the Deluge, the name of the mountain on which the ark rested, the sending out of the birds, etc. The cuneiform account is much longer and fuller than that of Berosus, and has several details omitted both by the Bible and the Chaldean historian. This inscriptions opens up many questions of which we know nothing previously, and it is connected with a number of other details of Chaldean history which will be both interesting and important. This is the first time any inscription has been found with an account of an event mentioned in Genesis."

ORANGE CULTURE pays well in Florida. Mr. H. L. Hart, of Pilatka, on the St. John river, has a grove covering eight or nine acres, and containing scarcely five hundred trees, which, it is said, yielded him 800,000 oranges last winter, which he sold for three cents each, thus realizing $24,000 for the product of nine acres of land.

State News.

A man named Lane poisoned himself in Laconia on the 4th because three or four girls jilted him. He still lives.

Ex-Gov. Fred Smythe has been in Dayton, Ohio, auditing the accounts of the Soldiers' Home. We hear him spoken of as a compromise candidate for Congress in the Second district of this State.

David Geary fell from the roof of a house at Rochester on Friday, and was fatally injured. He was 22 years old.

The tannery of Stephen Tuttle at Hillsborough was burned Friday, with its contents. Loss $10,000; insured for $6000. Mr. John Codman, a prominent citizen, dropped dead while engaged in holding a hose at the fire.

Mr. Abednego Robinson of Stratham was attacked by a bull and trampled under the animal's hoofs on Friday. His recovery is doubtful. His three sons killed the bull with powder, lead, axes and sledge hammers.

Work has commenced at the quarries in Concord, on the great contract for furnishing the granite for the new city and county buildings at Philadelphia. The sum for the contract is three millions and seven hundred thousand dollars, and it is estimated that it will require five hundred men five years to get out the granite and dress it.

The State Board of Agriculture will hold a meeting at Gilmanton Iron Works village on Tuesday, December 17th.

There is genuine small-pox at Sanbornton Square.

Nathan H. Carr of Gilmanton, a butcher, who was dragged between the wheels of his wagon at Pittsfield recently, has died from his injures.

Flags were displayed at half-mast at Newport on the burial day of Horace Greeley.

Naylor Starbird, Esq., for many years a prominent citizen of Newport, died recently in Kansas.

The people of Laconia and Gilford are agitating the formation of a new town to embrace both of those places.

Foster's Dover Democrat says: "The Cocheco river is to be turned, near the High School house, by cutting a channel across the peninsula. This channel is to be bridged, and the present bed of the river around the Point is to be the river no longer. The old bed will be filled and graded up to the level of the road at the crossing. This is the easiest way to dispose of the large amount of earth to be removed from the deep cut between the Ricker field, south of Silver Street, and Washington Street, near the river. This turning of the river is now in progress, and is not a very expensive job."

On Wednesday morning, Samuel J. Smith of Dover had his right hand fearfully lacerated by the teeth of a hog that he and another man were attempting to butcher. They had thrown the beast and while Smith was preparing to use the knife, the creature managed to get his hand in chancery. The wound is painful but not dangerous. Smith cut the throat of the ugly varmint after he was bitten.

LOCKED OUT.—It's all very well to laugh at, now it's all over, but if you wish to know what a pleasant effect being the wrong side of the door has, at half-past two in the morning, lose your key and try it.

I arrived at my apartments (I live ten or twelve miles out of town) at half-past two last Thursday morning, and looking up smilingly at my windows, I felt for my key.

Those who carry latch-keys can readily realize my sensations when I found I had left it in town. To wake the inmates was a matter of disturbing the whole neighborhood; I therefore determined (after waiting thirty minutes for a policeman) to effect an entrance by the staircase window.

I must mentioned that my house is one of a short row, in which there live a butcher, baker, and chemist, each of whom keeps a dog or dogs more or less vicious, according to the amiableness of its owner.

Having determined to attempt the great window feat, I went round to the back of the house and looked over the paling. Scarcely had I raised my head, than "Boo-woo-woo!" went a dog with whom I had some slight acquaintance, I addressed it soothingly by its Christain name, "Gip."

The sound of my voice set the remainder of the dogs off, and in less than a minute there was a row only equalled by a pack in full cry.

This naturally woke some of the nobler animals; and one gentle female with a shriek voice put her head out of the window and asked, in a hysterical tone, who was there?

The ever-ready answer, "Me," burst forth, regardless of grammar.

"Where are the police?" continued the screech.

"Precisely what I have been asking myself for the last thirty minutes," answered I.

At this juncture I attemped a laugh, and nearly overbalanced myself, and, in regaining my position, I kicked the palings, on which I was seated, so vigorously, that off went the dogs louder than before, and several more windows went up.

At the chemist's appeared something that looked like Robinson Crusoe, ably supported by La Somnambula in a nightcap.

"What's the matter?" sensibly asked a third window.

"Matter?" shrieked all the voices together; but their explanation was lost in the general howl of dogs.

"You shall hear of this in the morning," said one irrepressible female.

"It strikes me I am hearing of it—very much of it—in the morning; you mean later in the day. Call to lunch," said I, "and let's have it out."

The windows went down with a bang, and I went off the palings with another, falling within a yard of a beautiful bullmastiff, which showed me the perfect order in which he kept his teeth; after a satisfactory inspection thereof, I described a circle round him, and reached the wash-house. One foot on the window-sill and one hand on the leaden spout, I prepared for the great feat, but at that instant (owing to the dog's violent efforts to strangle itself), the staple holding the chain gave way, and, without a word of apology, he seized me by that portion of my clothes unknown to angels. I held on to the spout, the dog held on to me. One derisive laugh rang through the air.

A lapse of several seconds, each of which seemed an hour.

Every moment I expected would be my last, when, within reach, I saw a broomhandle; to seize it, and dent myself a fearful blow, was the work of an instant. Horror! the spout is giving way. A second fearful blow proved more fortunate—I broke the wash-house window; one more, and I landed the stick on his nose, in a way that sounded like cracking an egg-shell.

A dreadful howl followed; he let go. Windows again up—general howling, shouting, and a rally all round. During the melee I disappeared in at the window, and peeped round the blind; row gradually subsided.

An interval of five minutes. All quiet.

An interval of five more minutes. A policeman I composed, unruffled, dignified.

New Publications.

Peterson's Magazine for January, 1873, more than holds its own. It is hard to tell which of its two steel engravings is the best, "Cherry Ripe," or "The Initials on the Tree." There is a large-sized colored Berlin pattern for a sofa cushion, or foot-stool, in more than a dozen colors; the mammoth colored steel fashion plate is exquisite. The stories are of the very best. Two novelettes are begun in this number; $2 a year, with liberal deductions to clubs, and a five dollar engraving to those getting up clubs. Specimens sent gratis. Charles J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

THE HUMAN KITCHEN AND ITS DUMB WAITERS.—The body is supplied with aliment by vessels which connect the stomach and its auxiliaries with the venous system; and, so to speak, perform the office of dumb waiters in a restaurant. In other words these media of communication between the animal kitchen and its dependents supply to each member and organ near or remote, the quantity and kind of nutriment required to keep it going. When the stomach is derelict in its duty, or the dumb waiters inert or obstructed, it is the peculiar province of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters to strengthen and regulate them. Hence its marvelous cures of chronic indigestion, and the emaciation, debility and langnor which are generally its concomitants. It is, moreover, a powerful alterative and corrective, and the rapidity with which it checks irregularities of the liver and bowels, and braces and invigorates the nervous system is a marvel, not only to the general public, but to professional men.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

MOST REMARKABLE in its effects, and most useful in its application, the fragrant Sozodont has become the most popular Dentrifice in existence. 'Tis used and praised by every body.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

—The inventors who have been experimenting with paper for some time past are now trying to make it useful for window shutters. The preparation used is the ordinary paper pulp brought by pressure to the utmost compactness and solidity, with the tightest possible sheet-iron or other casing to insure stability. This preparation has been brought to a high degree of perfection in Japan, where they are much more skillful in the uses of paper than we are, adapting it to all sorts of articles for domestic use, being, as it is claimed, water-proof, weather proof, and fire-proof, not liable to breakage like crockery from careless handling, nor in danger of corrosion like most of the metals from exposure. The material has been used to some extent in this country for furniture, clothing, car-wheels, and many other things out of the ordinary course of things. As the stuff will not burn the inventors expect to turn it to use as a new safeguard against fire.—Boston Adv.

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

Municipal Reform.

Messrs. Editors:—I crave space in your columns for the ventilation of my ideas on "Municipal Reform," as referring to the City Government of Portsmouth. Let me premise that I do not intend any attack upon the Board of Mayor and Alderman, the Common Council, the City Clerk or Lamplighter, or any other man or body of men, but upon the system upon which our city affairs are conducted, which system I believe capable of great improvement and that such improvement would be a source of satisfaction to many citizens who now exist in a chronic state of gentle dissatisfaction, in consequence of the way in which the old thing works.

In the first place, I do not pretend to know anything about our much-tinkered City Charter; nobody does; there probably is not a copy of that prize-patchwork concern in existence, excepting in the head of the City Clerk,—and it would be a small loss were he to forget all he knows about it, for all the good it does in the conduct of our municipal affairs. Having acknowledged that I know nothing of the "documents" on which our city government is founded, I propose to show, if I can, that said documents are of mighty little account, or are most mightily disregarded by somebody,—and it does not matter which, as the result is the same in either case. And should I fail to show that the city charter is a snare and a delusion, or that its provisions are ignored, if they are really worth anything, the unpleasant effect of the failure upon my dignity will be more than compensated by the sweet pleasure I shall have in growling.

Our "city government" is popularly supposed to mean the Mayor, Aldermen and Common Council; it really does mean the majority in the Board of Aldermen, the Mayor amounting to but little in practice, whatever the theory may be, and the Common Council "not amounting to shucks." How much warrant for this state of things can be found in the charter and its amendments I cannot say; but every citizen who is at all conversant with our municipal affairs knows that it is so. The Common Council may do well enough to share the blame of anything which is done in opposition to the will of the people, but it is absolutely powerless to do anything of itself, or to prevent anything being done; and the sooner it is abolished, the sooner the tax-payers will be able to fix the responsibility of whatever is done upon the power that does it,—and then, and not till then, shall we have something like a responsible city government. Do away with the Common Council entirely, and I fancy there would be less carrying-out of the whims and hobbies of individuals at the public expense than has been the case of late years. So long as A. can carry his point and win all the glory if he proves to be in the right, and share the blame with B., C. and D., if he makes a failure of it, he will be more likely to venture on rash and costly experiments than if he could be held to a rigid responsibility for all his official acts. The Common Council is but a cloak for Aldermanic extravagance, and should be abolished; it costs nothing, certainly, and is a cheap farce in itself, but it is a farce, and not a power in municipal affairs. Perhaps your readers do not all know how the city government is conducted, and as I once sat for a year in the lower branch, I will tell them. It will do no harm, if they know all about it already.

Each year a Mayor, Aldermen and Common Councilmen are chosen, they in turn electing other city officers,—police, engineers, etc. So far, it is all right; but money is necessary to carry on the government, so an "appropriation bill" has to be passed, and now trouble commences. The bill is popularly supposed to originate in the Common Council, and so perhaps it does, though when I was a member of that august body I couldn't tell where in the world the bill came from; I only know that there was much pulling and hauling before the bill passed, that the Council cut down several items, and that the Aldermen afterward expended much more money than was appropriated for each of the items so reduced, without troubling themselves to ask the Council for more. How the appropriations were so often exceeded I do not know, nor exactly how the money was procured to meet the bills; but the bills were always paid, I suppose, for the city's credit stands high to-day.

In my next letter (for I propose to write several on this subject,) I shall try to illustrate the absolute uselessness of the Common Council as a check upon any scheme, however extravagant, which any five Aldermen may favor; to show that the Council's supposed influence in regulating the city's expenditures is a myth, not amounting in value to one cent; and that investing the Board of Aldermen with nominal supreme power in city affairs, as they now actually exercise supreme power without being accountable for it, would be a benefit to the city and perhaps result in a reduction of tax-bills.

In the last paragraph I have used the words "in my next letter." Start not, gentle editors, at those terrible words; neither hug to thy hearts the fond delusion that throwing this able article into the waste-basket will drive me away—for it won't; I shall write on all the same, and give the history of "repairs" on City Buildings, Fire Department matters, etc., in the (possibly vain) hope that some good may come of it. MUSICBYTHEBAND.

Runaway Accident.

Capt. Orlando G. Robinson of Greenland, (formerly of this city,) had a narrow escape from death one day last week. He was driving a horse which was drawing a wagon containing a cabinet organ, the organ so near filling the wagon as to leave room only for a stool to sit upon, giving the driver rather an insecure seat. When opposite the Greenland Academy yard, a number of loose horses therein were stampeded by the noisy assault upon them of a playful Newfoundlands dog, and dashed into the street, frightening the horse drawing the wagon and causing him to run away. Owing to his cramped condition in the wagon Capt. Robinson was unable to manage the animal and was thrown to the ground, and it is supposed lost his hold of one rein in his fall, holding on to the other and thus causing the horse to turn in such a way as to run the wagon over his body. The cabinet organ (a new one just purchased of Mr. E. A. Joy) struck just beside Capt. Robinson as he lay on the ground, but fortunately did not hit him; the organ was ruined, and the man (who landed on his head) was severely injured but is now recovering.

Mr. Joseph Cheever of this city has been appointed Postal Clerk vice John J. Leavitt of Hampton. Mr. Cheever's route will be between Boston and Bangor. He assumes his new duties to-day.

The indications are that Portsmouth will present a united front at the Republican convention for one of its distinguished citizens for Congressman, provided the will of the people be not defeated by the tricks of politicians.

"Major Murphy," of Eliot, recently killed his pet hog, and was rejoiced to find his weight to be 600 1-2 pounds, dressed. Piggy was eighteen months old, and the Major thinks he did honor to his boarding-master.

A DOG KILLS HIS MASTER.—Old Peter Bean had been a digger of wells in this locality for thirty years. His old business, his labor and amusement, consisted in delving down into the bowels of the earth in search of springs of living water. He lived a life of loneliness and celibacy, and procured his meals at Mrs. Kenyra's boarding-house, on Front street, between Market and Winchester.

He was truly a good old man. His firm and fast friend, his companion in hours of toil and leisure, was a large dog that was hardly ever know to be absent from the side of Peter. He was a cheerful, even happy character, of a quiet and playful disposition, and when he worked, to use a homely style of phraseology, "he worked." No one knew how old Peter was, and nobody would even venture to guess at the age of his dog. His was a sort of perennial youthfulness. The lapse of changeful years and the vicissitude of things had no senile effect on him. In the natural and regular course of things there was every probability that he would outlive a couple more generations. But it was not so to be. He fell yesterday the victim of an accident which no foresight could have anticipated and no precaution arrested. It was in this way:

Peter was digging a well on Front street, not far from his lodgings. He had reached a depth of forty feet, and was still industriously delving in the earth. What his lonely thoughts down there in that narrow hole were, is only known to the angels that forsake not a man, no matter into what cave of dark recesses he may penetrate. His assistant, on the surface of the earth, had just hauled up a bucketful of dirt, which was carried to some distance and emptied out, and the bucket, detached from the rope, as was usual, lay on the edge of the pit. Peter was below wiping his brow or cheerfully delving, no one knows what, when his faithful dog, having got loose, rushed madly about in search of his master.

The vigorous and excited animal bounded toward the pit to bark down to his friend at the bottom, knowing he would get a friendly answer. This enthusiastic friendship of the dog, proved the death of the man. In jumping to the edge of the pit, he drove the bucket before him into it. There was nothing heard afterward but a low, painful groan, and all was still below in the dark and narrow hole.

When Peter was taken out it was found that the bucket had split his head in two. He died instantly. Justice Spellman held an inquest in an hour or so afterward, and the jury having become acquainted with these facts gave their verdict accordingly, laying all the blame of the terrible accident on the dog—the last creature on earth that would have injured or allowed others to injure a hair of his master. So great was the grief or affection of the animal on finding that the cold hand of Peter caressed him no more and the voice of Peter failed to reply to his friendly yelps, that he lay under the dead man's couch yesterday and died himself. It is a curious—and sad—as curious—episode in life and death.—Memphis Appeal.

Morning Chronicle.

FUN AND PHYSIC.—Professor Da Costa, a new member of the Faculty of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, delivered his introductory lecture the other day. He said: "I look to the day when we shall have a clearer idea of the inception, extent and advancement of tissue alterations than we now have; when the amount of force expended in diseased action, if I may so express myself, shall be more accurately gauged, and the progress of disorder more readily detected; when we can measure the something of life that is all the time undergoing the changes of life even in pathological textures, and estimate more closely the finer physical alterations being made and the upshot of these alterations."

Much is to be hoped from the improvement of intruments. The microscope, the thermometer, the laryngoscope, and the optalmoscope are constantly used by skilled physicians. Professor Da Costa apprehends, however, that by-and-by it will be impossible for any one man to be master of the skill required to manipulate all these instruments. As in the mechanical arts there will be a division of labor. Every doctor will necessarily become in a certain sense a specialist. He thus humorously sketches a professional visit of the future.

"Madame is in her boudoir, reclining on a sofa, in expectation of her medical attendants. A drag drives up, from which alight two servants with heavy bags, who assist two or four doctors to decend. The fraternity is announced, and, followed by the servants, enter the room. The bags are deposited, the servants withdraw, and, after the exchange of a few remarks, the examination begins. Dr. Ready, the junior practitioner, conducts the first inquiries, makes the ordinary investigations of the different organs, and, before finishing, pulls out of his pocket a tablet containing the volumetic examination of every fluid in the body, completed since the last visit. This is looked at by all. Dr. Reckoner then takes traces of the movements of the heart, of the pulse, of the action of muscles, records the velocity of their contraction, and estimates the amount of nerve supply, showing diagrams and figures to the patient, who inspects them with the look of a connoisseur. Dr. Eyeman now applies the improved opthalmoscope, which photographs as well as is used to see by. Again Madame shows active interest and declares that the picture is very pretty. A mysterious nodding and whispering has taken place. There has been indigestion, with pain at the pit of the stomach; can there be anything wrong with the blood vessels there? Dr. Maguet, who is a very accomplished physickist, steps forward: 'If you will permit me I will make you transparent.' And by means of a modified, portable Ruhmkroff coil, and an instrument with lenses, dexterously passed into the stomach, the patient is really rendered transparent. The examination is completed; fortunately no serious lesions exist, and a consultation held in the next room results in the advice to take a few glasses of water and a daily ride on horseback."

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYEPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER TO VARY; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-tortring climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As the STITCH in time saves nine, so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in the case of CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, QUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating the liver into healthy action, and directly it is a sedative and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves wearisomness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured twenty years. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the public, confident to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapalina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain. Cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Diseased Corns, the most intense, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

The Chronicle.

Mark Twain's Pipe.

Mark Twain has cracked many a joke at the expense of other people during his brief and brilliant career, and occasionally other people have succeeded in getting one in on Mark. The "robbery" on the Divide between Gold Hill and Virginia was a notable instance in which the great humorist was the victim of a joke. Twain doesn't take a joke so well as he perpetrates one,—at least he did not in the olden time, tho' perchance his mood may have mended in this respect. Reading an account of his hospitable reception by the Savage Club, in London, recalls to mind an unpublished episode of Mark's early career in Virginia City, which will possess interest for many readers, particularly in the mountain city of the Silver State. The people of Nevada regard Mark as one of their productions, and take nearly as much pride in him as they do in the Comstock lode.

About eight years ago there existed in that town a sort of Savage Club on a small scale. It was an informal organization, composed of ten or twelve genial fellows, who at first styled themselves "Companions of the Jug." Subsequently, Joe Goodman, of the Enterprise, one of the principal Companions, had the name changed to "The Visigoths," and immortalized the Club by sundry poetic apostrophes, generally written at the close of a meeting and under the immediate inspiration of a half gallon of lager and a quarter section of redolent Limberger cheese. Among the Visigoths were the two local reporters of the Enterprise, Mark Twain and Dan De Quille, two proprietors of the paper, and six or eight private citizens, who took a mangled interest in literature, bad jokes, beer and cheese.

Meetings were held every afternoon in a brewery on D — street—a place where they sold the amber liquid for a dollar a gallon, flakes of Limburger and caraway seed bread for twenty-five cents a platter, with mustard and black radishes ad lib, free of charge. The attendance was not restricted to members alone; in fact, the festive board was scarcely ever without a stranger guest, and the hospitality of the Visigoths was as boundless as the resources of the brewery. Prominent actors, visiting the city on professional business, were always warmly welcomed. Poor Dan Setchell, the well-known comedian, were he living to day, could bear witness to this, for he was often an honored guest, and his droll, but always kindly humor never shone to better advantage or to a more appreciative audience. Charley Pope, another well-remembered actor, lived for several months in Virginia City, and during that period he was seldom absent from the Gothic saturnalia.

At times the Visigoths held their meetings in a wein halle under Kennedy & Mallon's store on C—street, and it was during one of the gatherings at this place that the "unpublished episode" occurred. Some two or three days before, one of the members had noticed a magnificent looking pipe in a tobacconist's store. Virginia City was a great place for fine meerschaum pipes in those days, and probably is yet. "Old Put," the Visigoth who discovered this pipe, was at once greatly taken with its size and beauty. It was elaborately ornamented, and looked large and handsome enough for a parlor mantel vase. But he sighed to think his depleted exchequer prevented him from becoming the owner of such a princely pipe. It could not, thought he, be worth less than $150. He asked timidly what was the price of the treasure, and was amazed when bland and smiling Wertheimer responded: "I sells you dis pipe, Mr. Butnam, for ein dollar and a quarter."

"A dollar and a quarter!" said Put, fastening his black eyes on the dealer as though he thought him crazy. Then, reflecting that the pipe could not be genuine meerschaum, he grew calmer, and remarked, "Of course, in that case, it must be bogus?"

"Well," said Wertheimer, laughing, "to be sure it isn't meerschaum, but it's shenuine blaster baris and white of eggs."

A brilliant idea struck Putnam and nearly rendered existence insupportable until he found two or three other companions of the jug, and unburdened himself, which he soon did. His idea was to play a joke on Mark Twain—to buy the pipe and present it at one of the club gatherings.

The design was unanimously pronounced a good one, and it was speedily carried out. The pipe was purchased for a dollar and a quarter. Then a splendid cherry stem about a yard in length, a beautiful amber mouth piece, and an elegant satin-lined case. These cost ten dollars more. The pipe was then taken to a silversmith's and handsomely mounted, with an inscription on the silver cap. This brought the total cost up to about twenty dollars, and the magnificent deception was complete.

All the members of the club were duly notified to be present on the occasion and as each (except the victim) was informed in advance of the nature of the "business" to be transacted, there was a full attendance. Charley Pope had been selected to make the presentation, and after the first round of beer and cheese, at a preconcerted nod from the Alaric of the tribe, the actor arose and addressed Mark in deep, earnest tones, as follows:

"I feel greatly honored, Mr. Clemens, in having been selected by the warm-hearted friends who now surround us to give expression to their high regard for one whose quaint humor and flashing wit hath often set the table in a roar, and whose noble qualities of mind and heart have endeared him to each and every one. On behalf of the Visigoths, Mr. Clemens, I present you with this pipe, as a slight token of brotherly love and esteem. May the cares and sorrows of this life pass over your head as harmlessly as the blue smoke that shall rise from this bowl; and if, perchance, in the distant future, our company shall be broken and scattered among many lands, may the recollection of to-day be pleasing and grateful to you, as it most assuredly will be to each of your friends."

There was an embarrassing pause at the close of Pope's remarks. With professional facility he had acted the role assigned him with a fidelity to nature, the effect of which had not been quite anticipated, and even before he finished there was not a man among the conspirators who did not feel as mean as if he had been caught robbing a hen-roost. Every one had supposed that he would give Mark an inkling of the joke by introducing a little palpable irony or burlesque, but instead of that, his manner was as solemn, and his rich, deep voice as full of earnest pathos as though he were delivering a funeral oration.

Mark was entirely overcome by honest emotion. Not the faintest suspicion of the cruel joke ever came to his mind, and when he rose to reply, his voice was tremulous, and a genuine tear glistened in his eye. He was an inveterate smoker at that time, and probably no other gift could have been selected that would have pleased him half so well as a fine pipe. After holding it in his hand and gazing for a moment in speechless admiration at its size and beauty, he responded in a voice husky with emotion:

"Boys—you—you have taken me entirely by surprise. I feel utterly incapable of expressing my thanks for this beautiful gift. And yet, although it is a very beautiful gift, at this moment I value it far less than I do the friendly regard which makes me the recipient of it. I would like to—to be able to tell you all how very deeply I appreciate this gift—but I cannot do it now—I cannot do it."

He sat down, his face flushed with pleasure, and his humorous blue eye fairly sparkling with delight, while the rest of the company were oppressed with strangely embarrassing sensations.

The joke had been carried entirely too far. Each one felt this, but saw no way out of the difficulty. The painful silence was broken by the approach of the landlord, in response to a beckoning motion from Mark.

"Open a couple bottles of wine, Levison—Moselle, do your hear?—sparkling Moselle."

The conspirators were getting deeper into the mire. Sparkling Moselle was worth five dollars a bottle, and they felt an additional pang at the thought of Mark incurring such an expense on such an occasion. A general protest against the wine was entered, but Mark was inflexible.

"Boys, I insist most postively upon this as my prerogative," said he, "and I know you will not deny me this additional pleasure. Leverton, you just draw the corks and set the glasses out."

Pop! pop! went the corks, the landlord having expediated things for fear the order might be countermanded. Further protest was useless, and with troubled hearts the Visigoths sat down and swallowed their wine, vainly endeavoring to look cheerful. The party soon broke up and Mark went off with his pipe as happy as a boy with his first top-boot.

About three days after the presentation, Mark was sunning himself on the sidewalk in front of the office, smoking his daring pipe, and looking the perfect embodiment of serenity and comfort. A friend came along and entered into conversation with him. This individual had been let into the secret of the pipe, and he supposed that, by this time, Mark himself knew all about it. The friend remarked:

"That's a gay old pipe, Mark, isn't it?"

"Well, I should say it was," earnestly responded Mark, as he reached out and unclasped the satin-lined case in order that the beholder might be dazzled by a full view of the gorgeously carved and silver-mounted bowl. "There's one thing I notice, though," he added with a childlike innocence, looking anxiously for a trace of coloring at the bowl of the pipe, and then peering into the soft, silky recess of the case—"I notice that the heat seems to strike through and scorch this case. I suppose I ought to leave it off when I'm smoking—don't you think so?"

It was even as he said. On each inner side of the case the original glossy pink of the satin had been scorched to a crisp, harsh brown—it was utterly spoiled, in fact.

"Well, I should think you would leave that elegant case off, and not be spoiling it with a worthless, old sham pipe like that," replied his friend.

The peculiar look which Mark bent upon the speaker at these words made him somewhat uncomfortable. The idea suddenly occurred to him that Mark had not become aware of the fraud until now, and this impression was soon confirmed.

"Of course, I suppose you know that this is a bogus pipe?" said Mark in a very insinuating tone.

"Well—yes—yes; I suppose I do," replied the other, who hardly knew what to make of his wily interrogator.

"They let you into the—the joke, did they?" continued Mark, with a ghastly attempt at a knowing smile.

"Not until it was all over. Dan De Quille told me all about it next day."

Mark said no more. He put the pipe back in its place, disjointed the stem and placed the whole apparatus in a coat pocket. Then he walked up stairs and into the reporters' room. His colaborer, Dan de Quille, was there alone, writing at his desk. He looked up as Mark entered, and said, cordially, "Hello, old fellow!" but there was no response. Mark locked the door behind him, put the key in his pocket, drew up a chair, and sat down squarely facing Dan, who felt a disagreeable presentiment that the cat was out of the bag. What transpired between those two men this veracious historian is unable to affirm with rigorous exactitude. But there is a tradition that Twain declared all friendship "off" from that time forth between himself and Dan; that the noblest feelings of his nature had been wantonly trifled with, and he would forgive no man who had participated in the deception; that chief among all the offenders he held the unhappy Dan to be, because they were chums,—worked together, ate together, wrote sensation items together about the arrival of pack trains and hay wagons, drank Mike McCloskey's reporters' cobblers together, and finally, roomed together. For a man who was thus closely wound up in his soul to become a party to such a miserable joke was too much. Vowing vengeance, and refusing to listen to Dan's explanation about how the joke came to be carried so far, Mark went right off and hired a room for himself, and many months elapsed before the painful memory of the bogus pipe passed away forever.

Within a week after the joke was exposed the Visigoths bought Mark a genuine meerschaum, which was presented informally; no speeches—no sparkling Moselle.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.

The President's Message and accompanying Reports have been favorably received in general. The old Whig doctrine of internal improvements finds suggestive recognition in the notices of the land-locked navigation from the Mississippi Valley to the East via Lake Ponchartrain and across the neck of Florida by canal, and along the coast by canaling the inlets; also by uniting the Tennessee and Carolina rivers by canals across to the Atlantic Ocean; and by the extension of the canal from Richmond, Va., through the Alleghany Mountains to the Ohio River, by which cargo in barges from the Mississippi River can pass without transhipment to tide-water at Richmond or Norfolk by way of the Ohio and Kanawha rivers and canal. Two hundred miles of this latter canal have been finished (and it is now in operation to Buchanan,) at a cost of $10,426,000; the distance from Buchanan to the Ohio River is 289 miles. The estimated cost of the route is $29,000,000; a survey which reduces the distance four miles, and makes a nine-miles tunnel 220 feet lower down the mountain, increases the estimated cost to $37,000,000. By this proposed route the water line from Cincinnati to Liverpool is reduced 2300 miles, and from St. Louis 1300 miles; and the scheme finds much favor at the South and it is looked upon in the West as being calculated to prevent extortionate freights upon the products of that section by the railroad, from which they always suffer when navigation is frozen up further North.

The scheme of the Postmaster General to take control of telegraphing, which the message approves, is finding more favor than when first broached, and is looked upon as the precursor to taking possession of railroads and regulating their fares and freights, as highways of commerce between States.

The report of the Secretary of the Interior states of the Southern Pacific Railroad that "the expenses of the road and fixtures have been $11,481,467,70. The indebtedness of the company is reported to be $20,442,245,59." The proportion of debt to cost and expenses is too great to be easily comprehended. In connection with the statement from the House Reports I previously sent you, it would seem to be the part of prudence for your readers to keep clear of its bonds. A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser, who went over the road very recently, writes that paper that for the first 115 miles, to Brainard, is tamarack swamp, where $100,000 have been spent in filling sunken places the past summer; from Brainard to the Cheyenne River, in Dacotah, a distance of more than 200 miles, the soil is of the best quality—and then commences the alkali lands. Beyond that point he did not go.

The report of the Secretary of the Navy favoring ten new vessels, received favorable action by the passage of a bill through the House for six, three of which are to be built outside the Navy Yards. Now is the time for Portsmouth to start for the building of one of the three.

The report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue favors a bill which will probably be passed in the next two weeks, dispensing with assessors and assistant assessors, which will reduce the Internal Revenue expenses about $2,000,000 a year.

A recent civil service examination for promotion in the Treasury had this result. Seven were examined and three were found qualified; two out of these three were at the foot of the list for efficiency in the office, and of the two who stood at the head of the list in the office, for efficiency, neither passed such an examination as to come within the list for promotion. One of them, who stood at the head of the list, for efficiency in the office according to the judgment of every officer in the Bureau to which he belonged, was at the foot in the competitive examination. He had been in the army four years before becoming a clerk.

New Hampshire is well represented in the Hotels of Washington, having Bunker in the St. James, Tenny of Manchester in the National (where Representative Bell may be found) and Peavey in the Kirkwood, (where Representatives Hibbard and Parker have taken quarters for the winter).

The Senate committees have been remodeled by leaving off those Republicans who went for Greeley. They have been taken into the Democratic fold, and considered in filling the vacancies left for the Democracy. It was small business for Senators not to let Fenton and Sumner have a chance to say a eulogistic word on Greeley, under the lead of Cameron. Banks fared better in the House, and was allowed by a majority vote to continue on the committee of Foreign Affairs, after tendering his resignation. He probably fared better than Blair or Farnsworth would, had they offered to resign. Senator Wilson resigns the chairmanship of the Military Committee and the appointment of Logan to his place is a movement in the cause of peace.

Since our cold snap the weather resembles a New Hampshire October. It was hard on the poor, and the poor animals, who have no such shelter and care as at the north. E. X.

The News.

Specials from Greensborough, N. C., state that Judge Thomas Settle has just been appointed an associate justice of the supreme court of North Carolina, and has accepted and been qualified. It was this position he resigned to accept the mission to Peru.

Ceresole is elected President, and Schenck Vice-President, of the Swiss Confederation for 1873.

The act which passed the House on Thursday last, authorizing the construction of six steam sloops-of-war, will probably be restored by the Senate to its original terms, allowing the construction of ten and providing for the building of the same in the government yards. Then the bill will be sent to a conference committee and an acceptable compromise arrived at. Most of the vessels are to be of iron, though there may be, if the ten asked for are authorized, three of wood. They will be built on models designed for speed, under sail or steam.

An extensive fire occurred at Potosi, Missouri, Friday, destroying the principal business buildings of the place.

The Brooklyn Union states that Schuyler Colfax has been offered the chief editorial chair of the Tribune as successor of Horace Greeley, and that he will accept it. It is reported that Mayor Hall assumes the editorial chair of the Herald January 1, and that Bennett shortly leaves on a two years' European trip.

Henry Clews of New York is brought forward as a candidate for the Secretaryship of the Treasury.

Judge Merrimon, the newly-elected Senator from North Carolina, is said by members from that State, of both parties, to be an abler man than his Democratic associate and competitor, Governor Vance. During the civil war, Merrimon was a Union man, and in proof of this, it is stated that he was a member of the organization known as "Heroes of America," or familiarly as "Red Strings." He has acted with the Democracy since the war, though selected as judge of the Supreme Court under the reconstructed State government. The fact of his being a Union man has, however, always been a cause of coldness by his party associates, and the attempt of the Democratic caucus to renominate Vance and compel all to support him, induced the Republicans to vote for Merrimon.

There are seven cases of small-pox at the Portland pest-house.

Samuel N. Pike, well known as the builder of Pike's Opera House in Cincinnati and the Grand Opera House in New York, died of apoplexy in his office at New York, Saturday.

Cars will be running through the Hoosac tunnel within twelve months.

The legislature in Louisiana consists of 77 Republicans and 32 Democrats in the House, and 28 Republicans and 8 Democrats in the Senate.

The Fenians are again organizing.

The life insurance companies are all in a flurry because one of the most successful ones in the country is about to reduce its rates.

Stokes is again on trial.

The British steamship Scandiria, which left New York on the 8th of October last, for Queenstown, has not yet been heard from, and is probably lost. The Scandiria had no passengers, but the officers and crew numbered forty-five men. The cargo consisted of sixty-two thousand bushels of corn. All the crew except five were English seamen.

Startling developments are expected from the Credit Mobilier investigation.

Azro B. Bartholomew, found guilty of manslaughter for killing Charles F. Storer of Chelsea, has been sentenced to the Massachusetts State prison for six years.

Leavitt Alley of Boston has been indicted for the murder of Abjah Ellis, and will be tried at an early day.

Hon. W. Pitt Kellogg, Republican, is elected Governor of Louisiana by 18,761 majority. The majority for Grant and Wilson is 12,573.

England, Wales and Ireland have been visited by a severe gale. There was immense destruction of property on land and shipping at sea.

Congress.

On Monday, Gen. Banks introduced bills in the House raising the salary of the President from March 4th, 1873, to $50,000 per annum, and confining Presidents to one term of office. Both were referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The naval appropriation bill as agreed on in committee amounts to $18,700,000.

Mr. Lynch introduced a bill providing for the construction of life saving stations on the coast of Maine and New Hampshire.

RURAL BEAUTIES AND CITY BELLES.—Country girls are not a whit behind their metropolitan sisters in the natural elements of loveliness, but it must be conceded that the city belles best understand the art of preserving and heightening their personal beauty. The most perfect features lose half their attraction, unless the complexion is properly cared for, and if the pretty girls of the rural districts wish to compete with the "Fairstars" of the fashionable world in refined attractions, they must pay due attention to this important point. They ought to know, for the fact is notorious, that Hagan's Magnolia Balm imparts to the skin a delicate pearly appearance, unproducable by any other preparation under the sun. No matter how the cuticle may have been roughened by exposure or discolored by the sun, the Balm will render it soft and pliable, and removes every blemish.

PRIVILEGE OF POSTMASTERS.—For some time past it has been the practice of postmasters to open and return what they deemed to be suspicious letters, in the avowed interest of public morality, but their right to do this has been frequently denied. The Attorney General has written to the Postmaster General, deciding that postmasters have no right to open or detain letters or other matter transmitted through the post office, though they may know that they contain obscene matter. The Attorney General adds that postmasters have no more authority to open letters, other than those addressed to themselves, than any other citizen of the United States.

Hon. Warren Currier, Republican, was chosen Mayor of Newburyport on Monday. Four Democrats and two Republicans were chosen Aldermen.

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

A car-load of choice Jackson White potatoes for family use, are being sold at the depot, at prices worthy the attention of dealers who have not yet laid in their supplies of that fruit.

The consolidation of the Eastern and the Boston and Maine railroads is again talked of.

Bertie's Schottische, by Ch. Kinkel, Rustic Beauty March, by the same, and Mattie May, song and chorus, by Gardner and Danks, are for sale by D. H. Montgomery, Daniel Street.

The entertainment of the "M. I. C." club in aid of the Young People's Union takes place at the Unitarian chapel. See advertisement.

James Cahill of U. S. Receiving Ship Sabine has been taken ill with small pox.

The temperance meeting, Sunday evening, was addressed by Rev. Messrs. Goss and Alden, Mayor Marvin and Mr. Kent, the benediction being pronounced by Rev. Mr. Van Cise.

The resignation of Rev. Oscar Van Cise as pastor of the Universalist Church has been accepted by that Society and resolutions very complimentary in their nature were passed.

Arrangements have been completed and all the lecturers engaged for the M. E. course, and the first lecture will be delivered on Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, by Rev. Elias Nason, in the church on State Street; Subject, "Greenbacks."

The friends of Mr. Ernest C. Holbrook, who was injured at the Seabrook accident, are to give him a benefit this evening at the Temple, and all the Portsmouth amateurs and some professionals in the burnt cork line have volunteered their services. The programme is a good one and satisfaction is guaranteed to all fun loving citizens who have fifty cents to invest.

FLAG RAISING.—They had a flag raising a few doors from our house, Thursday. The flag was not very large, nor very imposing, but these defects were compensated, for it was of a beautiful scarlet color. The inscription, however, was its crowning feature, and caused marked attention. Looking at it in one way it read XOPLLAMS; but if you looked at it the other way it read XOPLLAMS. However, as all persons seemed to scan the flag from a distance, perhaps this reading was only an optical illusion.—Charlestown Adv.

Granite is cheap in Maine. Three quarries in the town of St. George, owned by the State, have just been sold, one for $1025, another for $86, and a third for $15.

Mr. Beecher's church contributed nearly half a million dollars last year to benevolent objects. Some heavy individual subscriptions to colleges swell this total.

State News.

Brackett Barker, a young man who went home from Worcester, to Sanbornton Square, a few weeks ago, died on Friday, of small-pox. He was twenty-five years of age. He was not taken sick until two weeks after reaching home, and was supposed to have a fever, at first, and many persons are reported to have been exposed to the disease.

The Republicans of Manchester have nominated Charles H. Bartlett for mayor.

The dwelling house of John T. Cummings at Warren was burned on Sunday. Loss $800; insured.

WHEAT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.—The Boston Advertiser shows that New England requires at present about fifty million of bushels of wheat or its equivalent in flour to feed her population, in addition to what is raised in the several States. It is estimated that Massachusetts raises only enough wheat to supply two meals for her whole population; according to the census of 1870, the State raised only 34,000 bushels of wheat, while she purchased 20,300,000. The whole amount of wheat grown in the six States of New England in 1869 was only 998,784 bushels. Connecticut only grew wheat enough in that year to supply her population for two days. But the following table will point out how much the manufacturing States are dependent on the Western States for the food that enables them to run their towns:

	Bu. grown.	Will last.	Bu. bought.
Maine,	278,000	11 days,	8,500,000
New Hampshire,	193,000	11 days,	4,260,000
Vermont,	454,000	87 days,	3,836,000
Massachusetts,	34,000	2 meals!	20,300,000
Connecticut,	38,000	2 days,	7,518,000
Rhode Island,	784	not computed,	3,000,000

Here it will be seen that this market, which is a home market, is of much importance to the western grain raising States than the foreign market. It is more steady, and more available, while there is no competition. The population are engaged in pursuits that render them consumers, and it will be seen that the connection between the manufacturing and mechanical and the agricultural must be very intimate. Cut off by unwise legislation the employment of this population, or render them unprofitable, and it will be seen that we cut off at the same time one of the most important markets we have for our surplus grain, and the result would necessarily be low prices for wheat and flour. Even the great State of New York, with her immense improved territory, cannot supply herself with breadstuffs. She grows less wheat than Michigan, growing only twelve millions of bushels, while Michigan grows sixteen millions of bushels. Yet New York has fifteen millions of acres of improved lands, while Michigan has only five millions of acres. New York actually needs for the feeding of her population about twenty millions of bushels more than she raises. New York and New England together consume more of the wheat of the West annually than twice what the whole foreign export trade demands. Hence when we talk of doing any thing to discourage or cut off the manufacturing enterprise of the eastern States, let us be sure that we are not cutting off our own noses, and destroying our best markets, which are close at home. The foreign market for our surplus wheat rules prices to a certain extent, but not altogether, and we think it will be seen this present year that our home markets may prove our best ones, for wheat is not so largely grown that we shall be able to spare a great deal for the supply of the deficiencies of foreign countries.—Michigan Farmer.

SHEEP.—The New England Farmer says: "We trust that our New Hampshire and Vermont friends will reflect long before they conclude to give up the raising of sheep. There are ups and downs in all the affairs of life, and the farmer must experience some of them as well as all other classes. Sheep are one of the essential—we had almost said indispensable—animals that go to feed and clothe a vast and rapidly increasing population. There should be a few, we think, on nearly every farm. Where reared in that way they attain the greatest perfection, and at a cost less, we have found, than when kept in large numbers. The National Live Stock Journal has some excellent words of encouragement as given below:—

Merinos now are not the gummy-fleeced ones of only five years ago; the exhibitors now call attention to the length, fineness and whiteness of the fleeces, showing a marked increase in yield of wool when cleansed, and freedom from grease and yolk in undue quantities. But prices of first-class fine-wools keep, although not up to war prices, are yet comparatively high, there being but little average difference between long wools and fine-wools in this respect. Good, throughbred sheep of all kind are not to be got for a song. Breeders will not sell good lambs for less than $15 to $250 each; and older sheep are held in proportion. Extra sheep are held at from $25 to $2500 each, depending on age weight, strain of blood, weight of fleece, shape, &c."

—Feather flowers are now being manufactured in Florida. The flowers are made of the plumage of the white heron, while the leaves are taken from the paroquet.

Morning Chronicle.

ENGLISH GROOMING.—A Saratoga correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser, tells that paper of a conversation he had with an English hostler, as follows:—

To-day I asked one of these, grooms, who has spent twenty years in the stables of royalty, what he had to say about our American way of taking care of a horse.

"Why, sir," said he, "you don't take good care of your horse; you think you do, but you don't."

"Why?" I asked.

"Because, when a horse comes in all wet with perspiration, you let him stand in the stable and dry with all the dirt on. In England, we take the horse as he comes in from a drive and sprinkle blood-warm water all over him, rubbing legs and face dry. Thus in an hour he is clean and dry, and ready to take a good feed; while, with your way, he will stand and sweiter for hours, and finally dry sticky and dirty. Our horses never founder, and never take cold. We never use a currycomb. Too scratch your horses too hard. The only care necessary is to have the water not too cold; then bathe them quick, and blanket them instantly, while you are rubbing their legs."

STUNG BY A BEE.—The British papers report the case of a Miss Hough, aged fifty-five, who died a quarter of an hour after being stung by a bee. The deceased was in her garden inspecting her bees, when she suddenly called to the gardener that she had been stung. The gardener, on coming to her, removed a bee from her hair. She became unconscious, and died in a quarter of an hour. The body was examined, but the only lesion was a good deal of discoloration behind the ear around the sting. The physician who made the autopsy said there was but one sting, and that he thought death was caused by shock to the nervous system. Her brother stated that the deceased, in 1870, was stung by a bee, and that she became unconscious and remained so for two hours. The jury returned a verdict of "Death from syncope, accelerated by the sting of a bee."

PROTECTING TREES FROM RABBITS.—It is said this can be easily done by smearing the trees, late in the Fall, with any kind of blood. If a tree is rubbed with beef's liver to two or three feet from the ground, no rabbit will touch it.

—A choral association forming near Boston wants somebody to lead them. The people who live next door to where they rehearse are equally anxious to have somebody to lead them; and the further he leads them the better these people will feel.

CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST!

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES so all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the suppression of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessity in family use. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Not of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS
— AND —
Holloway's Ointment.
THE grand principle that operates in these wonderful medicines, is the power that they possess in purifying the turgid blood, and expelling corrupt humors from the system.
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS consist of a careful and peculiar admixture of the finest Vegetable Extracts, Herbs, and Medicinal Gums. Fastidious as it may seem to invalids in their combination, they never expose those who use them to any danger, at any time or season. No mother need hesitate to prescribe them to her children, and the most delicate constitutions can use them with as great a benefit as the most vigorous and powerful frame.
HOLLOWAY & CO. Sole Proprietors,
78 Maiden Lane, New York.
Holloway's Pills and Ointment are sold at 25 cents, 62½ cents, and $1 per box or pot. A great saving is made by buying the large sizes.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the same, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain attending the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no solid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Corn Relative is a liquid, and immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

Mount Desert.

Concluded.

Until to-day* the end of the world and the finish of these letters have seemed equally improbable, but now that the one has become a fact the other may be looked for with more confidence. The longevity of the series is due to the Mariner, who in an unguarded moment told me to "write as much as I pleased," and has been repenting of his rashness in dust and ashes and printer's ink ever since.

The "foot-steps of the rain" on the roof, Monday morning, told the whole story of the weather, and I was spared my usual visit to the window. It was fortunate we were going that day; my boots would not have stood another skirmish with the rocks, and my room was fast becoming uninhabitable,—wash-bowl, pitcher, glasses, chairs, table, window-sill,—all were invaded by a conquering army of evergreens, mosses and sea-weeds that threatened soon to crowd me out if the landlady didn't warn me out. Packing was rather a heart-rending operation, so much of this beauty had to be abandoned; but it was a brief agony, for I brought but a single change of dress, and had not needed even that,—the one I wore was enough. A flannel suit is the one thing needful there, and stout shoes the other. The Mariner's little bottle of something,—Spirit of the Press, I suppose,—which he brought with him because we were coming to a "dry and thirsty land" where he might need it for home-sickness, was still nearly full when we started to return. I can't account for it.

The rain promoted sociability, and caused very interesting groups of living curiosities to gather in the parlor and on the piazza, in all stages of dejection, amongst them the Mariner's fellow-romancer, formerly a Canton merchant. I wish I knew if he ever had a sister, a sweet-heart or a wife, for he said that only one woman had ever sewed a stitch for him gratuitously, and she was a stranger, who, observing a rent in his coat, pointed it out to him and asked if she might mend it for him. It was rather a lonesome story, I thought; but he told another quite comforting to me after my squirrel experience, about an astonishing woman somewhere in the environs of New York, whose two children, about five and seven years old, he saw perched amongst the topmost boughs of a brittle old pear tree, in so dangerous a position that he could not pass without informing its mistress, although a stranger,—the golden rule again,—and again it seems to be unpopular. His ring brought to the door a Spartan mother, rather annoyed at being so unnecessarily disturbed, who said, when he had finished, "Is that all? Why, they are up there half the time. My children never get hurt. I never had the slightest accident but once. That youngest child got upon the roof of the house and fell through the skylight and was taken up for dead; but in six weeks she was about again, nearly as well as ever. Since then I have never felt the least anxiety!" Happy woman!

Some of the ladies complimented me on the amount of sight-seeing I had accomplished in so short a time, at which I thought the Mariner winced a little. But the steamer's whistle put an end at once to our talk and our visit, and sent us paddling down to the jetty under umbrellas and water-proofs, a draggled but jolly procession, many guests leaving besides ourselves. It was comparatively easy to part from this Island in such a sulky mood; Green and Newport Mountains would not come out of the fog even to bid us good bye, but just before stopping at Southwest Harbor, at 12 M., we had some appetizing glimpses of the lordly mountains on Somes' Sound—thanks to the sun,—and for an hour or more after this on our course, Mt. Desert could be occasionally seen, a massive pile of misty blue, till it and everything else was drowned in fog, and we were shut up to the deck and our own resources.

'Tis impossible to mind your own business in such narrow quarters,—and when you have none to mind. You must pry into others' affairs or die, and no squeamish delicacy restrained me from watching my neighbors, especially as I saw them extracting amusement from me. There were two jovial, affectionate pater-familiases with their flocks; one had a daughter of about eighteen, with the face of an angel,—if I am correctly informed as to the personal appearance of angels,—and another about ten years old, with a face worthy of Punch,—quite an agreeable variety in a small family; the boy who came between them looked like a boy "only that and nothing more,"—more not being necessary. The other pater convoyed his wife, with an elephant in the shape of a superb camel's-hair shawl, which was in danger of thieves in her state-room, in danger of rain on her shoulders, and evidently a thorn in the flesh wherever it was. He too had a pretty daughter, with a novel and a discontented face, which did not once turn towards the beauty we were leaving; and last, least, but most conspicuous, a boy of the smallest size ever allowed in trowsers, a "soaring human boy" beyond a doubt, possessed with an irresistible desire to go over the railing, which kept up a lively excitement in the bosom of his family and among the passengers, who all opposed him in this bold enterprise. When he was not astride the railing, in conflict with his father or or some other enemy, he was careering madly about the deck with a pair of pea-green horses in a tin omnibus, or hanging over a small tub of star-fish, that stood at the feet of one of our passengers, and was to him what my evergreens and mosses were to me, a delight, a solicitude, and an unmitigated nuisance.

The star-fish owner passed one day (Sunday) at Mt. Desert, ascended Green Mountain, and walked across the Bar, where he found these treasures for his aquarium. We meant to go over the Bar, for it can be crossed at half-tide and was but a few rods from our hotel, but as it could be done "at any time" we made no plan about it, and it wasn't done at all. Bar Island is at the other end of it,—one of the Porcupines, with woods on his back, and it must be very lovely over there. All colors and sizes of star-fish, about sixty in number, sprawled in the tub, and amongst them a creature that may have been considered handsome by his father and mother, but need expect to be by nobody else. I never saw or heard of his like before; he was soft and brown, something like a mole, or a leech on the way to be an elephant—(see Darwin). The miserable possessor of this dreadful creature watched over him and the star-fish all day with a concern that banished smiles from his round, ruddy, boyish face. At our first stopping place he disappeared, and returned by and bye with a fresh bucket of salt water which he administered to the patients, after offering what was in the tub as a libation to Neptune. He despaired of getting them home alive, until the Mariner cheered him up by saying that they could live sixteen hours out of water!

Besides these curiosities, we had forty Greeley delegates aboard, bound for Belfast, where we put in for their benefit. Two, who had managed somehow to get the better of the Maine Liquor Law, came and talked near where I sat, and gave me the opinions of the Democracy. I was pleased to hear from one of these worthies that the degree of LL. D., conferred by Harvard upon President Grant, meant Late Leather-Dresser,—a great improvement upon the Latin, so much easier to remember. When the delegates were all deposited on the wharf in the drizzle, they looked as ill-assorted and low-spirited as any Happy Family you ever saw at a menagerie, too wretched to eat each other up, as they naturally ought to do.

A telegram had been forwarded from Mt. Desert to Rockland, to detain the Boston steamer, the "Cambridge," until our arrival with a large number of passengers for her. There she was, obediently waiting; the transfer was speedily effected and she steamed down the harbor in advance of us. The lime-kilns of Rockland were sending up perpendicular columns of smoke, and a prophet on deck asserted that the night would be clear, but in spite of these favoring circumstances a ne plus ultra fog in ten minutes had wiped out the world. The steam fog-horn hooted and wheezed and groaned at us as we passed the light-house;—the dismalest sound the ingenuity of man has yet produced. We hurried away from it as fast as possible, sounding our own whistle every minute and answered by the Cambridge (whose light we could still see in the distance) and now and then by a hoarse blast from some schooner close beside us,—and so off for Portland.

A sweet-faced, elderly woman from Camden had come aboard at Rockland, who told us she had never travelled by steamboat, stage, or cars, and was now going to try all three in a journey to see her daughter, somewhere in the western part of Maine. When the steamer began to tremble she was alarmed, and quite in despair when her husband, the original Brother Jonathan, told her it would continue all the way. She left the deck before dark, and so did everybody but the Mariner, his Canton friend and I. The fog lifted, but just before nine o'clock a thunder-cloud which had long been shooting out flame in the distance, suddenly spread like a terrific toad-stool all over the sky, down over the dark and dismal sea and the shuddering ship, nearer and nearer to the far horizon line with the pale yellow of the twilight sky above it, down to the black water,—then all was black. It was too horrible to bear, and I took refuge in the cabin.

There sat the Shaker, reading the Bible, to the edification of his fellow-men if not to his own. His goods all sold, and his customers too, very likely, he was the picture of contentment, and reminded me of what an agent for a large illustrated Bible gave as a reason for its cheapness,—that "the Bible wasn't so fashionable as it used to be?" I thought that the Shaker might be trying to bring up the fashion again, in the interests of business.

Compelled at last to retire to my state-room, I prepared for the perils of the deep by keeping all my clothes on, including water-proof and rubbers, and my ears on the alert for suspicious sounds. The rest taken in such circumstances is not of the best brand. The ship plunged doggedly along, the silence of the whistle told me that the fog still held off, and the hours went by not so slowly as might have been supposed until twelve o'clock, when the Reign of Terror began,—the steamer paused, and by her gentle motion on the swell I knew she was not at the wharf in Portland harbor; where then! Somebody in the next state-room asked sleepily, "what's the matter!" and somebody else, quite wide awake, said, "I guess we're off our bearings." Who could say we shouldn't find them again in a way we might not like?

I was as good as ship-wrecked, and then first realized the craft of the Mariner in concealing from me the location of his dormitory. If I could have found him he would have had no more sleep that night. If also I had known, what every passenger ought to know, that the mattresses in the steamer are life-rafts, I should have had mine in readiness to launch. The ship was quiet half an hour, while the whistle kept up a lively dialogue with a fog-horn in some light-house, until we steamed slowly on again and left it hooting. My courage had just begun to revive, when another pause shattered it,—and so we went, halting and feeling our way, from Green Island up to the wharf, arriving at about 4 o'clock instead of 12 1-2 as we expected.

I considered it a piece of rare good fortune that we had arrived at all, and was just falling into a delightful doze, regardless of the hurricane of swearing outside my window, the clank of chains, swashing of water and all the other sounds that attend "getting in at the wharf," when the worst noise I ever heard, the most outrageously sudden and penetrating, started me to my feet, sure that the boiler had exploded and that I was blown up. It was only the engine blowing off steam, but I didn't try to resume the thread of my nap after this discouragement.

Peeping out of my room and seeing one of the crew coming down stairs, I asked him, "what happened in the night?" With the blankest of faces and voices he said, "What, marm?" "Why, when we stopped, what was it for?" "Oh! it was a little foggy." I found that nobody had suffered shipwreck but myself, not even the Camden lady whose first experience it was of the horrors of steam-boat travel. As for the Mariner and his friend, I found them at last talking in the most heartlessly cheerful way, and the latter said he had never known the steamer to get in so "quietly" as she had that morning!

Smothering my feelings, and sparing the Mariner a long oration which I had intended to hurl at his guilty head, I inwardly resolved that when I went to Mt. Desert again it should be by land, as it is possible to reach this accommodating island without stepping upon the faithless boards of any ship. Go to Bangor by rail, from there to Ellsworth by stage, and drive about three miles to Mt. Desert, which is joined by a bridge to the main-land.

Is there anybody who knows, infallibly, how Mt. Desert ought to be pronounced? The Mariner mentioned to me, as a poser, that the people of the place and the steam-boat hands accented the first syllable; but I didn't find his argument conclusive with me. Don't the charcoal burners on one flank of our beautiful blue mountain call it "Attykiminkis," and those on the other side "Ajiminkis," and isn't it Agamenticus for all that? Doesn't Kittery, where the name of Seward is indigenous, metamorphose every Seward into a "Sowards?" If the Bard of Avon had undergone so dreadful an experience, do you suppose he would ever have asked "what's in a name?" It would have been far too tender a subject with the great man.

And now these four-story letters are ended and the Mariner is out of his misery.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1872.

Congress.

The House of Representatives on Monday took notice of the defects in the existing electoral system by receiving two constitutional amendments designed to correct the manner in which the people shall choose the President and Vice-President. One, offered by General Banks, provides for a direct election by the people on the same day that the House of Representatives is elected, and under rules and regulations made for the respective States, the President and Vice-President to hold office for six years, and to be ineligible for re-election; while the other, proposed by Mr. Lynch, merely provides in detail for a popular election. The precise words of the body of the Constitution are repealed in the proposed amendment, and the same provision for a choice by the House of Representatives as now exists, in case no candidate receives a majority of the votes, is retained.

The News.

Boston managers will hereafter follow the example of the Boston people towards Boucicault, and give him a severe letting alone, says the Transcript.

Judge Clark Jillson was chosen Mayor of Worcester, Mass., on Monday, by a vote of 3352 to 2882 for Hon. George F. Verry, the present incumbent.

The Baltimore American states that had Mr. Greeley been able to induce Vice President Colfax to enter the arena for the nomination against Gen. Grant, he would never have made the grand mistake of his life by being a candidate for the Presidency.

The municipal election in Lynn on Monday resulted in the choice of Jacob M. Lewis, prohibitionist, for Mayor. J. M. Lewis had 2040 votes, J. S. Lewis 1193, George Foster 450.

Mr. Robert Craig, the comedian, died Monday morning at St. Louis.

Workmen at the ruins at the corner of Congress and Channing streets, Boston, have discovered the remains of John Hurley, a young man twenty-six years of age, who made the bold but fatal venture into the burning house of his mother in the hope of rescuing her. She was then in a place of safety and did not know of her son's devotion till hours after the place was laid low by the conflagation.

Editorial Notes.

The Herald says the two candidates for Mayor of Newburyport were so popular that many voters stayed away from the polls, Monday, being undecided as to their preferences. Warren Currier, Republican, had 1017 votes, and Moses Ht Fowler, citizen's candidate had 987.

Stanley T. Pullen, Esq., of the Portland Press, has been delivering a lecture on Women Suffrage at Hiram.

The vote for Governor in this Congressional district last March was as follows: For Straw 13,556, for Weston 12,693, scattering 437. Straw's plurality 863—majority 426. Republicans must be discreet in nominating a candidate for Congressman next month.

State News.

Two or three cases of small pox are reported in Franklin.

Two strolling umbrella menders have come to grief in Laconia. They entered a house and stole some money; but as they were making their exit through a back window, they were captured by a plucky woman, and soon committed to the sheriff.

Larkin D. Mason, who was State agent during the war, is on his way to Antietam, where he will superintend the erection of gravestones over the fallen heroes of the State.

Small pox has appeared at Rochester.

The Great Falls Journal says there are four sisters residing in North Berwick, all widows, whose united ages on Jan. 1st, 1873, will be 333 years, 2 months and 9 days.

Mrs. Dorcas Rice of Jeffrey is 106 years old.

Capt. David Chase, the oldest and richest man in Seabrook, died on Sunday last. He had sailed out of Newburyport for nearly half a century. By leading a penurious life he had acquired more wealth than any two residents of his town. He was fortunate in his investments; at the time when the Eastern Railroad shares were selling at $38, he bought largely. He had at the time of his death, among his other stocks, 100 shares in the Boston & Maine, and a like number in the Eastern. As an economical man he had the respect of those who consider this a virtue. His age was ninety-one years and seven months.

Mrs. Dr. Bartlett of Kingston raised 9,000 pounds of pop corn upon two acres—worth four cents a pound, or $360.

It is the opinion of the supreme court of the State, as recently announced, that dogs are a nuisance.

Previous to the departure of Professor Proctor of Dartmouth College for Europe a few days since, the junior class presented him a $100 silver tea service.

The directors of the Nashua and Rochester Railroad have levied an assessment on the stock, payable on the 25th instant. Assessments have been paid to the amount of $700,000. It was voted also to begin suits against delinquent subscribers.

A. B. Chase has been appointed postmaster at Deerfield Centre in place of Mrs. Emeline M. Windden.

G. W. Gallison and Alvin Young broke through the ice and were drowned at Long Pond, Pittsfield, on Monday.

RURAL BEAUTIES AND CITY BELLES.—Country girls are not a whit behind their metropolitan sisters in the natural elements of loveliness, but it must be conceded that the city belles best understand the art of preserving and heightening their personal beauty. The most perfect features lose half their attraction, unless the complexion is properly cared for, and if the pretty girls of the rural districts wish to compete with the "Fairstars" of the fashionable world in refined attractions, they must pay due attention to this important point. They ought to know, for the fact is notorious, that Hagan's Magnolia Balm imparts to the skin a delicate pearly appearance, unproducable by any other preparation under the sun. No matter how the cuticle may have been roughened by exposure or discolored by the sun, the Balm will render it soft and pliable, and removes every blemish.

In his book on Chronic Diseases Dr. Pierce says of his Golden Medical Discovery: "God, I believe, has instilled into the roots and plants from which this wonderful medicine is extracted, the healing properties, by the use of which Consumption, the scourge of the human family, may in its early stages be promptly arrested and permanently cured. I do not wish to delude, flatter and then disappoint the afflicted by asserting that this can be accomplished when the lungs are half consumed, as many do who, being devoid of all conscience, aim to humbug the afflicted, that they may sell their often worse than worthless compounds. But if my Golden Medical Discovery is employed in the first or early stages of the disease, I know from ample observation and actual test in hundreds of cases, that it will arrest the disease and restore health and strength." CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES

Involving the loss of millions of dollars occur too often in this country. We submit to every sensible, prudent man, that they can be prevented by the general introduction of the

1872 FALL TRADE 1873

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the slider so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in Use in Portsmouth.)

— ALSO —

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK and PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

BRICK & PORTABLE.

Agents for the Celebrated

Barstow Dome Furnace.

This Furnace has proved itself to be the most durable and economical heater in the market, of which over one hundred are now in use in this city. The increasing demand for these Furnaces proves them to be the best Furnace in the market.

Marble Mantles, Parlor Grates, Ventilators, Registers, Patent Coal Sifters, Hods, Pokers, Shovels, &c.

House Furnishing Goods

We have as complete an assortment of HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS as were ever offered for sale in this city.

POCKET & TABLE CUTLERY, GLASS & PLATED WARE,
ROGERS BROS' SPOONS & FORKS;
TIN, WOODEN, JAP'D & TOILET WARE.

TUCKER'S BRONZED GOODS

CHANDLIERS, ENTRY & BRACKET LAMPS, & LAMP FITTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION, SHELF BRACKETS, &C.

A large and extensive assortment of

REPAIR PIECES,

For most of the Stoves and Furnaces in use. No time should be lost in putting in order heating apparatus for the approaching winter.

Prompt attention given to all work in this line.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Return of the Sons.

The committee of seventy met Tuesday evening, A. W. Haven, Esq., presiding. The resignations of D. Webster Barnabee as Recording Secretary and William R. Boardman as Corresponding Secretary, were accepted, and Messrs. John E. Colcord and James F. Jenness were chosen to fill the vacancies. The various sub-committees were organized as follows:—

Finance—Chairman, William Simes; Secretary, Frank W. Miller.

Literary Exercises—Chairman, A. R. Hatch; Secretary, James P. Bartlett.

Programme — Chairman, Daniel J. Vaughan; Secretary, Charles A. Hazlett.

Decorations—Chairman, William R. Preston; Secretary, Plumer D. Norton.

Collation—Chairman, Joseph R. Gardiner; Secretary, Charles C. Akerman.

The committee voted to meet once a fortnight.

A Sunday School Mass Meeting,

Appointed by order of the Universalist State Sunday School Convention, will be held in the Pleasant St. Universalist church, Thursday, Dec.12, beginning at 9:30, A. M. Rev. G. L. Demorest, of Manchester, will open the morning session with an essay on "The Worth of the Sunday School." S. H. Langly, esq, of Nashua, will open the afternoon session, speaking upon "The Power of Unity in the Sunday School." Other subjects will be discussed, and the public is cordially invited to be present and to take part. Questions and Answers will be an interesting feature. Several clergymen and prominent laymen are expected from abroad.

The new Vestry rooms, recently completed, will be dedicated in the evening, with appropriate services, the pastor giving an address, and the choir and Sunday School participating. Rev. A. J. Patterson, of Boston Highlands, is expected to lend his aid. The exercises will begin at 7:30, promptly. All friends of the parish are invited to take part.

P. & D. R. R.

The bridge connecting Noble's Island with Freeman's Point in Portsmouth will have a space for foot passengers four feet wide, and will be of great convenience to a section of Portsmouth that heretofore has been compelled to make a long circuit to reach the business part of the city. The bridge over the Piscataqua is two thousand feet in length from Newington to Dover Point: Beside the track will be built a carriage way, thus affording a connection between Dover Point and Portsmouth by a carriage road eleven miles in length, over one of the best roads, and with fine river scenery a long part of the way. Stations will be at either end of the bridge, with cautionary signals at the approach of trains. The track of the road is near the Piscataqua to the head of navigation, and the route will be the most attractive ten miles of road in the State, in point of river scenery, etc. The station in Newington will be at the "Nancy Drew" farm, four miles from Portsmouth, with one on the opposite bank of the river, near Hanson's Hotel, at Dover Point.

Damon & Pythias.

The presentation of Damon and Pythias at the Temple on Thursday evening by the Pythan Amateur Club will prove worthy of the liberal patronage of our citizens. They are well rehearsed in their several characters and will show a style of talent equal if not superior to any given by any amateurs of this city. The costumes are new and owned by the company, who have been at great expense not only in this, but in all the preparations necessary to the rendering of this Drama. The club will probably visit other places after their exhibition here.

Laconics.

Paymaster R. W. Allen is detached from U. S. Receiving Ship Sabine and is ordered to storeship Idaho, at Yokohama, Japan. He is succeeded by Paymaster Rufus S. McConnell.

The new M. E. Church at Greenland will be dedicated this afternoon, services commencing at 1 o'clock. In the evening a musical entertainment will be given. See advertisement.

There are eight stables on Warren Street. A fire from the Temple to the Post Office would be a rouser.

The Fair at the North Parish chapel on Middle Street commences this afternoon. Go.

The Republicans of Portsmouth are requested to meet at their headquarters next Friday evening, on important business. Hon. James W. Emery is desirous of meeting his friends at that time, and the presence of the elderly members of the party is particularly desired.

Eleven degrees above zero and a snow blow greeted early risers on Tuesday.

Interesting Letter.

To the President of the United States:—

SIR: I trust that I shall not be charged with presumption in addressing you on the subject of this letter. I want to thank you, not for any favor bestowed on my friends, or shown to me. Thanks for such things are as common as the benefits they confer. I desire to thank you for something greater and better than these; for something much beyond the ordinary practice of high official life. I desire to thank you for the respect shown by you to Mr. Greeley on his death-bed, and for the great respect you paid his character and memory by your attendance on his funeral.

It was a great compliment for the head of a great nation to decline attendance on an official festivity while a private citizen was dying, a citizen who had no claims on the sympathy of the official, either of blood or close friendship. It was a much greater compliment when that Executive laid aside the pressing duties of his great office, and, making a night journey of hundreds of miles at an inclement season, took the place of a private person, among thousands gathered together to pay the last tribute of respect that the living can pay to the dead. For your remembrance of Mr. Greeley, dying; for your attendance at his funeral; for the tearful attention you paid to the sad ceremonies of that occasion, Mr. President, I thank you with all earnestness. I am very sure that in doing so I but echo the sentiments of hundreds of thousands of your fellow citizens, whose views of public affairs led them and myself to support in the late canvass, the man to whom you have shown such high respect. By these acts you have removed prejudices, changed opponents into friends, and shown the world that great official life need not deaden the better instincts of our common humanity. By these acts you have taught the nations that Americans never forget what is due to the character of their great citizens, and that the passions of an exciting political contest never destroy the respect that American partisan opponents have for the good lives of good men.

I thank you, Mr. President, and pray that a long and happy life may await you. And when it shall please the Great Ruler to send the angel of Death to call you hence, may your passage to the tomb be made smooth by the affection of kind friends, and the grave close over you with the heartfelt prayers of your countrymen for your eternal rest. Very respectfully your friend,

SINCLAIR TOUSEY,

Publisher of the Tribune.

THE WOODHULL SCANDAL.—A "Philadelphia Lady" writes a letter to Wednesday evening's Hartford Times, in which she says:

And there are many who believe her (Mrs. Woodhull) not without color of reason, no better than a blackmailer. For Mrs. Woodhull then, in her character of "friend," maligner or blackmailer no just person can have sympathy. But all this does not warrant Mr. Beecher, or Mr. Tilton or Mrs. E. Cady Stanton, in the "painful silence" which they observe in this important hour, nor does it justify the United States authorities in keeping Mrs. Woodhull and her sister in prison upon a charge which they know can not be sustained.

The best legal talent of this city has been consulted on the matter; and the incarceration of Mrs. W. on the charge of the diffusion of obscene literature, as for anything contained in her paper of November 2, is scouted and denounced as "an outrage which menaces the liberty of American citizens;" so we as a people have something to look to on this head. But the man Challis may properly complain of her for libel, and cause her to be imprisoned.

Within a week, at least, from the first publication of the fearful story, Mr. Beecher should have come before the world with a dignified denial, if he is innocent. His personal dignity, his genius, and his pulpit cannot protect him. Only his own open declaration can avail him now, unless it be the denial of Mr. and Mrs. Tilton. Has Mr. Beecher no consideration for Mrs. Tilton, in regard to the terrible position in which she is placed before the world by his silence? Has he lost all Christian sympathy?

The correspondent goes on to say that Mrs. Stanton has made the same charges in Philadelphia and elsewhere, for which Mrs. W. is now suffering imprisonment, and dare not deny them.

ALL KINDS OF POULTRY AND MEAT can be cooked quicker by adding a little vinegar or a piece of lemon to the water in which they are boiled. By the use of an acid there will be a considerable saving of fuel, as well as shortening of time. Its action is beneficial on old, tough meats, rendering them quite tender and easy of digestion. Tainted meats and fowls will lose their bad taste and odor if cooked in this way, and if not used too freely, no taste of it will be acquired.—Household.

LIME FOR POISONING BY PLANTS AND INSECTS.—A standing antidote for poison by oak, ivy, &c., is to take a handful of quicklime, dissolved in water, let it stand half an hour, then paint the poisoned parts with it. Three or four applications will never fail to cure the most aggravated cases. Poison from bees, hornets, spider bites, &c., is instantly arrested by the equal parts of common salt and bicarbonate of soda, well rubbed in on the place bitten or stung.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

SOIL PROTECTED BY SNOW.—Mr. G. G. Prindle, of Chittenden County, Vermont, has made an experiment designed to ascertain how far soil is protected from cold by snow for four successive winter days, there being four inches of snow on a level; he found the average temperature immediately above the snow, thirteen degrees below zero; immediately beneath, nineteen degrees degrees above zero; under a drift two feet deep twenty-seven degrees above zero.

New Publications.

The New Hampshire Register for 1873 is received from the Claremont Manufacturing Co. It has the election returns for Governor, a map of the State, lists of public officers, the vote of 1871 for Congressmen, list of members of the legislature, the census, a business directory, almanac, &c. It is handy for reference,

The New England Historical and Genealogical Register and Antiquarian Journal is out with its prospectus for 1873. This publication is now of an age rarely attained by periodicals, having completed its twenty-sixth year, and is the leading Historical and Genealogical publication in the United States. Its pages are constantly consulted by historical readers and students, and to those seeking information in regard to their family history it is indispensable. Its worth is acknowledged both in this country and abroad. Set and single volumes already command in the market more than the subscription price,—an evidence of the estimation in which the work is held. The periodical,—the organ of the New England Historic, Genealogical Society,—is published quarterly, at No. 13 Somerset Street, Boston, on the first of January, April, July and October, at three dollars per annum. The number for October, 1872, contains; Hon. John A. Poor—with portrait; Births, Marriages and Deaths in Portsmouth, N. H.,—contributed by Col. Joshua W. Peirce: The Ham family,—by John R. Ham, M. D.; Our English Ancestors; Boston Ministers; Salem Loyalists, and many other papers of interest and value to the historian and antiquarian.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritations, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

SINGER

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

"WELL

Old Wheezy, what's the matter with you and why are you muffled up so?"

"Wretched cold! Can't speak aloud. My throat's so sore and lungs so oppressed it pains me to talk."

"Now, Old Boy, I was in the same predicament and have been wonderfully cured. Met a friend who urged me to take

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

For the Throat and Lungs.

Bought a bottle at the

UNION STORE

on Market Street. Now I'm going to tell you the truth. The bottles are small and sell at only

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are past hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Fortunate seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and nonknowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
"The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in Connecticut or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS
— AND —
Holloway's Ointment.
— o —
THE grand principle that operates in these wonderful medicines, is the power that they possess in purifying the turgid blood, and expelling corrupt humors from the system.
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS consist of a careful and peculiar admixture of the finest Vegetable Extracts, Herbs, and Medicinal Gums. Possessing not a grain of mineral in their combination, they never expose those who use them to any danger, at any time or season. No mother need hesitate to prescribe them to her children, and the most delicate constitutions can use them with as great a benefit as the most vigorous and powerful frame.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lobeline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or retained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the corest instep, the largest and severest Bilters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind and physicians for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. TRACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

CUBAN BLOODHOUNDS.—Among the cabled news which we published yesterday was a paragraph from a Havana journal, announcing the arrival there of ten bloodhounds to be used in capturing negroes on the mountains near Havana, and adding, "The hounds were purchased by order of the commanding general." There was a time, as the readers of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" may remember, when, during the unhappy and miserable existence of slavery in a part of the United States, bloodhounds were also trained and exercised for a like purpose. That condition of things has passed away forever, and it is to be lamented that it should be continued in Cuba, or elsewhere.

In the year 1777, the great Lord Chatham, in the last year of his remarkable career, made a powerful speech, containing the well-known declaration, "If I were an American, as I am an Englishman, while a foreign troop was landed in my country, I would never lay down my arms, never! never! never!" On that occasion he also uttered words, not generally so well remembered, elicited by a statement made by Lord Suffolk, in reference to employing the Indians to hunt down the American "rebels," that the British "were justified in using all the means which God and nature had put into their hands."

Lord Chatham denounced such principles as equally unconstitutional, inhuman, and unchristian, and then, noble indignation making the old man eloquent, went on to say: "That God and nature put into our hands!—I know not what idea that Lord [Suffolk] may entertain of God and nature, but I know that such abominable principles are equally abhorrent to religion and humanity. What! attribute the sacred sanction of God and nature to the massacres of the Indian scalping knife, to the cannibal savage, torturing, murdering, wasting, and eating—literally, my Lords, eating the mangled victims of his barbarous battles! Such horrible notions shock every precept of religion, divine and natural, every generous feeling of humanity, every sentiment of honor; they shock me as a lover of honorable war, and a detester of murderous barbarity."

Strongly appealing to the bishops, the judges, and the peers, to protest against the new doctrine of devastation, he added, "Spain armed herself with bloodhounds to extirpate the wretched natives of America, and we turn these savage hell-hounds against our brethern and countrymen in America, of the same language, laws, liberties, and religion, endeared to us by every tie that should sanctify humanity." The appeal was irresistible and the purpose thus denounced was never carried out.

It was Spain, nearly four centuries ago, which introduced into the New World the natives by the aid of fierce bloodhounds. This was during the fortunate and prosperous period of her wealth and power. Now, in the decadence of both, she still clings to the barbarous system, the intended victims being the unfortunate people of color, who naturally desire to obtain their freedom. In Spain, fallen as that country now is, such brutal and inhuman practices dare not be employed; but the Spanish government permits them, it seems, in a Spanish colony. It is surprising that the young King, who has the reputation of being a man of sensitive feeling and true humanity, should permit such things to be done in an island which nominally at least constitutes a portion of his kingdom.—Phila. Press.

GOOD NEWS FOR SCHOOLBOYS.—How often has one the feeling that he was born too soon? Even the schoolboys of the future are to have a tenth part of the trouble of their fathers in learning what they should know. From France comes the news that that estimable individual, Abbe Moigno, is about to put into execution a project which he has studied for years, by means of which the optical faculties of man are to do the most work in learning all arts and sciences. Mathematics, physical science, natural science, medicine, the "beaux arts et cosmiques," the applied and practical science, industrial arts, historical science and the subdividing of all, are no more, like multiplication, to be a vexation, or twice as bad as division. Abbe Moigno is to support the teachings of the master by the electric light. Tableaux are to be made of everything. The phylloxera which destroys the grapevine will no longer be merely denounced as an enemy to mankind, but his vile body will be made an immense picture of, and all about him exposed to public gaze. If that possibility does not scare him from the vineyards, and all grape-growing countries as well, nothing will.

—At a recent sale of an English stud of horses, Blair Athol brought $62,500; Gladiator $85,000, and the whole number, 273 colts, hores and mares, sold for something more than $500,000.

—It has lately been discovered that Christopher Columbus equipped his expedition and sailed over the ocean expressly to discover a suitable place to establish the city of Boston.

Another Horror.

A fire broke out in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, on the night of the 10th, in the servants' wing of the building, in the upper stories. There were 500 guests in the house and they were assured there was no danger. After the fire was extinguished, the remains of 22 domestics were found in the rooms where the fire occured. Sixteen were found near a window, which was barred and their escape to the roof was prevented. It is supposed some were burned to death while asleep; others must have died in great agony

The News.

Baxter, Republican, has 3266 majority for governor of Arkansas. The Republicans have 20 senators and the Democrats 5, the Republicans having 52 representatives and the Democrats 6, with one district to hear from.

Hon. Francis Jewett, republican, has been chosen mayor of Lowell by 410 plurality over Hon. Hocum Horsford.

Charlestown, Mass., has elected Hon. Jonathan Stone for mayor. He had 2089 votes; Hon. Francis Childs had 1399.

The election in Boston resulted in the re-election of Mayor Gaston by a plurality of 352 over Hon. Henry L. Peirce. For Aldermen the "People's Ticket," (anti Gaston) with two exceptions, was elected, and the new board stands as follows: John T. Clark, Samuel M. Quincy, Charles Hulbert, Solomon B. Stebbins, Alanson Bigelow, John Brown, James Power, Hiram Emery, Nehemiah Gibson, Leonard R. Cutter, William Sayward and Roland Worthington. Newton Talbot was elected street commissioner by a plurality of 381 over Christopher A. Connor, the present incumbent. Of the common councilmen elected the Republicans have a majority.

Miss Mollie Nolan of St. Louis has applied for a patent on a fire engine.

The democratic faction of the Alabama Legislature has elected F. W. Sykes United States Senator.

The Senate has confirmed G. W. Fairman for postmaster of Philadelphia.

By the fall of insecure staging, four workmen were killed in Cincinnati on the 10th.

The Secretary of the Treasury has received from Boston two $1000 United States coupon bonds of loan of March 30, 1863, with coupons attached from January 1st, 1873. The party sending them does not wish to be known and requests the Secretary to cancel the bonds and attached coupons or otherwise so dispose of them as to result in a gift of the value of the bonds and coupons to the United States.

William Wolf and Valentine Baum, both butchers in Cincinnati, quarrelled on Monday, when the former plunged a butcher knife through the heart of the latter. Wolf coolly took a drink of whiskey, and walked off and was not arrested.

The citizens of Newburyport are not satisfied with its present city hall, and the question of securing one more convenient and suitable for lectures is being discussed.

A pile wharf at East Gloucester, Mass., occupied by the Gloucester Salt Company, caved in and the salt warehouse was dumped into the dock and completely demolished. The building contained some ten thousand hogsheads of Cadiz salt, worth over twenty thousand dollars, very little of which could be saved. The loss is $35,000.

State News.

Frank Dimond, of Bristol, a section-hand on the railroad, attempted suicide last Friday, by taking arsenic. He accidentally took too much, and it failed of its intended effect. He is now confined to his bed by sickness, but declares his intention of again attempting the deed. Cause, domestic happpiness.

A fire in the carding room of J. W. Busiel & Co.'s hosiery mill in Laconia was extinguished by the force pumps belonging to the mill. The loss is estimated at $5000.

Manchester chose Hon. Charles H. Bartlett, republican, mayor over Hon. Joseph Kidder by 376 majority, on the 10th.

Alfred Trumbull, a brakeman on the Cheshire Railroad, was instantly killed while shackling cars by being struck by a piece of timber projecting from a car. He lived in Keene and was 25 years old.

The tenth annual session of the New Hampshire State Musical festival, which has become a fixed institution, and whose annual recurrence is looked forward to and hailed with so much pleasure by our music-loving public, is to take place, in Phenix Hall, Concord, on the 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th of January next. The managers, Messrs. Morey, Davis and Jackman, are making great efforts this season in behalf of the Festival and have nearly completed their arrangements.

The board of reference, to which was referred the question of damage claimed by the Holdens, at West Concord, for carrying away of water from Long Pond for the supply of Concord, have laid the amount at $60,000. The referees were Governor Straw, ex-Gov. Weston, and J. B. Francis of Lowell.

Revision of the Constitution.

There is one provision of the existing Constitution of the State, which has for years been constantly violated, and ought therefore to be abolished. This is what is called the religious test, which prohibits any person who is not of the Protestant religion from holding the office of Governor, Senator or Representative to the General Court. One or more Catholics have held seats in the House for many successive years, directly in conflict with this prohibition, without objection from any source, and probably will continue to do so, whether the Constitution is revised or not; but the tendency cannot be injurious, when the fundamental law of the State is openly disregarded in any particular, however unimportant in itself. The Constitution ought to be revised, therefore, if only to rid it of this obsolete and obnoxious provision.

But there are many important changes, which we believe the best interests of the people imperatively demand. The popular representation in the House should be diminished, and the Senate ought to be enlarged. There were elected the present year to the popular branch of the Legislature, we think, 370 members, of whom 366 claimed or were entitled to seats, and 363 actually attended and received pay for their services and travel. The pay roll of the House for a session of only 30 day's duration, was $332,272.50, being $90 for each member who received full pay, and the mileage was $4,440.60; making the total per diem and mileage of the House $336,713.10. The per diem compensation of the Senate was $1,203.50, and their mileage $148-80, a total of $1,352.30. Adding this sum to the total per diem and mileage of the House, and we have $338,065.40 as the sum actually paid to members of the House and Senate for their services during a session of thirty days. If we add to this the salaries of clerks, Sergeant-at-Arms, Chaplain, doorkeepers, pages, and the cost of stationary and printing, the total expense of a short session of the Legislature hereafter cannot be fairly estimated at less than $60,000.

The per diem of the House, 326 members only receiving pay, in 1871, was $38,341.50; the full pay of each member being $117 for 39 days attendance; and the mileage was $4,011.30; making a total per diem and mileage of the House in 1871, of $42,352 80. The per diem of the Senate in 1871, was $1,523, and their mileage $125.40, making a total for the Senate of $1,648 40; which added to that of the House, makes a total per diem and mileage of the House and Senate in 1871, amounting to $44,001.20.

It will be recollected that nearly every year the number of Representatives is increased by the division of towns, and there is a constant addition from the increase of population in our cities and larger towns, so that hereafter the number of Representatives will hardly be less than 370 under ordinary circumstances. The per diem and mileage of the Legislature, therefore, as long as the Constitution remains unaltered may safely be calculated at from $40,000 to $45,000, making with other salaries and expenses an annual expenditure of at least $60,000 as before stated, for legislation alone.

Can New Hampshire afford to pay this large sum every year for the small benegt received in return therefor? We think not. If the business of legislation were transacted by twenty-five senators and seventy-five representatives, we are confident it would be done better and more understandingly than it now is, while there would be an annual saving of more than $30,000 to the people in direct taxation. A legislative body of that size would give a much larger representation in both branches, than is enjoyed by most of the States in the Union. If besides reducing the House and enlarging the Senate, the amended Constitution should provide biennial elections and biennial sessions of the Legislature, a much larger saving would be made.

To show our readers at a glance the ratio of Representatives and Senators to population in New Hampshire as it now is, and as it would be with a House of seventy-five and a Senate of twenty-five, compared with what it is in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Massachusetts and what it was in Illinois from 1847 to 1872, we have prepared the following table to which we solicit their attention.

States.	Pop.	Rep.	Sen.	Av. pop. to rep.	Av. pop to sen.
N. H.	318,300	370	12	860	25,691
N. H.	318,300	75	25	4,244	12,732
New York,	4,370,846	128	32	34,147	136,588
Penn.	3,517,272	100	33	35,172	106,584
Ohio,	2,652,302	100	33	26,523	75,760
Illinois,	2,327,674	75	23	33,702	101,186
Mass.	1,457,351	240	40	6,073	36,433

It will thus be seen that with a House reduced to seventy-five and a Senate enlarged to twenty-five, the ratio of Representatives and Senators to population would be very much larger here than in Massachusetts, and many times larger than in any of the other States named.—Concord Monitor.

One day last week two men named Doxie and O'Brien, umbrella menders, were caught in the act of robbing the house of Mrs. Robert Murphy in Laconia. Doxie was interrupted by Mrs. Murphy while in the act of ransacking the premises and tried to get through a small rear window, but she caught him by the heels and held him till assistance came and he and his companion were arrested, and each put under $200 bail.

Bare Walls are traditionally desolate. People will paste, or hang, or paint something to relieve their monotony. Paper has been used for such things far more than anything else among people who live in the grades of society between whitewash and rich wooden panelings. But paper is not growing in popularity. It very often contains arsenic, some dealers say all wall paper does contain it, and chemists have shown that the human system has an unpleasant habit of absorbing the same which not only tends to lead a man into the grave, but instantly throws suspicion on his female relatives. So other means are being all the while tested. Thin strips of wood have been tried, and other things. The latest invention is painted tinfoil, which is said to take its place very easily, to keep things drier than anything else does, and to be very ornamental as well as easily put up. Probably the most beautiful wall-covering ever designed was the invention of a Frenchman, named Bonnet, who contrived to make a hanging out of threads of glass. It was strong and flexible, and in the night was as resplendent as a salted California diamond field or any other complete assortment of the world's precious stones. It is singular but true that the art of making this cloth was lost when the discoverer died. If it could be revived now it would be well worth trying. It might by reflection increase the amount of gaslight of an evening.—Hartford Courant.

The Human Kitchen and its Dumb Waiters.—The body is supplied with aliment by vessels which connect the stomach and its auxiliaries with the venous system, and, so to speak, perform the office of dumb waiters in a restaurant. In other words these media of communication between the animal kitchen and its dependents supply to each member and organ near or remote, the quantity and kind of sustenance required to keep it going. When the stomach is derelict in its duty, or the dumb waiters inert or obstructed, it is the peculiar province of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters to strengthen and regulate them. Hence its marvelous cures of chronic indigestion, and the emaciation, debility and languor which are generally its concomitants. It is, moreover, a powerful alterative and corrective, and the rapidity with which it checks irregularities of the liver and bowels, and braces and invigorates the nervous system is a marvel, not only to the general public, but to professional men.

I do not wish to delude, flatter and then disappoint the afflicted by asserting that this can be accomplished when the lungs are half consumed, as many do who, being devoid of all conscience, aim to humbug the afflicted, that they may sell their often worse than worthless compounds. But if my Golden Medical Discovery is employed in the first or early stages of the disease, I know from ample observation and actual test in hundreds of cases, that it will arrest the disease and restore health and strength." PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

The travelling about Portsmouth is of the half-and-half order—too much bare ground for good sleighing and too much snow for easy wheeling. Sudden slides on the ice cause mankind to feel "all-overish," as if a rapid descent to the centre of gravitation would be the natural result; but the kind divinity which shapes our ends hath interposed bare spots on which the feet resting, the tendency to back-sliding is overcome by a counter irritant, the lower extremities of pedestrians stopping suddenly and the head being thrown forward with velocity of a dislocating tendency. Cursory notices taken on the spot would fill our columns. There's nothing like snap—even if it takes your head.

Workmen on the City Hall extension (sky-ward) have found two bricks on which are inscriptions. One has "1826" written on it in mortar, and a paper ballot on which is printed "John F. Parrott, Moderator." The other bears the inscription—"Repd july 1826. Dan Haselton, Mason."

A Winter Bath.

Wedneday was a cold day for bathing in the river, but four Navy Yard workmen involuntarily chose it. Oliver D. Rowell, Henry Hooper, James M. Knapp and Charles Foote shoved their boat, the "Edith," from a brow at the landing stage at the Navy Yard about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. As the "Edith" slid into the water they jumped into her and she capsized. Hooker swam to another boat and was pulled in; Rowell and Knapp scrambled back to the brow, and Foote clung to the boat, being unable to swim, and was nearly exhausted before he was rescued, the delay being occasioned by the endeavors of many boats' crews to reach him, too many rescuers being in the way. The scene was an exciting one. The dinner kettles were a total loss. No insurance.

Municipal Reform.

Messrs. Editors:—In my last (don't you wish it was the last) communication I premised that the only earthly use of the Common Council is to share the responsibility of whatever is done in city affairs, without their exerting a feather's weight of influence in directing them,—the Aldermen invariably treating any vote or resolution of the Council with the contempt it merits, if it conflicts with the Aldermanic notions. If I succeed in proving that the Common Council has absolutely no influence in the management of our municipal affairs, I shall claim to have established my position that it should be abolished and unrestricted power be nominally—as it is actually—vested in the Board of Aldermen. Then, with an increase in the number of Aldermen and the public scrutiny brought to bear upon that Board in a focus, instead of being in a measure divided, "rings" would have harder work to carry out pet schemes than is now the case.

I have promised to speak of City Building "repairs," Fire Department matters, etc.,—and first, I will speak of the Fire Department. The fire-extinguishing apparatus owned by the city consists of three steam fire engines; three hand engines; one hook and ladder truck; two double-barrelled, high-pressure soda-fountains on wheels; and three portable, one-man fire extinguisher. Two of the hand engines are good ones, I believe, and the hook and ladder truck is well provided with everything except a sufficient number of men—for forty are none too many and twenty but half enough; Sagamore and Kearsarge steamers, Nos. 2 and 3, are light, serviceable, reliable engines, and the portable extinguishers would no doubt do good service at the first start of a conflagration. But Dearborn steamer, No. 1, is a cumbrous, heavy machine, constructed on defective principles in the first place and eternally out of repair ever since; and though that engine, if got safely to a fire without being broken, and if it did not refuse to start pumping nor break down after it was started, would do splendid work, yet there are altogether too many "ifs" attached to it for it to be a reliable protection for a wooden city against fire.

On May 11, 1871, a joint resolution passed the Common Council authorizing the joint Committee on Fire Department, with the Mayor and Chief Engineer added, to sell the Dearborn; this resolution passed the Council with but one dissenting vote, the member throwing that explaining that he did so not because he believed the engine reliable, but because $500 (all that would be given for the engine in trade for a new Amoskeag machine) was not enough. During the discussion of the question in the Council, it was stated that but three engines of the Dearborn pattern were ever built, the city of Roxbury, Mass., having purchased the other two,—and that Roxbury had sold her two for $500 each, considering it a waste of money to attempt making them serviceable machines. The idea of the Council was, to get an Amoskeag steamer in place of the Dearborn—a reliable for an entirely unreliable piece of machinery. But the paper on which the Council's resolution was written, was wasted; and exactly what kind of a "check" the Council is upon the doings of the Aldermen was shown at the next meeting of the latter, when the Committee on Fire Department (the Aldermanic Committee,) were authorized to have the Dearborn repaired at a cost of $1100, if they deemed it advisable. This was done, and possibly was wisely done; but as the money then and since laid out in repairs on the Dearborn, added to the $500 which that engine would have brought in trade, would have nearly or quite paid for a new machine like the Kearsarge, some people may question the wisdom of the proceeding. But how people may decide as to the wisdom or otherwise of expending $1100 on an engine which has been undergoing repairs ever since and is not and it seems cannot be made trustworthy after all, does not matter to me—I only aim to show that those repairs were made by the Board of Aldermen alone, and that the Common Council did all they could do (and a mighty lot it was) to prevent it; and I present their ignominious failure as an argument in favor of abolishing the Council,—for a brake which does not work is worse than useless, whether applied to a car wheel or to municipal affairs.

But to come down to modern times. Some months ago (exactly how long I do not remember,) the Board of Aldermen concluded to purchase two large fire-extinguishers, or village engines. These machines have been received, and I suppose paid for at the rate of $800 each. They may be worth much more than $1600 to the city, as a means of extinguishing fires, though it is strange that Boston and other enterprising and wealthy cities have not long ere this procured them, if they are really valuable. However this may be, in this connection it does not matter; the objectionable feature of the transaction is that the machines were purchase on the authority of the Board of Aldermen alone, (no appropriation having been made to pay for them, so far as the public are informed,) while a large majority of the people (outside the Board of Aldermen) regard them as less likely to be of value than the small extinguishers which are carried on men's backs. The question arises, "if the Aldermen can properly and lawfully expend $1600 for gas-engines without consulting anybody else, cannot they just as well expend $16,000 for a gas-bag—a balloon—if they see fit so to do?" This mammoth-squirt-gun purchase I present as an additional argument in favor of abolishing the useless—and worse than useless—Common Council.

Next week I propose to look into a reservoir, and if I don't fall in and get stuck in the mud, shall then reverently approach that thing of beauty, the City Building, to see how the "repairs" get on. MUSICBYTHEBAND.

—Col. Don Piatt's Washington Capital says: "The person so popularly known as 'Old Probabilities' is a young man about 30, and is quite good looking, having a handsome figure, a fine face, with a Roman nose, and clear blue eyes; walks with a military bearing and takes his glass of wine and joke at dinner as if his nights were not given to thunder, lightning, wind and rain, like unto the dreadful witch in 'Macbeth.' His name is Myer—General, and of the United States Army. He is well endowed in a charming wife and worldly goods, and has a house that is the most attractive in Washington."

—One of the Pats who come to this city in crowds to get work, was directed to the dirt mover. After terms were settled, this wearer of the green was set to cart gravel. Filling the cart was a simple matter, but how to dump it puzzled him. At last the idea struck him, and striking the horse forcibly under the belly, he shouted, "Rare up, ye divil!"—Exchange.

Morning Chronicle.

PLAGIARISM.—The English publisher, Mr. J. C. Hotten, who so kindly improvised a few additional chapters to "Mark Twain's" book, was brought into a rather unpleasant prominence in the card which the latter wrote declining to accept those chapters as his own. Mr. Hotten, whom Mr. Clemens by way of diminution termed Mr. Hotten-tot, has soon after receiving his title, characteristically chosen Stanley, the great African explorer, for his next victim. He has published The Early Life of this great disturber of the Hottentots, and Mr. Stanley is indignant at its stories and has denounced them. But the indefatigable publisher has just printed a card in the London Times which he says that every thing in the book is true; that it is all derived from his relatives, and their only grief at the great success of their honored son, brother, cousin, uncle, etc., is that he so strangely denies his nationality. Of course all this publicity is as good as an advertisement for the books. But when the publisher tries to practice his appropriating arts upon home subjects he is not always so successful. He has lately been engaged in reprinting the cartoons of Punch. The proprietors sued him for damages and have just received a judgment in their favor. To such as know his plagiaristic tendencies this will not be unwelcome news; the chief regret will be that the punishment has been so long in coming, and that the copyright laws do not yet permit of similar suits by American writers.

CHICAGO on many accounts is an excellent place for utterly uninitiated immigrants to go to. After leaving it their impressions of America grow brighter and brighter. It is a charming city, the place to make money and to be generally happy, but not until one knows a little of the tendencies of the great American people. As for example.

A German, with a wife and three children, reached there some weeks ago direct from Fatherland, with a surplus of four dollars and a half in money, but not knowing one word of English. Soon after, leaving his family at a cheap hotel, he started out for work. Chicago policemen are not all of them above reproach. A few, who have arrested guilty men, have been shot, and the warning has not been in vain. The newly arrived soon encountered the (to others) familiar scene of two roughs pounding a policeman. He did what he could to help him, and, when the affray was over, stepped up to give the defeated official his lost cap. The shrewd policeman arrested him on the spot. He was utterly unable to explain matters to the judge, and was sent to the Bridewell for twenty-three days.

Meanwhile the family grew hungry and then melancholy; at last the man was given up as lost and the family were turned out by the landlord and sent to the poor house, and the dreams of this happy land found the proverbially contradictory reality. After a time the lost was turned loose again. He found his family, and reunited they left town on free passes and now are at work at a farmer's. It is not always that such cases end so well. This and many other similar cases point directly to the evils resulting from the haste and severity of police court justice in our large cities, and to the singular lack of charity that all English-speaking people have for those who cannot comprehend our peculiarly ill-arranged and misinformed language.—Hartford Courant.

—An old Iowa gentleman and his wife went to Chicago in search of two missing daughters, and stepping into a theatre for an evening's relaxation, to their great surprise found their promising offsprings skipping it in the ballet.

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the Only Preparation which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to direct entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

SINGER

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, prepared on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART,"

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred PULMONARY DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Wheezing Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," no dose in the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding such other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all those afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the prevailing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Amongst its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
"The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of its ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS
— AND —
Holloway's Ointment.
THE grand principle that operates in these wonderful medicines, is the power that they possess in purifying the turgid blood, and expelling corrupt humors from the system.
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS consist of a careful and peculiar admixture of the finest Vegetable Extracts, Herbs, and Medicinal Gums. Unlike other pills, which act in their combination, they never expose those who use them to any danger, at any time or season, No previous need there be any prescribe than for children, and the most delicate constitutions can use them with as great a benefit as the most vigorous and powerful frame.
HOLLOWAY & CO. Sole Proprietors,

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequaled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the most great cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleyantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREPETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

Our Little Newsboy.

Hurrying to catch a certain car at a certain corner, late one stormy night, I was suddenly arrested by the sight of a queer-looking bundle lying in a doorway.

"Bless my heart! It's a child. O! John; I'm afraid he's frozen," I exclaimed to my brother, as we both bent over the bundle.

Such a little fellow as he was, in the big, ragged coat; such a tired, baby face under the fuzzy cap; such a purple little hand, still holding fast a few papers; such a pathetic sight altogether, was the boy lying on the stone step, with the snow drifting over him,—that it was impossible to go by.

"He is asleep; but he'll freeze if left so long. Here, wake up, my boy, and go home as fast as you can," cried John with a gentle shake and a very gentle voice, for the memory of a dear little lad safely tucked up at home made him fatherly kind to the small vagabond.

The moment he was touched the boy tumbled up, and before he was half awake began his usual cry with an eye to business:

"Paper, sir? Herald! Transcrip'! Last"—a great gape swallowed up the "last edition," and he stood blinking at us like a very chilly young owl.

"I'll buy 'em all, if you'll go home, my little chap; it's high time you were abed," said John, whisking the damp papers into one pocket and his purse out of another as he spoke.

"All of 'em? Why, there's six!" croaked the boy, for he was hoarse as a raven.

"Never mind; I can kindle a fire with 'em. Put that in your pocket and trot home, my man, as fast as possible."

"Where do you live?" I asked, picking up the fifty cents that fell from the little fingers, too benumbed to hold it.

"Mill's Court, out of Hanover. Cold, ain't it?" said the boy, blowing his purple fingers and hopping feebly from one leg to the other to take the stiffness out.

"He can't go all that way in this storm—such a mite, and so used up with cold and sleep—John."

"Of course he can't; we'll put him in a car," began John, when the boy wheezed out:

"No; I've got ter wait for Sam; he'll be along as soon as the theatre's done. He said he would, and so I'm waitin'."

"Who is Sam?" I asked.

"He's the feller I lives with. I ain't got any folks, and he takes care o' me."

"Nice care, indeed, leaving a baby like you to wait for him here such a night as this is," said I, crossly.

"Oh, he's good to me, Sam is; though he does knock me around sometimes, when I ain't spry. The big fellers shove me back, you see, and I gets cold and can't sing out loud, so I don't sell my papers and has to work 'em off late."

"Hear the child; one would think he was sixteen instead of six," I said, half laughing.

"I'm most ten. Hi!—ain't that a oner?" cried the boy, as a gust of sleet slapped him in the face, as he peeped to see if Sam was coming. "Hollo! the lights is out! Why, the play's done and the folks gone, and Sam's forgot me."

It was very evident that Sam had forgotten his little protege, and a strong desire to shake Sam possessed me.

"No use waitin' any longer; and now my papers is sold, I ain't afraid to go home," said the boy, stepping down like a little old man with his rheumatism, and preparing to trudge away in the storm.

"Stop a bit, my little Casabianca; a car comes along in fifteen minutes, and while waiting you can warm yourself over there," said John, holding the purple hand in his.

"My name is Jack Hill, not Cassy Banks, please sir," said the little party with dignity.

"Have you had your supper, Mr. Hill?" asked John, laughing.

"I had some peanuts and two sucks of Joe's orange, but it warn't very fillin'," he said, gravely.

"I should think not. Here, one stew—and be quick, please," said John, as we sat down in a warm corner of the confectioner's, opposite.

While Jack shovelled in the hot oysters, with his eyes shutting up now and then in spite of himself, we looked at him and thought over again of a little rosy-face at home, safe in his warm nest, with mother-love watching over him. Nodding towards the ragged, grimy, forlorn-looking creature, dropping asleep over his supper like a tired baby, I said:

"Can you imagine our Freddy, out alone at this time of night, trying to 'work off' his papers, because afraid to go home till he has?"

"I'd rather not try," answered John, winking very hard as he stroked the little head beside him, which, by the way, looked very like a ragged yellow door-mat. I think John winked, but can't be sure, for I know I did, and for a minute there seemed to be a dozen newsboys dancing before my eyes.

"There goes our car, and it's the last," said John, looking at me.

"Let it go, but don't leave the boy;" and I frowned at John for thinking such a thing.

"Here is his car. Now, my lad, bolt your last oyster and come on."

"Good night, ma'am; thankee, sir," croaked the grateful little voice, as the child was caught up in John's strong arms and set down on the car-step.

With a word to the conductor and a small business transaction, we left Jack coiled up in a corner, to finish his nap as tranquilly as if it wasn't midnight and a "knocking round" might not await him at his journey's end.

We didn't mind the storm much as we plodded home, and when I told the story to rosy-face next day his interest quite reconciled me to the sniffs and sneezes of a bad cold.

"If I saw the poor little boy, Aunt Weedy, I'd love him lots!" said Freddy, with a world of pity in his beautiful child's eyes.

And believing that others also would be kind to little Jack and such as he I tell the story.

When busy fathers hurry home at night, I hope they buy their papers of the small boys who get "shoved off;" the feeble ones, who grow hoarse and can't "sing out;" the shabby ones, who evidently have only forgetful Sams to care for them; and the hungry-looking ones, who don't get what is "fillin'." For love of the little sons and daughters safe at home, say a kind word, buy a paper, even if you don't want it; and never pass by, leaving them to sleep forgotten in the streets at midnight, with no pillow but a stone, no coverlid but the pitiless snow, and not even a tender-hearted robin to drop leaves over them.—Merry's Museum.

Marine Disaster.

The ship Franklin, which sailed from Hamburg several days ago for San Francisco with a large number of emigrants, stranded on the coast of Vliesland an island of the Netherlands, in the North Sea, and went to pieces. Eighty persons are known to have perished.

The News.

Edwin Forrest, the eminent actor, dropped dead in Philadelphia, while dressing, Thursday morning. He was born in that city, March 9, 1806, and was therefore nearly 67 years old.

Santsbury is the name of a hero of Lexington, Ky., who dared to enter a burning house and bear therefrom a negro woman sick of small-pox.

A club of ten persons in Columbus, Ohio, hold the ticket which drew the $75,000 prize at the Kentucky Library gift concert and lottery at Louisville.

It is said that not since 1826 has a single first-class occupied house been burned in Boston.

Samuel L. Hall of North Berwick, Maine, had one of his feet crushed by being run over by a locomotive on the Boston and Maine Railroad, on the 11th.

Mrs. Eliza Durfee of Middletown, Conn., met with a horrible death by being burnt almost to a crisp. Her clothes caught from the stove and in a moment she was enveloped in the flames. Her husband being an invalid was compelled to witness the horrible fate of his wife without being able to render any assistance. She lingered in agony for a few hours, when death put an end to her suffering.

The House committee on territories are considering the proposition to admit Colorado as one of the States of the Union. It is proposed to abolish the territorial government of Wyoming and distribute the territory among its neighbors, as the population is but 10,000.

Editorial Notes.

Livingston, not the long lost, but Manchester's specimen of the job printer, has issued the fourth annual report of the proceedings of the Editors and Publishers' Association of New Hampshire, for 1871-72. It is printed in the finest style and every member of the Association will be pleased at its contents. The Amesbury Villager says the New Hampshire Association must take the palm for method and system in conducting its affairs.

The Biddeford Times speaks of that place as "the city proper!"

Vice President Colfax has been offered a salary of $20,000 per annum to take charge of the New York Tribune and resign the Vice Presidency on the first of January. The Tribune is evidently making great endeavors to return to the Republican fold. Mr. Colfax was one of Mr. Greeley's warm, personal friends, and should he accept the position will doubtless resuscitate the Tribune from the slough of despond in which it has fallen under Whitelaw Reid's management.

The December number of The Aldine contains an extraordinary number of pictures, nearly forty in all, which gives renewed evidence to the generous character of its management. All who know the Aldine know it for the best illustrated publication of this country, and few, we think, who have enjoyed its monthly coming have consented to be deprived of it. To all others we would suggest that before subscribing for any other pictorial periodical for the coming year they seek an opportunity to examine the volume of which this is the final number, and the prospectus for next year. Of the Aldine this may be said with truth and emphasis, that it has always excelled its promise.

The Fifth Avenue Hotel horror resulted in the death of eleven domestics. The fire probably caught in a small bed room from a gas jet and was communicated to the spiral stairway which runs from the lower to the upper (seventh) story. The attic is divided into quarters for the male and female servants. The windows of the rooms open on the flat roof, each having wire screens for the double purpose of preventing the throwing of garbage on the roof and dividing the apartments of the females from the males. From the attitude in which the remains were found it is evident that the wretched women made desperate efforts to escape through the heavily-wired windows when they found the regular passage cut off by the fire and suffocating smoke; and their agony when they could see freedom on the roof within finger's reach beyond the grating can only be imagined. All endeavors to save them must have been fruitless. The inventive genius of mankind should be called into requisition to save life in such cases. A light, portable ladder to be worked by machinery so that it could be raised to any height in front of a burning building, with appliance for reaching the roof from it would save many lives in the future. If the building of seven storied structures must go on, let there be measures of protection for those who sleep nearest the sky.

State News.

The dwelling house upon the farm of Mr. Dennis Grady, about two miles north of Dover, was destroyed by fire on Thursday evening last; supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

A horse was thrown down and killed while being driven in Dover last week.

An Important Decision.

An insurance case has been decided, at Portland. The case of Captain George M. Melcher against the Ocean Insurance Company, which has been pending in the supreme court since 1866. In 1867 Captain Melcher, master and part owner of Ship Charles S. Pennell, chartered the vessel to go from New York to San Francisco with a mixed cargo. At the same time he executed another charter, commonly known as a "guano charter," to go from New York to San Francisco and thence to the Chinchas for guano and thence to Hamburg. Captain Melcher took out two policies of insurance, one on the San Francisco charter and one on the guano charter; but the last policy was only on a voyage from New York to San Francisco. The vessel was stranded on the coast of Brazil and taken into Rio Janeiro, condemned and sold, and the voyage broken up. The policy issued by the Ocean Insurance Company insured $6500 on the charter, $2650 on primage, and $1500 on property on board of ship Charles S. Pennell, to and from New York to San Francisco. The defence that the sale of the vessel was unjustifiable was first set up, but a jury found it was justifiable. Payment was then resisted upon the ground that the policy did not in terms cover the guano charter and that no recovery could be had, inasmuch as no freight had been carried upon the guano charter, and the voyage named in that charter had not been entered upon. The court permitted testimony to be offered to show that the charter mentioned in the policy and insured was the guano charter, overruled the defence last set up and gave judgment for the plantiff in the sum of $9200, with interest from April 28, 1865, amounting in the aggregate to about $14,000.

A WASHINGTON REMINISCENCE.—The appointment by the President of Judge Orr to be Minister Plenipotentiary to His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias recalls the eventful scenes of the Thirty-fifth Congress, in which he presided over the House as its Speaker, and the turning contest of the anti-slavery struggle, on Monday, the eighth of February, 1858. It was the great question whether Buchanan's Message on the Lecompton Constitution of Kansas should be referred to the Democratic Committee on Territories or to a Select Committee of Fifteen. On this there had been an angry discussion on the preceding Saturday, prolonged through the night, and enlivened by a regular row at an early hour on Sunday morning, in which a member—not Grow of Pennsylvania, although he had a gold medal presented to him therefor—knocked Keitt down, while the wig of Barksdale was snatched from his head and sent spinning up nearly to the ceiling.

Mr. Speaker Orr shouted at the top of his stentorian voice "Order! order!" and Sergeant-at-Arms Glossbrenner, (a Pennsylvania Dutchman who was here as a Representative in the last Congress,) seizing the huge mace as the emblem of his authority, with both hands, rushed into the midst of the melee, and was hustled unceremoniously about, mace and all. Old Gen. Quitman finally stilled the tumult, but it was not until half-past six o'clock on Sunday morning that the Democrats would agree to pass his resolution that a vote should be taken on Monday, without further debate, delay, or dilatory motion.

When Mr. Orr's mallet rapped the House to order at noon on Monday, only six of the two hundred and thirty-four Representatives were absent, and the galleries were packed like boxes of Smyrna figs. Rev. Dr. Samson made a conciliatory prayer—the journal was read—two enrolled bills were presented by Mr. Davidson, and then the Speaker in an unusually earnest tone, stated the question. Tellers had been ordered, and he had appointed Messrs. Buffinton of Massachusetts and Craige of North Carolina. "Is the demand for the previous question seconded?"

The imposing form of Buffinton was soon seen making his way down to the area before the Speaker's table, where Craige met him. They shook hands, and there was then a quick obedience to the Speaker's request that all gentlemen in favor of the motion would pass between the tellers. Father Giddings, crowned with silvery locks, led the Republican host down to be counted as they passed between Buffinton and Craige. Burlingame followed, and among others who filed along were Henry Winter Davis, Gen Spinner, John Sherman, Gen. Bingham, Frank Blair, the trio of Washburns, Gooch, Schuyler Colfax, John Covode, Gov. Fenton, Senator Cragin and burly Humphrey Marshall. When all had passed between the tellers, Buffinton wheeled about and reported to the Speaker, who announced the result rather hesitatingly, "One hundred and ten in the affirmative. Those opposed will now pass between the tellers."

Then the Southern champions of slavery with their Northern allies came trooping down, headed by the attenuated Stephens. Dan Sickles and John Cochrane, who were afterward generals in the Union armies, were then allied with Zollicoffer, Keitt and others who fell in the rebel ranks, and there were so many of them that the result appeared doubtful. At last it was Mr. Craige's turn to report, and then all was silent as the grave.

Never before had I seen the Speaker at all disconcerted, but he hesitated, and his usually loud, clear voice trembled as he at last announced: "One hundred and four in the negative. The ayes have it, and the demand for the previous question is seconded. Shall the main question be now put?"

Victory had at last favored freedom! The main question was next put, and the vote by ayes and nays on a reference of the Kansas question to the Committee on Territories was ayes 113, nays 114. Then came the vote on the reference to a select Committee of fifteen, and Speaker Orr had to announce the result: ayes 114, nays 111. And from that hour the power of Democracy has waned! Mr. Orr endeavored to remain true to the Union, but was swept into the maelstrom of secession, from which he escaped at the earliest possible moment, although he has never, I believe, been allied with the existing State Government of South Carolina.—PERLEY, in Boston Journal.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE Cut their wise teeth, use the SOZODONT, and all who do, are willing to declare to all who don't use it, that it is the most perfect and delightful thing for the teeth they ever dipped a brush into.

RURAL BEAUTIES AND CITY BELLES.—Country girls are not a whit behind their metropolitan sisters in the natural elements of loveliness, but it must be conceded that the city belles best understand the art of preserving and heightening their personal beauty. The most perfect features lose half their attraction, unless the complexion is properly cared for, and if the pretty girls of the rural districts wish to compete with the "Fairstars" of the fashionable world in refined attractions, they must pay due attention to this important point. They ought to know, for the fact is notorious, that Hagan's Magnolia Balm imparts to the skin a delicate pearly appearance, unproducable by any other preparation under the sun. No matter how the cuticle may have been roughened by exposure or discolored by the sun, the Balm will render it soft and pliable, and removes every blemish.

In his book on Chronic Diseases Dr. Pierce says of his Golden Medical Discovery: "God, I believe, has instilled into the roots and plants from which this wonderful medicine is extracted, the healing properties, by the use of which Consumption, the scourge of the human family, may in its early stages be promptly arrested and permanently cured. I do not wish to delude, flatter and then disappoint the afflicted by asserting that this can be accomplished when the lungs are half consumed, as many do who, being devoid of all conscience, aim to humbug the afflicted, that they may sell their often worse than worthless compounds. But if my Golden Medical Discovery is employed in the first or early stages of the disease, I know from ample observation and actual test in hundreds of cases, that it will arrest the disease and restore health and strength." CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick so. Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

—ALSO—

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

OF THE

Jacksonville, Northwestern & Southeastern R. R.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

A Successful Experiment.

Despite the constant publication of warnings in the shape of news items headed "Terrible Death from the careless use of kerosene," "Fatal burning accident," etc., many people still exist who fancy that they can fill lighted lamps with kerosene, or kindle fires with that non-explosive, in perfect safety,—their security lying in their knowing exactly how to do it. A young tonsorial artist of our acquaintance has been in the habit, when the fire did not burn quite so brightly as he wished, of pouring a quantity of non-explosive in a mug and then dashing it—the non-explosive, not the mug, into the stove, thus obviating, as he thought, all danger of any unpleasantness. On one of the recent cold days our young experimenter was dissatisfied with the fire, and administered the usual dose of kerosene, at first with no apparent effect; but on his peering into the stove to see why the old thing didn't work as usual, it went off so effectually as to change his light-colored trowsers to a dark tan-color, besides curtailing his moustache, burning his fingers and making him drop the mug, and causing him to advance backwards with such rapidity that he now firmly believes he was blown clear across the room. He says no more kerosene for him to kindle fires with.

Hovey et als. vs. Grant.

At the law term of the S. J. Court, the decision of the lower court was reaffirmed by the full bench. The defendant bought large quantities of liquor in the fall of 1870, of Boston dealers, and among the number the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs brought an action of trespass for the value of the liquors, claiming that the defendant never intended to pay for them when he bought them, and that therefore the sale was void. The defendant claimed among other defences, that if at the time of the purchase of the liquors he had in view the law prohibiting their sale, and intended to resist payment by means of the law, it was no fraud upon the vender. The court held that if the defendant at the time of the purchase intended not to pay for the liquors for any cause, and concealed that intention from the seller, it was fraud upon the seller, which would justify him in rescinding the sale and recovering his liquors or the value thereof, in an action of trespass. The jury found a verdict for the full amount for the plantiffs, and this court has recently re-affirmed the law as laid down at the trial. The effect of this decision is that if a person buys liquors where the sale is prohibited, but at the time of the purchase does not intend to pay for them, because of the law, but conceals that intention, it is a fraud, and the vendor can reclaim his liquors or the value thereof. This case was first tried in Portsmouth at the October term, 1871, before Judge William L. Foster, whose decision has been sustained by the full bench. The attorneys were Frink and Butler of Portsmouth, and Richardson of Boston for the plaintiffs, and Hatch and Page of Portsmouth for the defence. The final decision has been anxiously looked for both by counsel and parties immediately and otherwise interested.

Laconics.

We are informed that a man named Dennis McCarthy left his home in this city on Thursday evening, Dec. 5, and has not since been heard from. He was last seen in company with two men, with whom he was engaged in an angry altercation, and a report that the three went down to a wharf to settle their differences by a fight, naturally excites suspicion that there has been foul play somewhere. The police authorities are engaged in investigating the matter.

The procession which passed through the streets, Thursday, had for its principal attraction the Stone Crusher, which is to be located on South Street near the residence of the late Simon Marston. The ledge of which "bread and cheese rock" has been an attraction for a lovers' retreat for centuries, is to be utilized for street repairs.

The meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is postponed from to-night until further notice.

—Mrs. Partington, reading of the strike of the wire-drawers, remarked, "Ah, me! what new-fangled things won't they wear next?"

—Helmbold, the ex-buchu man, is now head clerk in a New York drug Store.

—A Kansas doctor has to pay $5000 for killing instead of curing a patient.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 62.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

PROVINCIAL TAX OF PORTSMOUTH IN 1681.—The Province was then but 58 years old from the first settlement. The number of towns was but four. Three of them, Portsmouth, Hampton and Exeter, were in what is now Rockingham County, and by divisions these now make 17 of the 38 towns in the County. Dover, in Strafford County, has also been divided, making now 4 towns.

At the time of which we speak the Province had just been separated from Massachusetts, and John Cutt of Portsmouth was Governor. He served about a year, when he died. Richard Waldron succeeded him in 1681. This was the year the tax was first levied. A tax was then called a rate.

The number of persons taxed was 130. The whole amount to be raised was 36 pounds. But two taxes were over one pound. Those were Mrs. Eleanor Cutts, one pound and five shillings, and John Cutt & man, two pounds, and nine shillings and four pence. This probably was not Governor Cutt, as the word "mariner" is annexed to his name.

Some of the names in this tax list have continued in Portsmouth or towns in the vicinity ever since, 191 years. The following are the principal: Ham, Pickering, Bartlett, Jones, Whidden, Drown, Leavitt (spelled then Levet,) Brown, Walker, Jewell, Harvey, Waldron and Meicher.

G. A. R.

The Fair of Storer Encampment will open on the 19th inst, and continue three days. The public is respectfully advised that no pains have been spared to make this series of entertainments equally attractive with those of former years. The bill will comprise Dramatic and Vocal performances, Military Tableau, etc. Valuable articles will be exposed for sale, and the usual attraction of such occasions together with interesting novelties will be presented for the entertainment and amusement of the patrons of the Fair. The services of the Ladies of Portsmouth are urgently desired in furnishing and attending the tables of Fancy articles. Programmes will be issued at an early day. Per Order.

Republicans Attention!

All Republicans of Portsmouth who sustained the nomination of Grant and Wilson at the late election, are invited to meet at Headquarters on FRIDAY EVENING, Dec. 13, at 7 o'clock, to take counsel together concerning the coming Congressional Convention and other matters. Per Order REP. COM.

THE CONGREGATIONALIST.—This able and enterprising religious weekly is increasing its claims to the support of the public as a family newspaper. With a full staff of editors who give their whole time to it, and a host of names eminent in their various walks serving as contributors or correspondents, the publishers seem determined to keep it in the front rank of the religious press. As a means of extending its circulation and influence the publishers are now offering to all new subscribers a chromo entitled "Among the Flowers," substantilly framed in black walnut. It is a pleasing picture, executed in good style, and will doubtless serve its purpose to the satisfaction of publishers and the gratification of subscribers.

THE CHOLERA IN RUSSIA.—It appears from official statistics just published at St. Petersburg, that during the past year over 80,000 persons died of cholera alone in Russia. At the present moment small-pox is adding its terrors, and it is feared that an equal mortality will result from that disease before its spread can be checked. The chief cause of the spread of these terrible diseases is ascribed to the negligence of the authorities. In the country the rules of governmental authority are so severe that no private individual dares to introduce sanitary reforms on his own account, or take means for checking the spread of disease in community except under order. The consequence is, when a contagious disease is introduced it is left to work its way unmolested until the necessary orders are issued by government for the adoption of precautionary measures.

ELEPHANTS IN A QUICKSAND.—On the banks of the river Ganges, says a military journalist, there are many quicksands; and during our expedition a somewhat distressing scene happened. An elephant incautiously came within the vortex of one; first one foot sank, then another, and in endeavoring to extricate himself, matters became worse; no portion of either of his legs was at last visible, and the bystanders had given up the poor animal as lost. Being, fortunately, unusually powerful, he three several times, with what appeared to be all supernatural strength, draw a foot from the closely clinging earth, plaing it where, by sounding it with his trunk, he found most solid land; not until the third time did the ground bear his pressure, when he gradually released himself. During the whole period of his troubles, his cries were exceedingly dolorous, and might have been heard a couple of miles; his grunts, when they were at an end, were equally indicative of satisfaction. The internal application of a bottle of strong spirits soon dissipated his trembling, and restored his equanimity. Many unfortunate elephants are lost in these treacherous sands, when large quantities of grass or branches of trees are not at hand to support them. After a certain time the poor beast becomes powerless; and the owner can only look with sorrow at the gradual disappearance of his noble animal, and lament the pecuniary loss he thereby suffers, for all human aid is futile. They have been known to be 12 hours before entirely sinking.

How a Spider Spins.—The spider, though frequently called an insect, in reality belongs to a different class of animals, termed Arachnida, including spiders, scorpions, and mites. An insect has six legs; a spider eight; the body of the former has three divisions—the head, thorax or chest, and abdomen; that of the latter only two, the head and thorax being united in one piece.

Few things are more wonderful than the spinning apparatus of the spider. On the under side of the creature's body are placed four or six little knobs, each not larger than the point of a pin. These are outlets of certain receptacles within the abdomen, where the silk is prepared.

When the spider wishes to spin a thread, it presses the knobs, or spinnerets with one of its legs, and forthwith there issue from each, not one but a thousand fibers, of such exquisite fineness, that it is only when the products of all the united that they become visible to the naked eye. The "thread" of the spider is thus a tiny rope of four or six thousand strands.

The twisting of the fibers into one cord is performed by the hind-most part of the legs which, like the rest, are furnished with three claws apiece. Using these claws as fingers, the little ropemaker twists her groups of tiread into one with surprising rapidity.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It index the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures a thousand illnesses simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. This enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed on.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy living Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhoea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitution, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, giving strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an iron Constitution.

Thousands have to be changed by the use of this remedy, from a sickly, suffering creature to strong, hearty, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in glass.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

Clergymen, Lawyers, Singers,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the Only Preparation which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

"WELL

Old Wheezy, what's the matter with you and why are you muffled up so?"

"Wretched cold! Can't speak aloud. My throat's so sore and lungs so oppressed it pains me to talk."

"Now, Old Boy, I was in the same predicament and have been wonderfully cured. Met a friend who urged me to take

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

For the Throat and Lungs.

Bought a bottle at the

UNION STORE

on Market Street. Now I'm going to tell you the truth. The bottles are small and sell at only

50

Cents each, but the

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is powerful. A half bottle completely cured me; a single dose

RELIEVED MY THROAT INSTANTANEOUSLY.

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a condensed cure-all. Try it—and take off that muffler."

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms, with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent (urnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS,
"Yrogard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For Influenza, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY OPERATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, GRINDELIA ROOT, LOBELIA ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is anodyne and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS
— AND —
Holloway's Ointment.
THE grand principle that operates in these wonderful medicines, is the power that they possess in purifying the turgid blood, and expelling corrupt humors from the system.
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS consist of a careful and peculiar admixture of the finest Vegetable Extracts, Herbs, and Medicinal Gums. Possessing not a grain of mineral in their combination, they never expose those who use them to any danger, at any time or season. No mother need hesitate to prescribe them to her children, and the most delicate constitutions can use them with as great a benefit as the most vigorous and powerful frame.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, Danish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Impacted Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing plaster, and the relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the most intense, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

TRUE FRENCH ROLLS.

I suppose there are not many housekeepers or individuals who have eaten French rolls, or French bread, but have noticed the difference between them and ordinary rolls and domestic bread, and wondered how they were made so light, so soft, so crisp, so nicely rounded, so finely browned, and so altogether lovely. They have broken the crackling crusts; have rent the filamentous or fibre-like interior; have eaten a goodly portion thereof, and gone away wishing they could obtain it at all times. If they lived in the city, these suppositious personages, they did obtain it; but if they lived in the country—which is sometimes remote, often melancholy, and likewise slow—they went mourning all their days, and would not be comforted because rolls were not.

The invalid with weak digestion sighed in vain for that "airy-fairy" fabrication, and turned heavy-hearted from that stumbling-block, the ordinary household loaf, which is too often half-fermented, half-worked, half-raised half-baked, and wholly uneatable. The good housekeeper, justly proud of her white and well-made bread, yet wishes to exercise her skill or her taste in setting before her guests something different. To all such—the invalid, the housekeeper, and their heirs or assigns forever—I say: Behold in this paper the recipe, the method which—if strictly followed to the letter, mind you—will make the French roll accessible, the French roll attainable to all, of high and low degree. What a promise! "Do you really mean it?" says the incredulous reader? "I swear it," saith the veracious writer.

Yes, I swear it. But one misgiving possesses me. That one is, I fear, fatal to the accomplishment of the object set forth: but few will follow the course herein specified. It is all very well to say to the novice, do thus and so—simple manipulations with common materials—but the novice won't do it. Some preconceived opinions or methods, having taken possession of the mind, and drawn by them, while making believe follow the rule given, the result, so far as the recipe is concerned, is a failure. You might as well attempt to teach a child to tie a double bow-knot at the first trial as to make an experimenter—alas that I say it, a lady experimenter—follow exactly as you indicate. The child takes hold of the string all right, and places its finger all right, but in the critical period of passing it under and over one or the other, the ends get misplaced, the fingers slip off, and limp and lax the knot fails of its union.

So at the last moment the recipe shall fail. "What!" saith the neophyte, "no eggs, nor butter, nor milk, in rolls! That won't make anything. I am not going to waste my flour and time in these silly newspaper recipes, that never were of any value;" and so straightway she brings me to open shame and confusion, saying: "Behold, here is that which you recommended, and which I did make even as you commanded, and the result is not what you promised. Go to now, thou pretended! thou miracle-worker! thou shallow reformer! that led me to think well of thee by thy promises, when thou wert no better than a false guide." Would not these be serious charges, too heavy to bear, and all undeserved, but brought upon me because I endeavored to do womankind a service and they would not? yet I have borne them! I have known them. This is not a new experience to me. It is a sad duty which I perform in telling persons how to make good rolls and good bread,—no, not sad, exactly, but a stern duty.

House-hold bread is, as ordinarily made, an affront. There is no excuse for it, or will not be after delinquents read this paper (if they follow the rule); but light, white, fibrous, fragrant rolls, whereof you shall live to eat—whereof you shall sit at meat and partake undismayed—which you shall behold at early morning or late noon, rotund, plethoric, splitting their sides with good cheer, crowned with a roseate glow externally, and white as purity within—which, though you crush them to the earth, will, like truth, rise again,—which though you turn them inside out, like a glove, will contract, come slowly together, and close like the petals of a flower when the sun goes down; this I say, my christian friends and beloved hearers, is within the province and power of all who follow the rule. Is it not worth trying for?

"How do you know this?"

This exclamation has been ringing in my ear ever since I began this paper. There are sceptics in the world who wish to be satisfied that they are not to be drawn into countenancing any theories or hobbies before they lend the light of their countenances, and the encouragement of their support; and to all such I say that, being smitten, seized, or possessed of a desire to accomplish the true French roll, I did devote much time, waste much flour, gave away much bad bread to the poor, before I found out how to make it. Since bakers would not reveal the secret, and no "cook books" knew anything about it, of course I had to find out for myself. If you take up any one of the aforesaid handbooks and turn to "Rolls," you will find this:

"FRENCH ROLLS.—Take a quart of dough, two eggs, half a cup of butter and one of milk," etc., etc., etc.

I don't write any more because that it's all rubbish. That is cake, not bread, and has no resemblance to the method in vogue. There is nothing in a French roll, or French bread, but flour, salt, water, potatoes and yeast. This is the genuine and only true way to make a roll. You can make a biscuit, or a rusk, or anything you please, out of fermented dough; but a roll is neither of the above, but peculiar to itself.

Take two potatoes, and boil them—peel them first. Then mash these in the water they were boiled in. All cold, this should make about a pint of potato and water, like a thin gruel. Stir in this, flour enough to make a stiff sponge; make it rather thicker than usual; and when it has cooled well, put in half a cup of bright, sparkling yeast. It is absolutely indispensable that the yeast should be lively, quick-working, and not sour. Without this it is useless to ever undertake to make bread. Let this rise three hours, by which time it should be seething and bubbling like a miniature cataract.

If it is not light by that time, let it rise until it is; but if not raised in five hours, you must get better yeast and try some other time. When light, stir it briskly—in fact, "wallop" it around in the pan, as if you were beating eggs; then stir in flour enough to make a dough as stiff as you can stir with a spoon. Put it away to rise again—which ought to take three hours more—and at the end of that three hours knead it again. This is the way you must knead it, and this is where you will fail, at first. You can't "get the hang of it," and will be very apt to give it up in disgust and say: "Pho! that's all nonsense, anyway; so much fuss for a little bread;" unless you have good sense, and say, rather, "Nothing is 'fuss' if it tends to the increase of human knowledge."

Turn the dough all out on a table well rubbed with flour (you are not to mix any more flour in the dough,) so that it will not adhere; and then roll it over and over (as if it was a rolling-pin) until it is a long cylinder of dough; cut it into convenient pieces for handling, say the length of your arm; hold one in your left hand and roll the other over and over, as if you were twisting a thread or cord on your knee. When the mass becomes too long to handle, double it over on itself and proceed as before. After kneading in this way ten minutes, put the dough all back in the pan to rise again.

Here is where you are sure to fail again: You cannot by any possibility allow that dough to rise enough. You will miss it the first time, possibly, over-raise it the second time, and give it up entirely, unless you stick to it until you conquer. If you are a true woman, you won't allow a mass of dough to "get the better of you." The vinous or winy flavor of French bread, is due to the presence of alcohol developed by the fermentation of the starch in the flour and potatoes added to it; and it is necessary to carry the fermentation to this vinous point to have the extreme lightness and delicacy of crust and color that characterize it; and this is only determined by experience and the sense and smell.

Your dough, at the rising, will give forth so strong a gas on being taken up, as to make one throw the head back; and at this point you are to form it into rolls, by cutting off portions from the mass, doubling them, like shutting up a book, so as to imprison a portion of air, and then moulding them gently into shape with the hands, in an obvious manner. Make them as nearly of one size as possible, and put them on the table to rise again. Do not cover them with anything—let them stand just as they are. When fully risen—to obesity, in fact—give them a cut in the middle with a well-buttered knife, and put them in the oven—a hot oven—and bake them for a quarter of an hour.

My friends, I pause here. My task is ended. So great is the desire to imitate in the human breast, that I am certain numberless persons, on reading this paper, will proceed to put the directions here given, in faith into practice at once. I hope they will have patience and perseverance, for by the exercise of those sublime virtues, only, great things are achieved. How many times have I stuck my hands with the plastic dough; how many sorry, flat-bottomed, sicklied o'er with the pale dust of flour, failures, have I not had ere I achieved the perfect, oblate, cellulose morsel which men call a roll. How many times I rose, while it was yet night, peered into the reticulated mass of dough, lifted it, smelled of it, tasted it, and retired to bed again, flushed with triumph if it was right, or sickened with a sense of failure if, through carelessness, or thoughtlessness, I had overlooked some precaution, until at last patience had her perfect work. From the doubts and thickets of despair I emerged into the highway of assurance. I had resolved the crude elements of flour, water and potato into an artistic production; I had triumphed over matter, and it gave me no more concern.

Therefore I tell the reader, as I told him or her, chiefly her, at the outset, if you will follow the rules here given, and use a little intelligence on points not clear to you, you will attain the end you desire. If, indeed, you do desire it. I am not clear in my mind on this point. Life is, after all, tenable without the French roll. I suppose upon reflection, that there are a great many persons who really do not like it at all, and prefer that solid and substantial staff of life on which one may literally lean without injuring it. There may be some such; but if you don't care for it yourself, consider what an advantage this information gives you over your neighbors! You can triumph over them, at the least, through, achieving this knowledge. Surely that is no small gain! To rival one's neighbors, to do things that cause them to wonder, to puff them up with envy, to cause heart-burnings to visit them; certainly all these things ought to make one strain every nerve for their accomplishment!—Egbert P. Watson in Household Magazine.

The News.

Small-pox is increasing in New York.

Mayor Hall of New York says he is not going to connect himself with the Herald, editorially or otherwise, but will return to the practice of law as a member of his old firm.

By a tremendous charge of nitro-glycerine, the Hoosac Tunnel central and east headings were connected on Thursday. The draft from the eastern end of the tunnel to the central shaft is like a powerful wind. There is less than a foot's difference from the calculations of the engineers.

The wood-house of the North Berwick Company was burned Thursday. The building was insured in the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company of Hartford for $1000, and the stock in the Home Insurance Company of New York for $10,000, which will nearly cover the loss.

The Senate Naval Committee have amended the House bill for the construction of war steamers by increasing the number from six to ten, to be constructed of wood or of iron, and at public or private yards.

Editorial Notes.

James F. Briggs, Esq., of Manchester, has written a letter withdrawing his name from the candidacy for the Republican nomination for Congress in the second district. He was the leading rotation candidate at the last convention and had the best claim for the nomination at this time, but is unwilling to endanger success by pressing his claims or thrusting himself on the convention in the heated canvass which is being made. Mr. Briggs' letter of withdrawal shows that he is just the kind of man the Republicans of that section should be pleased to honor by election to Congress.

A good joke is told of Conductor Blank, who runs on a railroad leading out of Boston—not the Eastern. He observed a lady passenger nursing an infant and said to her, "Madam, there is a saloon room for your convenience, if you choose." Indignantly the lady looked up and spake, "Mr Blank, I have heard of you before."

THE WILL OF HORACE GREELEY.—An unfortunate and unseemly contest over the estate left by Mr. Greeley has begun in the courts. It appears that Mr. Greeley made two wills, dated respectively in 1871 and 1872. By the first will he divided his estate equally among his daughters after making a few bequests to his relatives and providing for a legacy equal to the value of a share in the Tribune to the children's aid society of New York. The executors named in this will are Samuel Sinclair, Richard H. Manning, and Charles Storrs, who are also the contestants. The last will gives the entire property to the daughters, with the qualification that Miss Ida should control her sister's half and use it for her support and education. This will was executed Nov. 29, 1872. It had been written by Mr. Greeley some time, but was only presented him for execution a few hours before his death. It had been placed among his private papers by Mr. Greeley and was only taken from among them at the time of his last attack, and at the first lucid interval thereafter offered to him for acknowledgment. The counsel for the contestants said he hoped that the daughters would acquiesce in the will of 1871. He thought the will executed by Mr. Greeley before his death did great injustice, inasmuch as it gave all the property to Miss Ida, and would deprive some relatives of property intended for them. The counsel for the daughters thought these remarks uncalled for, and announced that Miss Ida had offered to assign to her sister one-half of the property, also to grant suitable annuities to relatives. The Misses Greeley then declined to consider any proposals for a compromise. Regular proceedings for a contest will ensue on the ground of the incapacity of the testator to execute the will of 1872. The first witness was Miss Lawson, who testified she became a witness to the will on the day Mr. Greeley died. He was then, a few hours before his death, conscious and rational. After some further examination of this witness, adjournment followed.

EDWIN FORREST, the great tragedian, made his debut in 1820, at the Walnut Street Theatre in Philadelphia, having previously appeared in female characters. After a long professional tour in the West, he played successful engagements in Albany and Philadelphia. He played Othello at New York in 1826, and at once became popular. He has appeared in the principal cities of the Union as Othello, Macbeth, Hamlet, Richard III. and other Shakspearian parts, and in many American plays, the most successful of which were "Metamora," "The Gladiator" and "Brutus." He played a most successful engagement in England in 1836. During a second visit to England, in 1837, he married Miss Sinclair, daughter of the well known singer, and returned to the United States in 1838. In 1844—46 he was again in England. A quarrel with Macready, espoused by Forrest's friends, led to the serious riot at the Astor Place Opera House, May 10, 1849, during the engagement of Macready. Mr. Forrest accumulated a fortune by his professional labors. He died very suddenly, being found dead in his bed-chamber at his residence in Broad Street, Philadelphia, on Wednesday, by a servant who went to call him. The servant knocked at the door, and receiving no answer, entered and found Forrest fully dressed and lying upon the floor, dead.

A SINGULAR CASE was decided recently in Vermont. A citizen in a certain town built a zig-zag rail fence, and his neighbor claimed that it trespassed on his farm because it was not a straight fence and didn't follow the boundary. A fight ensued and an arrest. The Court decided as a question of law that the man had a lawful right to extend the fence over the line so far as was necessary in its construction, and that the defendant unlawfully resisted its erection to that extent. The jury therefore found damages.

—Every man's life, practically speaking, is shaped by his love. If it is a downward, earthly love, then his actions will be tinged by it, all his life will be as his reigning love. This love, you perceive, is not a mere sentiment, or casual emotion, but is the man's settled affinity; it is that which is to his character what the magnetic force is to the needle, the power that adjusts all his aims and works, and practically determines the man. It only must be a downward love or an upward love; for being the last love and deepest of the man, there cannot be two last and deepest, it must be one or the other. And then, as this love changes, it works a general revolution of the man.—Bushnell.

—What is the world coming to when even the babes exhibit such alarming precocity as did a little seven-year-old charmer in Brattleboro', who the other day sent her "beau" a love letter, couched in the following apt and (possibly) familiar words: "They that seek me early shall find me."—Brattleboro' Phœnix.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

FOREWARNINGS OF CONSUMPTION. Remember that a cough, a cold or some other common affection of the throat or lungs always precedes Consumption, and that all these ailments are cared with absolute certainty by Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. For sale by all druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

THE HUMAN KITCHEN AND ITS DUMB WAITERS.—The body is supplied with aliment by vessels which connect the stomach and its auxiliaries with the venous system, and, so to speak, perform the office of dumb waiters in a restaurant. In other words these media of communication between the animal kitchen and its dependents supply to each member and organ near or remote, the quantity and kind of sustenance required to keep it going. When the stomach is derelict in its duty, or the dumb waiters inert or obstructed, it is the peculiar province of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters to strengthen and regulate them. Hence its marvelous cures of chronic indigestion, and the emaciation, debility and languor which are generally its concomitants. It is, moreover, a powerful alterative and corrective, and the rapidity with which it checks irregularities of the liver and bowels, and braces and invigorates the nervous system is a marvel, not only to the general public, but to professional men.

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET,

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

—ALSO—

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK and PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

BRICK & PORTABLE.

Agents for the Celebrated

Barstow Dome Furnace.

This Furnace has proved itself to be the most durable and economical heater in the market, of which over one hundred are now in use in this city. The increasing demand for these Furnaces proves them to be the best Furnace in the market.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

City Councils.

At a special meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Wednesday evening, the resignation of Assistant Marshall Geo. E. Barsantee was accepted.

At the regular meeting, Thursday evening, it was voted that the Mayor and Aldermen Mendum and Wilson be empowered to arrange with the officers of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad the payment for the stock subscribed by the city.

It was resolved that the "accounting officer" of the city be required to make up an account of the receipts and expenditures of the city for the year ending on the 31st day of December.

It was voted that George E. Barsantee be allowed to withdraw his resignation, and that he be reinstated until such time as the charges against him are sustained. A heated discussion followed the introduction of the resolution. The vote on its adoption was as follows:—yeas, Aldermen Annable, Giddings, Waldron and Wilson, 4; nays, Aldermen Hatch, Mendum, and Wendell, 3. The Mayor declared that Mr. Barsantee should not remain on the force if he had power to prevent it. Alderman Mendum coincided with the Mayor's views, and remarking that it was "all boys' play," moved an adjournment, which was carried.

Wendell Phillips,

The prince of American orators, and one whom so competent an authority as Henry Ward Beecher pronounces the leading speaker of the world, will on Wednesday evening next honor Portsmouth and grace our Lyceum platform with his historic presence. No matter what Mr. Phillips talks about, he always invests his theme with the interest of a romance, while his hearers

"——take no note of time
But from its loss."

The good cause for which he speaks, the unusually low price at which the tickets are sold, and above all, the unrivalled fame of the silver-tongued orator, will doubtless crowd the Temple.

The Pythian Club

Gave their first representation of the drama of "Damon & Pythias," Thursday evening, to an audience whose numbers, close attention and hearty applause must have gladdened the hearts of the amateurs. The piece ran smoothly and the stage manager is entitled to great credit for the prevention of vexatious delays. It was admirably rehearsed and the prompter's duty was light. The costumes were rich and were procured at a cost of $400. Where every one concerned did so well there is no need of criticism, even were we inclined.

"Damon & Pythias" is a "heavier" performance then Portsmouth amateurs are wont to produce, and many in the audience were fearful that its presentation might fail in some of its details. All were happily disappointed, however. The cast was as follows:—

Damon,	Oliver F. Gerrish
Phthias,	Orville D. Bryant
Dionysius	William O. Sides
Damocles,	William S. Norton
Procles,	William Kennedy
Philistius,	John A. Durgin
Lucullus,	Horace Waldron
First Senator,	George H. Tripp
Second "	George A. Perkins
Third "	Charles E. Sanborn
Fourth "	John K. Simpson
Servant to Pythias	J. Cooledge Davis

Calanthe, betrothed of Pythias, Miss A. J. Kennedy.
Hermion, wife of Damon, Miss A. J. Hanscom.
Arria, Calanthe's mother, Miss F. S. Hanscom.
Child of Damon, Master Clinton Sides

Mr. Gerrish's impersonation of "Damon" was especially fine, and Mr. Bryant's as the impulsive, warm-hearted "Pythias," was as natural as one could wish. "Dionysius" was well represented after the opening passages, in which his utterances were indistinct. In the later acts this was remedied and Capt. Sides received his share of merited applause. We can find nothing but words of praise for Miss Kennedy's "Calanthe" which showed much study. The character was artistially dressed and most satisfactorily rendered. Miss A. J. Hanscom's assumption of the role of "Hermion" was perfect and touching in its tenderness. Miss F. S. Hanscom had but litle to do and did that most effectively. Both ladies gave such glimpses of talent during the brief intervals in which they were before the audience that the spectators desire further opportunities for the display of their capabilities in the future. All present would like to see the club present other attractive dramas in the future, and there should be as many more who were absent who would be pleased to see a second representation of "Damon & Pythias." Harlow's orchestra played some exquisite selections of music during the evening.

P. & D. R. R.

About $100,000 has been subscribed by individuals for Portsmouth & Dover stock, which with the amounts subscribed by the cities of Dover and Portsmouth will make $625,000. Twenty per cent. of the subscription is due on the first Monday in January and a similar amount for each succeeding month until May. The estimated cost of the road was $599,642, but contracts have been made lower than the estimates. A large gang of men commenced work at Freeman's Point on Thursday.

The Congressional Candidacy.

The Republicans of this city held a consultation meeting on Friday evening at which there was a general interchange of opinions. It was Resolved, that it is the unanimous expression of this meeting that the Hon. JAMES W. EMERY be supported as member of Congress for this district at the primary meetings in this city for the choice of delegates to the Congressional convention.

Committees from each ward were appointed to select candidates for delegates who will pledge themselves to vote for Mr. Emery as their first and last choice. The committees consist of the following gentlemen. For ward One, Geo. W. Pendexter, Charles A. Shannon, Daniel J. Vaughan; Ward Two, William H. Sise, Frank W. Miller, Chas. G. Pickering; Ward Three, Wm. H. Rollins, Samuel Adams, John E. Ham.

Laconics.

Great Bay is frozen over and the smelters are enjoying the fun of catching the little shiners.

The reported case of small-pox at Kittery proves to be a false alarm. There is no case of small-pox in Portsmouth or Kittery.

The city building will be mastic-ated before the New Year.

A delegation from Dearborn Steam Fire Engine Co. visited Lynn last evening to attend a ball given by Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1 of that city. Among the episodes of the entertainment was the presentation of a Silver Fire Trumpet to Captain G. W. A. R. Smith, the foreman of S. B. Breed Hook & Ladder Co., of Lynn, by Mr. J Frank Shannon, foreman of Dearborn Co. of this city. It was procured by Mr. Frank W. Ham from the manufactory of Redfield, Rice & Co., New York. It is of superior workmanship and valued at upward of $75.

HOWARD BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.—At the annual meeting the following officers were chosen for the current year.

President, Ichabod Goodwin.
Secretary, Lewis W. Brewster.
Treasurer, John Stavers.
Directors, William Day, Benj. Cheever, Samuel S. Green, John W. Fernald, Benj. Carter, Joseph D. Pillow, Wm. Bodge, John H. Broughton, Lyman D. Spalding, Rev. L. L. Harmon, J. Chaplin Carr, Wm. D. Fernald.

The following are the Committees for dispensing charities:

For Dec.—Messrs. Goodwin, Day, and Harmon.
" Jan. 1873—Bodge, Green and Cheever.
" Feb. " Stavers, Carter, and Carr.
" Mch. " J. W. Fernald, Broughton and Spalding.
April to Dec.,—Pillow, Wm. D. Fernald, and Brewster.

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

—Dr. C. A. Norton of this city, will deliver the next lecture in the Temperance cause, at the Temple, next Sunday evening.

—Tuesday night, Dec'r 17th, and not Monday 16th as advertised, is by particular request allotted for the distribution of the paintings at Moses' Gallery.

—Dr. C. A. Norton, the homœopathic physician of this city, is soon to give up the practice of his profession, and study for the Universalist ministry, entering the college in New York for that purpose.

—The Unitarian Chapel was filled Tuesday evening by a select audience, to listen to the entertainment provided by the members of the M. I. Club—a union of young ladies who some months since formed themselves into a social society for mutual improvement and recreation in instrumental and vocal music, declamations, etc., rather than with any expectation of ever presenting even a single evening's amusement for the public. Years since, when the interest in music and the other accomplishments were far less general than at the present day, and technical appreciation was confined to the favored few, performers who came among us seldom received closer attention or more well-merited, generous, hearty applause than was accorded to this club of amateurs. The programme was excellent, and where all was so good, it seems invidious to speak of any one part; but we cannot forbear to mention the reading selections from the "Caudle Lectures," where the blending of "blunt, rugged ugliness" was so well expressed, suggesting to the uninitiated scenes in actual life, when family jars do sometimes surrender to a bit of sentiment as a matter of business. Bret Harte himself must have applauded at the accurate, easy, graceful way in which his "California Legend" was recited, for it was true to the letter in intonation and general expression, fully meriting the encore it received. So, too, the legend "King Robert of Sicily," was right royally done. The piano solo "The Dying Poet" by Gottschalk, played with soothing expression and charming finish, was the gem of the instrumental music presented so liberally and agreeably on the evening's programme. The vocal duet "The Hunter's Song" was "just grand," as the enthusiastic Yankee so often says, while the "Waiting" song a florid composition calculated to test the powers of a vocalist, captivated the audience as did its encore. Indeed, each performer in this miscellaneous programme fully merited the repeated applause bestowed. The young artist, Willie Nowell, made his violin speak much praise to his efforts. The Young People's Union, for whose benefit this entertainment was given, must have reaped a generous sum.

G. A. R.

The Fair of Storer Encampment will open on the 19th inst, and continue three days. The public is respectfully advised that no pains have been spared to make this series of entertainments equally attractive with those of former years. The bill will comprise Dramatic and Vocal performances, Military Tableau, etc. Valuable articles will be exposed for sale, and the usual attraction of such occasions together with interesting novelties will be presented for the entertainment and amusement of the patrons of the Fair. The services of the Ladies of Portsmouth are urgently desired in furnishing and attending the tables of Fancy articles. Programmes will be issued at an early day.

TRY, IT LADIES.—Some one having called for a savory economical supper for a hungry man, a lady sends this, in response, to the Tribune:

Take the remnant of a cold boiled leg of mutton, or of a roast of beef; shave it into thin slices; season, and add, if you like it an onion chopped fine, or a pinch of sweet herbs. Put this on a baking dish, and pour over the gravy, if you have any; if not, a little water, butter and flour. Then take hot boiled potatoes; mash fine; add a little milk and salt, or butter, to soften them into a smooth paste which lay over the meal. Then put the dish in the oven, and bake a nice brown. The man of the house, if he is a sensible person—as of course he is—will eat it with a relish, delightful to behold; and, if he isn't a bear, he will give his wife a kiss before he leaves the dining-room.

To the Hon. Judge of Probate for the County of Rockingham, in the State of New Hampshire.

RESPECTFULLY shows Edward P. Kimball, of Portsmouth, in the County of Rockingham that he is Guardian of Frank I. Shackley of said Portsmouth, a minor son of the late Augustus Shackley, by the appointment of the Judge of Probate for the said County of Rockingham; that his said Ward is seized of one half of a lot of land and buildings thereon, situated in said Portsmouth, bounded Northerly by the land of Mrs. Lois Hills and others Easterly by Islington Street, Southerly by Cabot Street, and Westerly by land of Lonaldas F. Rand the same being owned in common with another owner of the remaining half and all of which is subject to the dower and homestead thereon which have been assigned to the widow of said Augustus Shackley and that it is necessary for the support of his said Ward and will be conducive to his interest to have the premises sold; wherefore he prays that he may be licensed and authorized to sell the same at public auction, according to the statute in such case made and provided.

E. P. KIMBALL, Guardian.

State of New Hampshire, Rockingham, ss.

PROBATE Court at Portsmouth in said County, Nov. 5, A. D. 1872. Upon the foregoing Petition, it is Ordered, that the petition be had thereon at the Court of Probate to be holden at Portsmouth in said County, on the second Tuesday of January next; and that the Petitioner notify all persons concerned to appear at said Court, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, by causing a copy of this order to be published three weeks successively in the DAILY CHRONICLE, a newspaper printed in Portsmouth in said County, the last publication whereof to be at least one week prior to said Court.

By order of the Judge.

THOMAS LEAVITT, Register of Probate.

To the Supreme Judicial Court, to be holden at Exeter, within and for the County of Rockingham, on the 3d Tuesday of January, A. D., 1872.

ALMIRA S. CURTIS of Portsmouth in the County of Rockingham and State of New Hampshire respectfully libels and gives said Court to understand:

First: That she was married to Woodbury Curtis on the third day of May, 1858, at Portsmouth in said County and State by the Reverend Henry D. Moore, then the Pastor of the Congregational Society of said Portsmouth.

Second: That at the time of said marriage both she and her said husband resided in said Portsmouth, and that they both continued to reside in said Portsmouth together until about June, 1866, at which time the said Woodbury abandoned her. Since said month of June 1866, the said Woodbury has lived, as your libellant is informed, in Haverhill in the State of Massachusetts, until within a year past, but within the last year his place of residence has been to the libellant unknown; said your libellant says that she has lived in said Portsmouth ever since said month of June, 1866, and does now reside there.

Third: Your libellant also says that ever since her marriage she has been a true and affectionate wife to the said Woodbury, but that he, unmindful of his marriage vows and marital duties, on the eleventh day of June, 1866, at said Portsmouth, without sufficient cause, and without her consent, abandoned her, and has refused for three years together next preceding the filing of this libel, to cohabit with her, and does still so abandon and refuse to cohabit with her.

Fourth: And your libellant also says that the said Woodbury, in said Portsmouth, has willingly absented himself from her, for the three years together next preceding the filing of the libel, without making suitable provision for her support and maintenance, and does still so absent himself from her.

Fifth: And your libellant also says that the said Woodbury at said Portsmouth, on divers days and times prior to said eleventh day of June, A. D., 1866, but after their marriage, committed the crime of adultery with one Susan S. Edgerly; and that on said eleventh day of June, he left Portsmouth in the company of said Susan, and went to Portland, and from thence to Topsham in the State of Maine, and at each of said latter places in said month of June A. D. 1866, he committed adultery with said Susan, and that he immediately thereafter removed to Haverhill in the State of Massachusetts, and has lived in adulterous intercourse with the said Susan at said Haverhill from the date of his removal thereto until within the year past next preceding the filing of this libel, and that for the past year his place of residence as well as that of the said Susan has been to your libellant unknown. Wherefore your libellant prays that the marriage bond between her and the said Woodbury Curtis may be dissolved. ALMIRA S. CURTIS.

In the Supreme Judicial Court, Rockingham, ss.

THIS libel having been filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court this twentieth day of November, A. D. 1872; It is ordered that said ALMIRA S. CURTIS notify the said WOODBURY CURTIS to appear at the next Trial Term of said Court, to be held at Exeter on the third Tuesday of January next, then and there to show cause, if any he has, why the prayer thereof should not be granted, by causing a true and attested copy of said libel and this order thereon to be published once a week for three weeks successively in the Portsmouth Daily Chronicle, a newspaper printed at Portsmouth in our County of Rockingham, the last publication whereof to be at least thirty days before said term.

Attest, C. G. CONNER, Clerk.

A true copy of the original libel, and of the original order thereon.

Attest, C. G. CONNER, Clerk.

NOTICE.

To the Town of Derry in the County of Rockingham and State of New Hampshire and to all other parties interested:

YOU are notified that the County Commissioners for said County, to whom was referred the Petition of the Town of Derry for the consent of the Supreme Judicial Court, to the discontinuance of that part of the old highway in said town, leading from the dwelling house of SAMUEL WILSON to Windham Depot, laid out by the Court of Sessions for said County at the August term thereof, A. D., 1824, upon the petition of ALANSON TUCKER and others, which leads from the new road southerly across "Sinking Bridge" to a stake and stones at the southerly end of said new road, will attend to hearing said Petition at the office of G. C. BARTLETT in Derry in said County on the 26th day of December, A. D., 1872, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

"OLDEST"

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires less little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the unmoved FAVORITE. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately CATERED. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage, which is but there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LICORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Models, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"Regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful solicitors with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot secure the services of a more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the world of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the merits, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Inverted Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleyantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREPETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

The Chronicle.

Artists and Art, Theology and Biography.

Written on the island of Campo-Bello, Nov. 23.

In the city of Portsmouth resides an artist by the name of Moses, who has a very strong resemblance to the ancient patriarch of Red Sea fame,—and of course was named after him. Since I have sailed over the ground where Moses' rod divided the waters for the Children of Israel to pass through, I have taken much interest in the descendants of that patriarch of old, especially so as I so frequently hear the sweetest of music and song, from the fairest of daughters (on the mother's side) of that ancient and honorable family.

In the city of Pisa, in Italy, and near the celebrated Leaning Tower there, I once bought a whole gallery of oil paintings, among which were eight pictures representing Pharoah and his hosts during the time of the plagues in Egypt, and Moses and his Army marching through the Red Sea and around the borders of Arabia Petra into the wilderness of Sinai and thence through the land of Canaan. As I have drank water from the wells that still bear his name, and have traveled over parts of the country so famed in history, 'tis not surprising I should take an interest in one of the family with so much genius as our own artist. Since I bought the pictures I have frequently noticed the resemblance between our artist and the Moses in the paintings. Although 'tis said in Holy Writ that the Moses of old was a very meek man, his pictures show that he was not always so. On several occasions he is represented by the artist to be very wrathy,—and then the artist represents him calling the locusts to come in clouds that would obscure the sun,—on another occasion the frogs in millions to overrun the homes and lands of every one; the rivers, too, would run with blood; and all sorts of abominable things the artist made poor Moses do, to soften the heart of Pharoah, that he would let the Children of Israel go.

I don't now remember the name of that artist, (but it is on each picture, all of them now being in possession of an acquaintance of mine in New York,) but he was very renowned for his skill in his profession as an artist. In his time there was great rivalry among the ing Bible characters in the illustrative style. Of course each artist painted in accordance with his own imagination and the skill to execute that he possessed. Large premiums were awarded for the best pictures; and this artist had already gained the prize for groups of "Moses and his army," and "Pharaoh and his hosts," and also for his Madonnas,—which at that time was something wonderful,—when a larger reward was offered for the best portrait of his Satanic Majesty. This artist resolved to gain that also, although he had many competitors, and some of more noted fame,—but nothing daunted, he bought the largest sized canvas and went to work in earnest, applying himself diligently day and night until he completed his task to his entire satisfaction, and placed the picture in the church of Santa Maria, beside one of his best Madonnas, to study the contrast. Being perfectly satisfied with his work, he sent letters to his friends far and near to come and admire his picture. Painters who were contending for the prize, with many other admirers of the fine arts, came in accordance with his invitation,—among them a poet of renown, and a printer of note. The artist would not allow any criticism except in his own favor; but to his credit it was criticized and admired by all. The news soon spread all over the surrounding country, that a perfect portrait of his Satanic Majesty had suddenly appeared in the church of Santa Maria. People came in crowds to see it. The clergy of all denominations, of every grade and sect, came and admired the picture. One of the bishops asked the artist how he could get such an exact likeness; he told him that the Diablo himself had sat for him for a few moments, and he took him in his mind at a glance and finished the picture accordingly. Years afterwards, when no one doubted the reality of the picture, the poet and printer met again, and with the aid of the pen and printer's ink the Painter, Poet, Printer and Devil were advertised, poetized and immortalized, in the following stanzas:—

There was a painter in catholic days, who like Job eschewed all evil; on his Madonn as the curious would gaze with applause and amazement, but chiefly his praise was for painting the devil. Those were angels, compared with the devils he drew, who besieged poor St. Anthony's cell; such burning hot eyes, such a terrible hue, you might even smell brimstone, his breath was so blue,—he painted his devils so well. Now had the artist a picture begun,—it was over the Virgin's church door, (she stood on a dragon, embracing her Son,)—many devils already the artist had done, but this must out-do all before. The old dragon's imps, as they fled through the air, at seeing it would pause on the wing; for he had the likeness so just to a hair, they came as though the devil himself had been there, to pay their respects to their king. Every child on beholding it shivered with dread, and screamed as as they turned away quick; not an old woman saw it, but raising her head dropped a bead, made a cross on her wrinkles, and said "Lord help me from ugly Old Nick."

What the painter so earnestly thought of by day he sometimes would dream of by night; but once he was startled, as sleeping he lay.— 'twas no fancy, no dream, he could plainly survey,—the devil himself was in sight.—"You rascally dauber," old Beelzebub cries, "take heed how you wrong me again; your caricatures for myself I despise,—make me handsomer, now, is the multitude's eyes, or see if I threaten in vain." Now the painter was bold and religious beside, and on faith he had certain reliance, so earnestly he all his countenance eyed, then thanked him for sitting, with catholic pride, and sturdily bade him defiance. Betimes in the morning the painter arose,—he was ready as soon as 'twas light; every look, every line, every feature he knows,—'twas fresh to his eye, and to labor he goes, and he has the old wicked one quite. Happy man! he is sure the resemblance can't fail;— there's the tip of his nose is red hot; there's his grin and his fans, and skin covered with scale, and that, the identical curl of his tail,—not a mark or a claw is forgot.

He look,sand retouches again with delight; 'tis a portrait complete to his mind; he retouches again, and again feeds his sight,—looks around for applause, and beholds with affright the original standing behind! "Fool! Idiot!"—Beelzebub grinned as he spoke, and stamped on the scaffold in ire; the painter grew pale, for he knew 'twas no joke,—'twas a terrible height and the scaffolding broke,—but the devil could make it no higher. "Help! help me, oh! Mary," he cried in alarm, as the scaffold sank under his feet; from the canvas the Virgin extended her arm,—she caught the good painter and saved him from harm,—there were thousands who saw, in the street. Old Beelzebub fled when the wonder he spied, and cursed his own fruitless endeavor; the painter called after, his rage to deride, shook his palette and brush in triumph, and cried, "Now I'll paint you more ugly than ever!"

The poet's lays of the painter's praise
The Muses sang in ancient days;
But Our Artist's praise in all his ways,
The children sing in our days.

MORAL.

The artist's mind is well portrayed in the picture of the devil himself has made; and clearly shows (as plain as it can) that the devil was created in the mind of man.

P. S. In the mind of man the devil was made, and all his hideous forms portrayed by painters, poets, priests and parsons, who fill the earth with their own notions.

I trust the reader sees the absurdity of a Personal Devil. J. M. H.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1872.

Editorial Notes.

A Buffalo horse doctor has written to Tiffany & Co. of New York, wanting to know what "the freight on a large size solitaire diamond will be from Gotham to Buff?"

Mr. Joseph Jefferson, the comedian, will pass the winter in Louisiana.

The Florida election case has finally been decided. Hart, Republican, was elected Governor by a large majority. This decision insures the electoral vote of the State to Grant, and two republican members of Congress—Walls and Purman. The legislature, upon which devolves the election of a successor to Senator Osborn, is still in doubt.

The January number of Our Young Folks is ready for its readers, old and new. This is so good a magazine that with the new year it ought to have an enlarged subscription-list. For boys and girls from ten to fifteen years old, there is nothing better. It is not only entertaining and instructive, but in the quality of its matter considered as literature it has superior claims to favor.

The arrest of Senator Patterson at Columbia, S. C., on Tuesday, by order of Justice Kirk, has caused some attention in the Northern States, and some Republican journals, including the Hartford Courant, have expressed their approval of the step, as tending to the purification of the Senate. Late accounts show, however, that the affair partook of the nature of a conspiracy to unseat Patterson. One of the Assemblymen who signed the affidavit alleging that his election had been corruptly gained, has disappeared, a warrant for perjury being out against him; and Judge Kirk himself has been removed from office by the unanimous vote of the Legislature. So the "purification" must begin somewhere else.

The Hartford Times says that "the man or association who contests Horace Greeley's will, to get the pittance he left to his daughters, isn't worth much to society outside of a state prison." And the Springfield Republican hints that "the question which of Mr. Greeley's wills is to stand carries with it the question of the control of his Tribune shares. Under the first will, Mr. Sinclair could vote them; under the second, his daughter does. Not unlikely here is the chief motive in the dispute of the second will."

Somebody in Wolfeboro' saw a robin hunting for his living on the street, near the centre of the town, on the 6th.

A FREIGHT RAILROAD. — The San Francisco Chronicle says the great need of the nation is a broad-gauge, double-track, freight railroad from San Francisco to the Atlantic ocean below the snow belt, and farmed out to owners of private trains, with established rates of tolls; not conveying passengers, but built exclusively for carrying merchandise. Such a road would be of less cost than a ship canal. It would convey merchandise with greater safety, in less time, and would accommodate the whole interior of our continent from San Francisco to New York; and what is more desirable to us, would make our city of San Francisco one of the great commercial emporiums of the world—the mart of a vast trade.

PORTSMOUTH AND THE FRENCH SPOLIATION CLAIMS.—Now that Congress has assigned a day for the special consideration of this important bill—a bill more sacred and less disputable than that concerning the losses by the Alabama, which last will be paid in less than a year—it may interest our readers to know how Portsmouth stands on the list for indemnification of the seizure of our vessels by the cruisers of France during the French revolution, between 1793 and 1800, while we were at peace with that country; these vessels being confiscated in violation of our treaties and of international law. Although the total amount due to persons in this city is nearly $500,000 we find that no public action has been taken in the matter since 1846, when at a regular town meeting the following vote was unanimously passed:

Resolved, That it is the duty of the Government of the United States to pay the spoliations of the French upon the citizens of the United States prior to the year 1800, and the Senators and Representatives from this State to Congress, are requested to use their exertions to procure the passage of a law to that effect.

Since France conceded that these seizures were illegal, and freely admitted her liability to pay them, many of the claimants and their descendents residing in this city have died, many in poverty—while their beloved country has witheld from them money which has been repeatedly acknowledged by Congress to be justly due. To James H. Causten, Esq., of Washington, (who for the last forty-six years has persistently advocated these claims, and who now in [illegible] a steady hand writes to legislators giving the history of those claims and urging the passage of bills for the relief of the heirs of the sufferers,) we are indebted for the following list of sixty-one recorded and original Portsmouth claimants under this bill given in the order in which they run on the official records.

Elijah Hall.	Martin Parry.
John McClintock.	Daniel Cutter.
James Sheafe.	Daniel & Jacob Cutter.
James Shapley.	William Ham.
Thomas Manning.	James Kennard.
Edward Cutts.	John F. Sheafe.
Reuben Shapley.	Jacob S. Pickering.
John Lowe.	Samuel Hall.
Joseph Lowe.	George Janvrin.
Thomas Sheafe.	Samuel Moore.
William Sheafe.	Benjamin Prescott.
William Shaw.	Benjamin T Tredick.
Daniel Hunt[illegible]	Henry Tredick.
Benning Morrell.	William Seavy.
Thomas M. Shaw.	Samuel Sheefe.
Charles Cushing.	William Bled.
Edmund Q. Sheafe.	A. W. Bell.
Joseph Sheafe.	M. W. Pierce.
John H. Seaward.	Jacob Cutter.
Hampden Cutts.	Will Sheafe.
John Haven.	Alexander Ladd.
Jacob Sheafe.	Nathaniel A. Haven.
Thomas Laut.	Samuel Lord.
William Chase.	Geo M Marsh.
Stephen Chase.	Matthew S. Marsh.
A. Hallburton.	John H. Sheafe.
Henry Ladd.	John D. Sinea.
Eliphalet Ladd.	Robert Blunt.
Samuel Cutts.	Nathaniel Marsh.
Mark Sheafe.

And many others not yet recorded.

These claims have been sanctioned in times past by letters from Washington, Jefferson, John Adams and Pickering, and sustained as just by Chief Justice Marshal, and advocated by our chief jurists and statesmen, Clay, Clayton, Poinsell, Cass, Gallatin, Everett, Woodbury and Fessenden, and more recently by Crittenden, Cushing and Sumner.

Mr. Causten writes us in relation to the above, that the pending bill in Congress provides for a Board of Audit, and that Board will determine the amount due each claimant or his or her heir or heirs. The sum which Congress proposes to pay, bears a much less proportion to the wealth of the country than the original claims did at the commencement of the century, so vast has been the increase of property in the interim, and so great has been the loss of interest to the claimants. Of the New England cities Portsmouth is not alone in this important matter, for Newburyport and Portland have many claimants. It is computed that more than one third of these claims is held in Massachusetts in the maritime counties of Essex, Suffolk, Bristol, and Barnstable, and on the coasts of New Hampshire and Maine.

We are assured by Mr. Causten that if a search for proof or information should be desired by any old or new claimant, the party should send five dollars and the names of Vessels and Captains captured, and the matter will be thoroughly looked up.

The claims which originally stood at $12,000,000, now amount to $5,000,000. Many of them have of course passed into the hands of third parties, but the major portion is still held by the heirs of the first claimants. If paid, as there is now a good prospect, it will be without interest for the years they have run.—Journal.

Reform in New York.

The Boston Advertiser's correspondent says:

The young men who have made themselves prominent in the reform campaign are now organizing themselves into a vigilance committee to look after the welfare of the city, to see that the ring thieves are punished, to see that murderers are punished, to see that criminals are brought before the court and sentenced as they should be, and in fact to break up the reign of lawlessness in the city, and to make it clear that the way of the transgressor is hard. It is an ambitious work that they have undertaken or propose to undertake—but they are in earnest and determined and may accomplish much. Some such an organization is certainly needed in this city, for the officers of the law appear to be singularly incompetent, or powerless to make the government good, the streets of the city not many degrees safer than the territory infested by the brigands of Greece and of Spain, and the lives of the citizens at all safe.

Every day we have most starling reports of bold, audacious street thefts, robberies and assaults, and of crimes of great magnitude. The other day at four o'clock in the afternoon, before dusk, a young lady, walking along Seventy-first or second street, was sprung upon by a ruffian, thrown senseless and robbed of her jewelry, watch, and portemonnaie: several ladies have told of being robbed in Broadway or the popular avenues by boys; a young man looking at a target excursion passing by, upon Madison avenue, was recently knocked down by a party of young fellows from sixteen to twenty years of age, and robbed, and a short time afterwards he died from his injuries.

There are in the Tombs more than twenty murderers, some of whom have been there a long time awaiting trial and all of whom, unless things change, have exceedingly fair prospects of getting out in the street before very long, ready to rob and steal and murder again. Foster, the "car-hook" murderer is there; so is Stokes; and so are many whose crimes are as great. Crime of all sorts is increasing; murder is becoming alarmingly frequent, and so, you see, there is need of some reform, and a respectable, secretly working, great vigilance committee of the sort these young men are organizing, may be the means of bringing it about.

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

[illegible] AND [illegible]. Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

UNPRODUCTIVE FRAUDS.—Imitations and counterfeits of an established popular restorative, although mischievous in their direct effects, and indirectly beneficial in some respects. They teach the community to rate at its just value the preparation that has been similated and pirated. The reputation and sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for example, have been greatly enhanced by the attempts that have been made to supplant it. The dupes of imposture who from time to time have been induced by plausible falsehoods to some worthless succedaneum for the standard tonic of America have invariably returned to it in an enthusiastic frame of mind, ready to champion its merits to the uttermost. The warmest panegerists of its preventive and curative properties are those who have weighed the nostrums of envious adventurers in the balance and found them wanting. In a pecuniary point of view, all attempts to undermine the popularity of this medicine have proved advantageous to the proprietors, and except for the sake of protecting the public the game of exposure would not be worth the candle.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists.

A GLORIOUS RECORD.—Twelve years ago a few modest lines in a New York Journal invited public attention to a new Vegetable restorative, and solicited a trial of its merits as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, fever and ague, debility, nervous disorders, rheumatism and all complaints requiring invigorating and regulating treatment. In this quiet, unpretentious way, PLANTATION BITTERS was introduced to the world. It was a success from the beginning. All that was claimed for it as a tonic, a corrective and antidote to malarious fever, was found to be strictly true. Within five years the annual sales of this article amounted to over One Million of Bottles. A few years more and the demand had swelled to five millions of bottles and the annual consumption of the bitters has now reached the almost incredible aggregate of SIX MILLIONS OF BOTTLES, and for every bottle sold a copy of the ILLUSTRATED MEDICAL ANNUAL, published by the proprietors, at a cost of $150,000, is given away.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE Cut their wise teeth, use the SOZODONT, and all who do, are willing to declare to all who don't use it, that it is the most perfect and delightful thing for the teeth they ever dipped a brush into.

The Fair of Storer Encampment will open on the 19th inst, and continue three days. The public is respectfully advised that no pains have been spared to make this series of entertainments equally attractive with those of former years. The bill will comprise Dramatic and Vocal performances, Military Tableau, &c. Valuable articles will be exposed for sale, and the usual attraction of such occasions together with interesting novelties will be presented for the entertainment and amusement of the patrons of the Fair. The services of the Ladies of Portsmouth are urgently desired in furnishing and attending the tables of Fancy articles. Programmes will be issued at an early day. Per Order.

To-Night.

Wendell Phillips' lecture this evening will doubtless draw a large audience. He discourses upon the subject "Some Inferences from Froude." The low price of tickets, only 25 cents each, places it in the power of all who desire to listen to America's most eloquent orator and contribute to the fund of the Young People's Club.

Disastrous.

Capt. Murchison, British brig L. J. Westaway, who arrived here on Saturday, reports that on the morning of the 9th, 25 miles off Cape Ann, an unknown schooner ran down on the West away, capsized under her stern and lost her spars and decks. Four men were seen on the wreck, but owing to the gale no assistance could be rendered.

Municipal Reform.

PORTSMOUTH, Dec. 13.

Messrs. Editors:—I commend your liberality in publishing the article on Municipal Reform in your issue of Dec. 9, signed "Musicbytheband." The writer is to me unknown—but I commend him also for his timely strictures. We have not yet, I hope, arrived at the point when it will be impolitic or dangerous to speak out. Comment on governmental errors is peculiarly and properly an American privilege. Besides, like him, I wish well, not ill, to "the powers that be," and believe in benefitting them as well as the public, when I publicly acknowledge myself one of the many citizens, who, he says, "now exist in a chronic state of gentle dissatisfaction in consequence of the way in which the old thing works."

It seems to me a misnomer to call the city government of Portsmouth an old thing, it being rather, comparatively, a new experiment; yet I agree with him that it if cannot be made to work better than it has done latterly, it were better to abolish, not the Common Council alone, but the present city form altogether, and return to the inexpensive, responsible, good old form of Town administration. When your late correspondent says he supposes the bills or claims against the city were always paid, and adds "for the city's credit stands high to-day," he must mean pecuniarily; morally it is considered as standing low, for an individual may have a soul, but as to a Corporation, this is so doubtful that a private note I find is preferable to one against the city. Moreover, its bills or claims were not always paid; some of them have been suffered to stand unpaid for many years, having been shoved forward from Board to Board and year to year as if to dodge final payment by resort to the statute of limitations. What would be thought of an individual debtor, who should so disrespectfully, unjustly and indecently treat his creditors? Yet the Aldermanic branch, as your correspondent asserts, can shuffle off its responsibility by sharing it with its connate branches and feel mighty easy. One Alderman, I understand, was huffed for his judicious opinion that all debts or demands should be first decided somehow before launching out into new expenses, a proceeding that bodes no good. This game cannot be played much longer. The people here and everywhere around us are waking up to require good government, and will haveit.

OBSERVER.

Laconics.

The Concord Patriot says Alderman Edward Tuck of Lowell is a native of Portsmouth.

We have received from S. R. Leland & Co., No. 105 1-2 Main St., Worcester, Mass., a beautiful little Christmas ballad entitled "Hang up the Baby's Stockings."

An up-country paper calls Albert R. Hatch one of the representative men of New Hampshire!

North Hampton has a course of lyceum lectures under the successful management of Rev. Mr. Haines. Rev. Mr. De-Normandie of this city lectured before a large audience in the vestry of the Congregational Church on Friday evening. On Tuesday evening Mr. J. P. Bartlett will give readings at the same place.

Mr. Edward C. Moody of York, Me., has been appointed Chief Accountant at the Navy Yard and will assume the duties immediately.

The two United States war vessels, the Guerriere and the Albany, were sold by auction on Thursday, at the Brooklyn navy yard. The first brought $54,000, and the second $48,000. The Guerriere was launched here in 1866. She carried the remains of Admiral Farragut from Portsmouth to New York, and during the voyage ran aground on Nantucket Shoals and was badly damaged. She has cost the government in repairs alone, $40,000. Daniel Butler was her purchaser. The Albany was withdrawn from service last winter and pronounced unseaworthy, having been injured in a heavy gale off San Domingo. Her purchasers were Daniel W. Richards & Co.

The Richings-Bernard Opera Company will appear in "Il Trovatore" and a miscellaneous concert in this city, Christmas eve. See advertisement.

A Brilliant Wedding.

Miss Flora B. Main, formerly of this city, only daughter of Charles Main, Esq., was married to Charles F. MacDermot, Esq., in San Francisco, on the 4th inst. The Chronicle of that city says the event had been long looked forward to in social circles and was one of unusual brilliancy. The Grand Hotel, where the wedding took place, was illuminated but all went off quietly and with as little parade as possible. Mr. MacDermot is a highly respected citizen and capitalist, 36 years of age, "tall, handsome and engaging in manners." Two marriage ceremonies were performed, one by Bishop Allemany and the second by Rev. Horatio Stebbins. There were four bridesmaids and four groomsmen, among whom were Miss Abbie Main Winchester, daughter of E. H. Winchester, Esq., the business partner of the bride's father, and Mr. Charles W. Main, a brother of the bride. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. MacDermot presented his lovely bride with the title deeds to property in San Francisco and Oakland to the value of $100,000. The groom also presented her with a $5000 solitaire diamond ring, a $5000 diamond cross and a $1000 set of pearl bracelets. Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Winchester presented among other things a magnificent set of silver, of seven massive pieces, with salver. The bride also received a princely gift from her father.

The toilet of the bride was rich and elegant. The skirt was white satin, elaborately embroidered with raised flowers, and vines intertwined. Over this was a heavy white satin court train, looped up to form a large panier. The edge of the train had a narrow plaited flounce around it. Dress, decollette; the edge of the waist trimmed with orange blossoms; no ornaments except an etruscan necklace, pendant to which was a heavy diamond cross. From her belt hung a beautiful pearl fan, and over the whole hung the customary bridal veil. The bridesmaids were all dressed alike in white tarletan; the front of the skirts were small puffs, over which were four pleated strips down the front. The back of the skirts had fourteen pleated flounces. Each of the bridesmaid's dresses were trimmed with ribbon of a different color. The ceremonies took place at 8 o'clock in the evening, after which followed a reception and dancing. The happy couple remain until January at the Grand Hotel, and will then sail for Europe.

Morning Chronicle.

ROMPING GIRLS.—Most women have a dread of these. Mothers would rather their little daughters were called anything but romps. They say to them "be very quiet now, my dears—don't run or jump; try and be little ladies." As if it could take time to walk, or step over what came in its way; as if it could fold its little hands in its lap, when its little heart is so brimful of tickle. It is absurd and wrong in mothers to talk so; absurd and wrong because it is unnatural. Children, girls as well as boys, need exercise; indeed, they must have it, to be kept in a healthy condition. They need it to expand their chests, strengthen their muscles, tone their nerves, and develop themselves generally.

And this exercise must be out of doors too. It is not enough to have calisthenics in the nursery or parlor. They need to be out in the sunshine, out in the wind, out on the grass, out in the woods, out of doors somewhere, if it be no bigger place than the common or park. They need a romp every day of their lives. Suppose they do tan their pretty faces. Better be as brown as a berry, and have pulses quick and strong, than white as a lily, and complain of cold feet and headache.

Suppose they do tear their clothes—tear them "every which way;" suppose they do wear out shoes, a pair a month, even—it don't try a mother's patience and strength half so much to patch and mend as it does to watch night after night a querulous sick child, and it don't drain a father's pocketbook half as quick to buy shoes as it does to pay a doctor's bill. The odds are all on the side of the romp.

Indeed, we don't believe there is a prettier picture in all the wide world than that of a little girl balancing herself on a rail of a zigzag fence, her bonnet on one arm and a basket on the other, her curls streaming out in the wind or rippling over her flushed cheeks, her apron half torn from her waist, and dangling to her feet, her fingers stained with the berries she has picked, and her lips with those she has eaten.

Mother, mother, don't scold that little creature when she comes in and puts her basket on the table and looks ruefully at the rent in the gingham apron, and the little bare toes sticking out of the last pair of shoes. Wash off her hot face and soiled hands, and give her a bowl of cool milk and light bread, and when she has eaten her fill and got rested, make her sit down beside you and tell you about what she has seen off in those meadows and woods. Her heart will be full of beautiful things—the sound of the wind, the talk of the leaves, the music of the wild birds and the laugh of wild flowers, the rippling of streams and the color of pebbles, the shade of the clouds and the hue of the sunbeams—all those will have woven their spell over her innocent thought, and made her a poet in feeling if not in expression.

No, mothers, don't nurse up your little girls like house plants. The daughters of this generation are to be the mothers of the next, and if you would have them healthy in body and genial in temper, free from nervous affections, fidgets and blues; if you would fit them for life, its cares and its trials, let them have a good romp every day while they are growing. It is nature's own specific, and if taken in season, warranted to cure all the ills of the girl and the woman.

NEW TAX BILL.—For kissing a pretty girl one dollar.

For kissing a homely one, two dollars. The tax is levied in order to break up the custom altogether, it being regarded as a piece of inexcusable absurdity.

For every flirtation, ten cents.

For every young man who has more than one girl, five dollars.

Courting in the kitchen, twenty-five cents.

Courting in the parlor, five dollars.

Courting in romantic places, five dollars and fifty cents thereafter.

For a girl giving the young man the mitten, three dollars.

For every young man giving his girl the mitten, five dollars and costs of suit.

Seeing a young lady home from church, twenty cents.

Failing to see her home, five dollars and costs.

For ladies who paint, fifty cents. Proceeds to be devoted to the relief of disconsolate husbands who have been deceived by outside appearances.

Wearing a low-necked dress, one dollar. Proceeds to be devoted to the relief of old bachelors whose early welfare has been put in jeopardy by these fashions.

Wearing hoops over eight feet in diameter, eight cents per hoop.

Bachelors over thirty years old, ten dollars and banished to Utah.

Each boy baby, fifty cents.

Each girl baby, ten cents.

Twins, one hundred dollars premium, to be paid out of the fund accruing from the tax on bachelors.

Heads of families of more than thirteen children, fined a hundred dollars and sent to jail.

—Windsor, Mich., has an old negro known as "Uncle Pop," who during the last three or four years has had in his possession two or three thousand dollars as "banker" to men of his color who wanted to save their earnings. The old man is not able to read or write but when he receives or pays out he makes certain marks on a board, and never gets tangled up. He is a bank which never fails, and his office hours extend all through the twenty-four.

—A little girl in Philadelphia, who lost both arms by a railroad accident, spends her time in running a sewing-machine. She manages her work with her teeth.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As its stitch in time saves nine, so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fatal scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which stage no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is called "BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "travelling in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a cure for nervous debility by trying himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely sure cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

ASSUAGING SORROW.

J. Alfred Brimmer, Esq., editor and proprietor of the Morning Glory, having observed the disposition of persons who have been bereaved of their relatives to give expression to their feelings in a poetical form, reflected that it might perhaps be a good thing to introduce to his paper a department of obituary poetry. He considered whether if, when an individual inserted fifty cents' worth of death notice, the establishment should contribute gratuitously half a dollar's worth of mortality stanzas, his paper would not at once become the most popular vehicle for the conveyance of that peculiar form of melancholy intelligence to the public. And Mr. Brimmer rightly estimated that, as most newspaper readers seem to take a deeper interest in such sepulchral news than in information of any other kind, the journal containing the largest supply would have the greatest number of subscribers.

So Mr. Brimmer determined that he would, as an experiment at any rate, engage an obituary poet for a short time, with the purpose to give him permanent employment if the plan seemed to take with the public. Accordingly he sent for Mr. Bemington Ott, a constructor of verses, who had frequently contributed to the columns of the Morning Glory poems of what would have been considered by a fastidious student of English literature an appalling and revolutionary character.

Mr. Brimmer soon effected an arrangement with the bard, by which it was agreed that Mr. Ott should take a position in the office for a short time, and whenever a death notice arrived he should immediately endeavor to grind out some verses expressive of the situation.

"You understand, Mr. Ott," explained Brimmer, "that when the death of an individual is announced, I want you, as it were, to cheer the afflicted family with the resources of your noble art. I wish you to throw yourself, you may say, into the situation, and to give them a verse or two about the corpse which will seem to be the expression of the emotion of the hearts of the living."

"To lighten the gloom, in a certain sense, I suppose?" said Mr. Ott.

"Precisely! Lighten the gloom. Do not mourn over the departed; but rather take a joyous view of whatever may befall after all, Mr. Ott, is as it were, but the entrance to a better life. Therefore, I would advise you to touch the heart-strings of the afflicted with a tender hand, and endeavor, for instance, to divert their minds from contemplation of the horrors of the tomb.

"Refrain from despondency, I suppose, and lift their thoughts to—"

"Just so; and at the same time combine elevating sentiment with such practical information as you can pick up from the advertisement. Throw the glamour of poesy, for instance, over the commonplace details of the everyday life of the deceased. People are fond of minute description. Some facts useful for this purpose may be obtained from the man who brings the notice to the office; others you may supply readily from your imagination."

"I'll throw off stanzas," said Mr. Ott, "in such a way that people will want their friends to die for the sake of the poetry."

"But above all," continued the editor, "take a bright view of the matter always. Make the sunshine of smiles burst through the tempest of tears; and if we don't make the Morning Glory hum around among the mourners of this town, my name is not Brimmer."

He was right; it did hum.

The next day Remington Ott went on duty, and Brimmer ran down to the seashore for a breath of fresh air. All through the day death-notices came pouring in, and, when one would reach Ott, he would seize it and study it up to ascertain particulars; then he would rush up stairs, lock himself in his room, take down his rhyming dictionary, run his fingers through his hair, and back away an hour at a bit of paper until he considered that he had that poetry in a shape which would make the stricken family feel proud of the corpse. When his day's work was done, Ott went home with a conviction that the Morning Glory had finally robbed death of its terrors, and made life comparatively valueless.

In the morning Mr. Ott proceeded calmly to the office for the purpose of embalming in sympathetic verses the memories of other departed ones. As he came near the establishment he observed a crowd of five or six thousand people in front of it, struggling to get into the door. Climbing a tree, he overlooked the crowd, and could see within the office the clerks selling papers as fast as they could handle them, while the mob pushed and jammed and yelled in frantic efforts to obtain copies,—the presses in the cellar meanwhile clanging away like mad. Upon the curbstone in front of him there was a line stretching down the street for four squares, each man being engaged in reading the Morning Glory with an earnestness that Mr. Ott had never before seen displayed by the patrons of that sheet. The bard concluded that his poetry had touched a sympathetic chord in the popular heart, or that an appalling disaster had occurred in some quarter of the globe.

He went around to the back of the office, and ascended to the editorial rooms. As he approached the sanctum loud voices were heard within, and Mr. Ott determined to ascertain the cause before entering. He obtained a chair, and, placing it at the side door, mounted it and peeped over the door through the transom. There sat J. Alfred Brimmer, holding the Morning Glory in both hands, while the fringe which grew in a semicircle around the edge of his bald head stood straight out, until he resembled a gigantic gun-swab. Two or three persons stood in front of him, in threatening attitudes, and Ott heard one of them say:

"My name is McGlue, sir—William McGlue! I am a brother of the late Alexander McGlue. I picked up your paper this morning and perceived an outrageous insult to my deceased relative, and I have come around, sir, to demand WHAT DO YOU MEAN by the following infamous language?"

'The death-angel smote Alexander McGlue,
And gave him a pretracted repose;
He wore a checked shirt and a Number Nine shoe,
And he had a pink wart on his nose.
No doubt he is happier, dwelling in space,
Over there on the ever-green shore;
His friends are informed that his funeral takes place,
Precisely at a quarter past four.'

This is simply diabolical! My late brother had no wart upon his nose, sir.

He had upon his nose neither a pink wart, nor a green wart, nor a cream-colored wart, nor a wart of any other color. It is a slander. It is a gratuitous insult to my family, and I distinctly want you to say what you mean by such conduct?"

"Really, sir," said Brimmer, "It is a mistake. This is the horrible work of an incendiary miscreant, whom I trusted as a brother. He shall be punished by my own hand for this outrage. A pink wart! Awful, sir—awful! The miserable scoundrel shall suffer for this—he shall, indeed!"

"How could I know," murmured Ott, out there by himself, "that the corpse hadn't a pink wart? I used to know a man named McGlue, and he had one, and I thought all the McGlues had. This comes of irregularities in families."

And who, said another man, addressing the editor, "authorized you to print this hideous stuff about my deceased son? Do you mean to say that it was not with your authority that your low-lived scoundrel of a foreman printed with my advertisement the following scandalous burlesque? Listen to this:

'Willie had a purple monkey climbing on a yellow stick,
And when he sucked the paint all off, it made him deathly sick:
And in his latest hours he clasped that monkey in his hand,
And bid good-bye to earth and went into a better land.

Oh! No more he'll shoot his sister with his little wooden gun;
And no more he'll twist the pussy's tail, and make her yowl for fun,
The pussy's tail now stands out straight; the gun is laid aside;
The monkey doesn't jump around since little Willie died.'

The utterly atrocious character of this balderdash will appear when I say that William was twenty years old; that he never had a purple monkey on a stick; that he never sucked such a thing; that he never fooled with cats, and that he died of liver complaint."

"Infamous!—most infamous!" groaned the editor, as he cast his eyes over the lines. "And the wretch who did this still lives! It is too much!"

"And yet," whispered Ott to himself, "he told me to lighten the gloom and to cheer the afflicted family with the resources of my art; and I certainly thought the idea about the monkey would have that effect, somehow. It is ungrateful."

Just then there was a knock at the door, and a woman entered, crying.

"Are you the editor?" she inquired of Brimmer.

Brimmer said he was.

"W-w-well," she said, in a voice broken by sobs, "wh-what d'you mean by publishing this kind of poetry about m-my Johany? M-my name is Sm-Smith, and wh-when I looked this m-morning for the notice of Johnny's d-death in y-your paper, I saw this awful, wicked, wicked v-verse:

'Four doctors tackled Johnny Smith—
They blistered and they bled him;
With squills and anti-bilious pills
And ipecac they fed him.
They stirred him up with calomel,
And tried to move his liver;
But all in vain—his little soul
Was wafted o'er the River.'

It's false! false! that's what it is. Johnny only had one doctor. And they didn't try to m-m-move his liver, and they didn't bl-bleed him and bl-blister him. It's a wicked falsehood, and you're a hard-hearted brute f-f-for printing it!"

"Madam, I shall go crazy if you continue," exclaimed Brimmer. "This is not my work. It is the work of a serpent whom I warmed in my bosom, and whom I will slay with my own hand as soon as he comes in. Madam, the miserable outcast shall die!"

"Strange—strange!" mused Ott, "and this man told me to combine elevating sentiment with practical information. If the information concerning the squills and ipecac is not practical, I have misunderstood the use of that word. And if young Smith didn't have four doctors it was an outrage. He ought to have had them, and they ought to have excited his liver. Thus it is," thought Ott, "that human life is sacrificed to carelessness."

At this juncture the sheriff entered, his brow clothed with thunder. He had a copy of the Morning Glory in his hand. He approached the editor, and, pointing to a death notice, said:

"Read that horrible mockery of my woe, and tell me the name of the writer, so that I can chastise him."

The editor read as follows:

'We have lost our little Hannah in a very painful manner,
And we often ask, 'How can her harsh sufferings be borne?'
When her death was first reported her aunt got up and snorted
With the grief that she supported, for it made her feel forlorn.
She was such a little scraph, that her father, who is sheriff,
Really doesn't seem to care if he never smiles in life again.
She has gone, we hope, to Heaven, at the early age of seven,
(Funeral starts off at eleven), where she'll never more have pain."

"As a consequence of this infamy I withdraw all the county advertising from your paper. A man who could trifle in this manner with the feelings of a parent is a savage and a scoundrel!"

As the sheriff went out, Brimmer placed his head upon the table and groaned.

"Really," Mr. Ott reflected, "that person must be deranged. I tried, in his case, to put myself in his place, and to write as if I was one of the family, according to instructions. The verses are beautiful. That allusion to the grief of her aunt, particularly, seemed to me to be very happy. It expresses violent emotion with a felicitous combination of sweetness and force. These people have no soul—no appreciation of the beautiful in art."

While the poet mused, hurried steps were heard upon the stairs, and in a moment a middle-aged man dashed in abruptly, and, seizing Brimmer's scattered hair, bumped his prostrate head against the table three or four times with considerable force. Having expended the violence of his emotion in this manner, he held the editor's head down with one hand, shaking it occasionally by way of emphasis, and with the other hand seized the paper and said:

"You disgraceful old reprobate! You unsympathetic and disgusting vampire! You hoary-headed old ghoul! What d'you mean by putting such stuff as this in your vile sheet about my deceased son? What d'you mean by printing such awful doggerel as this, you depraved and dissolute ink-slinger—you imbecile old quill-driver you:

'Oh! bury Bartholomew out in the woods,
In a beautiful hole in the ground,
Where the bumble-bees buzz and the wood-peckers sing,
And the straddle-bugs tumble around:
So that in winter when the snow and the sleet
Have made his cold bed,
His brother Artemas can go out with Jane
And visit the place with his sled.'

"I'll teach you to talk about straddle-bugs! I'll instruct you about slush! I'll enlighten your insane old intellect on the subject of singing woodpeckers! What do you know about Jane and Artemas, you wretched buccaneer, you despicable butcher of the English language! Go out with a sled! I'll carry you out in a hearse before I'm done with you, you deplorable lunatic!"

At the end of every phrase the visitor gave the editor's head a fresh knock against the table. When the exercise was ended, Mr. Brimmer explained and apologized in the humblest manner, promising at the same time to give his assailant a chance to pummel Ott.

"The treachery of the man," murmured the poet, "is dreadful. Didn't he desire me to throw a glamour of poetry over common-place details? But for that I should never have thought of alluding to wood-peckers, and bugs, and other children of nature. The man objects to the remarks about the sled. Can't the idiot know that it was necessary to have a rhyme for 'bed?' Can he suppose that I could write poetry without rhymes? The man is a lunatic! He ought not to be at large!"

Hardly had the indignant and energetic parent of Bartholomew departed when a man with red hair and a ferocious glare in his eyes entered, carrying a club and accompanied by a savage-looking dog.

"I want to see the editor," he shouted.

A ghastly pallor o'erspread Brimmer's face, and he said:

"The editor is not in."

"Well, when will he be in?"

"Not for a week—a month—a year—never! He will never come in any more!" screamed Brimmer. "He has gone to South America, with the intention of remaining there during the balance of his life. He has departed—he has fled. If you want to see him you had better follow him to the equator. He will be glad to see you. I would advise you, as a friend, to take the next boat, and to start at once."

"That is unfortunate," said the man with the golden locks; "I called for the purpose of battering him up a lot with this club."

"He will be sorry," said Brimmer, sarcastically. "He will regret missing you. I will write to him, and mention that you dropped in."

"My name is McFadden," said the man. "I came to break the head of the man who wrote that obituary poetry about my wife. If you don't tell me who perpetrated the following, I'll break yours for you! Where's the man who wrote this? Pay attention:

'Mrs. McFadden has gone from this life!
She has left all its sorrows and cares;
She caught the rheumatism in both of her legs
While scrubbing the cellar and stairs.
They put mustard plaster upon her in vain,
They bathed her with whisky and rum;
But Thursday her spirit departed, and left
Her body entirely numb.'

"The slave who held the late Mrs. McFadden up to the scorn of an unsympathetic world in that shocking manner," said the editor, "is named Remington Ott. He boards in Blank Street, fourth door from the corner. I would advise you to call on him and avenge Mrs. McFadden's wrongs with a judicious intermixture of club and dog bites."

"And this," said the poet outside the door, "is the man who told me to divert McFadden's mind from contemplation of the horrors of the tomb. It was this monster who counselled me to make the sunshine of McFadden's smiles burst through the tempest of McFadden's tears! If that sore-headed monster couldn't smile over that allusion to whiskey and rum; if those remarks about the rheumatism in her legs could not divert his mind from the horrors of the tomb, was it my fault! McFadden grovels! He knows no more about poetry than a speckled mule knows about the Shorter Catechism."

The poet determined to leave before any further criticisms were made upon his performances. He jumped down from his chair and crept softly toward the back staircase. Arriving at the landing, he suddenly encountered Brimmer, who was moving off in the same direction. The editor had hardly time enough to utter a profane ejaculation and to lift his hand to strike the poet, when an old lady in a poke-bonnet and silver spectacles suddenly emerged from the stairway and pinned the editor to the wall with the ferule of her umbrella. After grinding her teeth at him for a moment, she floored him with her umbrella, and seating herself upon his prostrate form, she extracted a copy of The Morning Glory from her bag, and pointing to a certain stanza in the obituary column, asked Ott to read it aloud. He did so. It ran in this fashion:

"Little Alexander's dead;
Jam him in a coffin;
Don't have as good a chance
For a fun'ral often.
Rush his body right around
To the cemetery;
Drop him in the sepulchre
With his Uncle Jerry."

At the end of every line the indignant conqueror punched the fallen Brimmer's ribs with her umbrella, and exclaimed:

"O you willin! D'you hear that, you wretch? What d'you mean by writin' of my grandson is that way? Take that, you sarpint! O, you—you willinous wiper you, tryin' to break a lone widder's heart with such scand'lus lies as them! There, you willin! I kemmere to hammer you well with this here umbereller, you wicked willin, you owdacious wiper you! Take that, and that, you wile, indecent, disgustin' wagabone! When you know well enough that Aleck never had no Uncle Jerry, and never had no uncle in no supulchre, nuther! Take that, and that, you!"

While she pounded the editor, the poet groped his way down stairs six steps at the time and emerged from the front door with remarkable suddenness. His journalistic career ended upon that day. When Brimmer's employees dragged away Alexander's grand-parent, and carried her struggling and screaming down to the street, the editor sent for a carriage and was taken home to bed, from whence he arose a week later with an earnest determination never to permit another line of obituary poetry to enter the columns of the Morning Glory.—Max Adeler.

The News.

A boiler in a saw-mill on the Big Black River, Wayne county, Missouri, exploded, Friday last, killing four men and wounding three others.

There were fifty-one deaths from small-pox in Boston last week.

A remarkable case of car robbery came to light at Bangor, Saturday afternoon. The circumstances were these: J. Wallace of Halifax went through that city on his way to Boston, on Friday morning's night train from St. John. He turned into his berth in the Pullman car with his trousers on, in which was a pocket-book containing $40 in money, two diamond studs valued at $100 and drafts on Boston and New York banks to the amount of $25,000. On arriving at Bangor he discovered that he had been robbed, and reported the fact at the railway superintendent's office. While making his complaint, the head section man of the Bangor section brought in the missing pocket-book, with all the drafts therein, but the money and studs gone. The pocket-book was found a few feet from the track, about three miles from the city. It is supposed that his pocket was picked while he was asleep or that the wallet fell into the passage.

Holyoke, Mass., voted to become a city at its town meeting on Friday, provided it has the number of inhabitants required, the vote standing 150 to 64. The treasurer was instructed to borrow $500 to meet the expenses of a census.

Heavy rains in France have caused destructive inundations. The cities of Nantes and Lille are partially flooded, and great damage is inflicted on bridges, factories and crops.

Toledo, Ohio, was visited Sunday morning by a disastrous fire, two business blocks and their contents being destroyed. One fireman was killed and several others were wounded. A similar calamity befell the town of Chesterville, S. C., at about the same time, half the business portion of that place being laid waste.

American securities are very popular and buoyant in the London market just now.

Senator Frank Blair's illness is much more serious than has been represented, and there is little if any hope of his recovery. It is doubtful, indeed, if he ever leaves his room again, his present condition being that of helpless paralysis.

Reports continue of marine disasters, attended by losses of life, caused by late gales. The steamer Charente, of the regular line between Hull and Dunkirk, was lost while on the way to the latter port, and fourteen persons were drowned. Ship Radnagore, from Quebec for Highbridge, became unmanageable, and was abandoned. Seven persons were washed overboard and perished.

The first passenger car over the Boston and Maine extension reached Portland on Saturday.

Rev. N. W. T. Root, rector of St. Paul's church, Portland, died at the small-pox hospital on Saturday afternoon of confluent small-pox. He was about 42 years old, a native of New Haven, Conn., a graduate of Yale College and of the Berkley Divinity School. He was chaplain of a Rhode Island regiment during the war. Six months ago he was appointed to a professorship in Bowdoin College.

Five men were buried in a deep ditch at St. Louis, Saturday, by the caving in of the sides, and only one of them was extricated alive.

Four murders in New York on Saturday.

The remains of the aged mother of Mrs. Martha Hutchinson were taken from the ruins of the Summer street fire at Boston on Saturday forenoon.

The public schools in Bangor, Me., thirty in number, are closed on account of small-pox.

The United States gunboat Wasp, Commander Quackenbush, was at Montevideo October 31, and was to leave in a few days for a short trip to Rio Grande, Brazil. The paymaster's clerk of the Wasp, named Horace N. Peabody, had absconded with £2000 sterling of government funds, stolen from the iron safe in the paymaster's department. Detectives were immediately started in pursuit, and there were hopes of catching him as he had been seen breakfasting the day following in Los Piedras, twelve miles distant from Montevideo.

Captains Stevens, Parker, Balch and Guest have passed examination and will be promoted to commodores in the navy.

After a long and of course violent debate in the French Assembly, Saturday, on the question of dissolution, the petitions were rejected by a vote of 409 to 201, and the radicals headed by Gambetta thus utterly defeated.

Captain Phinney, of the American barque Corea, was murdered November 10 by one of his sailors while on shore at Mollendo.

It is officially announced that the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York has abandoned for the present its plan of reduced premiums, which caused such a commotion in insurance circles.

An important amendment to the Senate sloops-of-war bill is that which authorizes the Secretary of the Navy to contract with private parties for the construction of vessels in public yards, the government furnishing material, facilities and substantially all that is necessary except labor. One of the incidental objects which the author of the amendment, Senator Morrill of Maine, expects to gain if it passes, is an authoritative test of the practical value of the eight-hour law and its operation, both on the workmen and toward the government, since the eight and ten hour system will thus be placed in fair and close competition.

RESCUED.— Schooner Nelson Harvey rescued the crew of Schooner Vintage, Ellsworth, on the 13th, The Vintage was abandoned.

Schooner Sarah Louisa, from Bangor for Ipswich, was taken in tow on Sunday off Cape Cod and towed into Provincetown harbor.

Schooner Squire of Dennis, from Chesapeake, was spoken on the 11th, and is supposed to have gone down with all on board.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal fields at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

State News.

Mrs. D. S. Clifford, of Rumney, has a hen four years old which often lays an egg 8 inches in circumference and 6 in diameter.

The dwelling house upon the farm of Mr. Dennis Grady, about two miles north of Dover, was destroyed by fire on Thursday evening, by an incendiary, as is supposed.

Some days ago the small town of New Boston, near Manchester, was visited by a man who gave his name as William Johnson, and professed to belong to a fishing village in New Brunswick. He purchased a valuable stallion in that neighborhood, paying $1000 for the same. Of this money $250 was in bills and the balance in a note. His hotel bill of $4 he paid with a $50 bill, receiving back the change. Before leaving he managed to run up a little bill at the bar, and tendered in payment another bill of the same denomination, which the barkeeper refused, knowing that Johnson had smaller bills, and a smaller bill was then substituted. He then went to Boston with his horse. Before long it was discovered that the bills he had been circulating were counterfeits on the New York City National Bank, and City Marshal Patten of Manchester went to Boston and found him. He denihd everything at first, but finally made admissions which justified Marshal Patten in bringing him back to New Hampshire. The horse was discovered in a stable near the Eastern Railroad station. Johnson is believed to belong to one of the most extensive and perfectly organized gangs of counterfeiters in the country.

The Dover Gazette says the clay thrown out in the cuttings in the field of Mr. Samuel C. Fisher would make as firm pottery as that imported from Staffordshire.

The Exeter News-Letter says that nearly six per cent. of the population of Kingston is composed of widows. There are sixty-three now residing there.

General Natt Head, of Hooksett, is mentioned for the Republican nomination in the second Congressional district.

BOTH MARRIED.—I arrived here recently, and took up my quarters at the Dickinson House, Corning. After I had removed the marks of travel I went down stairs, and strolled about the hotel with my cigar. Soon I observed a tall, venerable gentleman, carefully dressed, walking up and down, smoking a cigar, and swinging a gold-headed cane. Leaning against the clerk's counter was a tall, thin, sallow-faced man, with blonde hair and moustache, and also smoking a cigar. The gentleman had already been pointed out to me as Mr. Cole, a leading politician of the country.

By-and-by I observed the old gentleman pause and look at Mr. Cole very closely. Mr. Cole raised his mild blue eye, and gazed dreamily at the old gentleman. Presently the latter stepped toward Mr. Cole, and said in a very courteous manner, "Excuse me, sir, but I think I've seen you before."

"Very likely," Mr. Cole replied, "I've been there frequently."

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed the old gentleman. "That's very good. But, really, I think I've met you somewhere or other before to-night."

"It is not improbable," was Mr. Cole's reply. "At all events," he continued with a twinkle in his blue eyes, "there's no reason why we shouldn't know each other now."

"That's so," said the old gentleman, "and here's my hand."

Mr. Cole took the hand very carefully into his, worked it up and down once or twice, and then restored it to the old gentleman. This seemed to introduce them, and they got to talking. As I had nothing else to do, I smoked my cigar and watched them. Presently, after walking up and down the passage, they came and stood so near to where I was that I could not but overhear all that passed.

"Now, look at me, sir," said the old gentleman, straightening himself up and putting his cane under his arm with a flourish.

Mr. Cole looked at him as he desired.

"How old do you take me to be, sir?" the venerable man asked, with his head on one side.

"Over twenty-five," Mr. Cole answered, after having apparently considered him attentively for a few moments.

"Over sixty, sir," the old gentleman said, cutting it up into syllables, and placing his right fore-finger somewhere upon Mr. Cole's waistcoat. "And what do you think?" he added.

Mr. Cole threw himself into a thoughtful attitude, but said nothing.

"What do you think, sir?" the venerable man went on; "I was married on Tuesday last!"

"So was I!" exclaimed Mr. Cole, enthusiastically.

The old gentleman seized Mr. Cole's hand, and shook it like a small earthquake. "How remarkable!" he went on. "Only to think, both married last Tuesday." And he kept on squeezing Mr. Cole's hand and shaking it with the energy of an old friend. Then they went up to the bar, and the old gentleman stood champagne. The old gentleman invited me as a stranger, to join them, and after some hesitation I did so, especially as he said, eyeing me intently, "Why, I've met you in Philadelphia, at the Continental." He brought out of his inside pocket the portrait of his wife, and showed it to us. We said it was lovely. He stood more champagne. We talked variously. The old gentleman explained to me the bond that united Mr. Cole to himself. "How singular," he said, "both married last Tuesday."

He stood champaign for the third time. He wanted Mr. Cole to stay all night and talk on matrimony and such like. Mr. Cole tried to excuse himself, but the old gentleman called for more champagne, saying: By Jove, it wasn't every day you met with a remarkable coincidence." Mr. Cole held up his glass of champagne, and, looking at it with approbation, said, "No, it was not."

After a while Mr. Cole said he must go, as his wife had been up all night with the baby——

"The baby!" exclaimed the venerable gentleman, replacing the half-raised glass of champagne on the counter with such force as to break the stem, and almost choking with surprise; "the baby! Why you told me you were married last Tuesday!"

"So I was," said Mr. Cole, "and have been, for the last fifteen years."

The old gentlemen gave a gasp, hauled out his purse, and paid the bill. Then he went through the door like a telegraph post playing locomotive.

The Fair of Storer Encampment will open on the 19th inst, and continue three days. The public is respectfully advised that no pains have been spared to make this series of entertainments equally attractive with those of former years. The bill will comprise Dramatic and Vocal performances, Military Tableau, etc. Valuable articles will be exposed for sale, and the usual attraction of such occasions together with interesting novelties will be presented for the entertainment and amusement of the patrons of the Fair. The services of the Ladies of Portsmouth are urgently desired in furnishing and attending the tables of Fancy articles. Programmes will be issued at an early day. Per Order.

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

— ALSO —

The Peerless,

Eaton Cook,

Sheridan,

Union Cook,

Norman Range,

Rival, Model Cook,

Farmer's Cook,

White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK and PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are endorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

FOREWARNINGS OF CONSUMPTION. Remember that a cough, a cold or some other common affection of the throat or lungs always precedes Consumption, and that all these ailments are cured with absolute certainty by Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. For sale by all druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

UNPRODUCTIVE FRAUDS.—Imitations and counterfeits of an established popular restorative, although mischievous in their direct effects, are indirectly beneficial in some respects. They teach the community to rate at its just value the preparation that has been imitated and pirated. The reputation and sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for example, have been greatly enhanced by the attempts that have been made to supplant it. The dupes of imposture who from time to time have been induced by plausible falsehoods to some worthless succedaneum for the standard tonic of America have invariably returned to it in an enthusiastic frame of mind, ready to champion its merits to the uttermost. The warmest panegirists of its preventive and curative properties are those who have weighed the nostrums of envious adventurers in the balance and found them wanting. In a pecuniary point of view, all attempts to undermine the popularity of this medicine have proved advantageous to the proprietors, and except for the sake of protecting the public the game of exposure would not be worth the candle.

A GLORIOUS RECORD.—Twelve years ago a few modest lines in a New York Journal invited public attention to a new Vegetable restorative, and solicited a trial of its merits as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, fever and ague, debility, nervous disorders, rheumatism and all complaints requiring invigorating and regulating treatment. In this quiet, unpretentious way, PLANTATION BITTERS was introduced to the world. It was a success from the beginning. All that was claimed for it as a tonic, a corrective and antidote to malarious fever, was found to be strictly true. Within five years the annual sales of this article amounted to over One Million of Bottles. A few years more and the demand had swelled to five millions of bottles and the annual consumption of the bitters has now reached the almost incredible aggregate of SIX MILLIONS OF BOTTLES, and for every bottle sold a copy of the ILLUSTRATED MEDICAL ANNUAL, published by the proprietors, at a cost of $150,000, is given away.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE CUT their wise teeth, use the SOZODONT, and all who do, are willing to declare to all who don't use it, that it is the most perfect and delightful thing for the teeth they ever dipped a brush into.

OF
WILD CHERRY!
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a fair trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves time," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieving the painful breathing, healing at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, QUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "Indian Herbs and Simples" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a more worthy and more trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend All inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. $1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the class of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS, Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREWITHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

The Chronicle.

A WORD FOR THE WIDOWS.—An accomplished lady sends us the following which bears upon the interesting subject of widows:

Young widows are a persecuted class of individuals, the spirit of envy being their worst enemy.

Numerous wives, who whisper meaning insinuation and give mysterious nods of their heads upon appearances which are perfectly proper and legitimate, envy widows their freedom and attention.

Not that they would for the world wish anybody dead and out of the way, but "it is so splendid to be free," with a competency sufficient to supply the demands of an easy life. So envy wags gossiping tongues.

A mother has marriageable daughters, and finds a pretty widow very much in the way of their prospects.

So envy says, "A widow had better keep more quiet, and pay proper respect to the deceased, who probably died of a broken heart."

Accused of being bold and presuming before gentlemen if proffered attentions are accepted.

Called designing, and on the lookout for another husband.

In fact accused of being no better than she ought to be—(pray who are better than they ought to be?)—a pretty young widow has many a miserable hour, of which none beside the All-seeing and herself know.

Glad for a time to forget her loneliness, she mingles in the society of gentlemen, who seek her, but not because she is in the market again.

A sensible woman who has money sufficient to live comfortably, or ability to earn enough to keep want from her door, who has loved and lost, is not anxious to marry again.

If her heart again respond to the love of a good man, so far that she is happy in his society and lonely when he is absent, she may wish to marry, but Heaven give her wisdom to consider the subject well if she has children.

To a widow a marriage is a more serious consideration than when she first stood at the altar and pacmised to abide the contract sealed by the priest in the name of the Almighty.

Years of experience crowded into a few months, or one short year, sobers and saddens the heart.

If she tenderly loves the companion taken from her side in the morning of their hopes and plans for life, the enthusiasm of her love is lost in this bereavement, and a new alliance cannot be filled with the ardent devotion and self-abnegation of the first. If her marriage was unfortunate, and she drank the cup of disappointment, she mourns the shipwreck of her girlish hopes. In sadness she wanders back through devastation of precious years and opportunities. Experience makes her so old and heart-weary that love comes not easily.

Deep gratitude, tender friendship, lasting respect and appreciation for noble qualities are not that love which baptizes life in a fountain of bliss, and gilds each thought with a golden halo.—Elm Orlour.

A LAND OF MILK AND HONEY.—Texas is as phenomenal a State as California, in some respects, and one of our exchanges from there is enthusiastic over its resources. The soil, it says, yields all of the cereals in high perfection, cotton, flax, hemp, tobacco, sugar, potatoes of all kinds, melons, and nearly all the fruits; the northern portion proving an excellent field for the apple, pear, cherry, peach, etc., and every part adapted to the peach, the plum, and especially the grape. The minerals of Texas are abundant and beginning to attract attention, particularly her rich mines of iron and copper. To show how fortunes are made, the paper instances that twenty-five years ago an Irishman engaged with a Texas stock raiser. There was no money to be given, but he was to be boarded and found in everything, and in the place of wages he was to receive one cow and a calf each month. Now he is worth $100,000 and sends to the market each year from fifteen to twenty thousand head of cattle. A sailor went to Texas many years ago. He has now six steamers on the Rio Grande, 80,000 head of cattle, 25,000 head of horse stock, 12,000 sheep, 150,000 acres of land, and last year invested $39,000, in the Jackson and New Orleans R. R. Young man, "go to Texas!"—Globe.

—A woman passing along Broadway, Chelsea, manifested symptoms of sickness and was assisted into the shop of J.B. Everdean, where she fainted and fell. The gentleman who helped her into the shop was so eager to render her aid that he seized a large pitcher, which was standing on the counter, and poured the contents into her face; whereupon she at once arose to an erect position, intimated to our philanthropic friend that he was "an old fool" and departed. The pitcher was filled wih Ottawa beer, and its medical effects are now proved beyond question.—Boston News.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1872.

The News.

Lydia Hamlin of Brooks station, Me., about 52 years of age, died in her berth in a sleeping car while on her way home from Boston, where she had been to have a cancer extracted.

The salary of the mayor of Manchester has been increased from $1000 to $2000.

Grant had 2177 majority in Nevada, his vote being 8413. Greeley had 6236.

Two prominent policy dealers of New York, John E. Simmons and Nicholas H. Duryea, had a fatal quarrel on Liberty street, Monday evening, Simmons stabbing Duryea to death. Simmons was arrested.

A Dominion Railroad to the Pacific ocean is resolved upon. The last session of Parliament passed an authorizing act and a company is about to be organized so that the owners and directors shall all belong to Canada and the Provinces forever.

Edwin Forrest's will establishes an asylum for decayed actors and actresses, and prescribes a full and rather novel code of rules for the government of the institution.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 14.

Shellabarger's resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to enquire what power Congress has to regulate that part of the commerce of the country passing to Eastern States over Railroads is significant of the coming struggle with that class of corporation. The West is fully alive to that question and ready to sink all political organizations that stand in the way of it. When they put in their crops in the Spring, they expect a price based upon the cost of transportation then existing, and to find themselves peeled in the harvest time by a Railroad combination which put up freight until the farmers' profit is all sunk to pay larger dividends upon railroad stock is anything but comforting. It will be one of the questions in the next Presidential contest.

An amendment of the constitution is proposed to dispense with the Electoral College, which has grown to be a cumbrous machine. Unless it is changed the next Presidential election is very likely to be thrown into the House of Representatives. History constantly repeats itself, and the present entire destruction of the Democratic party leaves the country as at the close of Monroe's administration; and, as then, the contest next time will be between three or four Republicans, no one of whom will get a majority of the electoral votes. When Adams was elected he only had two-thirds as many votes by the people as Jackson. In 1860, Douglass had almost twice as many votes as Bell and Breckenridge, together, but if I recollect aright, did not get more than half as many electoral votes as either of them.

The District of Columbia Board of Public Works, of whom the New Hampshire Legislature heard last June, are asking Congress to give them a million and a quarter to help them out on their street improvements, and it will probably be granted. It is a hard job to the average Congressmen to resist the importunities which come from his social surroundings. About six millions have been spent in a year and a half on streets, which is at the rate of half a million for the streets of Portsmouth. Your tax payers would think that extravagant, but here it is considered a comprehensive system of improvements. Four millions of this expenditure comes from a loan, and two millions from owners of abutting property. They make up the tax to abutters by taking one-third of the cost of a street and dividing it per front foot, after deducting all school and church property. It costs the owner of property on an average ten dollars for each front foot or a thousand dollars for a hundred feet lot. The injustice and inequality of this method will be seen, when as is sometimes the case, the land at one end of a street is worth two dollars per square foot and at the other end from twenty-five to fifty cents, the owner of a palace at one end pays his ten dollars a foot and the owner of a hovel at the other end pays the same or is sold out for his tax. In many cases the tax is more than the cost of the land and buildings.

One good effect of civil service will be to reduce the number who seek clerkships in Washington from the country. The young man who paddles his own canoe and builds up a business, is in the end much better off than the one who seeks position under the government. A vast number of clerks are borrowing money and giving orders for their pay ahead, notwithstanding they are paid off every two weeks. The common rate for hard up clerks is five per cent. a month.

The Credit Mobiler investigation, which is going on in secret, is said to promise astonishing developments, which I doubt. There are too many interested. The investigation is more likely to go only so far as to show that most of those named on the McComb letter are free from taint.

In your last paper you made what I intended for Northern Pacific read "Southern Pacific" Railroad.

The double legislatures now gathered in the Southern States are matters of serious apprehension, and one of the alarming features is, that they attract so little attention and seem to be looked upon as a matter of course, from the reckless character of the men on both sides, who have come to the front. Better men are now pushing to the front, but I doubt if they will be in season to stay the repudiation which is now, even, impending from Virginia to Texas. The premonitory symptoms are cropping out, and when it once gets started, it will be universal over the whole South. The land there bears most of the taxation, and both the land and its owners are poor. They have repelled northern immigration and when the land goes, as it has to, under the Sheriff's hammer, there is no no one with money to buy it and prices of late years have declined until the lands in Virginia don't bring, in most of the State, five dollars an acre on the average,—and with this decline the rate of taxation increases fearfully. Another aggravation of the situation is that the young men of energy who make up their minds to strip work for in the battle of life, don't like to come down to it where they have been educated and accustomed to something different, and so they emigrate and go where it can be done without loss of caste. Notwithstanding these drawbacks, the South is rapidly progressing, especially in the towns. In the days of slavery the owners of the great plantations with their hundreds of slaves were of no benefit to the towns in their trade. They bought for the supply of their plantations on credit in the large cities and in large quantities, and there was no local trade. Now the hundred of negroes make their own purchases of the local traders and mechanics, and earning as they do vastly more than when in a state of slavery, their power of consumption is vastly increased and it builds up the local trade.

The Internal Revenue Bill passed the Senate, Thursday, and makes an end of assessors and their assistants after July next. X. E.

THE TRIBUNE EDITORSHIP.—The Tribune trustees held a meeting on Friday afternoon at which every member was present. Mr. Sinclair brought forward the Colfax proposition. It received the support of only himself and one other; six out of the eight trustees opposed, sustaining Mr. Reid's conduct of the paper and urging that he be retained with no instructions save to continue carrying out the policy of Mr. Greeley's card. It was settled that no change would be made in the policy of the paper as Mr. Greeley left it, without a change in the controlling proprietorship. Mr. Sinclair then went to work to make up a pool of outside stockholders to sell a controlling interest. It is understood that he with Dr. Ayer and the representatives of the estates of one or two deceased proprietors (not including Mr. Greeley's) have nearly or quite made up the 81 shares needed, and propose selling at the rate of a million dollars to a combination representing telegraph and administration interests.

Mr. Reid said that in case the proprietorship and policy were thus changed he would also sell his four shares and at once retire. It has transpired that in the trustees' meeting Mr. Reid protested against Mr. Sinclair's proposal to abandon the ground on which Mr. Greeley placed the paper in his card resuming the editorship. He said that Mr. Sinclair was the last man who ought to do this injustice to Mr. Greeley's memory, because it was through Mr. Sinclair's solicitation, long continued, that Mr. Greeley finally consented to become a presidential candidate, Mr. Sinclair admitted it, but said that he urged Mr. Greeley to it and wrote letters over the country to further Mr. Greeley's chances at Cincinnati, because he knew that Mr. Greeley would not support Grant and thought that the next best thing was to get him to be a candidate himself. Mr. Reid said that he himself had not favored Mr. Greeley's candidacy and had discouraged Mr. Greeley from it nearly up to the time when Mr. Greeley directed him to go to Cincinnati as his representative; but he believed in the Cincinnati platform as Mr. Greeley did, and would not remain in charge of the Tribune if that platform was opposed and the position in which Mr. Greeley placed the paper by his card and his latest writings was flatly abandoned, as he understood to be now proposed.

At dispatch of Monday says William Orton, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, paid $510,000 cash for fifty-one shares of the Tribune stock, that Whitelaw Reid resigned and walked instanter out the office, and that Mr. J. R. G. Hassard has been declared managing editor pro tem. This is a victory for the Sinclair-Ayer party among the stockholders, and gives the position of editor-in-chief to Mr. Colfax. The stock bought out was held by Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Greeley's brother-in-law, and others of the Tribune force, all of whom have left. Before the purchase by Mr. Orton, Mr. Reid offered to buy out Mr. Sinclair's interested for $335,000, but Mr. Sinclair refused to sell. Mr. Reid then offered to buy in other shares, but the offer was not taken. He reminded Mr. Sinclair of the pledge of the trustees to sell stock to other stockholders rather than to outside parties, to which Mr. Sinclair replied that he did not intend to observe that, the present predicament of the concern requiring unusual action. Mr. Colfax, it is thought, will take possession on the 1st of January; meanwhile Mr. Hassard will run the paper.

The New Hampshire Editors, Publishers and Printers' Association will hold their winter session in Nashua on the 17th of January, the anniversary of Franklin's birthday.

—Jackson, Tenn., young ladies tie up their taper fingers, and when the young gentlemen callers in the evening enquire the cause, blushingly reply: "I burnt them while broiling the beefsteak, this morning."

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

UNPRODUCTIVE FRAUDS.—Imitations and counterfeits of an established popular restorative, although mischievous in their direct effects, are indirectly beneficial in some respects. They teach the community to rate at its just value the preparation that has been similated and pirated. The reputation and sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for example, have been greatly enhanced by the attempts that have been made to supplant it. The dupes of imposture who from time to time have been induced by plausible falsehoods to some worthless succedaneum for the standard tonic of America have invariably returned to it in an enthusiastic frame of mind, ready to champion its merits to the uttermost. The warmest panegyrists of its preventive and curative properties are those who have weighed the nostrums of envious adventurers in the balance and found them wanting. In a pecuniary point of view, all attempts to undermine the popularity of this medicine have proved advantageous to the proprietors, and except for the sake of protecting the public the game of exposure would not be worth the candle.

A GLORIOUS RECORD.—Twelve years ago a few modest lines in a New York Journal invited public attention to a new Vegetable restorative, and solicited a trial of its merits as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, fever and ague, debility, nervous disorders, rheumatism and all complaints requiring invigorating and regulating treatment. In this quiet, unpretentious way, PLANTATION BITTERS was introduced to the world. It was a success from the beginning. All that was claimed for it as a tonic, a corrective and antidote to malarious fever, was found to be strictly true. Within five years the annual sales of this article amounted to over One Million of Bottles. A few years more and the demand had swelled to five millions of bottles and the annual consumption of the bitters has now reached the almost incredible aggregate of SIX MILLIONS OF BOTTLES, and for every bottle sold a copy of the ILLUSTRATED MEDICAL ANNUAL, published by the proprietors, at a cost of $150,000, is given away.

Music Society rehearsal this (Wednesday) evening.

Schooner Emerald, of Goldsborough, Me., seized by U. S. Revenue steamer McCullough, and brought into this port, has been released on payment of $100. Special agent Samuel D. Foye, who was placed in keeping, informs us that Capt. Anthony claimed that he was ignorant that the time had run out for which he had taken out papers.

A large audience greeted Wendell Phillips, Monday evening. His persuasive eloquence held his hearers spell bound and none of his audience seemed to more fully appreciate his sarcasms than an Irish woman in the gallery, who testified to her delight by throwing up her arms and smiling like an alligator.

Rev. O. F. Van Cise writes the Banner that his disease is a nervous prostration and says: "I am now brought reluctantly to confess that I would better not have begun my ministry so soon, or else have taken a much smaller parish on beginning. Let me frankly express my hope that this necessity of mine will be a warning to all young men, similarly situated. The temptation is great to hasten into the ministry and to take the largest field which offers, while there are so many and so earnest calls for more workers in the Master's Vineyard. Let us ponder well the fact that Christ was thirty years old before he entered upon his ministry of salvation."

The drawing of Mr. Moses' paintings took place Tuesday evening. Thirteen of the 34 prizes were withdrawn—being the most valuable. The persons who drew prizes held the following numbers:—95, 100, 104, 107, 165, 212, 241, 272, 283, 334, 433, 450, 481, 520, 536, 588, 626, 634, 637, 640, 658.

JUMPED FROM A TRAIN.—Two men who got into the Pullman train from Boston at Newburyport, Saturday night, with the intention of getting off at Portsmouth, mistook their destination while on the route between the last named places, and jumped from the train while it was in motion. The engine was reversed and the train ran back to where they were lying. One had his head slightly cut and the other lay quivering on his back, ("quivering on his back" is a good phrase. It sounds well. So we use it, though we are not aware that he moved so much as an eyelid,) but strange to say unhurt. We were unable to learn the names of the gentlemen.—Portland Press.

EARTH CLOSETS.—As an inexpensive and excellent substitute for the water closet, the earth system which has attracted much attention in the scientific world abroad and in this country for some time past, is worthy of examination. We are informed that the Moule Earth Closet, advertised in another column, has been for several years in extensive use in the Government and other public buildings of England, France, Prussia, and the United States, and that the use of it in this country for cotton mills and other factories, in machine shops, railroad stations, schools, colleges, hotels, and in our finest residences, is already very large, and the system steadily growing in favor with the public.

A STRANGE AFFINITY.—A cat, some weeks ago, took a fancy to a house on Bush street, and transferred her entire family into the rear premises from a neighboring coal yard. A previous occupant of the premises was a little black-and-tan pup, a few weeks old. The cat was much annoyed by the attention of the family to her little ones and used to hide the kittens away in remote places. One day whilst removing the youngsters, she also took the pup by the back of the neck and transferred him to an old valise on a wash-house roof, where the kittens were stowed away. From this event a strong friendship sprang up between the old cat and the pup, and now she watches it complacently as it mingles in the family circle, correcting the canine with a blow of her paw when he seems to treat the kittens too roughly.—San Francisco Bulletin.

GUMBS' HORSE.—"Gumbs," said the man, after examining the animal, "that horse has the gastracerysipelatous. You'd better paint his neck with turpentine and put a fly-blister on his nose."

Gumbs followed these directions, and the following morning the horse's neck was raw from the jaw-bone to the shoulder, and he had on his nose a swelling as large as the horn of a rhinoceros.

Gumbs was scared, and sent for a livery-stable man, who looked at the horse and said:

"Gumbs, there's nothing the matter with that horse but a little attack of hippozymasis! Just mix some molasses and rum and give it to him in his feed, and he'll be all right to-morrow."

Gumbs gave him a gallon of rum and molasses, and that night his horse went snorting around the stable with delirium tremens, kicked half the edifice into splinters, and nearly choked himself trying to eat the breeching band. Gumbs found the horse in the morning in a more deplorable condition than ever. So he called in a veterinary surgeon who cast his eyes over the animal, and observed to Gumbs:

"Mr. Gumbs, this is a genuine case of hyppotyphoid laryngitis! What you horse wants is cayenne pepper injected into the nostrils, and hourly doses of aconite and arsenicum mixed pint for pint, and feed with cut hay."

Gumbs immediately went around and bought a gallon of cayenne pepper and a cart load of the drugs. The horse sneezed all that night with such sonority and energy, that he kept everybody in the neighborhood awake, and when Gumbs visited the stable next morning he was alarmed to find his horse's eyes terribly inflamed with red pepper, and his nose worse than ever, while the body of the animal was swelled by the aconite until it was as large around as a sugar hogshead. Then Gumbs rushed around to another veterinary surgeon, and when he came he viewed the horse for a few seconds, and said:

"I tell you, Mr. Gumbs, your horse has got the hipporhinorrhea, and got it bad!"

"Then, of course, the horse will die," said Gumbs, "if it has come to that."

"Not necessary," remarked the doctor. "Just get a barrel of coal-tar and sulphur, and burn it under the horse's nose for a few hours to disinfect him, then feed him and let him rest."

And Grumbs did. He burned that stuff under the horse's nose, and the animal suffocated in a quarter of an hour; and when Gumbs came in to see how the medicine was working, he found the stable in flames and an underdone bay horse lying in the hottest portion of the fire.

So Gumbs has lost his horse, and he feels encouraged, because just after the fire was extinguished another surgeon came in, and when he heard Gumb's story he comforted Gumbs by remarking that there was nothing the matter with the horse in the first place, and that he was a deluded ass for ever scrubbing the horse with turpentine and blistering him, and for listening to the tales of the other lunatics who came there to poison and suffocate the unhappy brute.

—We hear that a day or two since a physican stepped into a horse car, in or near Bowdoin square, and after using his nostrils a moment or two, exclaimed in a voice loud enough for all passengers to hear, "Somebody in this car has got the small-pox. I can smell it. Those who are afraid of it had better get out." With one exception the passengers moved out speedily. The exception was a middle aged woman who had a large bundle in her lap. The physician asked her what the package contained and she told him it was none of his business. He made it his business to investigate, however, and found that the bundle contained the corpse of a young child that had died of small-pox. —Boston Advertiser.

—A letter from Dallas, Texas, to the Houston Age, says that twelve "Indian" cattle thieves were lately caught in one of the western counties and hung to a limb of a tree, because there was no "limb of the law" to plead for them. Before hanging them their faces were scrubbed and eleven of the twelve did not pan out as Indians—they being unprotected orphans from Kansas mostly.

—A young woman in Virginia, feeling socially inclined toward a neighbor the other side of a fordable river, and having no horse convenient, made the transit in safety and dryness, recently, by taking two chairs, and using them as stilts.

—Mary Smith has been arrested in Chicago for stealing two hundred pounds of railroad iron with which to buy her children bread. She would have made a good Spartan mother when they used the fifty-pound iron dollars.

—A Detroit man had a fever, during which he frequently asked for pickles and cider; when he became so ill that his death was considered only a question of a few hours, his wife gave him the much-desired viands and he recovered.

—Dr. Dio Lewis thinks we, as a people, eat too much animal food, which makes us feverish and grow old rapidly.

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick so Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

— ALSO —

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal.

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK and PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

Brainard's Musical World for December is a choice number. We find in its columns an attractive feast of good things.

Church's Musical Visitor for December is a good number of an excellent paper. The contents embrace intelligent, well-written editorials, interesting articles pertaining to music and musical doings, foreign and local, a continuation of the serial story "Side by Side," written expressly for it, and five pieces of new music. $1.50 per annum; John Church & Co., Publishers, Cincinnati.

AN INDIAN'S REVENGE.—The Richland County (Wis.) Independent tell a curious story, which it asserts as fact, to the following effect:

An Indian trapper and hunter has been operating in one of the northern towns of that county, and near his camp lived a farmer. The Indian had a box filled with rattlesnakes, covered over with glass. Last August the Indian came to the farmer's house one day, intoxicated, and asked the farmer to give him a certain sheep that he was preparing for exhibition at the county fair, saying that he was hungry. The farmer refused, but offered him a hen if he would shoot it. The Indian declared he would have the sheep, and fired at it, but missed it. The farmer then set his dog on the Indian and drove him away.

A few nights since, the farmer was awakened from his sleep by something cold crawling over him, and seizing the object, he hurled it across the room. He was horrified to hear the noise of rattles in every direction. Telling his wife to lie quiet for her life, he raised up, and turned up the light, when he saw a huge rattlesnake coiled up at the foot of the bed, ready for a spring. Seizing his revolver, he fired, and shot off its head. The noise of the pistol aroused the blind man, who hastened to the room, and before reaching it (the door was open,) killed two rattlesnakes. Two more were killed in the bedroom, making five in all. At the foot of the bed was the Indian's box. It is supposed that he entered the open window, and emptied the snakes out on the bed.

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are deemed highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

"WELL

Old Wheezy, what's the matter with you and why are you muffled up so?"

"Wretched cold! Can't speak aloud. My throat's so sore and lungs so oppressed it pains me to talk."

"Now, Old Boy, I was in the same predicament and have been wonderfully cured. Met a friend who urged me to take

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

For the Throat and Lungs.

Bought a bottle at the

UNION STORE

on Market Street. Now I'm going to tell you the truth. The bottles are small and sell at only

50

Cents each, but the

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is powerful. A half bottle completely cured me; a single dose

RELIEVED MY THROAT INSTANTANEOUSLY.

—THE—

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a condensed cure-all. Try it—and take off that muffler."

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with the Crouping Cough, Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As a stitch in time saves nine, so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced age at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, QUILLAI ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
"The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of invention, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure a patent, on early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY: Dear Sir—I am over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great skill and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. B. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and Rough Skin, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

The Chronicle.

THE POWER BENEATH THE PULPIT.—The congregation of Dr. Talmage's Tabernacle in Brooklyn, was much excited recently by the announcement that the money-boxes had been robbed of large sums from time to time during the past three months. The seats in the Tabernacle are free, but those who occupy them voluntarily give sums varying from $50 to $250 a year. These subscriptions are enclosed in envelopes and put in the boxes which are passed through the aisles by the collectors. The boxes are long and narrow, and when filled, are set in a row of pigeon-holes on either side of the platform, and are removed by the treasurer after the service is over. The Church officers were greatly puzzled to find out who robbed the boxes or how it could have been done unnoticed.

While Deacon Thomas E. Pearsell was seated in his pew a a few weeks ago, his sharp eye detected a mysterious movement of one of the money boxes. It was observed to quietly slide inwards in its place in the pigeon hole until even its long handle was out of sight and as quietly slide back again to its original position. Subsequently another and another of the boxes vanished and reappeared to the astonished gaze of the worthy deacon, who, after the service was over, made a critical examination of the rack, but could discover no cause for the mysterious movement, and neither did he detect the loss of any money.

On Sunday, however, a couple of detectives from the central office secreted themselves in the organ loft and watched closely for any movement of the boxes. Their vigilance was at last rewarded, for when the morning service was nearly over Judson Shotwell, aged seventeen, a son of the sexton of the Tabernacle, was detected coming out from under the platform. He was at once arrested, and finding his maneuvers had been watched confessed the whole story. Judson very ingeniously removed the woodwork at the end of the pigeon-hole, and then drew the boxes towards him, taking out the large subscriptions in the envelopes, and leaving the stamps undisturbed. Over $600 had been stolen in this way, and shared between the sexton's sons.

A BIT OF ROMANCE.—Miss Sarah Butillon, at the age of nineteen was an operative in one of the cotton mills at Great Falls. During a certain June she was called home to nurse a sister who had fallen sick with typhoid fever. The sister died, and as her parents were old and poor, Sarah remained at home to look after the household. Among her effects she had brought with her from the factory was a parcel wrapped in a newspaper published in one of the cotton-growing parishes of Louisiana.

In this paper she found among prominent men mentioned as having taken part on a public occasion, one who bore her family name of Butillon. The name was not a common one, and in a jocose manner she said she had a mind to write to that man and see if she could not scrape up a relationship. A companion told her she dared not do it.

Partly from curiosity and partly from love of adventure, and, perhaps influenced slightly by the banter of her friend, she put the project into effect. She wrote a sensible, modest letter, giving an account of her family genealogy as she understood it and suggested that, as the family name was not a common one, and that as the publication of this name had afforded the only opportunity she had ever enjoyed of seeing the same in print, it was not impossible that some relationship existed between them.

In due time Miss Butillon received in reply a letter, friendly and affectionate, the writer acknowledging that her father and himself must be cousins. He wrote that he had no family of his own, and but few friends, and he earnestly hoped and desired that the correspondence thus opened might be continued. Sarah acceded to his request, and a correspondence ensued, agreeable and satisfactory to be to parties. She wrote as a child might have written to an absent parent, while he answered as he might have answered to a daughter. This was kept up for almost three years, and then Philip Butillon ceased to write. Sarah's last letter had remained unanswered full three months, when she received, from an attorney of Natchitoches, intelligence of the death of her distant friend and namesake, together with the information that he left to her by will the whole of his property, amounting to more than $100,000.

Shortly before receiving this intelligence Sarah had given her hand in marriage to a worthy printer of her native State, and together they visited the land of sugar and cotton, where the property was obtained without trouble.

State News.

Rev. H. M. Stone, of Rochester, presided at the prohibitory State convention at Concord on Wednesday. About 75 persons were present. Dr. John Blackman of Sandwich was renominated for governor. Dr. A. G. Cornings of Lee, J. M. Fletcher of Nashua, and Rev. A. C. Hardy of Keene were nominated for Congressmen.

Keene has chosen fourteen delegates to the Congressional convention who favor the re-nomination of Gen. Griffin. Claremont chose ten delegates who favor Ira Colby, Jr., of Claremont.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Traveller says transcripts from the Credit Mobilier books show that Senator Patterson of this State was interested in its stock.

A Divorce Case. — The Rochester Democrat localizes and sermonizes upon an occurrence in that city, as follows:—

In another column, our readers will find a couple of cards published, presenting the diverse views of a husband and wife, — William and Mary Ann Mooney,—on their domestic relations. As it is evident that both parties seek publicity, we take the liberty of calling attention to their spicy exchange of incivilities. As usual in such cases, the woman seems to have altogether the best of the controversy. Mr. Mooney confines himself strictly to the legal formula prescribed in such cases, announcing briefly to the public that his wife has left his bed and board and that he forbids all persons from harboring or giving credit to her on his account. He is evidently grieved at the rebellion, and hopes, by declaring a sort of matrimonial blockade, to compel her to submission.

Mrs. Mooney's defiance is short and sharp. She states, in the first place, that she never left Mr. Mooney's bed, but simply took up her own bed and carried it away with her. Moreover, she declares that if by board he means potatoes and milk, she can't stand any more of it. Such a retort will certainly tell with the general public, but we doubt, after due deliberation, if it is legally sound. It may seem like a cruel joke to speak of a woman leaving her husband's bed when she don't leave him any bed at all; yet by a fiction of law the man is left master of the matrimonial couch, even though it consists of bare boards or Canadian feathers.

The bed in common law is, sad to say, merely an abstraction which every husband is supposed by the fond imagination of the legal mind to possess by virtue of his office. It need not be any vulgar affair of mattress or down to sleep upon. The same is true in regard to the word board. It may be potatoes and milk, or bread and water, or roast turkey and plum pudding. The mere fact that a man marries a wife is supposed to endow him with the ability to support her; she is consequently considered as turning her back on the best of good cheer when she deserts him.

If the old Latin term a mensa et thoro had been used in Mooney's notice, Mrs. Mooney would have been able to appreciate the fact that certain intangible marital rights, privileges and obligations were referred to, and not such every-day concerns as her bed and a diet of potatoes and milk. Bed and board, we take it, are metaphorical terms for domestic love and peace and confidence, without which a palace would cease to be a home for a woman, and with which Mrs. Mooney might rest placidly on her own mattress and be content with even a meagre supply of Irish fruit with lacteal sauce.

A Novel Liquor Decision.—The Iowa correspondent of the Chicago Journal says that in Des Moines there is a People's Temperance Association, composed largely of reformed drunkards, who keep a vigilant eye on whisky selling. By the aid of this association a suit was brought in the District Court by Ann Presty, in action for damages in the sum of $5,000 against Joseph Hierb, for selling intoxicating liquors to her husband, thereby incapacitating him from attending to his business, and thus doing great damage to his family.

A large number of witnesses were examined, and the case most stubbornly contested by six of the leading attorneys of the State, Judge Maxwell presiding. The judge gave the various questions which are in the trial carefully attention, and his rulings were principally against the prosecution. The trial lasted nearly five days. At the close, the court gave the case to the jury with instructions. The jury, after three hours, returned a verdict for the plaintiff, and fixed the damages at $2,520, and costs of suit. The defense at once gave notice of a motion for a new trial.

It is the opinion among sound lawyers that the verdict will stick, and, if so, it is one of most important cases tried in Iowa, and that it is so considered is apparent from the fact that from all parts of the State come inquiries respecting it. It will place every liquor seller in the State at the mercy of the family of those to whom he sells liquor. A sale of liquor once proves is enough to warrant actual and exemplary damages. It applies to persons who are engaged in the traffic, whether as maker, agent, clerk, barkeeper, or otherwise, and the result will be the abandonment of the business almost entirely in the State.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

Piles.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using Briggs' Pile Remedies.

Unproductive Frauds.—Imitations and counterfeits of an established popular restorative, although mischievous in their direct effects, are indirectly beneficial in some respects. They teach the community to rate at its just value the preparation that has been similated and pirated. The reputation and sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for example, have been greatly enhanced by the attempts that have been made to supplant it. The dupes of imposture who from time to time have been induced by plausible falsehoods to some worthless succedaneum for the standard tonic of America have invariably returned to it in an enthusiastic frame of mind, ready to champion its merits to the uttermost. The warmest panegerists of its preventive and curative properties are those who have weighed the nostrums of envious adventurers in the balance and found them wanting. In a pecuniary point of view, all attempts to undermine the popularity of this medicine have proved advantageous to the proprietors, and except for the sake of protecting the public the game of exposure would not be worth the candle.

A Glorious Record.—Twelve years ago a few modest lines in a New York Journal invited public attention to a new Vegetable restorative, and solicited a trial of its merits as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, fever and ague, debility, nervous disorders, rheumatism and all complaints requiring invigorating and regulating treatment. In this quiet, unpretentious way, Plantation Bitters was introduced to the world. It was a success from the beginning. All that was claimed for it as a tonic, a corrective and antidote to malarious fever, was found to be strictly true. Within five years the annual sale of this article amounted to over One Million of Bottles. A few years more and the demand had swelled to five millions of bottles and the annual consumption of the bitters has now reached the almost incredible aggregate of six millions of bottles, and for every bottle sold a copy of the Illustrated Medical Annual, published by the proprietors, at a cost of $150,000, is given away.

People who Have Cut their wise teeth, use the Sozodont, and all who do, are willing to declare to all who don't use it, that it is the most perfect and delightful thing for the teeth they ever dipped a brush into.

The Post will have the proud satisfaction of placing upon exhibition an elegant life size Portrait of Rear Admiral GEORGE W. STORER, the distinguished officer and patriot in whose honor the Encampment was named—a recent gift to the Post by his family.

It is believed the Decorations will not be inferior to those of previous occasions.

The Refreshment and Fancy Tables will be amply provided and ably served.

A valuable Cooking Stove and Sewing Machine will be disposed of by lot.

No pains will be spared to render the affair interesting and amusing.

A liberal patronage is asked and substantial tokens of interest in the welfare of the Soldiers and Sailors of Portsmouth.

TICKETS 25 Cents.

Doors open at 7 o'clock.

Donations of Refreshments, and Fancy articles for the Fair, are respectfully solicited. If in addition, donors will kindly deliver them at the side door of the Temple on Warren Street, a very great favor will be conferred. Goods will be received on Thursday, Dec. 19th. EDWIN A. TILTON, for the Committee.

Laconics.

The Grand Army Fair opens at the Temple this evening. Besides the usual attractions offered, there will be tableaux, a cooking stove and sewing machine will be disposed of by lot, and the farce "Look After Brown," with John Burns as "Dennis." Tickets only 25 cents.

George Cahill, who was carried to Wood Island in the lower harbor from the U. S. Receiving Ship Sabine, died of small pox at the quarantine hospital on Wednesday.

Mr. Elias Nason's lecture in the course at the M. E. Church, on the evening of the 17th, was greatly enjoyed by a good audience, the subject, "Greenbacks," being decidedly attractive to most people and well handled by the lecturer. The next lecture will be on "Brass and Brains," on Monday next.

More sleighing than wheeling.

Those who have seen the plans pronounce the city building when finished to be a handsome structure. Those who don't see it yet may wait.

Two thousands new shares of Eastern Railroad stock were sold at auction in Boston on Wednesday at from $101.25 to $102.50.

A lady in this city recently purchased a pair of "specs" of a travelling peddler, giving only $3.50 for the superfine glasses. Next day she carried her purchase into the store of one of our respectable and responsible dealers in such wares, and learned that she could buy as many as she liked at fifty cents each. She now thinks pack-peddlers are a snare and a delusion, and avers that she would not buy virgin gold of one of them at $3.50 a ton.

A meeting of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held at Congress Hall on Tuesday evening, at which the committee chosen at the previous meeting, presented a Constitution and code of By-laws which were accepted and adopted. The following persons were elected as permanent officers of the Society:

President, A. R. Hatch.
Secretary, N. Dana Whipple.
Vice Presidents, Ichabod Goodwin, Daniel H. Peirce, Wm. F. Parrott, James DeNormandie, Carlos Martyn, Mrs. Charles Burroughs, Mrs. Stanton Parker, Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Alfred Haven, Mrs. Jos. B. Upham.
Directors, A. P. Stevens, Wm. H. Sise, Frank Jones, T. E. O. Marvin, J. S. H. Frink, Wm. H. Hackett, J. H. Foster, Lewis E. Smith, N. Dana Whipple, James May, Miss Eliza Rice, Mrs. Julia V. Whipple, Mrs. J. J. Pickering, Mrs. H. C. Knight, Mrs. Aaron Hill, Mrs. Joseph Sise, Miss Ellen Parrott, Miss Lizzie Pearson, Miss Jessie Williams, Miss Emma Vennard.

The prize of fifteen dollars which was offered by Mr. Gilman C. Fisher for the best composition from the scholars of the girls' or boys, High School was awarded to Miss Nellie Giddings, who read her composition, as did also Miss Etta Conn. Miss Alice Stearns was also a contestant for the prize.

Masters Lewis Craig and Percy Lamprey represented the Boys High School. Owing to the equal merits of the compositions, the committee found it difficult to award the prizes.

Rev. Carlos Martyn, Rev. James DeNormandie, Dr. A. P. Stevens and others made interesting remarks.

A Narrow Escape.

The train due in this city at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, struck a man named Tarleton, who belongs in North Hampton and got off the up train at Greenland. The locomotive knocked him clear of the track, and he was picked up with a cut on his head, but he was able to walk away.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 62.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

Hampton was granted in 1638 and settlements commenced soon after. Among the grantees was Rev. Steven Bachiler. We preserve the original spelling of both parts of the name. The first in documents was often written in the usual form, but no change in the sur-name. We think this was the first Bacheldor in this country, but whether he or his relatives had descendents of the name, we cannot say. He continued in Hampton two or three years, and some time later went back to England.

There were two Moultons, John and Thomas. They, and others of the name, settled early a few rods below the Town Hall, at which, place Moultons have continued to the present date. Now the seventh generation is there. The spelling of the name of the point in town was Moulton.

Richard Swayne. This name is now Swain. It was long in the southerly sections of the town, Seabrook or Kensington. Some were Quakers. Jonathan Swain went from Kensington to Raymond only in the history of that town. The name was there long, but is now extinct.

Robert Tucke. It was finally dropped. It was in Kensington long,—may be there yet.

John Osgood. He was a grantee. There was a John Osgood from Andover, England, who was in Newbury in 1839. But the great progenitor of most of the Osgoods in this section of the State was William, a millwright, who settled in Salisbury, Mass., where the factories in Amesbury Village now are, in 1640.

The names of Thomas Marston and Isaac Perkins are found. The names are still in town or in others set off from it by division,—the second year, Robert Page came. The name has continued in descendants in town and North Hampton ever since. One named Robert went from North Hampton to Raymond in 1755, and in his line of descent it has continued to the present. John Philbrick and Thomas Ward were in town by the second year. Those names are yet there.

ELECTION BETS.—It seems like trifling with the grave when questions are propounded as to what is the status of the bets on the result of the Presidential election since Mr. Greeley's death, but nevertheless there are a great many persons who have a large pecuniary interest in having the matter definitely settled. In point of law there is really no Presidential election until after the Electors have met and cast the votes of the several States which they represent. Now, owing to a dispensation of Providence, it became impossible for the Electors to vote for Mr. Greeley, and if he had carried a majority of the States his election would still have been impossible. Taking a purely technical and legal view of the case, there seems to be sufficient ground to warrant those who have lost in making the inquiry, Wilkes' Spirit of the Times, an admitted authority in all such matters, decides that the election has been practically consummated and that the losers must pay. The subject matter of the bets, as understood by the parties at the time the money was put up, was the vote by the people, without reference to any contingency that might happen in the Electoral College or in the lives of the candidates. The ambiguous terms sometimes employed do not change the general principle. For instant, a bet that General Grant "would be the next President" would be determined as soon as the people had voted, and would not depend upon the action of the Electoral College or on the contingency of his life being spared to enter upon the office.

Mr. Wilkes showed his own honesty in his own view of the case by paying up the pets he lost on Mr. Greeley on the morning after the election.

WORDS THAT BURN.—Secretary Robeson in approving the sentence of the young desperados of the Naval Academy who have abused the colored cadet there, says: "Certain of them however, have undertaken, in direct violation of repeated warnings, to manifest their displeasure at the presence of their fellow-student by a system of personal persecution which has found satisfaction in a general insolence of demeanor, in petty indignities and sometimes in acts of personal violence. As an impotent protest against the spirit of national law such conduct was folly. As an insolent expression of superiority to a solitary representative of a lately oppresed race, it was unmanly; as apparently concerted and certainly acquiesced in by many against one, it looked like cowardice, and as an open defiance of the repeated commands of their superiors it was a violation of that principle of submission to authority which is the first and most comprehensive of professional duties. The government does not attempt to control the personal feelings nor regulate the personal associations of any of its officers, but, while it exacts obedience as a principle from those whose services and character deserve the highest consideration, it cannot submit to open defiance from the youngest of its beneficiaries. Certainly the department will not tolerate at the academy, under any circumstances, a spirit of rebellion against authority, and whenever such a spirit is manifested in overt action, summary and inevitable punishment must be executed."

—General Hood, who tried to flank Sherman, is now in command of a peaceful pill shop in Georgia.

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick co Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

— ALSO —

The Peerless, Eaton Cook, Sheridan, Union Cook, Norman Range, Rival, Model Cook, Farmer's Cook, White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

Morning Chronicle.

EVENTS.—Time and distance are nothing now. The railroad and telegraph have disturbed all modes of computing and describing. Time was, that when English news was only twenty days old, it was fresh news. We heard from Asia and the Nile every four months, and actually had news of the battle of Navarino in forty-four days. The battle of New Orleans was fought about a month after the treaty of peace was signed at Ghent. When the Russian armies crossed the Balkan and besieged Adrianople, we heard of it in three months. When Ben. Franklin was Post Master General of the American colonies, and kept the entire accounts of his department upon a quire of foolscap stitched together with a needle and thread, he ran a mail on horse-back from Boston to Philadelphia once in three weeks; and all the world thought him a prodigy of energy and speed. About the time our people were discussing the escape of Bonaparte from Elba and his march on Paris, that remarkable man was packing his kit for a trip to St. Helena. The world moved slow then, but people did not know it, and made as much fuss about speed, and rush, and rivalries as now. Some people may remember the time when they traveled by stage from Baltimore to St. Louis in twelve days; when they used to throw off the mails at way stations in crossing the Alleghanies to make room for the loads of oysters which they brought—being well paid for it!

Things are different now. We are not only up with Time, but ahead of him, for the stock board in New York, meeting at twelve o'clock, noon, has before it the doings of the London Exchange, which meets at three in the afternoon. One takes up a newspaper and reads that "two hundred and forty Carlists entered Spain from France on Tuesday;" that the gas went out in London "Sunday night;" that "the steamship Maine arrived at Southampton yesterday;" "it commenced snowing in Boston, at noon to-day;" they had "heavy gales in Paris on Tuesday." So it goes. We read in the morning Journal of what took place yesterday and the day before, in London, in Spain, in Calcutta, and Grand Cairo. Congress adjourns at midnight; Boston burns up; a ship is wrecked on Barnegat; Warmouth issues another proclamation; there is a snow at Duluth, and a ship arrives at "Frisco" from Yokohama; and we know all these things before breakfast.

We are informed by "Old Probabilities" when it is going to snow, blow and freeze, two days beforehand; and if a hurricane is brewing in Jamaica, or a whirlwind off the reefs of Florida, we know all about it, and have ample time to furl our sails, and set our houses in order. The past and the future are losing their identity, and all things are becoming absorbed in the almighty present.

The philosophers foretell the appearance of the next blazing comet. The Chicago Journal can name the very day when the next Chicago murderer will get a new trial—when a supersedeas, and when a full pardon; and the Millerites will predict, though Mayor Medill cannot, the exact hour when the millennium will set in.

Indeed, events move fast, and men live a score of years in one. Life's activities consume the brain and shorten the period of existence. Like a passing shadow—like a weaver's shuttle—like a watch of the night, man fleeth away: yes, man giveth up the ghost and where is he?—Illinois State Journal.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
OF THE
Jacksonville, Northwestern & Southeastern R. R.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When destroyed, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

Thisroad is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of the FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our physicians have used daily in their practice, in complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest heels, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely sure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The Chronicle.

THE GERMAN CORRESPONDENT of an English paper gives the following condensed narrative of the effects of the recent fearful tempest in the North Sea and along the Baltic coast, by which whole towns and villages were ruined, many lives lost, and great suffering occasioned:

We will attempt to give some idea of the terrible devastation occasioned by the high tide and wind from the northeast on the 13th of November. This tide, which reached its greatest height on the coast of Schleswig at about 9 o'clock at night, was the highest ever known on the shores of the Baltic, exceeding the great tide of 1694 by 25 inches in height, and that of 1836 by 28 inches. The water rose about eleven feet above the mean level of the sea. On the shore of the Baltic, which are quite unsheltered, an inundation could not fail to take place, and all human exertions and precautions were utterly powerless. In the small town of Apenrade alone 90 houses have become uninhabitable, and nearly 200 families have not a roof over their heads.

The news from Eckernforde is still worse; entire streets have been literally annihilated, while many of the buildings left standing are undermined in their foundations to such an extent that they will have to be pulled down. The exact number of dwellings totally destroyed in Eckernforde cannot yet be ascertained, but it will not fall short of 100. Hundreds of inhabitants have lost everything; house and home, furniture, agricultural implements, cattle, supplies for the winter—they have literally nothing left them.

The news from the district of Oldenburg is most saddening, but here, too, the damage done cannot be fully estimated as yet. On one property 350 cows and 200 hogs were drowned; many villages have been inundated, and in one of them from 40 to 50 houses have been destroyed. In several places human lives have been lost; in the village of Eahme 11 persons are missing, and the death of 7 of them has been ascertained. In the island of Femarn the family of a pilot, consisting of husband, wife and two children, who had taken refuge on the roof of the house and were clinging to the chimney, were washed away and drowned in the sight of their neighbors and of a boat's crew which had already succeeded in saving the lives of 21 persons. On this island the sea broke through all the dikes, and out of 42 villages the fields and property of only 11 escaped the devastating flood. The entire coast of western Pomerania and the Island of Rugen, with its projecting peninsulas and the smaller island lying around it, have also most severely suffered.

The long and narrow island of Hiddensee, near Rugen, through which the sea once before forced its way, has been divided into two parts by a channel 17 feet deep. Two villages were completely inundated, and had to be abandoned by their inhabitants, numbering 57 families. Their houses are all saturated with water and have become uninhabitable. Vitte was also entirely covered by the sea, and its inhabitants—70 families—had to be rescued from the garrets by boats. Provisions, winter stores of all kinds, and fuel have been washed away or spoiled, and the wells are useless on account of the salt water with which they are filled. Want of shelter from the cold is bitterly felt, and the unfortunate people have not the primary necessaries of life. The chief trade of the island has been totally destroyed, as all the fishing-nets have disappeared, and the boats were either knocked in pieces or carried off by the sea.

The peninsular of Dars and the island of Zings, the forelands of a part of western Pomerania, were also devastated by this unexampled inundation. The natural dikes have been broken through in five places, and the artificial dikes and embankments, constructed not long ago at a heavy cost, have been entirely demolished.

In the island of Zingst the water was everywhere about three metres deep, most of the buildings have been entirely destroyed, and the remainder seriously damaged. The inhabitants had to take refuge on the roofs, where they passed a whole day and night without food. All their property has been destroyed or washed away, and their cattle drowned.

In the district of Franzburg alone, 4000 hectares of cultivated land, besides the forests, have been devastated and rendered worthless for many years to come, and more than 4000 inhabitants have lost their property, and are even without food.

Only a small portion of the losses can be made good by the exertions of the inhabitants themselves, for it is laborers, mechanics, fishermen, and small farmers—in short, the poorest classes—that have suffered most by the inundation.

SICK-HEADACHE. — This is attended with nausea and sometimes vomiting, and is attributable to a disordered liver. Take frequent sips of warm water until the nausea subsides, and then occasional sips of cold water.—Science of Health.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1872.

Readables.

The Massachussetts legislature has adjourned. It passed twenty acts and seven resolves, including a resolution condemning the course Mr. Sumner has pursued in regard to the erasure of names of battles from the regimental flags and army registers.

And now Vice President Colfax declines to edit the New York Tribune.

Prof. Tyndall was robbed of fifty sovereigns in New York.

Lydia Studley, who was pardoned from Vermont State prison after serving 12 years of a life sentence for the murder of her husband, died on Thursday, aged eighty-two years. She was pardoned because her great age and increasing infirmities rendered it certain that but little of life remained to her.

Arrangements have been made between the Post-office and War departments by which one or more of the daily weather reports issued by the signal office will be furnished daily to all post-offices that can be reached from the several points of distribution daily by mail, as these reports are designed for the benefit of the agricultural as well as the commercial interests of the country. The Postmaster-General instructs all postmasters receiving them to post them immediately in frames supplied for the purpose by the signal officer.

The Danbury News says when there is about six inches of snow on the ground a hen will stand on one leg in it for an hour at a time, and think of last Fall.

A Scranton youth was observed sliding down an alley, and enjoying himself hugely. He would coax a big dog up the alley, and when it turned he would grab hold of its tail and slide down most beautifully. In playing this game, it is always best to select a good natured dog—one that doesn't take much pride in his tail.

A Danbury gentleman ate two mince pies before retiring Sunday night, and about two o'clock the next morning was picked up by eleven bald headed angels and pushed through ten yards of lead pipe.

Mrs. Daniels of Shawnee, Kansas, wrote Mr. Fortner a note inviting him to meet her by moonlight alone, there or thereabouts. Mr. Daniels got hold of the note, but had the note delivered, and then kept the tryst instead of his wife. Mr. Fortner immediately sent for the doctor, who at once went to exploring that gentleman's anatomy in search of a lead mine. His official report of the exploration places the number of buck-shot at thirty-eight.

A Deserved Compliment.

The Coos Republican, speaking of leading political men in New Hampshire, says:—

Foremost in this list comes Hon. Edward H. Rollins, a gentleman to whom the Republican party is under a debt of lasting gratitude, and but for whose labors in at least three hard fought battles the Democratic party would have succeeded in the March election. It would be presumptuous to say the Republican party of New Hampshire contains no member who could successfully fill the place of Mr. Rollins as chairman of the State Committee, but such a man, after diligent search, has not been found. As a member of Congress, too, New Hampshire never sent a more useful one. He was in Washington during the war, and many are the people who witnessed his untiring assiduity in behalf of soldiers from this State.

State News.

Dover's G. A. R. Fair netted the soldiers $500.

Sixty-five new houses have been built in Lebanon this season, and there is still a lack of tenements.

The Franklin Journal says that Geo. Scribner, a workman in Walter Aiken's machine shop, while under the mill on the 10th, oiling the main shaft and gearing, was caught by his clothes on a set-screw connected with the shaft. He threw his arms, quick as thought, around the chamber of the air-pump, and clung to it while the flying shaft whirled most of the clothes from his body. With a moment's hesitation he would have been whirled with the shaft, and dashed to pieces.

The house of Albert Stark, in Lyme, was burned on the 16th, at about 5 o'clock, P. M.

Mr. J. W. F. Hobbs is a candidate for Railroad Commissioner.

The prohibitory State convention slaughtered a resolution favoring women's rights, was addressed by Mr. J. Horace Kent of this city, and passed resolutions calling for an impartial enforcement of criminal laws, requesting Congressmen to prohibit the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors, petitioning the legislature to pass laws to exclude from the jury box manufacturers and sellers of intoxicating liquors, and demanding the establishment of a State police.

On the evening of the 14th, Miss Sue Elliott, a young lady of North Lutleton, was struck by a passing sleigh, and severely, if not fatally, injured. Her right leg was broken above the knee, her left hand badly cut and her head bruised. Since the accident she has been most of the time unconscious or delirious.

New Publications.

In the January number of The Galaxy Mr. DeForest's new story, "The Wetherell Affair," is continued, Mr. Trollope's is concluded, and a new one entitled "A Vagabond Heroine," by Mrs. Edwards, is begun. Justin McCarthy contributes a sketch of Earl Russell. "In the Back Street" is the title of a short story by Isabella Grant Meredith. "Wonderina," by Lady Blanche Murphy, describes the way from Madeira to Rome. The editorial departments show no change in the general character and they have always constituted an excellent feature of the magazine.

The Christmas Number of To-Day, the popular illustrated weekly, of which Dr. Dio Lewis is the editor, has just been issued. It is one of the most brilliant and effective periodicals ever published in this country. It contains twice the usual number of pages; and these are filled with choice stores, interesting sketches, delightful humor, spicy material from Dio Lewis, Christmas music and poetry, and unusually attractive general reading suitable to the festival season. Several authors of reputation are represented, among them, Edmund Yates, T. S. Arthur, Christian Reid, Jean Ingelow, John D. Stockton, Max Adeler, and others. The number is rich in illustrations, drawn by some of the best artists in the country, and executed by one of the most skillful engravers in the profession.

To-Day, is just the paper for the fireside and the family. We cordially recommend it to the public; and we assure those who desire employment that they cannot do better than to canvass for To-Day, which offers especially good terms and a marvelously beautiful chromo to each subscriber. Maclean, Stoddart & Co., Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and Cincinnati, are the publishers.

In spite of the big Boston fire, when the printing establishment of Thomes & Talbot was destroyed, Ballou's Magazine for January has made its appearance, looking as fresh and nice as though it had never met with trouble and disaster. We congratulate the publishers for their energy in placing their publication before the public, so soon after the big fire, and hope the people will respond by liberally subscribing for it,—the way to show sympathy. Each person who sends $1.50 receives Ballou's for a year and also a beautiful chromo of moss roses or lilies as a gratuity. This is handsome and should be the means of inducing thousands to send in their names. Among the contents of this number is a good sea story, a number of pieces of poetry, half a dozen interesting stories, some adventures and other matters of interest. Thomes & Talbot, 36 Bromfield Street, Boston.

The Science of Health for January is filled with practical suggestions. It contains Popular Physiology; an article on "What my Corsets Cost me;" an illustrated article on Diseases of the Eye; Dress of Uncivilized Women; Fresh Air and Open Fires; a timely and most sensible article on Holiday Dishes; How to Cook; Saving Babies; Ague and Fever; The Health of Teachers; Three Classes of American Boys, illustrated; some excellent Health Laconics, with the usual Answers to Correspondents; and a well selected Miscellany. Only $2 a year. S. R. Wells, Publisher, 389 Broadway, New York.

HEADACHE.—This may be caused by congested brain, overloaded stomach, or constipated bowels. Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and use freely good fruit, wheatmeal, bread and wheaten grits.—Science of Health.

☞ THE NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE for this week, is now ready for delivery, at the Chronicle Office. Each number contains all the reading matter of the week's Dailies. Price $2 a year; single copies 5 cents, in wrappers for mailing, if desired. Six copies for $10 per year, to Clubs—per mail or city carrier.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

UNPRODUCTIVE FRAUDS.—Imitations and counterfeits of an established popular restorative, although mischievous in their direct effects, are indirectly beneficial in some respects. They teach the community to rate at its just value the preparation that has been similated and pirated. The reputation and sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for example, have been greatly enhanced by the attempts that have been made to supplant it. The dupes of imposture who from time to time have been induced by plausible falsehoods to some worthless succedaneum for the genuine and tonic of America have invariably returned to it in an enthusiastic frame of mind, ready to champion its merits to the uttermost. The warmest panegeirists of its preventive and curative properties are those who have weighed the nostrums of envious adventurers in the balance and found them wanting. In a pecuniary point of view, all attempts to undermine the popularity of this medicine have proved advantageous to the proprietors, and except for the sake of protecting the public the game of exposure would not be worth the candle.

A GLORIOUS RECORD.—Twelve years ago a few modest lines in a New York Journal invited public attention to a new Vegetable restorative, and solicited a trial of its merits as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, fever and ague, debility, nervous disorders, rheumatism and all complaints requiring invigorating and regulating treatment. In this quiet, unpretentious way, PLANTATION BITTERS was introduced to the world. It was a success from the beginning. All that was claimed for it as a tonic, a corrective and antidote to malarious fever, was found to be strictly true. Within five years the annual sales of this article amounted to over One Million of Bottles. A few years more and the demand had swelled to five millions of bottles and the annual consumption of the bitters has now reached the almost incredible aggregate of SIX MILLIONS OF BOTTLES, and for every bottle sold a copy of the ILLUSTRATED MEDICAL ANNUAL, published by the proprietors, at a cost of $150,000, is given away.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE Cut their wise teeth, use the SOZODONT, and all who do, are willing to declare to all who don't use it, that it is the most perfect and delightful thing for the teeth they ever dipped a brush into.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Newington Depot

Of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad is to be located at "Bloody Point" on the "Berry farm," now owned by Mr. Joseph W. Whidden, and not on the "Nancy Drew farm." That location is called "Bloody Point" from the fact that the owners of land there, Captains Wiggin and Neal, had a dispute and were dissuaded from fighting, by friends. Another account says a fight between Indians and early settlers really occurred there, and the defeated Indians left their dead at the Point, where the whites buried them.

The G. A. R. Fair

Opened successfully, Thursday evening, and continues through the week. The dramatic company appear in "The Ugly Customer," to-night, Mr. John F. Leverton making his debut as "Simon Coobiddey." The curtain will rise at nine o'clock.

A Live Man.

Work on the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad has commenced at both ends of the line. For more than a quarter of a century the project of connecting these two places by rail has been discussed. When the Eastern road was being built it was proposed to continue that line to Dover, but it has taken thirty years to bring about the project. At last Portsmouth seems to have found a man equal to the occasion, in ex-Mayor Frank Jones, the President of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad. Mr. Jones is one of the men who rises before breakfast time, does the work of half a dozen men, and generally accomplishes the business he undertakes. The following characteristic anecdote is told of him: Returning from New York a few weeks ago, while taking breakfast in Boston, on his way home, he took up a newspaper which gave an account of the burning of a large barn at his residence, a mile from the business part of Portsmouth, causing a loss of several thousand dollars. On arriving at Portsmouth, at 10 o'clock, he repaired to his counting-room, where were assembled more than half a dozen persons who were profuse in their sympathetic news. "Gentlemen," said Jones, "I am much obliged for your kindness, but we must build this Dover Railroad, and as I have to attend a meeting of the Board of Directors, you will have to excuse me." The "sufferer" met the Board, spent his day in pushing forward the work, telegraphed for stock to rebuild his barn, dined at the Rockingham in order to meet the engineer and some of the contractors, and not till the shades of night closed on his labors, was he able to drive out to his residence to see the havoc the fire king had created upon his estate. When a man of Mr. Jones' energy takes hold of an enterprise it must succeed, and our seaport is fortunate in being able to number among her live men, such a vigorous illustration as the President of the P. & D. R. R.—Concord Monitor.

Laconics.

The Republicans of the first Ward will hold their caucus for the choice of delegates to the various conventions on Friday evening of next week.

There will be a meeting of the Assessors of Taxes at the City Rooms this (Friday) evening at half-past 7. Any persons having business with them can be heard at that time.

Ladies and gentlemen of the Unitarian society are busily engaged in decorating the church with evergreens and floral adornments for the Christmas season. As two days would not suffice to complete the arrangements after next Sunday, the services that day will be held in the chapel on Court Street, instead of at the church.

To-day, in the Episcopal Church, is "Friday of Ember Week in Advent," and the present year, is an exceptionally solemn and interesting occasion. A special service, everywhere the same, has been set forth by the Bishops throughout the world, wherever the English language is spoken. It is an appointment of fasting and prayer for the power of the Holy Spirit in the church, and the spread of the Gospel in the world. This order of Divine service will be held in St. John's Chapel, on State Street, this morning, commencing at 11 o'clock.

Wilkinson & Henderson's Dramatic Troupe will appear here Dec. 31, and Harry Bloodgood's Combination on the 8th of January, 1873.

Mr. Samuel C. Knights, President of the Cambridge, Mass., Temperence Reform Association, a reformed man and an active worker, will speak at the Temple, Sunday evening.

Daniel Canty of this city has raised and slaughtered a fifteen months old hog weighing 723 pounds.

GREENLAND.—Accidents seem to follow up the people of this quiet town. Mr. Abednego Robinson was gored by an unruly bull; a day or two later Mr. George W. Davis, a man of sixty years or more, fell from an apple tree and broke his hip; the next day Capt. Orlando G. Robinson was thrown from his carriage and badly injured; and on the 15th, as Mr. Elias P. Wentworth and wife were driving to Newmarket, their horse became frightened and Mr. Wentworth was thrown out, having his leg broken and receiving other injuries. Mrs. Wentworth was thrown into the bottom of the carriage, but succeeded in stopping the horse by her voice, after he had run about a mile with the reins under his feet. She then got out, took the reins, drove back to where her husband lay, got him into the carriage and drove home. The break of Mr. Wentworth's leg was a very serious one, the bone protruding through the flesh and making a hole an inch and a quarter in diameter.—Two of the above mentioned sufferers are quite comfortable; the others are critical cases.

A BOY'S JOURNAL.—Dorry, a boy six years old, thinks he will do as other men have done.

"March 12.—Have resolved to keep a jurnal.

March 13.—Had rost befe for diner, and cabage, and potato and appel sawce and rice puding. I do not like rice puding when it is like ours. Charley Slack's kind is rele good. Mush and sirup for tea.

The "Domestic" Sewing Machine.

A Few Days' Trial Free.

Don't trust advice; your own experience is safer.

The "Domestic" is so easy, so ready, and so useful, that you will not be willing to part with it.

No other Sewing Machine was ever a quarter as successful. The secret of its success lies in the machine itself, viz: Its ever-ready reliability for all kinds of work.

It costs more to do without it than to buy it. Other machines are useful; but don't judge the "Domestic" by them. Try it. If it does not justify your expectation, you lose nothing.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

— OF —

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention, to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

Morning Chronicle.

FIRMAMENTAL FERVENCY.—When the human mind acknowledged that the earth was round it failed to admit the natural deduction therefrom, that it had no end. Everybody feels confident that some time, in one way or another, the world will have an end, but the confidence that it will not be in our time is at least equal to the confidence that it some time will be.

At a lecture delivered in New York, Thursday night, Dr. Henry Draper offered a few suggestions with regard to this subject which may be interesting to those whose plans look very far into the future for fulfillment. His lecture was upon Solar Prominences. These he explained, by means of observations taken with the largest telescope in the country, to be streams of intensely heated hydrogen, which are ejected from the sun with such velocity that they would reach the earth in a few hours if of sufficient volume. To this he adds the fact that there is enough hydrogen in the sun to produce such a volume, if only the forces, which lead to the eruptions, should unite sufficiently at one time.

Moreover, such a thing is not without precedent. In May, 1868, the star T, of the constellation Corona borealis, which had not been visible to the unassisted eye, suddenly brightened up to a star of the second magnitude. An examination showed that it had become enveloped in a vast atmosphere of heated hydrogen which extended from it as far as from the sun to the earth, and subsided in about three days. Our sun is essentially of the nature of that star and such an event is as possible there as it was in the other case.

Dr. Draper neglected to prescribe any way to avoid such a catastrophe; but if it should occur the matter of its subsidence would be of little importance to the inhabitants of this earth. It would stop the present life insurance quarrel, but at almost too great a sacrifice.—Hartford Courant.

SUNSHINE.—Do not exclude the sunshine to save the carpet. Sunlight is essential to health. Human beings are as dependent upon light as are plants and animals. Children reared in shady rooms have weak eyes, and are as frail and scrofulous as potato vines in a cellar.—Science of Health.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—To use an expressive Western phrase, the Ointment "wipes out" every eruptive and ulcerous disorder, while the Pills purge the internal organs of all impurity. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per pot or box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

Jacksonville, Northwestern & Southeastern R. R.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick ce Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the cure of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks are scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is the only remedy in the advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians in the Boston Dispensary. It was he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse." CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. It is unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part to enable me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS, and Much has been said and written, many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no solid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for Internal, Bleeding, External, and Itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. E. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices —and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

WHO REQUIRE MOST SLEEP?—Those who think most, require the most sleep. Time gained from necessary sleep is not saved but lost. Mind and body will both suffer. Most people, however, do not think enough to make early rising particularly dangerous. It is the hard-working professional man, the close student, or the man of business with many cares upon his mind, who suffers most from loss of sleep.—Science of Health.

CHRISTMAS PUDDING.—For this, wash and cook one pint pearl barley in five pints water, gently five or six hours, or until it will mash easily, and is not more than full of juice. To three pints of this cooked barley add one quart of chopped apple and one pint Malaga raisins stewed half an hour, one half-pint washed currants, three gills of sugar, and the juice and pulp of two large lemons or two limes. Mix very thoroughly and bake one and a half hours. This quantity will serve ten or twelve people. Serve warm or cold in the dish in which it was baked. This can be set on a plate garnished or wreathed with holly. To garnish the pudding itself take a large apple, cut a slice across the centre one-fourth of an inch thick, so as to show the star formed by the seed cells. Remove the skin from these, ornament the edge of the slice with a fancy cake cutter, and place in the centre of the pudding fifteen or twenty minutes before it is done, watching that it does not burn.—Science of Health.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS.—At a meeting of the Republican State Committee on the 4th inst., the times and places named below were designated for holding the State, Congressional, Councilor, Senatorial and County Conventions. All who supported U. S. GRANT and HENRY WILSON at the late election; all who desire a firm, economical and Constitutional administration of National and State affairs; all who believe that "honesty and efficiency rather than political activity," should be the essential qualification for the public service, and all who accept the settlement of the prominent issues that have divided political parties for the last ten years as just and final, are invited to attend the primary meetings for the choice of delegates to the conventions named in this call. Let due notice be given of the primaries so that they may be fully attended. Let them be impartially conducted so that they may fairly reflect the will of the people.

Delegates to the State Convention will be carried for half fare over the various railroads, but tickets with return coupons attached can be obtained at the stations only.

Mark's Twain's Duel.

The only merit I claim for the following narrative is that it is a true story. It has a moral at the end of it, but I claim nothing on that, as it is merely thrown in to carry favor with the religious element.

After I had reported a couple of years on the Virginia City (Nevada) Daily Enterprise, they promoted me to be editor-in-chief—and I lasted just a week, by the watch. But I made an uncommonly lively newspaper while I did last, and when I retired I had a duel on my hands, and three horse-whippings promised me. The latter I made no attempt to collect; however, this history concerns only the former. It was the old "flush times" of the silver excitement, when the population was wonderfully wild and mixed; everybody went armed to the teeth, and all slights and insults had to be atoned for with the best article of blood your system could furnish.

In the course of my editing I made trouble with a Mr. Lord, editor of the rival paper. He flew up about some little trifle or other that I said about him—I do not remember now what it was. I suppose I called him a thief, or a body-snatcher, or an idiot, or something like that. I was obliged to make the paper readable, and I could not fail in my duty to a whole community of subscribers merely to save the exaggerated sensitiveness of an individual. Mr. Lord was offended, and replied vigorously in his paper. Vigorously means a great deal when it refers to a personal editorial in a frontier newspaper.

Dueling was all the fashion among the upper classes in that country, and very few gentlemen would throw away an opportunity of fighting one. To kill a person in a duel caused a man to be even more looked up to than to kill two men in the ordinary way. Well, out there, if you abused a man, and that man did not like it, you had to call him out and kill him; otherwise you would be disgraced.

So I challenged Mr. Lord, and I did hope he would not accept; but I knew perfectly well that he did not want to fight, and so I challenged him in the most violent and implacable manner. And then I sat down and suffered and suffered till the answer came. All our boys—the editors—were in our office, "helping" me in the dismal business, and telling about duels, and discussing the code with a lot of aged ruffians who had had experience in such things, and altogether there was a loving interest taken in the matter, which made me unspeakably uncomfortable. The answer came—Mr. Lord declined. Our boys were furious, and so was I—on the surface.

I sent him another challenge, and another and another; and the more he did not want to fight the bloodthirstier I became. But at last the man's tone changed. He appeared to be waking up. It was becoming apparent that he was going to fight me, after all. I ought to have known how it would be—he was a man who never could be depended upon. Our boys were exultant. I was not, though I tried to be.

It was now time to go out and practice. It was the custom there to fight duels with navy six-shooters at fifteen paces—load and empty till the game of inneral was secure. We went to a little ravine just outside of town and borrowed a barn-door for a target—borrowed it from a gentleman who was absent—and we stood this barn-door up, and stood a rail on end against the middle of it, to represent Lord, and put a squash on top the rail to represent his head. He was a very tall, lean creature, the poorest sort of material for a duel—nothing but a line shot could "fetch" him, and even then he might split your bullet. Exaggeration aside, the rail was, of course, a little too thin to represent his body accurately, but the squash was all right. If there was any intellectual difference between the squash and his head, it was in favor of the squash.

Well, I practised and practised at the barndoor, and could not hit it; and practised at the rail, and could not hit that; and I tried hard for the squash, and could not hit the squash. I would have been entirely disheartened, but that occasionally I crippled one of the boys, and that encouraged me to hope.

At last we began to hear pistol shots near by in the next ravine. We knew what that meant! The other party were out practising too. Then I was in the last degree distressed, for of course those people would hear our shots and they would send spies over the ridge, and the spies would find my barn door without a wound or a scratch, and that would simply be the end of me—for of course that other man would immediately become as bloodthirsty as I was. Just at this moment a little bird, no larger than a sparrow, flew by and lit on a sage bush about thirty paces away, and my little second, Steve Gillis, who was a matchless marksman with a pistol, much better than I was—snatched out his revolver and shot the bird's head off! We all ran to pick up the game, and sure enough, just at this moment, some of the other duellists come reconnoitring over the little ridge. They ran to our group to see what the matter was, and when they saw the bird, Lord's second said.—

"That was a splendid shot. How far off was it?"

Steve said, with some indifference:

"Oh, no great distance. About thirty paces."

"Thirty paces! Heavens alive, who did it?"

"My man—Twain."

"The mischief he did! Can he do that often?"

"Well—yes. He can do it about—well—about four times out of five."

I knew the little rascal was lying, but I never said anything. I never told him so. He was not of a disposition to invite confidence of that kind, so I let the matter rest. But it was a comfort to see those people look sick, and see their under-jaws drop, when Steve made these statements. They went off and got Lord, and took him home; and when we got home, half an hour later, there was a note saying that Mr. Lord peremptorily declined to fight!

It was a narrow escape. We found out afterwards that Lord hit his mark thirteen times in eighteen shots. If he had put those thirteen bullets through me, it would have narrowed my sphere of usefulness a good deal—would have well nigh closed it, in fact. True they could have put pegs in the holes, and used me for a hat-rack; but what is a hat-rack to a man who feels he has intellectual powers? I would scorn such a position.

I have written this true incident of my personal history for one purpose, and one purpose only—to warn the youth of the day against the pernicious practice of dueling, and to plead with them to war against it. If the remarks and suggestions I am making can be of any service to Sunday school teachers and newspapers interested in the moral progress of society, they are at liberty to use them, and I shall even be grateful to have them widely disseminated, so that they may do as much good as possible. I was young and foolish when I challenged that gentleman, and I thought it was very fine and very grand to be a duellist, and stand upon the "field of honor." But I am older and more experienced now, and am inflexibly opposed to the dreadful custom. I am glad, indeed, to be enabled to lift up my voice against it. I think it is a bad, immoral thing. I think its every man's duty to do all he can to discourage dueling. I always do now: I discourage it upon every occasion.

If a man were to challenge me now—now that I can fully appreciate the iniquity of that practice—I would go to that man, and take him by the hand, and lead him to a quiet, retired room—and kill him.

City Council.

In Board of Aldermen, Thursday evening, the Committee on Gas Lights reported the petition for gas light near Post Office, without recommendation.

Voted, That the gas light be granted.

John Clark's bill for damage to house, furniture, etc., on account of small pox, was referred to Health Committee.

Petitions of Mrs. Simpson of Cabot Street, and Mrs. Kingsbury, of Austin Street, for leave to remove trees, were referred to Committee on Streets, with favor.

The Mayor presented his veto of the vote passed at previous meeting relating to Geo. E. Barsantee. The veto was referred to the City Solicitor for his opinion,—ayes, Annable, Waldron, Wilson and Giddings, 4; nays, Mendum, and Hatch 2.

Common Council not in session.

Laconics.

The G. A. R. Fair at the Temple closes to-night. The Pythian club volunteer the production of a farce, "My Turn Next," in which Mr. Oliver F. Gerrish, whose rendition of "Damon" has been so generally applauded, will appear in a new role, personating "Tom Trap." The curtain rises at 9 o'clock.

To-day is the shortest of the year.

"Fisherman's luck" is not always the unpleasant combinations of discomforts the old proverb would have us believe. On Wednesday two smelt-fishers on Great Bay caught eighty pounds weight each.

The largest pair of cattle ever seen at Brighton, weighing 6115 pounds, were sold by D. A. Philbrick of Hampton. They were raised on the Peirce farm at Greenland.

One of the neat modes of India-rubber advertisements is seen in Portsmouth, where a naval officer leaving the city, placed his house and furniture for rent in the hands of his grocer around the corner. The man of trade in his advertisement, among other advantages states that the house is "within six rods of a first-class grocery and provision store." That is certainly killing two birds with one stone.

William Johnson, who was arrested for passing counterfeit money in Hollis and Manchester, has been bound over for trial at Portsmouth in May next. The counterfeits he passed were three fifty dollar Treasury notes, and a thousand dollars in currency.

Every one, and especially those of limited means, desires to make every dollar go as far as possible in the purchase of holiday presents. We know of no better place to secure useful and beautiful articles for a small amount of money than at the "Dollar store" of A. N. Brown & Bro., under the Franklin House. Their neat little store is completely crammed with pretty presents for both old and young. The only trouble for purchasers is that one is almost bewildered by the multitude of articles exhibited, and yet it has this advantage that every taste can be catered to. We cannot begin to enumerate what they show, and must refer our readers to their advertisement, and, best of all, to the store itself, with its well-filled shelves.

True Temperance Reform.

Editors Chronicle; In your report of the "State Prohibitory Convention" recently held at Concord my name is used in such a manner (no doubt unintentionally, as you were previously aware of my present convictions) as to lead the reader to suppose that I was a delegate, and participated in the passage of the resolutions by that body of gentlemen.

Such is not the case. I was there as a correspondent of a Boston daily and when invited to address the convention did so briefly, stating that my efforts in the cause of temperance were based on the conviction that intemperance should be regarded as a disease to be counteracted by medico-moral appliances, rather than as a crime controllable by coercive measures and penal enactments;—and I believe it is the duty of all good and true men and women to use all means to advance public opinion and sentiment to that point where the community will believe that the traffic in intoxicating drinks is an evil which has no redeeming quality, but is the most "prolific source of crime, taxation, pauperism and death" in this or any other country, and, then (like the progress of other reforms which have preceded it) the people will be ready for its entire prohibition. J. HORACE KENT.

—A contract to build twenty-four miles of fence on the Portsmouth and Dover railroad has been given to Capt. F. G. Arcy, of Brewer, Me.

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

—The Universalist Sabbath School Convention, held here Thursday of last week, was well attended. James M. Carr, Esq., of this city, called the meeting to order, and prayer was offered by Rev. A. J. Patterson, of Boston Highlands. During the forenoon the discussions were entered into by Mayor Marvin and Dr. C. A. Norton, of this city, Revs. Messrs. Crehore, of Dover, Conger, of Concord, Emerson, of Boston, editor of the Universalist, and Patterson. The subject, in the afternoon was "The proper time of holding Sabbath School sessions," in which the pastor of the church Rev. O. F. Van Cise, the above ministers, and others from near and far, participated. In the evening the dedication of the new vestry took place, a large audience being present. The exercises consisted of Invocation by Rev. Carlos Martyn, pastor of the Congregational church, Prayer of Dedication by Rev. A. J. Patterson, Hymn of Dedication, (written by a lady connected with the church,) sung by the congregation. Dedicatory Address by Rev. O. F. Van Cise, Address, by Rev. A. J. Patterson, "The Teacher and the Sunday School"—all interspersed with singing. The vestry is most desirable and convenient, and arranged and furnished with much skill and taste. There are four rooms. The audience room measures 36 by 59, capable of seating about 300 persons, and is lighted by day with nine large windows. Moveable settees, like those just adopted in Dr. Miner's new vestry of Boston, are used for general seating purposes. A centre chandelier with four burners, and side brackets, furnish brilliant light by night. Beautiful illuminated sentences, uniformly framed, occupy conspicuous places on the walls, the gift of an active member of the church and society. A neat and tasteful moveable reading desk occupies a central position on the elevated and tastefully carpeted platform at the rear or north end of the room; while on its right is the piano, also a gift to the school. The parlor, 22 by 20, designed for class and business meetings, is arranged with particular care, and presents a thoroughly cheerful and homelike appearance. Here are hung many portraits of the former pastors, etc., of the church, besides a life-size, life-like crayon, of the late Dr. Brackett Hutchings, who at his decease bequeathed a generous sum to the society. Leading from the school room is the church kitchen 12 by 15, completely furnished, with a large range and everything necessary in the utensil way. The library room 8 by 11 is well fitted for its purpose and the conveniences of the school; it has two sliding windows, a succession of shelves etc., and is heated from the audience room. The general hight of story is 10ft. 2in. The entire cost of these long needed improvements, which have been done under the superintendence of the Wardens, was $5000, the society well congratuting itself that this expense is all provided for Christmas festivities will held here, he and the public will, then have another opportunity for examining the premises.

—Mr. Geo. B. Bartlett, well known to many of our citizens, will give a tableaux entertainment at the Temple, early in January for the benefit of the Young Peoples' Union. It will be a fine affair. Mr. Bartlett's genius for amusing has been fully proven not only by his public exhibitions, but by his numerous contributions to "Our Young Folks." In the January number he gives a capital pantomime "Love in Ambush." The Union realized $100 by the entertainment of the M. I. C. at the Unitarian chapel last week. Wendell Phillips' benefit lecture also added a generous sum to the treasury. The Union rooms are meeting with more than the usual success this winter, the patrons being generous in numbers and united in interest. The free classes to members in book-keeping, penmanship and drawing, are largely attended, considerable advance having already been attained under the instruction of skilled teachers. The library connected with the reading room contains a choice selection of books, and is liberally patronized. We are assured that donations to this important branch of the organization are "in order" at any time.

—The Richings' Concert and Opera, with Caroline Richings Bernard as prima donna, supported by a first class company, are announced to appear at the Temple, next Tuesday evening. The first part of the entertainment is to consist of a concert, part second of the second act of Martha, (in costume) the entertainment to conclude with the 4th act of Verdi's grand Opera of Il Trovatore also in costume, including the following morceaux;

IL SUPPLIZIO. THE PUNISHMENT.
Scena Ed Aria—"Di amor sull' ali rosee—'On rosy wings of love depart."
Miserere—Miserere d'un alma—"Have compassion upon."
Scena E Duetto—Qual voce! come—"Those accents, lady! thus near me?"
Finale Quarto Duettino—Se m'ami ancor!—"If filial love."
Seguito Del Finale Scena E Terzetto—Parlar non vuoi—"Thou will not speak."
Scena Finale—Ti scosta! non respingermi—"Begone now; oh! repulse me not."

—All work has been suspended on the U. S. S. Marion, at this navy yard, and but a small force is kept on the Monongahela. The latter vessel has been thoroughly rebuilt, furnished with new boilers, and is being fitted up with all the modern improvements. The Nantasket has been partially broken up and her boilers and machinery removed. The repairs on the floating dock are progressing rapidly, so that it will soon be ready for any vessel that may come along for repairs.

—The stringent measures taken by our health officers have prevented any spread of the small-pox, our city being now fortunately free from infections of any kind. The Pest House is to be immediately and thoroughly fumigated and put in complete order under the direction of the ubiquitous Capt. Shillaber.

—The issues of counterfeit United States fractional currency of the denominations of 50 and 25 cents have made their appearance in this city. They have a coarse look.

The Republicans of the fourth Ward of Manchester have chosen eight delegates who favor the nomination of Hon. Austin F. Pike of Franklin for candidate for Congressman in the second district.

MUFFLING UP.—The more a man bundles up to keep from colds, the more he may. Some persons do nothing but watch against exposures, and keep themselves very busy. The best safe-gaurds are daily exercise in the open air, and the free use of cold water taking care not to begin the use of muffders.—Science of Health.

NEURALGIA.—This may result from nervous exhaustion, but is commonly caused by narcotic and mineral medicines. Keep the circulation towards the surface as much as possible, by tepid ablutions and abundant friction; avoid all highly-seasoned and indigestible dishes, and exercise moderately but frequently in the open air.—Science of Health.

DEATHS.

In this city, Dec. 20th, Mrs. CAROLINE AUGUSTA SANBORN, wife of Capt. J. Albert Sanborn and daughter of the late Rev. T. H. Miller, aged 29 years and 8 months.

Sorrowing hearts far and wide unite in sympathy with a grief-stricken family circle at the loss of a friend dear to all who knew her worth,—a beloved wife, the pet of a household, a kind, genial companion of such rare excellences and amiability that no unkind remembrance remains to mar the memory of a life well spent though all too brief. Our tears mingle with those of all who have known the departed friend from early youth—and of the husband and relatives so suddenly bereaved. Words are vain; Eternity alone brings consolation, with its bright hope—its confident assurance of reunion and perfect happiness. "Blessed are the pure in heart." G.

In this city, Dec. 18th, Miss AMIRA C. MOORE.

PORT OF PORTSMOUTH.

Arrived.

Dec 20 sch Abbie, Cleaves, New York.

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

A GLORIOUS RECORD.—Twelve years ago a few modest lines in a New York Journal invited public attention to a new Vegetable restorative, and solicited a trial of its merits as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, fever and ague, debility, nervous disorders, rheumatism and all complaints requiring invigorating and regulating treatment. In this quiet, unpretentious way, PLANTATION BITTERS was introduced to the world. It was a success from the beginning. All that was claimed for it as a tonic, a corrective and antidote to malarious fever, was found to be strictly true. Within five years the annual sales of this article amounted to over One Million of Bottles. A few years more and the demand had swelled to five millions of bottles and the annual consumption of the bitters has now reached the almost incredible aggregate of SIX MILLIONS OF BOTTLES, and for every bottle sold a copy of the ILLUSTRATED MEDICAL ANNUAL, published by the proprietors, at a cost of $150,000, is given away.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—To use an expressive Western phrase, the Ointment "wipes out" every eruptive and ulcerous disorder, while the Pills purge the internal organs of all impurity. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per pot or box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE Cut their wise teeth, use the SOZODONT, and all who do, are willing to declare to all who choose to ask it, that it is the most perfect and delightful thing for the teeth they ever dipped a brush into.

Morning Chronicle.

From the Student's Journal.

About Poems, Rhymes, Grammar, Religion, Hotels, etc.

COSMOPOLITAN HOTEL,
Corner of Chamber St. and W. Broadway.

CAPT. J. M. HILL

TO ANDREW J. GRAHAM.

While reading the Poems of Progress, by Lizzie Doten, this morning, I was impressed to make mention of them to you. I want you to read them and speak of them through your columns as they deserve to be mentioned. They surpass everything I ever read. The sublimity of poetry, the divinity, magnanimity, and spirituality of the purest essence of piety has come to us poor mortals through the pen of that charming lady. Her book is not overwrought by heavenly visions in her thought,—a thought which is so refined, as to read all nature in her mind, but all in all does control the god-like feelings in the soul. God bless with success with a vision as clear as the noonday sun in her hemisphere, with the light of all nature in her eyes, exploring the regions in the skies.

As the English grammar is the only standard required in this country for writing our language with propriety, I beg to say, that many a able man as well as woman is prevented from giving to the world their knowledge gained by their travels over the earth, by experience and by observation, for fear of an unjust criticism by the editor and the public, who expect every word spelt in accordance with the rules of your dictionary, such as phlimic for tisic, plough for plow, and so on through the whole catalogue of English words; as in the English style of pronouncing am for ham, hegg for egg, and so on. I knew of an Englishman and an American walking together up Broadway, patronizing each other on their native dialect: The Yankee asked the Londoner to spell salmon on a sign-board, which he did in his own style. He says: "there's a hess, and a ha. a hell, two hess, and a hess. If this is English Grammar, then I should think it was time, to have an American Grammar

Now, my dear sir, if you can only make the people believe in your way of teaching that beautiful art of Phonography, we should not have such a heterogeneous compound of letters put together in such a conglomeration of letters without any meaning.

My dear sir, when you receive communications from such web-footed, amphibious animals as old sea-captains, you must expect to see some words "picked up in foreign parts" which you may not understand, and you should not clip them out because you do not understand them, as you did some of the words in my previous letter. You told me that you slaughtered my rhymes. You might as well say that you slaughtered a Cinamon because you do not understand him. I don't make any pretentions to being a poet, and to show you that I am no poet I make my verses when I don't know it; whereas, you know a poet's muse is to make things and words whenever he chooses. I only write from what I see, and what my nature teaches me.

I write this in the most friendly feelings, without suspecting, for a moment, any intention on your part to spoil my poetry; at the same time, I know it is presumptuous in me to suppose that you, with all your knowledge of language, sciences, and the fine arts, and, more than all, your deep study of moral philosophy and the philosophy of all Nature, should not know better than a humble individual like myself, what is better to put in print for the use of the public.

We have already arrived at the period that we need a new dictionary, a new grammar, a new literature, and a new science that embraces the philosophy of all nature, and a new language that can be universally understood; and last but not least a new religion of the God of heaven, earth, air, seas, and worlds without number, and every living thing that dwells within—the religion of God in nature. Who is seen everywhere, felt everywhere, heard everywhere; for, in the lightning's flash and thunder peals, Nature's God himself reveals. In the stars of heaven he is as plainly seen, as in waving fields of living green;—the flowers of Earth proclaim his name as God of Nature all the same;—in the prattling child and a mother's love, as in the ethereal worlds above.

I make this "Cosmopolitan Hotel" my head-quarters while in the city for its name and deserving fame, as I am a cosmopolitan myself, a citizen of the world, without any permanent abiding place and without any religious creed.

People of all nations and all creeds, from cities, counties, towns, and villages come here, for they know the proprietors to be gentlemen who respect their guests as well as their money. The clerks are gentlemen also and civil to all, which is something you don't find everywhere.

Every department in this establishment, from the commander-in-chief down to the cook's mate's minister, is as clean and the employees as orderly and well disciplined as could be found on board a first-class line-of-battle ship in commission and fully equipped under sailing orders, in times of peace. All are civil and do their duty with alacrity and a pleasing countenance; no long-faced individual can abide here long; for the atmosphere is injurious to his health.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an iron constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

OM Wheezy, what's the matter with you and why are you muffled up so?"

"Wretched cold! Can't speak aloud. My throat's so sore and lungs so oppressed it pains me to talk."

"Now, Old Boy, I was in the same predicament and have been wonderfully cured. Met a friend who urged me to take

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

For the Throat and Lungs.

Bought a bottle at the

UNION STORE

on Market Street. Now I'm going to tell you the truth. The bottles are small and sell at only

50

Cents each, but the

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is powerful. A half bottle completely cured me; a single dose

RELIEVED MY THROAT INSTANTANEOUSLY.

— THE —

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a condensed cure-all. Try it—and take off that muffler."

"I WILL."

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick so Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in Use in Portsmouth.)

— ALSO —

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The PEERLESS PARLOR admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

with extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK and PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Cough, Croup, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the pounce of PERYHON'S PREY. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which a cure is there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LICORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS,
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and worthy and be more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unanimable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain incessant twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREPETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

THE HARVEST OF ROSES.

BY LUCIA CHASE BELL.

Davy was helping his mother bake. He had a passion sometimes for staying in the house, even when the weather was freshest and sweetest, and the air out of doors just the right kind of air to make little boys grow tremendously.

Little boys are not often wanted in kitchens, you know, especially when there is a great deal of work to do, and not much elbow-room, and Davy's mother certainly didn't need him picking and poking about in the house that morning, when she was busy cooking a great dinner for the "breakers," baking bread and pies, and making soap all at once. She did coax and coax Davy to go out of doors. She offered to let him dig a well in the edge of the lettuce bed, and she made him a sled out of a rope and boot-jack. She cut out the cunningest little paper whirligig for him to run with, and gave him a sharp old knife to cut grass and make little haystacks. Davy tried each of these things for a wee while, but before many minutes, in he came again, and planted himself on the bench by his mother's table, ready to poke his fingers into the molasses pitcher, upsetting a bowl of water all over the pie dough, spilling the dried currants into the sugar, and scraping flour out of the tray all over the floor under the table. Then he asked questions every minute without stopping to take breath, and he was so good natured in the midst of all this mischief that he couldn't understand the least bit of a hint or reproof, but just chattered away in the sweetest, eager little piping voice as if he hadn't the faintest idea that he could be annoying anybody. "This pitcher is linkin' the water all out, mamma," he chirped serenely when he had just jogged it a little, and then he wanted to "tastie the nutmegs in the nutmeg gritter," and when his mamma was quite out of patience and threatened to do something which is rather disagreeable to most little boys, he looked up with a grave, wondering face and innocently inquired "What spankin' meaned?" He was always asking what things "meaned" when he knew perfectly well, and only wanted other folks to chatter all the time as fast as he did himself.

Then he wanted to know how you made sugar, and why brother Tom didn't shoot any more "Samuelcranes," —sand-hill cranes, he meant—and then he puffed out his cheeks, and made a great effort, and said, "Mamma, I've got the yooks somehow; do you know what the yooks, are, mamma?"

Mamma didn't know for sure, but she thought it meant the hiccough. And then Davy asked her if she didn't think he'd be a man to-morrow, and then who'd marry him? He was sure he ought to be married to somebody, and if mamma wouldn't marry him, he knew Aunt Hettie would. To be sure, Davy had come a thousand miles that spring away from the dear old home where Aunt Hettie lived, but he couldn't realize that all. And when he was a man he said he should have a big wagon to ride in, and would be the "whipperman" himself; but when his mamma wanted him to go out and play with his own little cart, he refused utterly, because the "hitch-up fings didn't go right." Then he wanted his mamma to tell him the story about "Josiph," the little boy that had a "lovelly streaked coat what his papa made, and he was a nice, good, sweet little boy and his naughty brothers sold him off to a whole string of peddlers goin' to Egypt, and he had a gold chain round his neck when he got there, and whole barns full of corn, and he sent some to his poor old papa when he was starved most to def." "Why, Davy," said his mamma "you've told me the story yourself, haven't you?" when he had finished telling her what to tell. "No," said Davy, "I can't tell stories, I'm too busy. Mamma, do let me punch holes in your bixits with the fork."

There he was, with the sweat rolling from his straight white hair down over his lumpy forehead quite to his nose, sugar and dried apple sauce smeared all over his face, and his nice little calico waist all sticky with dough and molasses.

At last, when he had eaten the very last turn-over his mother could possibly be coaxed to make, he piped up all of a sudden, "Mamma, if you'd set me out, don't you s'pose I'd grow a good deal faster? Out in the garden I mean, like you do the 'mate plants. Mamma, do set me out, and water me." His mamma said she would be glad to set him out for a little while, but she couldn't stop to do it just now, and was sorry he hadn't thought of it before she commenced baking. Davy got his straw hat and went out, singing a queer tune of his own, to hunt up a good place in nice black soil. He found one in a great round mound of rich dark earth that the little pocket gophers had thrown up last year. He thought he would have brother Tom set him out in this gopher mound when evening came, and then he could stand in the dew all night, and oh, how he could grow! he said to himself with a little soft, eager laugh. The wild roses were in blossom on the prairie, and Davy could see them smiling thick around him, just there in the tall grass, cream colored ones tinted with, white ones, and red ones with the cool dew lingering down in their yellow hearts.

Aunt Hettie used to keep little white embroidered linen bags full of dried rose leaves in her bureau drawer, at Grandma Wilder's, he remembered, and she made something nice, and clean, and fragrant to put on your hair, by soaking rose leaves in a jar; he thought presently that it would be nice, indeed, if he could gather all the roses that grew on the whole prairie and send them to Aunt Hettie, every least bit of a blossom, only first he would put them in great linen bags to dry. "I guess there'd be more'n' a fousand bushels," he said, exultantly, "so Aunt Hettie can hang one in every room, and mamma, too, and everybody. I fink I must begin to harvest my roses right away."

He hurried out into the path and up to the house to get a knife to cut the briery stems, and his mother not being in the kitchen just then, he quietly helped himself to the long, thin apple-parer and the market basket and was soon back to his roses again. His mother was up in the garret making beds. She heard his bare feet pattering across the kitchen floor, but didn't speak to him for fear he'd want to climb the steep ladder to come up where she was at work. He often spent hours watching the hired men breaking up the sod, and she supposed now that he was tired of house keeping he would trudge along after the plough till noon, as usual.

But Davy had other work on hand. "It'll take me a good many days to harvest 'em all," he said, with a grave little important air, stopping at the door to look out over the wide prairie. Then he trudged down the hill, hinking with great satisfaction that he would reap his roses and stack 'em in heaps like they did the wheat at Grandma Wilder's, and how lovely they'd look, great pink and white and cream colored heaps of them drying out in the sun. The roses grew profusely around the gopher mound, and he worked away with great zeal till the bottom of his basket was quite covered, so that he could dip the petals up by handfuls. Crickets were singing out in the grass, just the same sociable, faithful little tune they sang around the far-away farm-house where Aunt Hettie lived; and a multitude of little birds that Davy could hear, but not see, kept up a perpetual merry little twittering.

Far away in some of the hollows he could hear the chucking of a "Samuelcrane," and away up over his head he heard every now and then something that sounded like a giant woodpecker picking at some great tree just behind him, but when he looked up, half expecting to see tree, woodpecker and all, there was only the boundless blue air with shining clouds floating in it, away up, almost to heaven, it seemed to him. Sometimes all of a sudden he heard a noise that sounded for all the world like an old pump handle going up and down, crank, crank, but when he looked quickly around the bird was gone, and Davy almost felt afraid, it seemed so mysterious. But he'd heard his brother Tom say that it really was a bird, and so he just walked away like an earnest little harvester, till the roses were picked quite clear from the bushes.

He thought he wouldn't stack any till the roses filled his basket quite to the brim, and as he hadn't yet gathered half so many, he started out through the grass to find more. Every now and then he came to a little low bush that had two or three blossoms, but he didn't find any more such generous thickets of them and somehow the heap grew very slowly after all.

A sweet, fresh wind blew softly against his face all the time as he went, but the sun rising higher and higher seemed to beat its rays right through his straw hat; somehow, too, the grass seemed to have grown much higher than it was near his father's house, and came quite up to Davy's head so that he could hardly see over, and the ground was so uneven that one foot went one minute away up high, and the next thing Davy would stumble to the ground and scratch his poor, little hot face, and once, on fell all his precious roses, and it took such a long, long time to gather them up that he was almost out of patience, and had to choke down the sobs with a mighty effort.

Sometimes he came out of the tall grass into a smoother place where the ground was covered with purple, gold-sprinkled "shoe string" flowers, and he always stopped to fill his hands, and he could not help heaping some of them in upon his roses. Then there were lilies here and there, royal ones of the richest flame color, with velvety dark spots down in their lustrous chalices. And Davy always forgot his weariness when he found these. He began to think the roses were not so very lovely after all, such pale, faint little things, but they did have the sweetest breath, and when he put his face down to them he could shut his eyes and fancy he was in Aunt Hettie's own cool little room where the roses were in bloom by the door. At last it did seem to Davy that he could not go one step farther; perhaps there were enough roses in his basket to make one stack, and he thought that might do very well. Only he wanted the stack near home, and when he looked for his father's house it was not to be seen, even when he stood on tip-toe. Nothing but the broad prairie in sight, with its streaks of golden green and yellow ripening grass and checkers of sunshine and cloud-shadows. It seemed as if even the birds were all gone; it was so still he could hear his heart going thump, thump, under the dirty little calico waist. "I guess if I'm walked to the top of this hill I can see our house," he said, bravely, choking down a great sob. So he dragged one weary foot after the other till he came to the top of the "hill," murmuring as he went, "I should think my mamma wouldn't ought to let me yander off this way," because he had often heard Grandma Wilder caution his mamma about "letting him wander off."

Just then a mover's wagon came along. There was a woman walking with swinging arms and long strides, a boy driving a drove of cows and calves, and sheep and two yokes of lean oxen hitched to the wagon. The wagon seemed to be brim-full of babies, and feather-beds and pots, and kettles. A sun-burned old man walked by the wagon driving the oxen. He was bare-footed, and had his trousers rolled up to his knees, and wore a coarse, blue knit jacket. Davy didn't think any of these people looked at all nice, but he piped up pitifully, when the woman came along, "My mamma let me yander off, and I'm a lost little boy, and I wanted to go home and be set out. Can't you take me home in your wagon? 'Spect our house is just up yonder, and I'm so tired out, you can't tink!"

"Law, yes," said the woman stopping her swinging stride, to look at the poor little tear-stained face. "Look here John! Here's a little feller that's lost. I guess we'd better pack him into the wagon, and drop him at the first house."

John was willing, and Davy was "tucked in," basket and all. The babies in the wagon were tired and quarrelsome, and when they had scattered and torn up all his prettiest flowers, Davy curled down in a bot feather-bed and cried himself to sleep.

Evening came, and the movers stopped by a big slough to spend the night. They kindled a fire and warmed some bitter, black coffee, fried some pork in a dirty skillet, and baked some great thick corn cakes.

Davy was, oh, so hungry! but he couldn't eat any of those things, and he wanted a bowl of nice milk with white bread in it, and a turn-over with notches all around it and spice in it. Besides, his head ached, and the woman was cross, because she hadn't found any house where she could leave Davy. He peeped out once, and saw that the long lines of golden afternoon light were quite faded off the prairie. "Sun's down, and God's gone," he said disconsolately, and sobbed as though his heart would break. All at once he heard quite a commotion out by the camp-fire. "I kerried him along just out of pity," the woman was saying. "He told us your house stood jest up the trail apiece. I'm mighty glad you've come after him!"

Davy scrambled out to the front of the wagon in a furious hurry, when he heard that, you may be sure, and there sat his father on splendid gray Dick, who was foaming and panting with his hard gallop over the country.

"Here I am, papa," called out a sharp little voice, "I was goin' to harvest the roses, but I want to go home."

Home Davy was going very swiftly for his father rode close to the wagon and reached up both arms like a man that was very hungry for a little boy. Down came Davy to a seat just behind Dick's ears, and away they went. They met Davy's mother walking bare-headed out on the prairie not far from home, with her face very white, and her hands close clasped, and when she saw them, she just gave one mingled laugh and sob of delight, and Davy's father put him down, and in a minute there were two arms folded tight around her neck and somebody was whispering, "Mamma, I love you better'n anybody—you and papa'n old Dick. You knew I'd come home, didn't you, mamma? Mamma, what's the reason the stars that's hunged up there, don't fall out? Mamma, why don't you make me a jacket out of yarn like the old mover man has?"—Central Minnesotian.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1872.

Readables.

Congress has adjourned until January 6th.

Geo. P. Putnam, the well known New York publisher, died suddenly on Friday.

Charlestown, Mass., has decreased its small pox cases from seventy to twenty-three.

Jay Gould has shown another indication of shrewdness. By the rise in Erie stock he will reimburse himself, having bought largely before he made known his intention to any one. By his bargain he has gained complete control of the road once more. He has achieved a victory over Vanderbilt. A counter-move is expected on the part of Vanderbilt.

The kangaroos in Australia are dying of sore throat.

New London's premium mean man keeps a lager beer saloon, and rewarded the person who found his pocket-book one morning, containing $200, by offering to shake him for the drinks.

A recount of the votes for Mayor of Boston elects Hon. Henry L. Peirce Republican, over Mayor Gaston, by 79 majority. The latter had been declared elected by 352 majority by a fraudulent return from the second ward.

Fifty female typesetters work in San Francisco and their number is increasing.

During the year 1871 there were seventeen thousand carriages sold from the eighty carriage shops of Amesbury and Salisbury, Mass. This year the sales will amount to nineteen thousand.

The Eastern Railroad has 30 engines and 156 cars equipped with the Westinghouse brake. The Boston & Maine has none.

The Travellers Life and Accident Insurance company of Hartford has insured sixteen thousand Life and two hundred and fifty thousand Accident policies during the past eight years.

All Dresden goes to bed at 10 o'clock. The places of amusement open at six and close at half-past nine.

Orange culture pays well in Florida. Five hundred trees on nine acres of land have yielded 800,000 oranges, which sold for $24,000.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says that among the witnesses who will be examined before the Credit Mobilier corruption investigating committee of Congress, are Gen. Marston and Hon. E. H. Rollins, ex-Congressmen from this State.

Herr Johann Strauss has written a letter to the Vienna Tageblatt, in which he speaks rather disparagingly of our American instrumental musicians. He says he would have gladly remained for a year or longer in the United States, but he ascertained, soon after his arrival in Boston, that he would be unable to find a sufficient number of good musicians to organize an effective orchestra.

Professor Tyndall has just perfected a new respirator for firemen, in which the solid particles of the densest smoke are arrested by films of cotton wool wetted with glycerine, and the most pungent gas by layers of charcoal. By this simple means firemen can remain within burning buildings for upward of an hour at a time with safety and comfort, so far as their respiration is concerned.

The report of the loss of ship Matchless, of Boston, is without foundation.

The Titusville Press says: "One of our city confectioners wishes us to inform his juvenile patrons that he cannot give thirty-days' time on five cents' worth of chewing-gum, but he will take first mortgage on skates and hand-sleds from parties whose parents are on a substantial basis.

Some joker living on the Hudson River Road, built a giant of snow on the track, one night, much to the annoyance of the engineer on a fast train, who was obliged to blow the whistle in order as he supposed to save the company from paying for killing a man. The train was not stopped in time, however, for the giant was knocked into smithereens. No damages demanded, as, for a wonder, it's no(w) matter.

If Napoleon's theory that the greatest of women is she who produces most children, a negro woman of Florida is certainly entitled to the palm. Within ten years she has inflicted fourteen children upon the community, made up of five lots of twins, and one quadruplet. Before this period she was a party to fruitful marriages, but unfortunately neglected to keep account of the children.

—Frederick Hofer, a young German of Brooklyn, having been robbed near the Roosevelt Street ferry, went to the Oak Street police station to make the robbery known, and while there wept at the loss of his small earnings. Connected with the police station is an aged dog, familiarly known around the ward as "Old Jack." Jack has been an inmate of the house for nearly ten years, and well up in police duty. When the men are about to be turned out at midnight he awakes, and takes up his position near the sitting-room door. There he sits until three bells are struck, and the men form in line. As soon as they begin to move Jack takes the head of the column, and with measured tread marches alongside of the sergeant. When the column halts he walks up to the front and there takes a stationary position. At the command of "present batons" he either whines or gives a low bark; and when the order to "march" is given he marches with the men. He often follows the roundsman, so as to give the patrolman warning. In a fight he always bites the offenders' legs, and if any one refuses to accompany an officer he does the same thing. When he saw Hofer weeping he tried to soothe him by rubbing against his legs, and when Hofer went out the sagacious animal followed several blocks to see that no harm befel him.

Too Faithful.—The governor of West Virginia has just come to the rescue of true love with an executive pardon. About a year ago a young man was arrested near Wheeling for horse stealing. As sometimes happens, a lovely maid was very much attached to him, and matrimony. When he was put in jail for trial, she begged to be allowed to marry him and be put there too. This was refused, and determined to go to jail anyhow, she set fire to a school-house, and was awarded two years in the penitentiary. Her lover was soon after tried, and unfortunately for the girl's plans, he was found not guilty. So her scheme for union was the only cause of their separation. The governor heard of the story and released the prisoner, but he cautioned her to avoid pyrotechnics and have a little more faith in her husband.

Business Notices.

Don't let that Sore Throat get the upper hands of you. Pulmocine Cordial will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

A Glorious Record.—Twelve years ago a few modest lines in a New York Journal invited public attention to a new Vegetable restorative, and solicited a trial of its merits as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, fever and ague, debility, nervous disorders, rheumatism and all complaints requiring invigorating and regulating treatment. In this quiet, unpretentious way, Plantation Bitters was introduced to the world. It was a success from the beginning. All that was claimed for it as a tonic, a corrective and antidote to malarious fever, was found to be strictly true. Within five years the annual sales of this article amounted to over One Million of Bottles. A few years more and the demand had swelled to five millions of bottles and the annual consumption of the bitters has now reached the almost incredible aggregate of six millions of bottles, and for every bottle sold a copy of the Illustrated Medical Annual, published by the proprietors, at a cost of $150,000, is given away.

Piles.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using Briggs' Pile Remedies.

Corns.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

People who Have Cut their wise teeth, use the Sozodont, and all who do, are willing to declare to all who don't use it, that it is the most perfect and delightful thing for the teeth they ever dipped a brush into.

Unproductive Frauds.—Imitations and counterfeits of an established popular restorative, although mischievous in their direct effects, are indirectly beneficial in some respects. They teach the community to rate at its just value the preparation that has been similated and pirated. The reputation and sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for example, have been greatly enhanced by the attempts that have been made to supplant it. The dupes of imposture who from time to time have been induced by plausible lies to resort to some worthless succedaneum for the standard tonic of America have invariably returned to it in an enthusiastic frame of mind, ready to champion its merits to the uttermost. The warmest panegeirists of its preventive and curative properties are those who have weighed the nostrums of envious adventurers in the balance and found them wanting. In a pecuniary point of view, all attempts to undermine the popularity of this medicine have proved advantageous to the proprietors, and except for the sake of protecting the public the game of exposure would not be worth the candle.

Holloway's Pills and Ointment.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

Forewarnings of Consumption. Remember that a cough, a cold or some other common affection of the throat or lungs always precedes Consumption, and that all these ailments are cured with absolute certainty by Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. For sale by all druggists.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Wrecked on Rye Beach.

About seven o'clock, Friday morning, schooner Solomon Francis, of Salem, loaded with lumber and bound from Calais to Boston, was wrecked at Rye Beach. Capt. Bickford saw that he could not save his vessel, and ran her directly towards the beach. At eleven o'clock, one of the crew floated ashore on planks, procured a dory and endeavored to persuade some men to help him rescue the crew, but as they would not risk their lives, he attempted to go alone, without success. The captain then lashed some boards together, drifted ashore and with the man who had first been saved succeeded in reaching the stern of the schooner, when a wave knocked him ten feet out of the boat. Capt. Bickford informs us that he hardly knows how he reached shore again, but remembers swimming for his life through the breakers, engulfed by mountains of water. It can well be imagined that he was quite exhausted on reaching terra firma.

His companion clung to the boat and drifted ashore. Some time afterwards, the mate and cook, aboard the vessel, constructed a raft and tried to reach land, the mate succeeding in doing so. The cook, Jabez Myric, an elderly man, was washed from the raft and drowned. His body was recovered.

The vessel was of 100 tons (old) measurement and will be a total loss. The crew lost everything except a chest belonging to the mate.

The Pythian Amateurs

Have been so universally complimented by those who witnessed their first appearance, that at the urgent request of J. P. Bartlett, Esq., Mayor Marvin, Commodore Pickering and others they have decided to repeat the presentation of "Damon & Pythias," on Wednesday evening, Jan. 1st, 1873. The correspondence is too lengthy for our crowded columns.

Laconics.

A Washington despatch to the Boston Journal says that Postmaster Peirce has been directed to have the patent bronze lock boxes put in this office.

Prof. Sweet, who has been successfully holding musical conventions in Great Falls and elsewhere, was in this city on Saturday, and meeting with encouragement from musically inclined people, has decided to have a convention here, which with the cooperation of leading citizens he expects to make a great success.

Harlow's orchestra will be in attendance at the lecture this evening at the Methodist church. The poem, "Brass and Brains," is highly spoken of and is worth hearing. The attractions will doubtless draw a large audience.

We call particular attention to the Musical and Operatic entertainment advertised in another column. It will be one of great interest to all lovers of good music and the opera. Madame Richings-Bernard has long been the chief representative in this country of English Opera, and is an estimable lady and a fine singer and actress. In the "Enchantress" she has delighted many thousands; and with her able assistants, as contralto, tenor, baritone and pianist, all fine artists, the entertainment tomorrow evening will be a genuine one, and we bespeak for it a large attendance.

Rev. Carlos Martyn of this city lectures at North Hampton this evening on "Marriage." Rev. Dr. Barrows of Boston will lecture on Friday evening. Subject, "Out West."

The sad intelligence received here Monday of the sudden death of Mr. Charles T. Macy of consumption, formerly of this city, in Brooklyn, N. Y., was received by his former friends here with feelings of heartfelt sadness. He was a young man of warm, generous impulses, of correct deportment, and his death will carry feelings of the deepest grief to many a fireside circle in this vicinity where he always met with a warm and hearty welcome.—Dover Gazette.

State News.

The young man whose body was found drowned in the canal at Lowell in September last turns out to be Jeremiah Driscoll of Lebanon, 21 years of age, who resided in Manchester prior to his death.

Mr. David Butterfield of Francestown met with a severe accident, a few days ago, by falling from a load of hay between the cattle attached to a sled, which passed over his body. His case is considered critical.

The Concord Patriot says the committee of the Railroad Assemblies have arranged for a levee, in Eagle Hall, on the evening of January 3d. Music is to be furnished by the Marine Band of Portsmouth, which previous to the levee will give a grand concert in the hall. This band is acquiring a great reputation in the State for fine playing, and there is no doubt that the music will be of a very superior character.

On Friday, at West Milan, a Frenchman sought to steal a ride on the cars. When the conductor came along the man lowered himself on one of the step-guards, when he was dragged down and the cars ran over him, but without doing him any injury. Everybody expected to find a dead Kaunuck at the rear of the train, but didn't.

The house of P. Doyle, with the contents, in Whitefield, was burned on the 17th.

A dog and a fox were lately seen in company near the railroad in Amherst in so exhausted a condition, caused by their hard run, that the dog could not attack the fox nor the fox leave the dog. The fox was killed by a man.

Charles A. J. Stearns, who killed "Sandy" Thompson, at Holyoke, Mass., was arrested at Nashua on Thursday.

The Manchester locomotive works are now running on reduced time. The workmen are now employed seven and a half hours instead of ten as heretofore.

Since the great Boston fire, the Amoskeag works, in Manchester, have received orders for fifteen steam fire engines.

Thomas J. Sanborn of Rye, United States mail agent, who had a leg broken at the Seabrook accident, is doing well, and will have as good limb as ever.

Mark F. Rand, a prominent stove and hardware dealer, of Dover, died Friday night of small-pox.

BASKET MAKING IN THE SAILORS' SNUG HARBOR.—The greater part of the ground-floor in the main building is occupied by the hall already described, which is used in the winter months for religious services every morning and night, thus obviating the necessity of heating the chapel except on Sundays. All the buildings are heated by hot air from furnaces in the basement. To the left of the hall is the reading-room, where all the leading dailies, weeklies, and magazines can be found; and behind that is the library, well stocked with books, mostly consisting of narratives of travel and adventure, and books of voyages and exploring expeditions. On the opposite side, to the right of the entrance, are the office and private room of the governor, and upstairs are the sleeping apartments, facing on the gallery. In the basement are long airy corridors and work-rooms, where a great part of the inmates are occupied in basket-making. This industry is carried on to a very great extent in this institution, as it is easy work, requiring no strength or special skill, and a pursuit in which the blind can also engage. The importance of this industry may be estimated from the fact that during a single year baskets were made by the inmates that sold in the market for very nearly $30,000, averaging an income of about $75 for each inmate. These baskets are bought up mostly by two large New York houses, and a considerable proportion of them, as also of the mats made there, are shipped to and sold in Boston. The materials used in the manufacture of mats and baskets (Spanish palm leaf and rattan) are bought by the inmates themselves, and the whole profit belongs to them individually, and is for the greater part spent for tobacco and in the purchase of minor comforts. One old salt from New Hampshire had acquired a private library, numbering some forty odd volumes, which he had in his room nicely arranged in a bookcase of his own manufacture, with glass doors. His latest acquisition was the "History of Julius Cesar," by the ex-Emperor Napoleon, bound in green and gold.

Besides basket-making the old sailors have other means of making money, one of the most common of which is fishing.—LOUIS BAGGER, in Harper's Magazine for January.

NATURE'S REMEDY.

VEGETINE

The Great Blood Purifier.

A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as Scrofula, Scrofulous Humors, Cancers, Cancer-ous Humor, Erysipelas, Canker, Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face, Ulcers, Coughs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Costiveness, Dizziness, Piles, Headache, Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach, Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Female Weakness, and General Debility.

This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success o the Company is far beyond that o any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are so we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

Morning Chronicle.

—Somebody who has been "studying our weights" reports that, upon the average, boys, at birth, weigh a little more, and girls a little less than six pounds and a-half. For the first twelve years the two sexes continue nearly equal in weight, but beyond that time males acquire a decided preponderance. Thus, young men of twenty average one hundred and forty-three pounds each, while young women of twenty average one hundred and twenty pounds. Men reach their heaviest bulk at about thirty-five, when their average is about one hundred and fifty-two pounds; but women slowly increase in weight until fifty, when their average is about one hundred and twenty-nine pounds. Taking men and women together, their weight, at full growth, averages about twenty times as heavy as they were on the first day of their existence. Men range from one hundred and eight to two hundred and twenty pounds (the Tichborne claimant weighs about three hundred and sixty pounds!) and women from eighty-eight to two hundred and seven pounds. The actual weight of human nature, taking the average of all ages and conditions—nobles, clergy, tinkers, tailors, maidens, boys, girls and babies, all included—is very nearly one hundred pounds. These figures are given in avoirdupois weight; but the advocates of the superiority of woman might make a nice point by introducing the role that women be weighed by troy weight—like other jewels—and men by avoirdupois. The figures would then stand—young men of twenty, one hundred and forty-three pounds each; young women of twenty, one hundred and sixty pounds, and so on.

THE FEET.—As the feet are kept more closely covered than any other part of the body during the day, they should be thoroughly washed, and rubbed till dry, every night. Impurities gather as the result of the confined perspiration, and these should be removed before sleeping. However inconvenient to do so, we repeat it, wash the feet every night.—Science of Health.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, as far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $650,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

—ALSO—

The Peerless,

Eaton Cook,

Sheridan,

Union Cook,

Norman Range,

Rival, Model Cook,

Farmer's Cook,

White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large doors and movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred TRIBE OF DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. Those painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of this afflicted family. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It relieves expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" "walking in pasture" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of its ingredients are such as our educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Rights or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can confide in him as a man competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend those who have to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable rates. $1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festering Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The Chronicle.

CONGRESSIONAL DUELS.—Forty, and even thirty, years ago personal altercations often took place in Congress between Northern and Southern members, having their origin in sectional disagreements. There was always a class of men in the House from the South who sought to make a reputation with their constituent by pitting themselves against Northern members, whose principles and education made dueling repugnant to their feelings. It was a cheap method of gaining distinction, wholly unworthy of men of true chivalry. Occasionally these gentlemen ran against high-spirited Northern members of firmness and bravery, prompt to repel an affront, and prepared to meet an antagonist in any way. In cases of that kind the fire-eaters were often signally discomfited. It was during the administration of Mr. Monroe that a collision occurred in the Senate between General Samuel Smith, of Maryland, and Mr. Lloyd, of Massachusetts, the result of which gave much satisfaction at the North. General Smith was a known fighting man, a brave soldier, who had rendered important service in the war of 1812. He was a large, imposing figure of a man, of peremptory manner, and rather inclined to be dictatorial and overbearing. Mr. Lloyd, on the contrary, was small in stature, delicate and almost effeminate in appearance, dressing always in elegant style, and looking like a courtier of the days of Louis XIV. In the course of discussion Mr. Lloyd had controverted with some sharpness and great effect certain statements and arguments of General Smith. A logical reply, suitable to the case did not occur to the Senator; so, instead of reaffirming his facts and attempting to confute the reasoning of Mr. Lloyd, he tried the effect of a little personal intimidation.

"Mr. President," said he, in the tone of a school-master lecturing his pupils, "gentlemen coming from a section of the country where the doctrine of personal responsibility is not recognized, ought to be specially cautious in the language they use toward gentlemen in this Chamber. If their own principles or the sentiments of their constituents prevent them from giving satisfaction for words not properly chosen, they should take care not to wound the feelings of Senators who were educated in a different school."

Mr. Gallhard, of South Carolina, was presiding in the Senate in the absence of the Vice-President, and he knowing the stuff of which Mr. Lloyd was made, smiled significantly as Gen. Smith took his seat. On the part of Senators generally there was an expression of lively interest as Mr. Lloyd rose to reply. He spoke in a low voice, and in a tone as mild as if he were inviting a lady to take a turn in a waltz.

"Mr. President, I am not acquainted with the sentiments of my State upon what the Senator calls the doctrine of personal responsibility. I recognize this doctrine to its fullest extent, and I am prepared to be held responsible in any way for every word I utter on this. Furthermore, Sir, in order to prevent any misconception hereafter, I give the Senator from Maryland to know that I shall hold him responsible for every word he speaks derogatory to my character or injurious to my feelings."

General Smith made no rejoinder, and the flurry passed, but it was observed thereafter that there was a studied courtesy, in the bearing of all the fire-eaters toward Mr. Lloyd.

The last fatal Congressional duel was that in which poor Cilley lost his life. The quarrel was a political one, and Cilley was a sacrifice to the rancor of party strife. There was no personal animosity on the part of the antagonists. They fought with rifles, at forty paces. Cilley was an expert shot with the rifle, while Graves was wholly unused to the weapon. A side wind was blowing fresh as the parties took their ground, and the fatal shot was a chance one altogether. Cilley was a brave man, but he could not control his nerves. On the first fire his ball struck the ground not more than forty feet off. Graves was perfectly cool and collected, and at the third shot Cilley fell, mortally wounded. Henry A. Wise accompanied Graves to the field, and General Sones, of Iowa, was the second of Cilley. They were much censured for allowing more than one shot, the difficulty being a technical one only; but the fact is, they went on the ground tied up by an agreement made by the great leaders of the two political parties from which they did not feel themselves at liberty to deviate. Their fatal mistake consisted in accepting the conditions by which the combat was to be governed. Cilley died on the field, but his fate was preferable to that of Graves, who lingered a few years a melancholy wreck, wasting away the remainder of his life in remorse and misery.—Harper's Magazine for January.

—The female suffragists or sufferers met in Chicago the other evening. Mrs. Stanton was not present, but a number of babies were. These babies kept up such a devil of a babbling that they succeeded in breaking up "the good meeting in most admired disorder." While the mammies were clamoring for suffrage the babies were clamoring for their mammies, and so the row continued. The moral of the story is, that women must either leave the baby business or the suffrage business. They can't do two things at once—raise babies and make public speeches. They must forsake either the one or the other: and, when the thing comes to the test, we rather think they will cling to the babies. As baby-raisers they are first-class successes, but as speakers they are not. Let them do that which they can do best.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A GLORIOUS RECORD.—Twelve years ago a few modest lines in a New York Journal invited public attention to a new Vegetable restorative, and solicited a trial of its merits as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, fever and ague, debility, nervous disorders, rheumatism and all complaints requiring invigorating and regulating treatment. In this quiet, unpretentious way, PLANTATION BITTERS was introduced to the world. It was a success from the beginning. All that was claimed for it as a tonic, a corrective and antidote to malarious fever, was found to be strictly true. Within five years the annual sales of this article amounted to over One Million of Bottles. A few years more and the demand had swelled to five millions of bottles and the annual consumption of the bitters has now reached the almost incredible aggregate of SIX MILLIONS OF BOTTLES, and for every bottle sold a copy of the ILLUSTRATED MEDICAL ANNUAL, published by the proprietors, at a cost of $150,000, is given away.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Holidays.

Christmas and New Year's Day are the holidays of the year, when friendships are renewed and brightened (and business made brisk) by a mutual interchange of gifts—a custom which has grown to such proportions that the trade resulting therefrom warrants many dealers in devoting several weeks to "getting ready for Christmas," before that day arrives. The holiday trade increases with each succeeding year, and the preparations of the storekeepers increase in proportion.

TOYS AND FANCY GOODS we will look at first,—and the immense stocks are so varied that one is almost as much at a loss to select as though the articles offered to choose from were few. At "Santa Claus' Agency," (Bozzell & Sou's, on Pleasant Street,) a beautiful lot of toys and nice fancy goods are displayed, and if you pay your money you can take your choice and select a present suited to your purpose and your purse. This store presents a very attractive appearance, and the useful has not been forgotten in filling it up.

At Adams', No. 3 Congress Block, another extensive and well selected stock of holiday presents, "useful, durable and cheap," can be inspected. Albums, writing-desks and cases, games, books, note paper, smokers' goods and confectionery, all abound; and if none of these or of the many other articles in store are what is wanted, a year's subscription to any of the popular magazines or papers for which Adams has the agency is always in order, and can never fail to be appropriate as a gift.

Joseph H. Foster, at the Congress Block Bookstore, which has always been noted for its chice collection of beautiful goods for Christmas and New Year presents,—offers books, albums, toys, bronzes, vases and fancy goods too numerous to mention.

Alfred Stavers, No. 12 Market Street, displays a large, well-assorted stock of toys and fancy goods, sleds, skates, housekeeping goods, crockery ware, etc.,—including the German study lamp, a most appropriate gift for a student or any one else who reads. The stock is worth looking at, whether you want to buy or not.

Wm. R. Preston, No. 2 Congress Block, as usual offers a fine assortment of nice perfumes, choice toilet necessaries and luxuries, brushware, etc.; young men who have just commenced to "sit up" will remember that a gift of choice perfumery is always acceptable to the ladies.

At the "Dollar Store" of A. N. Brown & Bro., under the Franklin House, toys and gifts innumerable and very cheap may be found. We have already mentioned this store, in a previous issue.

At Wm. B. Lowd's, corner Market and Daniel Streets, a large and select stock of toy books and books amusing and instructive, and of other articles suitable for presents, may be found.

IN DRY GOODS, Henderson offers an immense variety at his brilliant establishment on Daniel St.; besides which he has books, games, magic lanterns, dolls dressed and not dressed, at prices ranging from one cent to five dollars, Japanese goods, ribbons and laces, handkerchiefs and gloves, in every variety of style and at prices to suit all purses.

C. H. Mendum & Co. have laid in a vast stock of cloths of all kinds, silks, laces, underwear, ties, gloves, and useful and ornamental fancy goods for presents. And if a heavy present is wanted, Mendum & Co. will let you have a carpet that will cover your friend's house inside and out, if you choose.

Geo. B. French's store on Market Street, always well stocked, has been crammed for the holiday trade. All the articles looked for in a first-class store are to be found here—cloths, flannels, German worsteds, gloves, etc.; and $2000 worth of damaged goods are finding a rapid sale at low rates.

L. Blumauer, at No. 21 Market Street, has opened a special department of elegant fancy goods suitable for holiday presents, in addition to his usual full and complete stock of dry goods.

IN CLOTHING, J. E. Ham & Co., No. 9 Congress Street, are prepared to make up a large stock of foreign and domestic cloths and cassimeres into smooth and easy-fitting garments, or to sell goods by the yard in patterns to suit purchasers; and a look at their advertisement—if the advice therein contained is followed—will give a perfect-fitting shirt.

William P. Walker, at the Gentlemen's Custom Clothing Store, No. 8 Market Square, has on hand a large and seasonable collection of plain and fancy patterns of cloths for coats, pants and vests,—something to suit every taste,—which he will make up in the latest style or such style as his patrons may desire, and warrant every article to be made in the best manner and of the best materials. He also has a large stock of gents' furnishing goods.

Josiah T. Brown, No. 40 Market Street, has a large stock of ready made clothing and furnishing goods, and cloths of all kinds, which he will either sell by the yard or cut to any desired style according to the purchaser's fancy.

C. E. Myers & Co. offer a large and superior stock of ready made clothing and furnishing goods for men and boys, or they will take your measure and fit you nicely with garments made from their full stock of cloths.

John Malsbenden, No. 1 Bridge Street, will either sell you a garment ready made, make you a new one, or cleanse and repair an old one in the best manner.

N. K. Walker & Co., No. 11 Congress Street, and Dearborn, on Market Street, have large stocks of hats, caps, gloves and furs, of all qualities, styles and prices.

IN MILLINERY, C. N. Shaw & Co., Pleasant Street, and J. M. Tebbetts, 14 1-2 Maaket Street, offer full and varied stocks of seasonable goods.

OF BOOTS AND SHOES, Hill & Carr, No. 34 Market Street, and Joseph Pettigrew, No. 1 Congress Street, will fit you from large stocks of ready made leather ware, arctics, etc., or will make you a pair of boots or shoes in good style at short notice.

Fay & Shedd, No. 25 Congress Street, have a large and new stock of boots and shoes, clothing and furnishing goods, which they offer at bargains for cash.

OF WATCHES AND JEWELRY a large stock is offered by J. H. Hutchinson, Market Square. Here can be found rings, gold and plated sets, chains, silver ware, knives, cake baskets, card receivers and a great variety of other articles, all of which will be found to turn out as represented,—and all purses can be suited.

If any one wants a SEWING MACHINE, (and what better present for a wife or a sweetheart?) J. J. Fessenden, at No. 12 Vaughan Street, will be pleased to exhibit an assortment of "Singers,"—the oldest sewing machine in the market, and one which seems to hold its own wondrously against a host of competitors for public favor.

E. A. Joy, No. 2 Exchange Buildings, has the new, light-running "Domestic" sewing machine, of which he has sold a great number and which may be had for a few days' trial before purchasing.

William Critchley, No. 6 Bridge Street, invites inspection of the new "American" sewing machine, which he will sell to be paid for by installments.

J. S. Masseck, at 20 & 21 Daniel Street, has the "Wheeler & Wilson" sewing machine for sale; and judging from the number of visitors at his elegant office, the merits of the Wheeler & Wilson are sufficient to command a good share of public patronage.

IN STOVES AND HOUSE FURNISHINGS, Sweetser & Clark offer a heavy stock, including cooking stoves and ranges, parlor and office stoves, furnaces and grates, cutlery, plated and glass ware, tin, wooden and toilet ware, bronzed and Japan goods, chandeliers, lamps and lamp fittings of every variety, shelf brackets, etc.

IN GROCERIES, all the materials for a nice Christmas dinner can be procured at reasonable prices of B. Norton, No. 18 Cabot Street, Charles H. Joy, No. 18 Congress Street, Butler & Laighton, No. 1 Market Square, Lafayette Laighton, No. 44 Market Street, Nathaniel F. Pinder, at the North End Provision Store, or J. Rider & Son, corner Bow and Penhallow Streets.

For further particulars see our advertising columns, where you can find out the place to buy anything you may wish, either useful or ornamental, and we warrant that those who advertise can and do sell cheaper than those who hide their light under a bushel and never let the public know where they are or what their business is.

—Hon. Eli Pierce, postmaster of Portsmouth, N. H., is in this city, stopping at the Ebbitt.—Washington Republic.

Such is fame!

Laconics.

At the G. A. R. Fair, the sewing machine was withdrawn. Isaac H. M. Pray drew a necktie holder and a watch case. The net loss by the Fair to the Encampment is $40 to $50.

"Boston on Fire," the last dramatic sensation, opens at the Temple on Friday night, 27th inst, for one night only, affording an opportunity for our citizens to witness this great masterpeice. The dramatic corps embraces many old favorites, including Mr. I. H. Budworth, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Clarke, Josie Booth, Ed. Snow and others. The management has reduced the price of tickets to 35 and 50 cents. Tickets at Preston's.

Nathan Parker of Manchester succeeds Moody Currier as Treasurer of the Concord Railroad.

The alarm of Sunday evening was caused by the discovery of a fire in the store of Mr. Joseph R. Curtis on Washington Street. It had been burning but a short time and was easily put out. About $25 worth of stationery, &c., was burned.

Mr. Philip S. Mizener drew the cooking stove at the G. A. R. Fair, Saturday.

The meeting of the committee of seventy having in charge the arrangements for the return of the Sons, which was to have been held this evening, is postponed to Jan. 7th.

The pupils of the Girls' High School were dismissed on Monday until Friday after presenting the Principal, Mr. Payson, with a piece of Rogers' statuary, "The School Examination," his assistant, Miss Morgan, being the recipient of a pair of bronze vases.

To-morrow, the 25 inst., is the Festival of the Nativity of our Lord. Appropriate services will be held as usual in St. John's Church this evening, (Christmas Eve,) commencing at a quarter past 7 o'clock; and on Wednesday morning, (Christmas Day,) at a quarter past 10 o'clock, with the Celebration of the Holy Communion and the special offertory out of which to send Christmas cheer to the poor.

All of us can remember the sweet-voiced singer whose name is associated with the "Pirate's Chorus" in "The Enchantress" and will hail with pleasure the announcement that Mrs. Caroline Richings-Bernard is to appear at the Temple to-night. She brings with her a splendid concert troupe comprising Pierre Bernard, tenor, Miss Agnes Palmer, contralto, H. H. Stewardson, baritone, and Frank Gilder, pianist. The entertainment will consist, in the first part of concert music, and, in the second part, of the last act of "Il Trovatore." This act contains most of the gems of that grand opera, including the the celebrated Miserere. Let a full house greet them.

A LETTER FROM JENKS.—Here is a characteristic letter from Jenks, Mrs. Sanderson's sea-minded servant, written to Arthur Bonnicastle, the hero of Dr. Holland's story in Scribner's:—

Bring home your Atlas.
I stere boldly for the Troppicks.
Desk and compasses in the stable.
When this you see burn this when this you see.
The see rolls away and there is no old wooman there.
Where the spisy breazes blow.
I shall come for you with the Shaze.
From an old Tarr.

THEOPHILUS JENKS.

EVERY CENT SAVED.—A Dr. James Murray, who was a year ago engaged in the slave trade, but who, like Newton, has repented of it, has given a confession which is striking horror into the hearts of Englishmen that their own countrymen could be guilty of such crimes. The cool devilishness of the actors may be judged of from the plan of the kidnappers to secure their victims. The South Sea Islanders were invited to bring provisions into the ship; and, when alongside, heavy pieces of iron were thrown into their boats, and the struggling wretches were seized as they swam. Says Dr. Murray: "The pieces of iron were not wasted, as they were fastened to the brig with long ropes."

—The teachers in the Louisville schools are an enterprising and ingenious set; they have just got a patent on a peculiarly effective instrument of punishment. It is a strap with the end split, so that every blow counts as two, and the tally is kept by a little meter in the handle. They have another mode of punishment, which is to pick a boy up by his ear and sling him around. One of them caught hold of an ear, one day, which didn't grow on very strong, and the boy dropped off; since then there has been an unaccountable prejudice against this method of correction.

—John Cochrane says that the great trouble with New York servants is, that the flamboyant spirit of the sea girl Celt dashes itself too rudely against the nervous barriers of the American housewife. — N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustees—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove or brick se Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of the FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children groaning with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time it is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, which for dozens years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
"I send my patents to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and better qualified for putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office, rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of competent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the best attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

CHRISTMAS.

BY B. F. SHILLABER.

The tranquil stars shone on the plain
Where "shepherds watched their flocks by night,"
When broke from heaven that wondrous strain,
And flashed abroad that wondrous light,
Filling their humble souls with fright:
"Peace, peace on earth! To men good will!"
So rang the strain, and angels bright
Sounded God's glory, that did thrill
With glad accord of sound and sight.—

"Good tidings of great joy we bring,
For Christ the Lord is born to-day!
He is your Saviour, and your King!"
Then vanished into heaven away
Th' angelic host, and darkness lay
On the calm hills and streams around,
While, dazed with the sublime display,
The shepherds bowed in awe profound.

Not to the magi first it came,—
The shepherds caught the earliest word,
And in the flood of song and flame
Behold the glory of the Lord!
The learned and grand their tribute showered,
But, first received, the poor man's gift
Of worship that unstinted poured
From hearts with joyousness uplift.

The angel message rings the earth,
The good news to its triumph speeds;
New truths of "good to men" have birth,
Response to prayer of human needs.
Though Truth be poor, and pines and bleeds,
Its saving mission will not die;
It springs again and yet succeeds,
To work in good its ministry.

The same grand message from the sky,
The same old glory greets the ken;
All "glory be to God on high,
And peace on earth, good will to men!"
The truth, in Christ, renews again,
With every effort man to bless,
And his embodiment is plain
In all enacted righteousness.

E'en now, as then, the humble mind
Sees the first coming from afar;
The magi seek the babe to find,
And follow his directing star;
And Herods of the race still are
Who tremble at the growth of Truth,
And wickedly its course would bar
By killing it in early youth.

Christ's truth shall grow to strive and bless,
Till all the world its worth shall know,
And every tongue its power confess,
And earth redeemed its triumphs show;
Then, once again the strain shall flow,
That tells of peace through victory won,
And every human heart shall glow
With joy in Mary's holy Son.

Thank God for Christmas!—'tis a boon—
A precious stopping-place in time;
The heart, with peace and love attune,
Glads with the note of Christmas chime.
In every land, in every clime,
This day, all discord under ban,
Is heard the symphony sublime
Of "peace on earth, good will to man!"

—[Chelsea Public.

MISS PRIM'S SURPRISE.

A CHRISTMAS STORY FOR THE CHILDREN.

"I don't believe there's a person in the village who hasn't a Christmas present," exclaimed little Nellie Dutton, dancing around her own treasures, which were spread out upon the floor, unless it's old Miss Prim. I don't believe anybody would give her a present."

Nellie's sister Maud, I'm sorry to say, sat by the window, sulking. Not because she had been neglected, but because she had not received, the little gold watch and chain that she had set her heart on. Somehow Nellie's careless words brought to her mind, as in a flash, the forlorn and lonely home of the poor little sewing-woman. She could see the tiny brown cottage of two rooms, with its patient, sad-eyed tenant, sitting by her low window, sewing. No Christmas-tree, even no Christmas dinner, she feared, for she knew Miss Prim had to sew early and late to earn her living.

"I don't see how I can help it," Maud said to herself, for she couldn't avoid feeling that somebody ought to do something. "I've spent every cent I had."

For a while she sat thinking silently. Then, almost to her own surprise, she exclaimed:—

"Nell, suppose we give her something?"

"Who?" said Nelly. "Oh! Miss Prim? What can we give her? She wouldn't care for my things, and you can't give away presents, you know."

"No. I don't mean that; let's make her something—not to wear, or to eat, but to enjoy. Let me see—"

"Oh! you make her a fernery!"

"I can't do that on such short notice; but I know what I can make, and I believe I'll do it now."

Among the rubbish in the wood-shed, she had noticed an old dripping-pan.—Now she went and got it, asked her mother if she could have it—telling her something of her plan—and at once proceeded to work.

"What can you do with that old black thing?" asked Nell, in disgust. "I'm sure Miss Prim won't thank you for that."

"Won't she, Miss Nell! You come up in the attic with me and see if she won't."

Now Maud was very fond of the woods, and every few days through the long summer and fall she had made excursions into them, returning loaded down with treasures she couldn't bear to leave—beautiful mosses and lichens, lovely stones and thousands of things you woods-lovers know.

Now Mrs. Dutton was a neat housekeeper, and abhorred a "litter." So she forbade Maud's filling her pretty room with these things, but gave her free access to the attic. Sundry trunks and shelves therefore held all these beauties, and to them Maud and Nellie went.

"First," said Maud, "I must cover the bottom of the pan, so it won't soil Miss Prim's neat house."

After some hunting, she found an old moth-eaten cloth-cloak, which she said was just the thing. Cutting a piece a little larger than the pan, she covered the bottom of that much abused article, brought it up on the sides, and fastened it securely to the wire around the edge, by means of holes which she punched with a sharp nail and a hammer."

"The next thing is to cover the sides of the pan, so it will be ornamental."

"The sides are covered," said Nell, who was impatient to see by what necromancy Maud could turn an old dripping-pan into a work of art.

"Yes, I know they are—with old cloth, but I don't think that's very pretty, do you?"

"Well, no—not very, but it's as pretty as the inside."

"Oh! you wait until I get at the inside, Miss Nell," said Maud, now in high spirits. "Next I must make some glue."

From a shelf she took an old tin cup and some pieces of glue, and went down to the kitchen stove to melt it.—Mrs. Dutton was busy helping Bridget cook the big Christmas dinner, to which a house full of friends was expected, but she told Maud she would take time to pack a few "goodies," for Miss Prim's table.

With the pot of hot glue Maud went back to the attic, and soon had the sides of the pan covered with pieces of delicate bark and twigs, with here and there an acorn, or small cone from an evergreen tree. When done it looked rustic and pretty. Maud was satisfied and Nell was in ecstacies.

"Now for the inside," said Maud; "and first I must get some good soil."

Another journey was made, to the cellar this time, where a box-full of earth was kept by the gardener to start his early plants in. Maud soon filled the pan, forming the soft earth into hills and valleys and uneven shapes. Then she found a piece of broken looking-glass, which she washed clean, and carefully imbedded in the soil on one side, making sloping banks up from the glass. It looked like a little pond.

"Now, Nell," said Maud, "will you go down to the wood-shed and bring me this basket full of the green moss we had under the Christmas tree last night? They were thrown out with the tree. Pick out nice pieces, and all the kinds there are, while I hunt up some rocks for our little 'mossery.'"

Delighted to help, Nellie did as she was requested, and soon returned with a heaping basket-full of those wonderfully beautiful green mosses which grow so luxuriantly in the woods, and which Maud and her elder brother had dug out from under the snow a few days before.

In the meantime Maud found a few rough stones, one with an exquisite bit of gray lichen growing on it, and another half-covered with a golden green moss. These she imbedded in the soil, the mossy one hanging over the bit of a lake, and the other over in a corner. From the lake to another corner she made a sort of winding ravine, and then proceeded to cover the whole with fresh moss. The several varieties were put on according to her fancy. Little tree-like sorts, planted here and there, looked like fairy trees. Two or three overhung the lake. Bits of twigs covered with moss, the little exquisite red and brown capped sorts, she laid about to look like fallen tree-trunks. Near one corner she carefully set out a very small growing fern.

The whole thing, when done, looked like a little piece of the genuine wild woods reduced to tiny proportions.

"Put some folks in," said Nell. "I'll give you some of my little china dolls, an inch high."

"Oh! no," said Maud. "Let it be a genuine bit of wildness. She'll like it all the better."

"O dear! I can't bear to have it go away," said Nell.

"But think how she'll enjoy it! And I can make you another. Now, I must cover these black handles."

"Why didn't you put them under the cloth?"

"Because they are needed to lift it by."

Maud soon found some narrow, brown ribbon, which harmonized with the soft tints of the mosses and bark. With this she wound the handles and the whole thing was done."

"Perfect!" said everybody down stairs, when Maud took it down to exhibit.

"Well, it's really Christmas morning!" said Miss Prim to herself that morning, as she put her little house in order, "and I don't know as I ever spent one quite so lonely or so poorly as I shall this. I wonder if I can be the same girl who used to have such a happy home, and such joy over my stuffed stocking!"

With a sigh she put away the duster, and sat down in the low rocking-chair before the fire.

"I can hardly feel reconciled that all should be gone—all sleeping in their quiet graves—and I alone—and poor! Alas! how poor!" she went on after a pause. "How father would have felt, and brother Will—if they could have known—could have seen me as I am to-day! And Harry! Ah! it would have been different if Harry—"

Here she sprang up.

"But I won't get sad over might have beens. I'll remember that I'm a lonely old maid seamstress, with my dinner to get." And resolutely she folded away her life romance, and steadily she turned to stitching on the bands of a happier girl's apron, though she didn't get on so fast as usual, and a quiet tear did once or twice fall on her work.

At last 12 o'clock drew near, and she rose to get her dinner. She covered the little round table with a fresh white cloth, put her little tea-kettle on the fire, and went to the cupboard to set out the dainties.

What were they? Well, first a slice or two of cold corned beef, next two cold potatoes, which she intended to warm up, and lastly a little bread.

"Not very luxurious, to be sure!" said the brave little woman, "but better than poor Sally Ward will have, and good enough—with the tea I shall make. I dare-say, to-morrow, I shall be as happy as though I dined at the squire's, to-day."

But these things were not destined to grace her table that day, for just at this moment came a knock at the door.

She hurried to open it, and there stood Maud, holding the "mossery" in both hands, and Nellie staggering under the weight of a market-basket.

"Miss Prim," said Maud, "we want you to help us enjoy Christmas, and we have brought you a tiny bit of it. Won't you let us in?" for Miss Prim stood in the doorway as though she had lost her senses.

"Let you in? Why, of course I will," said she, starting back and throwing open the door. "But what is that you said, and what is this wonderful thing you have brought?"

"Look at it, while I set your table," said Maud; "you must have expected us—you're got the table-cloth on."

She placed the "mossery" on a table, and Miss Prim, who loved the woods as well as Maud, but never got time to go into them, sank into a chair in speechless delight, while Maud and Nellie proceeded to spread the table.

Out of mamma's basket came first a duck and a nicely-browned chicken pie, then a dish of mashed potatoes, golden brown on top, then a tumbler of cranberry jelly, then a mince pie and piece of cheese, then tarts, apples, nuts, raisins, then a beautiful loaf of cake, and last of all, a small tin-pailful of hot coffee, the genuine sort, such as Miss Prim seldom drank.

She, meantime, sat in a sort of stupor, which at last found expression in a fit of tears. Maud and Nellie—whose eyes would get misty—did not disturb her, but, having arranged the table, Maud went up to her and said, quietly:

"Now, Miss Prim, I was real cross this morning till I began to think about making your Christmas a little brighter, and you needn't say a word about it, for it has done me more good than it can you,"—and before Miss Prim could speak, they went out, feeling very warm about the heart, and very damp about the eyes.

Miss Prim soon recovered herself, and feeling that her pleasure was too great to be enjoyed alone, she put the potatoes and coffee down to the fire to keep hot, while she threw a shawl over her head and went over to Sally Ward. Sally was a widow, living in one room and earning a very scant living by making shirts by hand. As she expected, the poor soul was hard at work, with no prospect of dinner, unless a crust of bread in the cupboard was intended for that.

"Christmas has come to my house," said Miss Prim, "and you're to ask no questions, but come right over and help me enjoy it."

Of the wonderful dinner and the wonderful warmth and good feeling it woke in their hearts, I cannot half tell.

And of the blessed warmth of heart, and the heavenly good-will to all the world, that made Maud's Christmas the most delightful she had ever known, I can tell still less.—Olive Thorne, in Hearth and Home.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1872.

Washington Correspondence.

The Senate resolutions of Windom for a committee to consider that part of the President's message relating to internal improvements, and of Stewart to enquire how far the government can go in regulating the freights and fares on railroads, is an additional indication of the coming question upon which party divisions will commence and new combinations arise.

The Louisiana muddle is intricate and important, and where making haste slowly is desirable. Durell, who has effected the revolution of a State government by injunction, is a New Hampshire man, from Dover, and has become a historical character. It is one of those cases when the command to halt is needed. Revolution of State governments by injunctions of inferior courts will be a costly experiment if it is to become a precedent with an army to back its commands.

Much time has been occupied with Territory of Columbia matters, which would be amusing if not so expensive. They came to Congress two years ago, and called for a change of government, and now because their request was granted, they claim the expenditures of the offices, created as they asked, shall be paid by Congress, because the people of the District had no voice in their appointment. The Board of Public Works have spent about six million dollars the last year and a half, and incurred obligations which will reach a million and a half dollars more, yet claim that a million and a quarter of it was spent around government reservations or parks, which Congress should pay for. It comes in this way. Congress has provided large parks, planted them with trees and furnished them with seats, besides music in the summer season twice a week. The city is laid out in squares, crossed with avenues diagonally, which leave triangular plats where the streets are crossed, from two to three hundred feet long and from fifty to a hundred feet wide at one end running to a point. These plats were not wide enough for advantageous building, but make pretty little parks when fenced and planted with trees, and sodded and seated, as they have been, by Congress. These triangular plats have streets on three sides of them, and the Board of Public Works charge to the government five-sixths of the cost of paving and curbing on all three sides,—and so against the large parks. Other cities buy and fence their parks, and beautify them; but here, after the government has done all this, they claim that it should pay taxes on these parks at their value for business purposes or dwellings!

And so of the public buildings, which are at once the ornament and support of the city. Millions are yearly levied on the country and spent here, out of which about everybody here lives. Concord spent a half-million, more or less, to remodel the State House, to keep public business there; Manchester offered to build a State House and furnish the grounds, for the privilege of that business; but here the government furnishes public buildings, parks and water, and pays part of the police and pauper bills,—and still they think Uncle Sam ought to be taxed on the value of his buildings, parks and all, at their cost and value, and that he is an old niggard if he reserves the right to growl when an extra big bill comes to him to foot. Of course the old fellow always comes down liberally with the needful to fix up nice, and always will, if they keep anywhere within reasonable bounds.

The leakings out of the secret Credit Mobilier examination are enough to keep up the interest. So much leaked out of the testimony in regard to fifty shares McComb said Brooks of New York had for his influence with the Democracy, as to lead that gentleman to make a personal explanation in the House, in which he denied the allegation and declared he never had any stock, or any benefit from stock, directly or indirectly, and further, that he didn't believe any of the others charged had. He wound up, however, by admitting that his son-in-law had fifty shares, which he paid for. That was "too thin;" and at once raised the question whether any of the others had sons-in-law or friends. Wilson's connection with it has a curious history. At his silver wedding some years ago, his personal friends gave a handsome purse to his wife; and John B. Alley, who wanted her to have a little of a good thing, advised her to invest a thousand in his Nevada silver mining schemes, which turned out badly. Oakes Ames, to help cover this loss, offered her a chance in Credit Mobilier and also to personally guarantee her against loss from the investment. She bought the stock, but Wilson, upon thinking it over feared it might in some way involve his integrity as a legislator and insisted upon having it returned, notwithstanding Ames protested he was depriving his wife of a good thing,—and now he has the satisfaction of showing clean hands. Of course it is impossible to know what testimony has been given, but notwithstanding, Madame Rumor will have it that all the rest charged, except Boutwell and Blaine, had some stock, but that part of them cut company with it when the McComb suit promised them trouble. The Senator or Representative has no right to benefit himself at the expense of the treasury, whether it is in Credit Mobilier stock or selling cadetships. Attempt at secrecy is damaging many men when an open investigation would not.

The petition to Congress to stop rum-selling here sent a shiver to the whole business, and called out a prolonged howl against interference. Rum-selling here seems much more common than in the cities and towns of New England, and causes more crime and suffering here than all the other evils added together. To look over the number of places where liquor and tobacco are sold, one is almost led to the conclusion that half the expenditure of the city which enters into man is for these articles.

DUPING THE SICK.—In shape, color and smell the toadstool closely resembles the mushroom, yet the one is a poisonous fungus, the other a wholesome vegetable. Many of the advertised and unadvertised slops which unscrupulous speculators are trying to persuade the credulous are "as good as Hostetter's Bitters," bear a like superficial resemblance to that inestimable vegetable restorative. Quite a number of these dangerous fungi have started up within the last two years and doubtless many worthy people have been poisoned by them. Some of these wolves wear the sheep's clothing of pretended morality, and inveigh against medicinal stimulation as they vend their acid poisons; while others offer their liquid compounds of "forty rod rum" and condemned drugs under the slang names of "Eye Openers," "Morning Glories," "Cobweb Cutters," and the like. Beware of them all; for they are deadly and detestable.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

"Merry Christmas"

Has come. Santa Claus has done his duty and countless thousands of stockings hung up empty last night are filled with untold treasures, which busy-eyed cherubs and seraphs are seeking to ferret out. Christmas must needs be a happy event to the generality of mankind, with its holy memories, its cheery greetings, its opportunities for acts of benevolence. Christmas carols and Christmas gifts sanctify the day. Busy sleigh-bells ring out their musical chimes; the snow seems to add its charm to the landscape, so white and clear that fairy-land suggests itself to others than the little chirpers who have been so eagerly chattering for the week previous, wondering what "Saint Nicholas" might bring. A happy day of days it should be, bringing remembrance of other happy days of yore, sweet in its memories and hopeful in the present anticipations. Let the day be one of mirth, of good act, a holiday to be remembered in the future—"MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL!"

Leap Year Ball.

The ladies, dear souls, (dear in more senses than one, you know,) have let slide the year 1872 until most single gentlemen seemed safe from matrimonial intrigues. Things have wagged along as in every three of four years until now, when invitations to a leap year ball are issued for Thursday evening at Congress Hall, each card being good for a lady and two gentlemen. But it's fun to see gentle maidens hurrying hither and thither in search of—a man. We feel for our sex, suddenly grown important, so scarce in number as to advance 100 per cent. in value. Even married men are overwhelmed with "solicitations" and poor bachelors lie buried beneath piles of billet doux—and the end is not yet? Of course there will be a crush—to be certainly nobody can secure a hack next Thursday except for transportation to Congress Hall. All the liniment in town will be wasted on bandannas. No one escapes the leapidemic and no man can drive away applications for his "company." Distracted ciphers of the male persuasion go about the streets and lamentations are heard on all sides—for how can they accept thirteen invitations each (the average) and be at peace? The last resort has failed. The waving of a red flag has no effect—for every daughter of Portsmouth knows full well that there's not a case of exanthema in the city.

A Testimonial.

Chief Engineer Stephen L. Marston has received the following acknowledgment from Boston:—

Dear Sir; In behalf of the Board of Engineers of the Boston Fire Department, I beg to convey to the officers and members of your department, and especially to you as its Chief, our heart felt thanks for the assistance rendered in subduing the fire in this city on the 9th of November last.

The promptness of your department in our great emergency, and the arduous and heroic service performed by them will ever be gratefully remembered by this department and our citizens.

Yours most sincerely,

(Signed) { JOHN S. DAMRELL, Chief Eng'r. B. F. D.

Laconics.

The Richings-Bernard opera company had an audience of about fifty persons, Christmas Eve, but gave the finest concert and operatic performances heard in Porismouth for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard sang brilliantly, and the quartet gave us some of the finest music ever listened to in this city.

For fifteen years past, or more, Morris Brothers' troupe of minstrels have been known and appreciated all over New England; for during their long occupation of the Old Province House in Boston, every period of recess was employed in travelling over the eastern States. The company have held well together—the three brothers, Lon, Billy, and Charley, at its head; and what they cannot accomplish in their special line no rivals need try to do. The company appear at the Temple this evening.

"Boston on Fire," the sensation at the Howard Athenaeum, for the past four weeks, opens at the Temple for one night only, and comes to our city Highly endorsed by the people of Boston and Mayor Gaston, with a full and efficient dramatic corps, including many old favorites, with J. H. Budworth, the Dutch character vocalist, in the lead It is said a view of the last three pictures is alone worth the price of admission.

Rev. A. J. Patterson being unwell on Sunday, his wife occupied his pulpit at Boston Highlands. The Journal says she was entirely self-possessed, and performed the opening services in a distinct tone and an impressive manner. She took the text for her sermon, from John xx: 29—"Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." It was a Christmas sermon, and was particularly devoted to an elucidation of the blessings flowing from a full, undeviating faith in the divine character and full mission of Jesus Christ. The sermon was an able production, and abounded in rich and instructive thoughts. Mrs. Patterson is a lady of great literary talents, and has written much for the leading Universalist publications, both in prose and verse; but this is, we believe, the first time she has occupied a pulpit, and it was a complete success."

Prof. O. P. Sweet of New York is meeting with great success in his endeavors to hold a two days' musical convention and establish a musical school in this city. Tickets will be soon on sale and the advertisement will appear in due time. Prof. Sweet expects large choruses from Great Falls, Dover and adjoining towns, and hopes to have 250 trained voices.

The Republican Caucuses for choice of delegates to the various conventions, will be held at the three Ward Rooms on Friday evening, Dec. 27th, when all Republicans who supported the nomination of Grant and Wilson are desired to be present, as the committees chosen at the late meeting to select candidates for delegates will make their reports.

Our robust and jolly friend G. Harrison Jenness of Rye is likely to capture the Democratic Senatorial nomination in this district.

There will be a "pigeon shoot" at Rockingham Park, to-day.

Rev. Carlos Martyn will deliver the address on the occasion of the dedication of the new schoolhouse and town hall at Newington next Friday afternoon.

Turkeys and chickens were selling, Christmas Eve, at 25 cents per lb.

Christmas services this morning at the usual hour in the Unitarian church.

If you rise early to-morrow morning and go to the door for your copy of the DAILY CHRONICE and don't find it, you will then remember that to-day that is, and yesterday that will be was, is not forgotten by publishers, editors, or compositors, and that a holiday in which the aforementioned professors of paper, ink and type do not recreate, isn't much of a holiday—as it were!

THE ELECTRIC SIGNALS.—We have given to our readers from time to time accounts of the new electric signal system employed on the Eastern road. The following is the modus operandi of the signals at the signal stations:

Directly in front of the station is a heavy iron lever, lying close to the ground. Its short arm sets up against the rail, and its upper surface is half an inch above the top of the rail. The wheel of the locomotive, it is obvious, in passing along this place, will drive down this arm of the lever the half inch that it was above the track, and as much more as the depth of the flange of the wheel. Upon the other rim of the lever rests a pin which plays perpendicularly in a solid frame. The upper end of this pin is conical, and just above it are two metallic lips, one on each side. When the pin is down as is its natural condition, it touches neither of these metallic lips, and there is no connection between them. These lips are connected by wires with the positive and negative poles of the battery. The lever is pushed down at the one end, rising at the other; the conical end of the pin enters between the lips before mentioned till it touches both; the circuit is complete, the battery works, and the signal moves. It requires a weight of 2000 pounds to move the lever. In each signal house is a battery of forty jars. Some idea of the power of this battery can be formed by remembering that six jars would kill an ox. 135 pounds of vitriol a month is consumed by each battery.—Chelsea Public.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and ureserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

Morning Chronicle.

WHAT THE SHAKERS BELIEVE.—Their primary principles are, "Faith, hope, honesty, continence, innocence, simplicity, meekness, prudence, patience, thankfulness, and charity." A virgin life is strictly believed to be essential to a true follower of Christ; only the children of the world marry and are given in marriage.

A true Believer's union is spiritual, and needs no fleshly support. Their parentage is spiritual, and produces no fleshly offspring. Their inheritance is spiritual, and cannot be controlled by human laws. Their temporal property, which is necessary for the support of the body while in life, is regulated by a sacred compact. By mutual agreement it is consecrated to religious uses, for the benefit of the whole body, and descends to their spiritual heirs.

The first gospel dispensation appeared in the male, in the person of Jesus Christ. The second gospel dispensation was manifested in the female, and is the second appearance of Christ in the person of Ann Lee, in which appearing the woman as well as the man is restored to her proper lot and order in the new creation.

The society do not believe that death is the closing scene of man's probation for eternity. The doctrine of a probationary state beyond the grave was explicitly taught by Mother Ann Lee, the spiritual head and founder of the sect.

Confession is maintained to be the only method whereby one can be cleansed from his sins; and this infallible key to heaven—so long and so much abused in the church of Antichrist—was renewed in all its purity at the commencement of the United Society. Those who have no opportunity in this world of embracing the gospel of Christ's second appearing in the female, it is believed, will have it offered to them in the next, with the other dogmas of their faith. But awful, awful will be the sentence on those souls who, having this privilege, reject it in this world; and they alone of all God's creatures are forever and eternally lost, who, having once embraced Shakerism, turn away and become reprobates!

The Shaker believes in a dual God—"a Father, fountain of wisdom and power, and a Mother, fountain of goodness and love." They believe in direct divine communication—"the revelation from the first parents of all souls not only to the man Jesus, as the first born of humanity in the male line, eighteen hundred years ago, but also to the woman Ann Lee, the first born of humanity in the female line in modern times."

Woman's rights are fully recognized by giving her a mother in Deity. Equal suffrage and equal participation in the government of an order founded by a woman, is an inevitable sequence.

The ministers live in a house by themselves. The power vested in them is absolute. They make all the appointments; each succeeding minister is appointed by his predecessor. They claim the true apostolic succession, or "holy anointing" from Mother Ann and the first fathers and mothers in the church, which is the Millennial Church.

Every member has access to the confessional at all times, but there is one day in the year especially set apart as a "season for fasting and confession." It occurs about the thanksgiving period in the New England States. It is invariably appointed for a Sabbath day—whether to save time or from the fact that bread and salt are not very substantial articles of food to labor upon, it does not appear. The ordinary services are dispensed with, and the day seemed to us children interminable. While the world's people were feasting on thanksgiving fare, we were ruminating the bitter food of reflection.

For social purposes there is a "retiring house," which is occupied evenings and Sundays by the brethren and sisters. Here are the sitting-rooms wherein to wait for a few moments, until all descend together and in order to the dining-hall. The sleeping apartments are in the same building, situated on either side of long corridors. The rooms to the right as you enter are devoted to the use of the sisters; the opposite ones belong to the brethren. Four or five persons occupy the same suite, which consists of the sleeping-room, leading to a clothes-room and bath-room. Shaker neatness and cleanliness are proverbial.

On Sunday, Tuesday, and Friday evenings, an hour is devoted to a "union meeting." Then the brethren and sisters living in opposite apartments meet for conversation. Each sex sits in a long row facing the other, about five feet apart, to enjoy this "feast of reason and flow of soul." Anecdotes are related, and poetry is repeated, provided it is original or by another Believer, for "world's poetry" is tabooed, lest it might contain sentiments of love. New songs which have been sent by other societies are learned, and visitors discussed, and perhaps criticised by a young brother or sister, who are sharply reproved by their seniors as not competent to pass judgment; but stocks, bonds, real estate, the Gold Board, and politics are especially forbidden.

In the large hall above the refectories, evening services are held on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings of every week, and on stormy Sundays when the meeting-house is not opened. —"Fifteen years a Shakeress," in January Galaxy.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When offered, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

1872 FALL TRADE 1872

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove or brick co. Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

—ALSO—

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred GREAT DISEASES of all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. Those painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LICORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is antiseptic and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, it not an experiment, it not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"Regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy to secure valuable or pitiling their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. DAVID BURRE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest Instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

OF
WILD CHERRY!
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR
CONSUMPTION!
and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all
LUNG COMPLAINTS.
This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.
CONSUMPTION
CURED
by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.
Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry
does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint
CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,
and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

THE LATE GEN. MEADE.

A gentleman now in Paris [General Lyman of Boston] who served during the late war on the staff of General Meade, writes us as follows concerning his lamented chief:—

America has lost one of her best soldiers. Worn out by exposure and the wounds received in a faithful service of thirty-five years, he has gone before his time. When Lee met him on the Palm Sunday of 1865, near Appomattox Court House, he said, with the triviality so common amid crushing misfortune—"Why, Meade, what are you doing with all that gray in your beard?" "You have a good deal to do with it!" retorted his conqueror, with a short laugh. To command a great army for two years, in the awful struggle that ended there, was enough to bring gray hairs and untimely age to anyone. But, if a man may wear out in such work as this, then it is better to wear, than to rust.

Meade was perhaps the first tactician in the United States army; that is to say, he had, in a large degree, the rare power of properly moving large bodies of troops in face of the enemy. A natural talent, developed by his long studies as an engineer, gave him a sort of the topographical instinct, so that, in circumstances the most difficult—at midnight in the midst the woods of Spottsylvania, or in the cypress swamps of the Chickahominy, he carried with him a mental order of battles, and was never at a loss as to the position or the direction of a corps. It is not an easy thing to march a hostile army through the plains of north Germany, or the rolling region of eastern France, where the guns can go two abreast in the roads, and the columns may take through the fields on either side; and where men and horses can live in plenty off the country. Much more difficult is it to direct the advance of a hundred thousand men, and a train of supply-wagons, forty miles long, through a country like Virginia, whose roads were half-obliterated cart-tracks, and whose war-trampled soil had long since ceased to furnish food for man or beast. This ill-reputed fighting-ground,—which had proved the ruin of many of his comrades, was for him a stage, on which to show his ability.

It is with Virginia and the army of the Potomac that the name of Meade is, from first to last, identified. Called in the summer of 1863 from his scientific duties on the great lakes, he was appointed brigadier-general of volunteers, and, as commander of the Pennsylvania reserves, was in the thick of the fighting during McClellan's peninsular campaign, where he was severely wounded at Glendale (June 30, 1862) while covering the retreat of the army. At South Mountain he commanded a division of the first corps in its successful attack; and in the succeeding battle of Antietam, he had his horse shot under him and received a severe contusion from a canister ball. At Fredericksburg his division made the flank attack, which, if strongly supported, might have changed the face of the day. He thus became one of the officers of conspicuous merit, and received the command of a corps, which he led with acknowledged skill in the disastrous action of Chancellorsville, where he covered the army as it recrossed the Rappannock.

When the disagreement of General Hooker with the War department made his displacement inevitable, the choice of his successor, lying between Reynolds and Meade, fell on the latter. And it is a touching circumstance that General Reynolds, by the sacrifice of his life, contributed afterwards to the glory of his near friend and companion in arms. He came, with the advanced guard, to the ridge beyond Gettysburg, and, seeing with his quick military eye that the position must not be given up, he held stubbornly there, and fell at the head of his men. The main body of the army, pushing rapidly on, arrived in time to form on the horse-shoe ridge now celebrated in history. That night, General Meade, accompanied by a captain of engineers, examined in person the whole position, and made his final dispositions. The battle that followed is too familiar to be told again. When night fell, after the last day, the flower of the army of northern Virginia lay dead on the field, or were gathered as helpless prisoners. There turned the tide of rebellion; and, though as it ebbed, the waves again and again came fiercely back, they each time retreated further, and at last they were still. General Meade commanded the Army of the Potomac in the crowning victory of the war. Had defeat come of it, on him would have fallen the disgrace,—but it was victory; therefore let no one divide his glory.

When Grant was appointed lieutenant-general of the forces, in place of the singular aulic council which hitherto had cramped military operations, he was quick to see that the rebellion could have no end so long as the strongest hostile army lay within three days of Washington. Therefore, while he directed by telegraph all the armies in the field, he accompanied in person the Army of the Potomac. But Meade still commanded that army; and it is needless to explain to military men that the tactical combinations were his alone. The advantages of having a commander-in-chief, to whom no one could dictate, were soon manifest. When more men were needed he ordered the regiments down from forts around Washington, and when told that the capital was threatened by an immense force under Early he dogmatically refused to quit his hold on Petersburg, for the sake of sending help,—all this despite the hysterical cries proceeding from the seat of government!

And so the army went painfully through the Wilderness, as the men used to say, "fighting and digging all day, and marching all night." Those who survived to cross the James were confronted by the earthworks of Petersburg, the last stronghold of Lee. "Some people said I would not fight hard enough," said Meade bitterly, "because at Mine Run. I held the lives of my men dearer than my own glory. I hope they are satisfied now!" There he stayed, all winter through, living in the tent, that during four years had been his only home. To the officers he gave leaves of absence, but he remained to the midst of his army, waiting for the spring and the chance to strike the last blow.

The second of April, 1865, came, when the sixth corps went over to the enemy's works, and Lee, with his army cut in two, yet fighting to the last, retreated westward. She John had gone across country to cut off the retreat, while hard in the rear of the fugitives followed Meade. He was too sick with malarial fever to sit on his horse, but, with his usual quiet determination, he insisted on keeping up the troops. That day week the remnant of the army of northern Virginia hemmed in between Meade and Sheridan, surrendered. And then it was that Lee noticed the marks of care in the face of of a man who had once been his friend and comrade.

General Meade was only fifty-six years old, but he had already done the full work of a long life, and there remained nothing to be added to the perfection of his character. His was the best type of the "West Pointer," a gentleman in thought and deed; scorning trickery or meanness; full of the disciplined courage that neither seeks nor avoids danger; firm in purpose, but never boasting or over hopeful. He was scrupulous in exacting and in rendering obedience; firey in disposition, but most forgiving and kindly. Especially he had that high trait, the love of children. He would give money to families that were in the route of the army, saying: "Those little things make me think of my children at home." So long as it shall be honorable to be a valiant soldier, a firm patriot and a Christian gentleman, so long will his name be held in honor.—Swiss Times.

Says the Boston Advertiser; Salem tunnel has always been noted for its admirable facilities for lovers to exchange salutes. Recently while a bridal couple were on their way from Portsmouth, a peculiar sound was heard, and the bride remarked that the new electric signals sounded louder in the tunnel than at any point on the road. The bridegroom saw it, just as the train emerged from the tunnel into open day, and concluded that every man learns something by travel.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

GREAT FIRES IN BOSTON.—Boston was settled in 1630, seven years after Portsmouth. The first fire of any note was in 1631, the next year after the town was begun. It was great only relatively. There were but few dwellings in the place and it was distressing to have a fire. One or two buildings were burned. A chimney took fire and it communicated to a thatched roof, and that building, if no more, was destroyed.

In 1679 there was a terrible fire in which 30 dwellings, 70 warehouses and several shops were consumed. In 1702 a fire destroyed several buildings. The population was then 7,000.

In 1711 there was a great fire. It was October 2d, and broke out in Williams Court, destroying most of the buildings on both sides of Cornhill, now Washington Street, from School Street to Market Square. One church was destroyed, that of the first Congregational Society, which stood where Joy's buildings now do. The Society erected another on the same spot, which stood till 1808. Then one was erected in Chauncey Place, and since in Berkley Street. While the house stood on Washington Street, Rev. Joshua Moody of Portsmouth, having been imprisoned and silenced by Gov. Cranfield, preached in it for a few years and then returned to Portsmouth again.

March 20, 1760, a fire spread in Cornhill, State and Congress Streets to Fort Hill. The number of dwellings burned was 174; and 175 warehouses and many other buildings.

April 24, 1787, a fire broke out in Beach St., extending south and destroying 60 houses, 40 other buildings, and the Hollis Street church. The population of the town was then about 18,000, not so large as Manchester in our State is now.

July 4, 1794, seven rope walks between Pearl and Atkinson Streets were burned, with about 90 other buildings in that section.

Nov. 3, 1818, the Boston Exchange Coffee House in Congress Square, seven stories high, with 210 apartments, the whole costing about half a million dollars, was destroyed.

July 7, 1824, 15 costly dwellings on Beacon, Charles and Chestnut Streets were destroyed. The same year 53 large warehouses in Doan Street and vicinity were consumed. The town had been incorporated a city two years before, and had a population of 43,000.

Later fires we need not notice as our account is of older times, but we will add as a chronicle of old times that an account of the fire in 1711, above noted, passed into verse. There were 24 stanzas. We will give as a specimen one relating to the loss of the church, with the capital letters as printed.

"Thy ancient house where thy dear Saints assembled in thy Name;
Thou gavest as a Sacrifice to the Consuming Flame."

Another refers to several lives lost, thus:

"With bruises and the Raging Flames
those many lives were lost;
More worth than Houses and Choice Goods, which many thousands cost."

THE NEW ENGLAND SOCIETY celebrated forefathers' day in New York. Henry Ward Beecher responded to the toast, "The President of the United States," as follows:—

I call your historical memory to take notice that we have never had a President of the United States who was good for anything during his four or eight years in office. If you go back to the early newspapers and discussions you will find that Washington was a notoriously incompetent President. Thousands and tens of thousands bitterly inveighed against him, and his presidential life, so far from being a happy one, was entirely the opposite. John Adams was not a very popular President. He sat out once, and the literature was as bitter as gall against him. Jefferson, who took his place, was considered by half of the people of this land little better than the devil himself. Monroe was hardly worthy, from weakness or incompetence, of indignation. Then came John Quincy Adams. When we remember the criticisms which were indulged in upon him we think we are living in moderate and temperate times.

Then came Jackson. Of course everybody liked him. He was pre-eminently a saint. [Laughter.] A saint of robust order. Out of his loins political, came Van Buren the Smooth [laughter], and Van Buren was universally popular, was he not? [Laughter.] Next came Harrison, who died too soon, and Tyler took his place, I need not recall to your minds the sweet times of his four years. [Laughter.] And then came Polk. Was there ever an administration laid open to such severe criticism as his? After that came old General Taylor and Mr. Fillmore. General Taylor, seeing what there was before him, retreated. He knew there was no justice on earth. Then came Pierce, who was a big man in New Hampshire, but come to spread him all over the United States he spread very thin. After Pierce we had Buchanan, and then Lincoln, the glorification of whose untimely death made his name as sacred as were those of the gods of old, but during the four dreadful years in which he with his homely smile, his growing religious feeling, his deep patriotism, waded to the horse's bridle in blood, was he sustained by the unanimous voice of this nation? Was there ever a man so hewed and hacked so ignominiously as he?

Since General Grant has been President he has not had an easy time. I think that if he had his choice he would prefer to go back and fight the battle of the Wilderness over again than to have to fight the battles which have beleaguered him since he has been President.

Mr. Beecher spoke eloquently of President Grant, saying that we shall come to see that he has not only been simply a good President, but as good a President as any of the long list of illustrious men who have sat in that chair.

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

THE HARVEST OF THE HEAD.—When the combs act as a rake, bringing away a roll of matted fibers every time it passes through the hair, baldness would soon be inevitable. But even in this case, forlorn as it may seem, the mischief can be arrested, the loss repaired. Lyons's Kathairon, aided by a brisk application of the brush to promote the absorption of the fluid by the scalp, will stop the thinning-out process in forty-eight hours. The roots from which the dead filaments were shed will soon be re-endowed with vitality, and a new growth will speedily spring up on the denuded places. This work of reproduction will go on until the damage is completely repaired, and the luxuriant crop of hair thus produced will never wither or fall out as long as the vitalizing application is regularly continued.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

TERRIBLE TO WEAK LUNGS is this inclement season. Are you hoarse — tormented with a cold—convulsed with a hard cough—annoyed with a sore throat—troubled with difficulty of breathing? If so, lose not an hour in procuring Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, the safe and sovereign remedy for such complaints. Crittenton's 76th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

DUPING THE SICK.—In shape, color and smell the toadstool closely resembles the mushroom, yet the one is a poisonous fungus, the other a wholesome vegetable. Many of the adverti-ed and unadverti-ed slops which unscrupulous speculators are trying to persuade the credulous are "as good as Hostetter's Bitters," bear a like superficial resemblance to that inestimable vegetable restorative. Quite a number of these dangerous fungi have started up within the last two years and doubtless many worthy people have been poisoned by them. Some of these wolves wear the sheep's clothing or pretended morality, and inveigh against medicinal stimulation as they vend their acid poisons; while others offer their liquid compounds of "forty rod rum" and condemned drugs under the slang names of "Eye Openers," "Morning Glories," "Cobweb Cutters," and the like. Beware of them all; for they are deadly and detestable.

WHY HAS SOZODONT become the staple Dentrifice of America? Simply because it is impossible to use it, even for a week, without perceiving its hygienic effect upon the teeth, the gums and the breath.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. Without testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

RHEUMATISM.—Rheumatism is a disease of the blood. The blood, in this disease, is found to contain an excess of fibrin. Vegetine acts by converting the blood from the diseased condition to a healthy circulation. Vegetine regulates the bowels, which is very important in this complaint One bottle of Vegetine will give relief; but to effect a permanent cure, it must be taken regularly, and may take several bottles, especially in cases of long standing. Vegetine is sold by all druggists. Try it, and your verdict will be the same as that of thousands before you, who say, "I never found so much relief as from the use of Vegetine," which is compounded exclusively of barks, roots and herbs.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Christmas.

The cold was excessive, Christmas Day, the thermometer ranging all the way from seven to thirteen degrees below zero in the morning, in different parts of the city and suburbs. A thermometer hanging on the side of Mrs. Pearson's Greenhouse on Broad Street, in a sheltered situation and with a temperature inside the building of not less than forty-six above zero at any time, showed thirteen below at 9 o'clock in the forenoon. Noses were scarce on the streets during the day, but a party of about twenty-five enthusiastic sportsmen went out to the Rockingham Trotting Park and participated in a shooting match, though what sort of shooting they made we have not learned. Most of the stores were closed at an early hour in the forenoon.

Things were enlivened a little in the afternoon by a horse owned by Mr. W. Locke, which ran away with a sleigh from which the driver was soon ejected, the animal going across Market Square and down Market Street at a tremendous pace, crossing Portsmouth bridge without stopping to pay toll, in defiance of law, and being caught in Kittery or Eliot with the wreck of the sleigh still attached to him. The horse, we are informed, was unhurt.

Morris Brothers' Minstrels were greeted by a large audience at the Temple, in the evening, and gave an excellent minstrel entertainment. The great contrast between the audience of Christmas evening and that which was in the same house on the evening previous, when the Richings-Bernard company gave a magnificent opera entertainment to nearly empty benches, shows either that music of the highest class has but few appreciative lovers in our city, or that Christmas Eve is a very bad time to give a public entertainment.

Speculative Enterprise.

Two men belonging to Newcastle, named Alexis A. Yeaton and Theodore Frost, recently stole from Albert Dow of Rye a government bond worth $1150, and disposed of it in Boston for $1000, Frost receiving $250 as his share of the plunder. They were both arrested on Christmas Day, and lodged in the police station.

A man who recently shipped as cook on board the schooner Abbie, after being on duty a short time walked off with a coat and a pair of new boots belonging to the culinary artist who had just vacated the position. The speculator knew that the coat and boots belonged to "the cook," and being himself the cook he probably got confused as to the ownership—hence the unfortunate blunder.

Police Court.

Theodore Frost was brought before Judge Page, Thursday afternoon, to answer to a charge of stealing a government bond, and was bound over for his further appearance in the sum of $1000. His companion was sent to Boston Thursday morning, in custody of an officer, to endeavor to recover the stolen bond.

Thomas Brick, a wild Irishman who broke a number of windows early in the week, by throwing stones through them while he was on a drunk, was on Thursday sent to jail for four months, and ordered to pay costs of prosecution, $19.04.

Laconics.

The business agent of "Boston on Fire" has shown us a letter from Chief Engineer Damrell of Boston, recommending him to the boys of the Portsmouth fire department. He says every member can recognize their position at work during the fire. Of course it would not be fashionable to neglect the Temple to-night.

Eben Simpson S. F. Engine Co., of Biddeford, Me., will attend the New Year's Eve Ball of Kearsarge Engine Co., of this city, in a body. The Kearsarge boys are making extra preparations for a big time, and will undoubtedly succeed in carrying out their plans.

As the buckwheat season is upon us, the following is given as a recipe for "greasing the griddle:"—Take a turnip, cut it in half, rub the griddle with the inner side, and you will be rid of the disagreeable odor of burning fat.

The Eastern Railroad will pay three per cent. dividend, Jan. 15th.

A republican friend of ours is at loss whether to address his political opponents as liberal-republican-democrats or democratic-liberal-republicans. Will some one enlighten him as to which would be correct?

The value of advertising, and of the CHRONICLE as an advertising medium, is well shown by the following fact: a lady of this city, having lost an article she valued, after waiting several days in hope of finding it, advertised it in this paper; and within an hour after the first appearance of her advertisement she found the missing article in a bureau-drawer. Advertise!

Republicans, do not forget the caucuses in the first and second wards at the ward rooms, this evening, at half past seven o'clock. No caucus will be held in the third ward until Jan. 2d.

A snow storm commenced here on Thursday and six inches had fallen by evening. The eastern train arrived about 6.30 P. M., and the Boston trains were several hours late.

A correspondent who happened in at the station house recently desires to commend Mayor Marvin in issuing instructions to the police force not to bring before court every person who chances to slip down on the sidewalk. He also provided coffee for lodgers and for people who chose to seek shelter from the cold at the station house.

Baby Talk.

A seven-year old youngster of this city, whose "ma" presented another son to the family circle, was overheard by his father, saying to his two brothers a trifle older — "Well, I wish baby had been a girl, for I'm tired of sweeping off the ashes from the stove pan!"

Another hopeful of seven summers, being told by the nurse to "take the new comer, put him in a basket and hang him on the Christmas tree, for Mrs. W. wants him," replied, "No, I want this baby myself—if Mrs. W. wants a baby let her buy one."

A jubilant and model husband, of the colored persuasion, in this city, who has a family of little girls—was so joyful at the present of a boy baby that he forthwith rushed to a leading dry goods store and bought a nice dress for his wife, and a fine suit of broadcloth for himself. There is many another husband of lighter hue, who might well go and do likewise.

The New York Mail says the law in Kansas, giving mothers control of their children, is a capital measure and should be initiated in other States. Children have had control of their mothers so long it is time for a change. We believe in rotation in the domestic offices.

A THIEF'S GRADITUDE.—The following fact, related to us by an eyewitness, is one of the many curious circumstances connected with the recent great fire in Boston.

While the conflagation was at its height, and a merchant was busy collecting together a few valuables to carry away in his arms, a rough looking fellow came up with a large wagon, and wished to know if he didn't wish to hire him for a load.

The merchant jumped at the offer, and the wagon was by himself and clerks soon heaped with costly goods, and the driver told where to carry them, and to come back, if he could, before the flames reached the store. As he was disappearing in the distance, a police officer asked the merchant if he knew the man, when it suddenly occurred to him he had not even asked his name, and had committed his goods into the hands of an utter stranger. Worse than that, the policeman knew him to be a notorious thief, but could not leave the point he was guarding to pursue him.

The fire progressed, and in half an hour the merchant's store was in ashes. Next morning he repaired to the place where he had directed the cartman to carry the goods, and, as he feared, they had not been brought there. Two day's afterwards, however, he was suprised by the carter's appearance, who apologized for not coming before by his inability to find the merchant, and, handing him a key, told him his load of goods was stored in the room of a hotel, where he would find them.

The merchant expressed surprise, and mentioned the suggestion of the police officer.

"That's so," said the carter; "but do you remember when you were on the jury, and —— was tried for stealing?"

"Yes, I do; and from the evidence I believed him innocent."

"Well, sir, that was me, and I was innocent,—as innocent as a child of what I was tried for. I understood it was you that was wise enough to see I was, although I had no reputation to back me, and you saved me from an unrighteous verdict and the State's Prison."

"Indeed!"

"Yes! And I've been trying to get even with you for more than two years, and never got a chance till last night, when I borrowed a horse, and took your goods out of the fire. There's the key, and there's nothing to pay."

So saying, the visitor slammed the door after him, leaving the astonished merchant with a door-key in his hand. But upon investigation he found his goods as had been promised by the visitor, and now is of the opinion that there is some "Honor among thieves."

A Christmas-Eve Adventure.

[From "Very Young Americans," by Laura W. Ledyard, illustrated by Addie Ledyard; published by Roberts Brothers.]

You awake, Mamie?
I tan't do s'eep
Tink I hear Santy Tla,
Wis' I tood peep!
Dem's our stottins,
Dess what we'll det?
Santy Tla tummin'?
A'n't tummin' yet.
'Tause it's so early.
Let's go hide dere
Back o' dat sofa,
Look tro' our hair.
Back o' dis sofa?
Such a wide dark.
Dess I don't like it much,—
Dere he tums, hark?
Now I'll just tell 'oo,
Mamie my dear.
I've told he won't like it,
Hidin' us here.
What makes 'oo shiver?
Startin' just so!
Shut 'oor eyes, Mamie,
I say let's go;
I ain't a bit frightened.
But let's—just for fun—
See who tan det back first,
Tum, Mamie, let's run.

Morning Chronicle.

A LEGAL WRONG.—During the presidential canvass a case of unjust imprisonment in the Massachusetts State Prison, by which an innocent elderly man was made to suffer the hardships of prison life for three years, was made known, but hardly received deserved notice, though happily terminated by a pardon from the Governor. The story was briefly as follows: In 1868 Capt. J. M. Crosby arrived in Boston from a foreign voyage, took lodgings at Dooley's hotel, registering a fictitious name. He unsuccessfully sought a position as shipmaster. In January following his arrival he dined one day with Capt. Long, on board the "Adriana," of which he was part owner, on which occasion he took possession of a check-book and detached check found in the effects of a man who had recently shipped but had failed to again appear. It was these checks that led to his misfortune, for he was arrested the next day on a charge of passing forged checks. The possession of the checks in question and other circumstantial evidence, together with the fact that his lawyer and some of his friends did not appear at the trial, made his guilt appear so probable that he was convicted and sentenced to five years in prison. He had relatives in Portland, and efforts were made at various times to obtain a pardon, but none succeeded till November last, when he was released, in a greatly enfeebled condition. He is now in the family of his son in this city. The case has had but few parallels in the State, and is an illustration of the manner in which an innocent man may be made to suffer unjust punishment by reason of circumstantial evidence.—Boston Commonwealth.

A SINGULAR CHARACTER.—An old member of Louis XVIII's body guards died recently at Les Batigolles, and was interred at the cemetery of Montmartre. He was one of those characters that are more often met with in novels than real life. His accomplishments were various, his execution on the violin was only surpassed by his skill in drawing, and both by his talent for versification. This universal genius, who nicknamed "the artist" by his comrades, was one of the best swordsmen in Paris. His love of duelling was such that notwithstanding all his science, he received many rapier thrust. On one day in particular he fought three duels for the following cogent reasons: the first was with a gentleman who looked at him askew, the second with an individual who looked him in the face, the third with a passing stranger who had not looked at him at all. On meeting a citizen who had the week before lodged his rapier in his ribs, the indomitable duellist observed to a friend who was supporting him, "Now, there's a fellow to whom I must administer another good lesson one of these days."

—In plague-ridden Chelsea they indicate a house where small-pox is, with a red flag by day and a red lantern by night. A good old lady from the remote districts was visiting her daughter in our neighboring city, and having a horror of the prevailing malady, shunned every red light most carefully. The other cold night she started alone to visit her niece ont on Powderhorn. The daughter going to the front door an hour later was somewhat surprised to find her mother still standing on the curb waiting for a car, nearly frozen to death and just able to gasp out, "Mercy on us Lizzie, the small-pox is dreffful thick here! Every car that has gone by yet has had a light out for it."—Globe.

The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $640,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove or brick or Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of the castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

— ALSO —

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK and PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the CURE OF PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These vicious attacks come on scarcely a minute's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, the fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "wandering in' pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby entered himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great attainments and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lopelina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREPETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

Molasses, Soft-Soap and Cider.

Harry is always engaged in some mischief; and his pranks are so laughable that I can seldom keep on a sober face long enough to punish him. Nearly a year ago there came along a theatrical troupe from town. They played tragedy and comedy, performed pantomimes, and did the negro minstrel business to perfection; so the boys thought. But what my son Harry admired most was the play of Toodles. This he determined to reproduce in his own theatre with new and unheard of effects.

There was new scenery painted on an old sheet, with straws from a new broom by Bunkley Burnett; intricate stage mechanism whittled out with a jack-knife by Blousey Shaw; old costumes made to look as good as new, by Tommy Bonnerbump, assisted by his sister-in-law, Sally Threadneedle; new appointments by Tim Pennyfeather; new and original instruments by the orchestra, under the direction of Pat. Giovanni, an Italian from Ireland,—the whole play to be produced under the supervision of Harry Bateman, stage-manager.

The above stupendous bill wound up with the following:—

"Tickets purchased of speculators on the side-walk will be refused at the door!!"

The stage was erected in the woodshed, and reposed on four saw-horses. The floor consisted of two old barn-doors spliced together. The parquet and dress circle were filled with large sticks of wood, too tough to split, set up on end. These were called chairs. What the management called galleries were two window-sills. These were usually occupied by small boys at quarter price. One private box this theatre had for the use of the aristocracy. It consisted of a second-hand cupboard or wardrobe, and was mounted on wheels. Purchasers of this private box were allowed the privilege of having it placed in any position they wished.

Two "horrid big boys" once demanded that the private box should be placed right in the middle of the stage. To this the whole management objected. The horrid big boys twitted them of "going back on their word," and triumphantly held up the management's own bill and programme, which read in huge letters—private box put in any position desired. The management had to succumb. The whole company, male and female, were ordered out to move it. After great difficulty and several mishaps it was hoisted into position. When the play commenced the company found that it obstructed the stage so much that there was not room for them to perform at one time. So part of the actors had to get down and play in the parquet. This made the attaches of the theatre very much vexed; but the audience were hugely pleased, and during the performance were convulsed with laughter. Imagine for instance the same thing in Boston at the Globe, or in New York at Niblo's!

The play was Toodles, and was received with great applause. When that was over the company did the "nigger-minstrel" business. Harry's face, neck, and hands were made as black as black could be, with burnt cork.

Meanwhile Harry confided to the bones-man and the banjoist the plan he had formed to "get square" with the two occupants of the private box. They willingly promised to assist him. The moment the performance was over Harry and his partners rushed for the private box, violently shut the door, fastened it with a broom handle, and then kicked the whole concern over. As it fell the two aristocrats inside gave a yell of rage, and threatened to lick the whole company "like blazes." "When you catch us," they shouted. Then they beat a retreat, each one going in a different direction.

My Harry ran into the cellar, fastened the door, and then cronched down in a corner.

In a few moments the late occupants of the private box arrived at the cellar door, vowing vengeance. But the door was too stout to be easily broken. They gave up all hopes of wheedling him out on pretence of friendship, and at last with hammer and nails they fastened him in. On going away they bade him "by by," "hoped that he would have a good time," and furthermore they invited him in a very sarcastic manner "to call up and take dinner with them at four o'clock,—that is, if he could get out."

There was no escape for poor little Harry, as they very well knew, until I should get home at six o'clock and release him by opening the inside door which connected with the pantry. The windows to the cellar were those called bull's-eyes, and they were so small that Harry, slender as he was, could not squirm through them. He found that it was impossible to get out without help. That was not to be had as all the family were away, and we lived at the end of a long avenue,—too far from any neighbors to make his voice heard. The dear little fellow realized the situation and accepted it without a bit of whining. He lay down on top of two soap-boxes and went to sleep.

In about two hours he awoke very much refreshed, but, as he told me, very hungry. There was plenty of food of various kinds in the cellar on a swinging shelf, but it was too high for him to reach. So he jumped up and stood on the edge of a soft-soap barrel. He leaned forward and grasped an apple-pie. As he was leaning back he slipped, and went souse into the soft-soap up to the neck. Then in floundering around and trying to get out he tipped himself and the soft-soap over.

They both came sprawling out simultaneously. In struggling to get up from the floor, which was very slippery, Harry stumbled against the now empty barrel. Exasperated, he drew up his foot and gave it a smart kick. It rolled back, and knocked out the faucet to a barrel of molasses. Now followed a great flood,—molasses and soft-soap, in great quantities, mingled together,—enough to float the little "City of Ragusa." But the best of it, or rather the worst of it was, that the molasses barrel had been broached. It was very dark in the cellar, even if it had not been, he might not have discovered the leakage; for the barrel, which he so unfortunately kicked, lay close up to the molasses which was running, so that Harry did not then discover it and it slid into the soft-soap so easily that he didn't hear it running. The fact is, the boy's mind was on his new suit of clothes during all this catastrophe. They were completely saturated with soft-soap. He was afraid they would be entirely spoiled, or at least that the colors would come out, if they were not immediately rinsed clean.

It was impossible to get out of the cellar, and there was no water to be had in it. He had spoiled three suits, lately, and now, at the fourth one, he was afraid mother's patience would give out. What should he do? O, what should he do? A happy and original thought struck him. The dear boy showed real genius. He said, "I will wash them out with cider!" He stripped naked to the skin, laid his soapy clothes under the cider-barrel faucet, and then turned it. When they were well saturated, he took them, a piece at a time in his hands, and rubbed them back and forth over his knuckle like a regular washerwoman. Just then his father and I came home.

We were told by some boys whom we met on the street, that Harry was asleep in the cellar. As soon as we arrived we lighted a lantern, and went down, and there we found him, stark naked, standing before a barrel and washing his clothes out with cider. O, he was the most comical and laughable sight that I ever beheld! His face was black as a negro's the burnt cork not having been washed off since the performance, and in contrast his delicate little body in the gloom looking white as marble. The cellar floor was covered with soft-soap, molasses and cider, and in these mixed liquids floated pies, cakes, cookies, apples, pears, peaches, three loaves of bread, and two lumps of butter. All this we discovered in an instant. I was making the whole house ring with laughter, but my husband had thus far kept on a sober face, thinking I suppose of the damage. He looked terribly cross at Harry and said sternly, "Come here, sir, and tell me what you made all this mess for! You will catch it, young man, I can tell you."

Harry was frightened and ran. He went racing round the cellar, still naked, with his black face, and swinging his pants in his left hand. My husband caught him by the shoulder. The little rogue gave a dive headforemost between his father's legs, and they both went down into the soap, molasses and cider. Harry was up in an instant. He made for the stairs; but his father headed him off, and the little fellow was obliged to take refuge in an ash-bin. His body being wet, the ashes stuck to him, which made him the most ridiculous thing in existence. I was so nearly killed with laughing that I expected to fall down from sheer weakness.

Just now Harry came up and clasped his arms around my knees. He had just time to say, "O mother! O mother! please don't let father whip me!" when like an avalanche his father bore down upon us. The floor was so slippery, and he had got under such head way, that he could not stop. The consequence was we all went down together in the slippery flood. The lantern went out, and we were left in almost total darkness. My husband now began to laugh; I joined him; Harry came in on the chorus. We all laughed together for fifteen minutes. Then we laughed for ten. Harry then stood up and putting his greasy arms around his father's neck, said, "Dear father, I did not mean to; indeed I did not!" There was silence for a moment, and then his father answered, "Well, Harry, since you are not alone in it, we will be forgiving, and let you off this time."

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1872.

The Erie Horror.

The immediate cause of the accident at Prospect station was a broken flange on the tender wheel. About sixty rods west of the station is a trestle work some twenty feet high, over which the locomotive and tender of the eastern bound express train passed in safety, but the baggage and passenger cars (only two coaches being in the train), were thrown from the trestle, and struck top downward. The weight of the truck crushed in the cars, closing in the windows, and to render the situation even more terrible the passenger coach was partially tilted upon its side, so that for the occupants of that side there were absolutely no means of escape.

Almost immediately the cars took fire, the passenger coach burning at both ends. Some half dozen persons waiting at the station were soon at the scene of the accident, but they worked at a disadvantage. No water could be had, and the snow that was scooped up could have but little effect in staying the flames. Only two axes were available, and the wood work of the cars was bolted together so firmly that but little headway could be made with them. All the time these efforts were being put forth, the flames were steadily gaining, and the shrieks of the unfortunate victims, as the scorching heat enveloped them, was appalling to the bravest heart.

Now and then a rope was put through a crevice, fastened to a form, and the sufferer pulled out by main strength. Sometimes it would be a lifeless body and the charred arms, legs or head would drop off in the struggle. In three or four instances the head was thus separated from the trunk, and in many more cases the body was deprived of its limbs. The body of a lady was then rescued from the flames, the head and one arm snapping off like a piece of charcoal, while the other arm was untouched, a kid glove covering the hand and fingers wearing their jewelled ornaments. The body will be doubtless recognized by the rings. The bodies of three other ladies were taken out, neither of which it is believed can be recognized.

It is supposed that in addition to the bodies recovered a number of others were consumed, and that nothing but their blackened bones will be discovered. Adding these to the number of injured who will die, it is estimated that the total number of lives lost will not fall short of thirty, the whole number of persons in the two cars at the time of the accident being about 45.

Readables.

The barque Kadosh, Capt. Matthews from Manilla for Boston, went ashore at Point Alderton during the storm, Thursday afternoon. The captain and six men in attempting to land in a boat were drowned by being capsized. One of the men was saved. The other boat, containing eight men, reached the land in safty.

Ship Peruvian, Capt. Vannah, was wrecked on Peaked Hill Bars, Thursday night. The crew, about 25 in number were drowned. The vessel and cargo were valued at $400,000.

State News.

At the meeting of the Agricultural Society held at Dover, the following officers were chosen for the coming year: President, Natt Head; Secretary, Aaron Young; Treasurer, Geo. W. Riddle; Directors, W. F. Daniels, P. M. Jones, J. N. Cogswell, C. H. Hayes, S. S. Chick, N. R. Perkins, N. W. Hardy, Moses D. Page of Dover, and Peter Kimball.

Mr. A. A. Perkins, Superintendent of Great Falls & Conway Division of the Eastern Railroad, will leave for Florida on the first of next month, for the benefit of his health. Mr. William Jefferson, conductor on the road, will act as superintendent during his absence.

Mr Orlando P. Smart, of Nashau, has been appointed postal clerk on the day train between Boston and Bangor, at a salary of $1200 per year.

SOMETHING NEW.—The N. Y. correspondent of the Chicago Journal writes: "The arrangements are nearly completed for establishing an illustrated daily paper in New York. The projectors are old newspaper men, one of them sailing from Chicago, and they are backed up by heavy capitalists. The head artist has been engaged at six thousand dollars annually, and the staff of editors is now being made up. The paper is to be called the Daily Graphic, and the illustrations are to be gotten up by the "Montreal process." This discovery is a secret which so far has been imparted to but very few persons. By this means its illustrations can be furnished at a tithe of the present cost. When it once becomes generally known (if ever it does) it will work a complete revolution in the art of picture-making.

VESSELS ASHORE.—Three vessels went ashore on Beach Island, last Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock. It was very misty at the time, and Wood Island light was mistaken for Cape Elizabeth. One of the vessels was loaded with corn and flour, but the others were light. The names of the vessels are the "Credit" of Portland, and the "Virginia" and "Gen. Tuttle," of what places we are unable to learn. Two of the vessels will probably get off, but one sank. The wife of one of the captains was taken to Wood Island sick, and Dr. Brown of this city being called, pronounced it a small pox.—Biddeford Times.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

TERRIBLE TO WEAK LUNGS is this inclement season. Are you hoarse—tormented with a cold—convulsed with a hard cough—annoyed with a sore throat—troubled with difficulty of breathing? If so, lose not an hour in procuring Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, the sole and sovereign remedy for such complaints. Crittenton's 76th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

DUPING THE SICK.—In shape, color and smell the toadstool closely resembles the mushroom, yet the one is a poisonous fungus, the other a wholesome vegetable. Many of the advertised and unadvertised slops which unscrupulous speculators are trying to persuade the credulous are "as good as Hostetter's Bitters," bear a like superficial resemblance to that inestimable vegetable restorative. Quite a number of these dangerous fungi have started up within the last two years and doubtless many worthy people have been poisoned by them. Some of these wolves wear the sheep's clothing or pretended morality, and inveigh against medical stimulation as they vend their acid poisons; while others offer their liquid compounds of "forty rod rum" and condemned drugs under the slang names of "Eye Openers," "Morning Glories," "Cobweb Cutters," and the like. Beware of them all; for they are deadly and detestable.

WHY HAS SOZODONT become the staple Dentrifice of America? Simply because it is impossible to use it, even for a week, without perceiving its hygienic effect upon the teeth, the gums and the breath.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No, internal or external disease can resist them. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

RHEUMATISM.—Rheumatism is a disease of the blood. The blood, in this disease, is found to contain an excess of fibrin. Vegetine acts by converting the blood from the diseased condition to a healthy circulation. Vegetine regulates the bowels, which is very important in this complaint. One bottle of Vegetine will give relief; but to effect a permanent cure, it must be taken regularly, and may take several bottles, especially in cases of long standing. Vegetine is sold by all druggists. Try it, and your verdict will be the same as that of thousands before you, who say, "I never found so much relief as from the use of Vegetine," which is compounded exclusively of barks, roots and herbs.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Instepe, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

THE HARVEST OF THE HEAD.—When the comb acts as a rake, bringing away a roll of parted fibers every time it passes through the hair, baldness would soon be inevitable. But even in this case, forlorn as it may seem, the mischief can be arrested, the loss repaired. Lyon's Kathairon, aided by a brisk application of the brush to promote the absorption of the fluid by the scalp, will stop the thinning-out process in forty-eight hours. The roots from which the dead filaments were shed will soon be re-endowed with vitality, and a new growth will speedily spring up on the denuded places. This work of reproduction will go on until the damage is completely repaired, and the luxuriant crop of hair thus produced will never wither or fall out as long as the vitalizing application is regularly continued.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Stolen Bond.

Officer Entwistle took the boy Yeaton to Boston on Thursday to identify the broker who purchased the bond stolen from Mr. Albert Dow. H. Bowman, at No. 6 Salem Street, proved to be the man. He denied purchasing the bond at first but finally "remembered" buying it and then selling it to "an unknown man" whom he met on State Street. Assistant Marshall Quinn catechised Bowman until he told unreasonable stories. No clue being found to the missing bond, which is No. 88,498, redeemable in 1888, with coupons payable January and July, it was finally decided to request the Secretary of the Treasury to refuse payment of the coupons when presented, and arrest the person presenting them. The broker denied having made any record of the purchase, but Yeaton told him to refer to his book account of Oct. 5th, where was found an entry of $10,500 paid to "Charles Rollins," Yeaton's assumed name. Bowman said that it should have been $1050, but Yeaton said he received $995, giving Bowman $5 for commission. Bowman pretended ignorance of the value of the bond, although he had been doing a brokerage business for twenty-five years.

Alexis A. Yeaton had been living with Mr. Albert Dow and knew the contents of Mr. Dow's "strong box." He and Theodore Frost had told others that Mr. Dow had a $1000 government bond and Yeaton claims that Frost, who is older than he, persuaded him to take it. He states that Frost hired a team in this city and carried him down to Mr. Dow's for the sake of stealing the bond, but Yeaton refused to do it. Another time, Frost carried him down in a boat, but failed to induce him to abstract the bond. Young Yeaton tells a straight-forward story and is evidently the victim of evil influences; enticed to do wrong and yielding to temptation, he has committed a crime which is punishable only with a term in the State prison.

Municipal Reform.

Messrs. Editors:—As I failed to give you the third essay on the above named interesting but neglected subject last week, according to promise, you possibly thought I had fallen into the reservoir I proposed to inspect, and got stuck in the mud at the bottom; but if you have indulged in any such pleasureable imaginings they will be rudely dispelled by your receipt of this letter.

In looking over my last year's file of the GAZETTE, I noticed in the weekly reports of the doings of the Board of Aldermen frequent references to the Firemen's Muster. Now I do not mean to assail the muster; it was a big affair, and was carried out in good style, as it should have been after once being decided upon. And the city bore a share—almost the lion's share of the expense, which I do not complain of, neither; and I only mention the muster to draw attention to the fact that whatever aid was given by the city was given on the authority of the Board of Aldermen alone. Probably the Common Council would have agreed to the expenditure, had their assent to it been asked; but the Aldermen evidently considered themselves quite competent to spend all the city's money without any assistance, so they voted at one time to give $500 to the general fund, then contributed $500 more to the grand clam-bake, and finally appropriated a sum "not to exceed $1700" to pay bills then outstanding on account of the muster. These sums, no regular appropriation having been made for the muster, must have been paid from the "contingent," which, like charity, covers a multitude of sins; at any rate I presume they were paid,—and sorely on the approval of a majority of the Board of Aldermen. And I ask, "If the Board of Aldermen may rightfully and legally expend two or three thousand dollars of city funds entirely on their own hook, in aid of a scheme which a majority of our citizens may approve, what is to prevent them from expending any sums they choose in aid of schemes which a majority of the citizens may disapprove, the citizens having absolutely nothing to do in the matter—except to pay the money?" Now I will look at the reservoir.

The reservoir I refer to is the new one on Hanover Street. This reservoir is a large one, has been needed for years, and may have been as well and as cheaply built as it was possible it could be done; but it was built simply on the strength of a resolution passed by the board of Aldermen, and in spite of the strenuous opposition of that chimerical "check" on Aldermanic scheming, the Common Council.

For some years past, if my memory is correct, appropriations were regularly made each Spring for the purpose of building a reservoir on Hanover Street, somewhere near Bridge Street; certain I am that the Mayor was several times "authorized" and "empowered" to take the preliminary steps towards having it built; but it never was begun until this year, and was only built then to show the thorough independence of the Aldermen and give the insolence of the Common Council a deserved rebuke.

Early in the present year a plan was introduced in the Common Council to lay a large pipe from the North Millpond to the corner of Hanover and Bridge Streets, to supply water for the Fire Department. The plan may have been impracticable, but there seemed to be no engineering difficulties to overcome and many persons considered it entirely feasible and that it would be of the greatest value if carried out. As a proof that the plan was recognized as being both feasible and of prospective value, by the Aldermen themselves, I may mention that the Board had previously appointed a committee to see if the Kearsarge Mills corporation would consent to allow the city to connect a pipe with the one by which the Mills draw water from the pond, which request was refused; but it is evident that if a small pipe connected with the Kearsarge Mills supply would be of any practical value, a larger pipe leading directly from the pond and laid down with express reference to supplying the Fire Department must be of much greater value,—and it is equally evident that the city could take water from the pond with as much facility as a private corporation. And further, the only inexhaustible reservoir in the city is the one in Brewster Street, which is fed by the pond, through a box gatter a foot square. In the regular course of things a sum was appropriated for laying the pipe; but the Aldermen had concluded that the pipe should not be laid, so they quietly and without the least fuss instructed one of their committees to go ahead and build the reservoir which had been hanging fire so long— and it was done, without any of the tedious formalities which some people might have looked for, such as appropriating monies and calling for tenders for doing the work.

The reservoir furnishes another illustration of the uselessness of the Common Council and another reason for its abolition; for however valuable the reservoir may be, it was built in spite of the earnest endeavors of the Council to prevent it. I believe the Councilmen have been duly notified that "the appropriation for reservoirs, including that for the Hanover Street reservoir," is exhausted, but as they know nothing at all about any such reservoir or appropriation, they are not likely to trouble themselves much about the matter.

MUSICBYTHEBAND.

The Leap Year Ball

Was the greatest success of the season, and Congress Hall held the merriest of merry parties, Thursday night, notwithstanding the raging snow storm. The lady managers covered themselves all over with glory and commenced on time. A few gentlemen experienced the pleasure of being "wall-flowers"—and now they know how it is themselves when ladies are the most numerous. The ladies enjoyed their privilege of selecting partners hugely and were in a flutter of enjoyment. At intermission they seated their happy partners around the room and covered them with crockery. While they were rushing about with the refreshments, the crockery holders organized an impromptu cup concert under the lead of "Plum," which hot coffee alone interrupted. There were only three things about the whole affair which were at all regretted, viz., namely, whereas — the entrance to the gallery was blockaded so that poor, tired gentlemen were kept below to dance when they fain would rest and look on; the masculines were much struck aback by the call, "gentlemen's chain," blushing rosy red when their hostesses smiled at them; and worst of all was the regret that the fat man who sat, like "Jack Horner," in the corner next the refreshment room, waited upon by scores of ladies, could not begin to contain the good things proffered him; which were piled up pyramidically on four sides of him —right, left, front and outside. 'Twas sad. After intermission, Mrs. B. F. Webster, who took the lead in organizing and carrying out of the details of the "hop," was called up to receive a present, the ladies and gentlemen present greeting her with applause. The ladies did themselves extremely proud and their merry ball cannot be surpassed. Cheers for them — rousers! And a "tiger" for the floor managers! Their good works do follow them and when they do so again may we all be present — "All — A-ll — A-l-l-l — A-ll — A-l-l-l-l !"

The Snow Storm

Of Thursday left about a foot of snow on the ground, badly drifted in some places. The intense cold of Christmas Day has given way to a more comfortable temperature. The Boston train due here at 5:37, Thursday, P. M., arrived at 10:30. The next train due here at 7.05 was detained seven hours at Lynn by a train ahead of it, arriving here Friday morning at 6:15. The cars were crowded full until they reached Salem, and the passengers had a jolly time singing and joking. This was Conductor Philbrook's train, and Dan. started out again on time for Boston, fifty minutes after arriving here, passing the Pullman express, which was due here at 10 P. M the night before, at Greenland. The Boston and Concord trains were but half an hour late, Friday morning. Three New York mails were overdue in Boston.

Our Harbor Defences.

The Secretary of war has asked for an appropriation of $50,000 for the construction of a barbette battery for fourteen guns at $25,000 for a similar battery of twelve guns on Gerrish's Island, and the same amount for one at Jerry's Point. It is estimated that the total cost of completing these earthworks will be $84,500 for the first mentioned, $45,240 for the second, and $46,824 for the third.

Laconics.

Capt. John Faunce and Lieut. Louis N. Stodder, who have been inspecting the Maine coast for the location of life saving stations, are in this city. Whales' Back, Gosport and Wallis' Sands are thought of as suitable sites, to be reported to the Secretary of the Treasury.

DIDN'T DISSECT.—Few persons understand the "ways that are dark" of students attending medical colleges, to procure subjects for dissection, in their zeal to make themselves familiar with the intricacies of the human body. It is not the purpose of this article to throw any amount of light upon their nocturnal operations in the "cities of the dead," but to briefly narrate what befel a party of students who got more than they bargained for.

About two weeks ago half a dozen embryo physicians, attending the college in this city known as the Medical Department of the University of Wooster, located in the Hoffman Block, went one night with a horse and wagon in quest of a "subject." Where they went is neither here nor there, nor could we state if we wished to do so, for the reason that it is one of those things "that no fellow can find out." But they succeeded in the work of premature resurrection, and enveloping the body in a sack, placed it in their wagon and bore it to the college.

Next morning the demonstrator, or chief carver of the institution, peeped into the dissecting room to see what kind of a subject the "boys" had raised. A glance told his practised eye that the body was that of a person who had died from small-pox, and, as a matter of course, not a very desirable thing to be lying around loose. He did not yearn to have the class investigate the post mortem effects of that disease. To make the matter sure he called in another physician, who was very decidedly of the same opinion. If any doubts existed in their minds then, they were all dispelled by subsequent developments. Just about as quickly as it could be done, the demonstrator went for an undertaker who was not afraid of small-pox, and had the body taken away and re-interred. Then he put that room through the most fearful disinfecting process that science could suggest. For two or three days no human nose endured the "chloride" that filled the air.

So far it was a good joke, but ten or twelve days later it was not so apparent where the laugh came in. One of the students boarded at 52 Rockwell street, was taken with unmistakable symptoms of the dire disease. He was removed to the pest-house, where he now lies in a very critical condition. Another, named Stewart, from Fostoria, Ohio, was attacked with the symptoms, and went home. It is not known whether this is a well-defined case. It has been reported that there were several other cases among the students, but after interviewing some of the doctors of the college, we are led to believe that these are all, as far as known: Some twelve or fifteen of the students, however, and one professor from abroad, have gone home to visit their friends, and there is a general thinning out of the class.

Neither of two victims mentioned belonged to the party that made the unfortunate mistake. They had not been vaccinated, and caught the disease in some way from the infected air at the college, or the clothing of those who went on that ill-starred expedition.—Cleveland Leader.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently able to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the stove so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the convenience of an Extension Top Cooking Stove or brick or Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

—ALSO—

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

with extra large Doors and Movable Rings, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK AND PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases, for the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent. Most, if not the choice of PREVENTIVES Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with terrify a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to lose. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in the advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultimate finale of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, IPECACUANA ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and Alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any imaginary "discoveries" "lately found in portures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c., it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain; cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the theory and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual; and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, sale and sure.

ANECDOTES OF WILLIAM B. ASTOR.—In the Phrenological Journal we find a biography of William B. Astor, in which the following characteristic stories are told:

Two "Astor Houses."—It was about twenty-four years ago that John Jacob Astor died and was buried in the vault of St. Thomas Church. In his will, a most elaborate legal document, William B. was indicated as the principal legatee. His patrimonial inheritance, with what he already possessed, made him the richest man on this continent. The first thing he did after coming into possession of this estate was to carry out the bequests of his father. He sent one of his own sons to Waldorf, in Germany, where his father was born, to superintend personally the disposition of certain funds bequeathed for the establishment of a charitable institution. A building was erected, and $43,000 invested for its permanent maintenance. The aged and infirm, irrespective of color or religious belief, orphan children from the ages of six to fifteen, left without support, blind and deaf, and dumb persons, and homeless infants are there provided with a comfortable home. The name of the institution is the Astor House, and is now in a most flourishing condition.

"I take great pride in the Astor House of New York," Mr. Astor has been heard to say, when referring to this institution, "but a greater pride in the Astor House of Waldorf. The massive granite blocks and pillars of the former may crumble and fall to the ground, or its columns and corridors become choked with weeds, but the latter will continue in existence while the town of Waldorf exists and there are any poor people in it."

An Old Story Set Right.—To Fitz-Greene Halleck, the well known poet, and who had been the friend and secretary of his father, he said, "My father has done you great injustice."

"In what respect?" asked the poet.

"Leaving you only $200 as an annuity."

He paid me for all the services I rendered him, and I had no additional claim on him."

"I think you have claims on the estate," pursued Mr. Astor, "and as a mark of appreciation I have raised the annuity to $1,500."

"Thank you, thank you," spoke up the poet, and he could say no more. The closing years of his beautiful but sad life were by this act of timely liberality lifted above care, and his pathway to the grave strewn with pleasant flowers.

A Tardy Reward.—To a sea captain who had been in his father's employ for many years, and who had conducted himself with rare fidelity on more than one occasion of embarrassment and imminent loss, he said:

"You saved a large amount of property in China for my father."

"Yes; your father's agent died, the property was imperiled on this account, and I saved it and turned over to your father $700,000."

"And he never paid you anything?"

"Not a dollar."

"I'll pay you," and he filled out a check for $25,000 and gave it to the captain.

Worth $75,000,000.—We may say, in reply to the question which has occurred doubtless to the reader, "How much is he worth?" that we do not precisely know; and it is said that Mr. Astor himself would be somewhat at a loss to answer it with exactness, but some sanguine individuals estimate it at $75,000,000, and increasing rapidly every year with the advance in New York real estate. As to his income, we are told that it exceeds that of the Emperor of Germany. The same, however, may be said of Stewart and Vanderbilt.

"IF YOU KNOW ANY JUST CAUSE."—The Napanee (Conn.) Beaver relates the following story:

A joke, altogether too good to be lost for want of telling, occurred in the Methodist Church, in a village not ten miles from Napanee, a few months ago. The minister, after the service, published the banns of a marriage between a loving and interesting couple; and when that portion of the form where the words "if you know any just cause," &c., came in, the minister, whether from any previous knowledge or not, looked straight at a young gentleman directly at the foot of the pulpit. This gentleman, thinking he was personally alluded to, immediately rose up, amid the laughter of the congregation, and exclaimed, "Oh, no; not the slightest objection, sir."

—They tell about a man in Doylestown, Pa., who heard that well water could be purified with lime, so he emptied a bushel and a half of lime into his well, and felt blissful and happy. It turned out that, because of the dryness of the season, there was only three feet of water in the well, and ever since his experiment he has been selling a good article of whitewash to his neighbors at two buckets for a cent, and walked a mile and a half to the creek for drinking water for his family. He has his doubts now about lime being a good purifier.

Railroad Matters.

The possible consolidation of the Fitchburg and Boston & Lowell Railroads is being discussed. Should it be consummated, the light passenger business of the Fitchburg could be well accommodated in the new station of the Lowell Railroad; the Eastern Road could then take the Fitchburg Station, and thus save the danger incident to crossing the Fitchburg and Boston & Maine Road in entering Boston, and afford the Lowell additional space on Causeway Street.

It cost the Boston & Maine Railroad $59,000 for engineering their extension of about forty miles, about $1500 per mile.

The Eastern Railroad has done a very large passenger business the past season, the receipts therefrom being largely in excess of previous years. The income from this source during the twelve months was $1,324,692 60. The number of passengers was 5,399,000.

Readables.

Captain Orr, and his chief engineer, with four of the crew of the steamer Cumberland, which was frozen up in Bear Lake in November, arrived at Collingwood, Ontario, December 24th, having walked down along the north shore of Georgian Bay. The party experienced terrible weather and endured great privations during their long tramp, being twenty days on foot. All of the party are frost bitten. Eighteen of the crew are still on the way down, having been left eight miles from Bruce's mines.

HORSE KILLED.—Tuesday night, as the evening accommodation train from Boston was approaching the depot, a horse standing there attached to a sleigh became frightened and ran at fearful speed directly up the track toward the advancing train. The engine struck the team where the road makes a curve near the Hollis road, and threw the sleigh to one side of the track, dragging the poor brute some 300 feet. He was mangled terribly, and some of the train hands dispatched him. The animal, valued at over $500, belonged to Mr. Nathaniel Littlefield of Lyman. This gentleman was aboard the train, and his hired man had driven to the depot to meet him.—Biddeford Times.

THE AMERICAN TITLE OF "MISTER."—One of the New York papers having uttered a serious protest against the American fashion of prefixing the title of "Honorable" to the names of men in public positions, the Richmond Enquirer cries "ditto to Mr. Burke," and discourses thus, with an anecdote thrown in:

We have had a strange love for that simple but manly title of mister ever since we were able to distinguish between true worth and mere pretension. We cannot say it was innate or intuitive but it came to us through our devotion to our boyhood's hero, a gallant officer of the army, long since dead, and who, alas! fell by his own hand in a fit of hereditary insanity at Fortress Monroe long before he was forced to decide between his State and his country. I was at the close of the Mexican war, when most of the officers were receiving brevet titles. We happened to be present, and were tolerated by them as a mere boy, when a discussion arose among them as to titles. Our favorite and Mentor, whose words were then our oracles, and who had received a brevet for gallant and meritorious services, said: "The true title of an American gentleman is Mister. It is, when worthily worn, above any that can be conferred by prince or potentate, or won by military or civic services; and while I shall deserve the respect of men so far as to merit that title, equi-distant from disguising familiarity and servile flattery, I am content." From that time we have set a high value upon our only American title of nobility—that simple, but expressive little word Mister!

PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE.—The following letter from a probable future President to his sister, which is now going the rounds of the newspapers, is classified as an "Epistolary Effort:"

Dear Suc—The horses is all got the epigramic very badly. Us boys had so much fun the other day! Little Frank's hobby horse had glue runnin' out of his nose, so we knew he had it, and we took him into the bath-room and got some of ma's fine towels and wrapped his legs up in hot water, and burned sulphur matches under his throat, and swinged his mane off, and the paint came off his legs, and the glue all come unstuck, and Frank can't ride him any more. Wasn't it jolly? Then the matches put us in mind of havin' a Boston fire, so we coaxed sister Sadie to give us her box of Swiss houses you brought her from Urip, and we set 'em up and touched 'em off, and let her rip. The town went like blazes, and we throwed some of sis's dolls in for dead bodis, and then saved the arms and legs for trolys.

But you bet we got scared when the flames went so high, so we turned on the hose, and that fool Jim Blain let the water run all over the floor and down the kitchen on the cook's head, and she thought the pipes had busted, and run for a man to fix'em, so ma caught us in there, and she boys run home, but I got a thrashing. It didn't hurt much, cause I had on thick clothes. Our Frank is in pants. He went in last Sunday. I've got a new girl. I don't like Jennie Bird any more, or I guess she don't like me any more, 'cause when I give her a handful of peanuts she threw 'em in my face, and I expect Jim Blain told lies about me. I'd lick him, only his father keeps a candy store, and I get all the candy I want for nothin'. Your affectionate brother,

CHARLES.

P. S.—Please bring me a GOAT."

NEWSPAPER REPORTING.—An English magazine writer has fallen upon the newspaper reporters, and here are some of the illustrative anecdotes he tells:

Capital stories are told of the different varieties of reporters, especially of those of the old school, which is now happily, passing away. There is the frightfully eager reporter, who is always on duty, never forgetting his mission. One worthy of this class was roused from his slumbers one night by a disturbance on his doorstep. His alarmed spouse compelled him to descend and see what the matter was, and on opening the door he discovered a man stretched across the threshold in a fit. "Mary, Mary," cried he to his better half, "bring my note-book and a candle directly; here's a paragraph came to the door."

After the eager reporter comes the flowery one, who has always been particularly great in small provincial towns, and who has at his command a stock of adjectives enough to make Lord Macaulay hide his diminished head. This gentleman is in his glory at a flower show, an execution, a funeral, or, in fact, whenever he has an opportunity of murdering the Queen's English. One specimen of this school, when writing about a flower show—which is always "a horticultural and floral display"—said that it was "illumined by cartloads of sunshine." Another—a Liverpool worthy—in giving an account of somebody's funeral, observed that "the body of the deceased gentleman was followed to the grave by a silent and deeply sympathising audience."

I have heard of a paragraph which, with forcible redundancy, was entitled "funeral of the remains of a late deceased military officer;" and I have seen an account of a penny reading wound up with the remark that "the entertainment was, upon the whole, the most mirthprovoking and soul-stirring which could be had for the money!"

The worst thing about the flowery reporter is, that he has done so much to injure the English language. If he can find a fine word to express the same meaning as a plain one, he never hesitates to cast aside the latter; and if he bears of any barbarous invention of our transatlantic cousins, he straightway makes a note of it, and carefully makes use of it at the very first opportunity. His ideas, too, of the meaning of certain words, are somewhat hazy. Thus, a fatal accident is constantly spoken of by him as "a fatality," and his adjectives are applied in such haphazard fashion that they might almost have been scattered over his "copy" with a pepper-castor. The quantity of bad French and Latin, too, which he lugs into all he writes, equals that made use of by a fashionable authoress twenty years ago. He has almost naturalized some foreign words among us, and has given many a slang term a permanent place in our language. Upon the whole, he is the most objectionable representative of the reporter's class to be met with nowadays.

—It is now some twenty years since the great Suspension Bridge was built over Niagara river. The question of its safety has recently been agitated, and critical investigation has accordingly been made by the Ohio engineers and directors of the Great Western Railway. The caps on the towers covering the cables was removed, and the cables found to be as perfect in all respects as ever they were. But most important of all, the anchorage of the cables was thoroughly inspected. The masonry over one of them was removed for about twelve feet, or below where the wires are attached to the anchor chains. A portion of the cable is imbedded in water lime cement. For twenty years this has been there, yet, on removing it and rubbing the paint off the wires, the latter were found as bright and perfect as when placed there, the cement having preserved the wire and anchor chains intact. The examination was made in the presence of competent engineers, who have expressed themselves as above to the directors of the bridge company.

—A German settler in Ohio, found guilty of selling liquor contrary to law, and sentenced to be imprisoned in the county jail for thirty days, protested as follows: "Chail! Go to chail! Meg go to chail! But I can't go! Dere's my piziness—my pakery. Who pakes my bread when I been gone?" Then, casting his eyes about the court appealingly, they fell upon the good natured face of jolly Chris. Ellwaner, a fellow-countryman, who had no "piziness," and forthwith a brilliant idea struck him. Turning to the judge he said, in sober earnest; "Dere's Chris. Ellwaner! He's got nodings to do; send him!"

—A Loving San Francisean tucked his little wife in bed, kissed her and went to the office on important business. Two hours later, while driving along with a fast woman he ran against a buggy, upsetting it and his own. There was a scene when he discovered that the occupants of the other buggy were his wife and a well-known gambler. His wife thought sauce was sauce, whether intended for a masculine or feminine specimen of the auser.

—An Ohioan has invented a method of killing the "skippers" by sending a galvanic shock through chunks of cheese in which the population is undesirably dense.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

THE HARVEST OF THE HEAD.—When the comb acts as a rake, bringing away a roll of parted fibers every time it passes through the hair, baldness would soon be inevitable. But even in this case, forlorn as it may seem, the mischief can be arrested, the loss repaired. Lyons Kathairon, aided by a brisk application of the brush to promote the absorption of the fluid by the scalp, will stop the thinning-out process in forty-eight hours. The roots from which the dead filaments were shed will soon be re-endowed with vitality, and a new growth will speedily spring up on the denuded places. This work of reproduction will go on until the damage is completely repaired, and the luxuriant crop of hair thus produced will never wither or fall out as long as the vitalizing application is regularly continued.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Not Going.

We are pleased to announce that Dr. Norton, who has won (as he deserves) a host of friends during his brief practice as a homeopathic physician in this city, has reconsidered his determination to give up medicine and study for the ministry, and will continue his practice here. The doctor may have been influenced in his decision by a party of between fifty and sixty friends, who surprised him with a call on Friday evening, and insisted that it was his duty not to leave a city with a very large percentage of believers in homeopathy among its citizens, without a competent medical adviser of that school. However this may be, we congratulate the homeopaths that Dr. Norton, whom we have good reasons for regarding as a skillful practitioner who considers the health and life of a patient as a sacred trust, will remain in the city and his present profession. P.

Winter Fishing.

Many of our readers may not be aware of the extent to which winter fishing,—deep-water fishing, we mean, and not smelting on Great Bay,—is carried on from this port; nor were we aware of how important a branch of industry this has become until a friend furnished us with data from which we compile the following:

There are at present engaged in winter fishing over twenty vessels including two steamers, which make this harbor their headquarters. These vessels carry from six to twenty men and from four to ten dories (or wherries) each; in some vessels one man goes in a dory, in others two, each man having from one thousand to three thousand hooks. These hooks are set in a straight line on the bottom, the main line, from which the small ones depend, being buoyed at each end and in the middle. The hooks are baited with herring, imported from Eastport, Me., and from the British Provinces, frozen. When the fishermen go for haddock they let the lines remain about an hour after being set, and then commence to haul in. If after cod, the lines are set in the afternoon of one day and hauled in next morning.

If the weather promises fair, the fishing vessels generally start out at two or three o'clock in the morning, that they may get on the fishing grounds by daylight. Hauling the set-lines is a very laborious operation, and when the wind blows fresh, as it not unfrequently does on this coast in the winter, a great deal of skill is required to prevent the dories from swamping. And besides the inevitable discomforts attending the prosecutions of this business in winter, from exposure to cold, it not unfrequently happens that the fishing craft are caught in a snow storm while on the fishing grounds, and fortitude, skillful seamanship, prudence and prompt courage are all needed to bring the vessels safe into harbor. That the fishermen possess all these qualities is proved by the rarity of disasters among them.

The two little steamers engaged in this business have an advantage over the craft, in being able to steer a straight course against a head wind; they are also not averse to doing a job of towing, when good fortune throws a light job in their way, though they are not of sufficient power to drag a heavy vessel in the teeth of a gale of wind. Most of their towing is among the fishing vessels.

"A fishing excursion," to many persons, conveys the idea of a boat's crew about equally divided as to sexes, sitting in a boat, anchored in smooth water inside Whale's Back or White Island, on a bright summer's day, the occupants sheltered from the too fervent heat by umbrellas and quenching their thirst with iced lemonade, pop-beer and other fluids, as they angle for the toothsome cunner,—followed by a merry time and lively flirtation on the rock while the chowder or fry is being prepared by the self-constituted chief cook of the party. Persons with this idea of the pleasures of a fisherman's life will do well to wait until summer comes again before embarking in it, as a day's cruise in one of the winter fishing vessels would be apt to rob the business of its last vestige of romance.

Sometimes the hardy fishermen are rewarded for their weary toil by good catches and remunerative prices; at other times a slim catch and slimmer prices are all they can show for their labor; but they make very fair wages, on an average, though little enough considering the hardships and dangers they undergo in the prosecution of their adventurous occupation.

The End of a Farce.

The result of the Republican caucuses, Friday evening, was as certain before the caucuses were held as after. We presume Hon. James W. Emery's candidacy for Congress ends with the failure of his friends to elect delegates friendly to his cause. We think nearly all of the delegates chosen would gladly vote for him if there were a fair show for his nomination, but with a divided delegation, Portsmouth could not urge his claims with any fair prospect of success. Two weeks ago, when the Congressional matter was more unsettled than at present, Mr. Emery could have had the vote of Portsmouth delegates, and then was the time for his friends to act. Delays are proverbially dangerous and procrastination has resulted in the choice of a delegation, half of whom openly favor the nomination of Mr. Small or Mr. Wheeler. In the first ward, but 80 votes were cast; in the second 99, of which the Emery ticket had but 20—making but 179 in both wards. Two years ago, the vote for Congressional delegates in these wards was 678. These 179 voters are to make or help make the nominations for over 1000 Republican voters—which shows the beauty of the caucus system of nomination.

There are some who must feel particularly pleased at their skill in wire-pulling — those who were provided with "dummy delegates" for whom they intend to go as substitutes. It's the policy that wins in Portsmouth, every time it is tried.

There is every indication that Hon. William B. Small will be renominated, and if the indications are strongly in that direction on the day the convention meets, we presume he will receive all but four of the Portsmouth votes. If there should be a prospect of defeating his nomination, our estimate is that the delegates from the two wards above mentioned will vote as follows:—For Col. Daniel Hall 9; for Hon. Samuel M. Wheeler 4; for Hon. William B. Small 3.

Ward Committees.

The following named gentlemen were chosen at the Republican caucuses, Friday evening, to serve as Ward Committees for the ensuing year, in Wards One and Two:—

Ward One.—John Pender, Daniel J. Vaughan, Chas. A. Shannon, James A. Waterhouse, Samuel D. Foye, Samuel A. Spinney, John G. Tibbetts, William R. Martin, John H. Locke, John A. Lamprey, John Walsh, William C. Ham, Willis L. Hidden, Robert King, George Hutchings, Richard H. Waldron, William Critchley, Jr.

Ward Two.—A F. Howard, E. F. Brackett, D. L. Randall, William O. Sides, Stephen L. Marston, Joseph E. Fernald, Charles A. Hazlett, John H. Flagg, John E. Giddings, T. E. O. Marvin, E. Washington Brown, Lewis G. Davis, W. K. Prior, E. H. Leslie.

Masonic.

At the annual convocation of Washington Chapter, No. 3, Royal Arch Masons, held at Masonic Hall on Tuesday evening, Dec. 24th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

B. F. Webster,	H. P.
C. G. Pickering,	K.
H. G. Tanton,	S.
John Dame,	C. of H.
J. K. Holbrook,	P. S.

Portsmouth, Dec. 28, 1872.

Laconics.

A pleasant little episode occurred on Sunday at the Middle street Baptist church just before the close of the afternoon service. When the last verse of the closing hymn was being sung, and the benediction was about to be pronounced, Deacon Ackerman stepped up on the pulpit rostrum and asked the pastor to request the congregation to be seated a few moments. This being done, Mr. Lewis E. Smith advanced to the platform and addressed the pastor, Rev. Wm. H. Alden, in a few fitting and well chosen words, closing by presenting Mr. Alden with a package of bank notes of about $425 in value.—The matter was a complete surprise to the genial and popular minister, and caused him to waver a little at the commencement of his reply, but he soon recovered himself however, alluding briefly to the pleasant circumstances by which he was surrounded as a pastor, and expressing the hope that the prosperity of the church might ever continue.

Mr. Lewis E. Smith, former Superintendent of the Middle Street Sabbath School, has been presented by the school with a copy of Cassell's splendidly illustrated Bible; and Mr. Henry A. Yeaton, the present Superintendent, with a beautiful silver cake-basket. Appropriate gifts to worthy recipients.

A well dressed man became excited on Congress Street, Saturday afternoon, and wanted to fight; and by way of making preparation for a real good fight he pulled off his boots,—a great improvement on the old plan of pulling off coats. The intense cold, joined to the persuasions of the bystanders, soon induced him to put his boots on again.

An icicle knocked from the eaves of the CHRONICLE office on Saturday weighed a hundred pounds.

All interested in the proposed musical convention are requested to meet at the Methodist vestry on State Street to-morrow (Tuesday) evening at half-past 7 o'clock. A rehearsal of convention music will be had after an address by Prof. O. P. Sweet of New York.

The Concord and Portsmouth Railroad dividends will be paid to stockholders in Portsmouth on Tuesday, 31st inst., only, from 11 A. M. to 4 P. M.; at the office of William H. Hackett, Market Square; after that day at the office of N. Parker, treasurer, at Manchester.

On and after to-day the evening train for Concord leaves this city at 5 o'clock.

The new schoolhouse at Newington was dedicated on Friday, and was filled with an audience largely composed of ladies. The invocation was by Rev. Mr. Davis of Newington, after which the Misses Frink sang a select piece; Rev. Carlos Martyn of this city then delivered an excellent address, prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Davis, and the services closed with the singing of "America" by the audience.

The Rand Brothers, formerly of this city, have forwarded elegantly gotten up invitations to Portsmouth parties to attend a hop to be given at their hotel, the St. Cloud, in New York, on Wednesday evening, Jan. 8th.

Morning Chronicle.

ARE WOMAN EXTRAVAGANT?—Gail Hamilton, in the Independent, argues at some length that they are not. We copy the following paragraph:—

Women are see more extravagant than men. Women are naturally less extravagant than men. Let a woman know as what crole she must manage her household, and she will manage it on that scale, and with far more elegance than a man would secure. In dressing herself and her children, in home comfort and luxury, the ordinary woman will make a thousand dollars do a great deal more than the ordinary man. I do not believe that a woman of sound mind can be found who would knowingly exceed her husband's income, or would not share and further all his reasonable wishes to lay up reserves for the future. The woman who buys lace shawls when she cannot afford does it because she thinks she can afford it. She has no intelligent acquaintance with her own circumstances. Her husband is the possessor of an indefinite income. His grumbling amounts to nothing. He always grumbles when there is a large bill to pay; but he always pays, and she knows no reason to hinder that he always will pay. The only trouble she apprehends from this purchase is a little more of that of which she has already had a great deal. Her husband is not much at home, and is not particularly winning when he is at home, and, if laces please her, it is a great pity she should not have whatever consolation lies in them.

—Mary was the proprietress of a diminutive incipient sheep, whose outer covering was as devoid of color as congealed atmospheric vapor, and to all localities, to which Mary perambulated, her young Southdown was morally certain to follow. It tagged her to the dispensory of learning one diurnal section of time, which was contrary to all precedent, and excited the cachination of the seminary attendants when they perceived the presence of a young mutton at the establishment for instruction. Consequently the preceptor expelled him from the interior, but he continued to remain in the immediate vicinity, and continued in the neighborhood without fretfulness until Mary once more became visible. "What caused this specimen of the genus ovis to bestow so much affection on Mary?" said the impetuous progeny. "Because Mary reciprocated the wool-producer's esteem, you understand," the tutor answered back.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Falling to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running on needles or feed or prices and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

SINGER

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE GREAT BEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET.

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserve its advantages over all other machines.

It is readily kept clean, and has its REVERSION EVER INVENTED; it is light speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

Jacksonville, Northwestern & Southeastern R. R.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $60,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every section of the Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely safe security.

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the convenience of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick or Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the source of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in paths trod in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessary of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their application in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of his competent ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, sale and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. THEETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

New Publications.

The January number of Old and New has for a leading paper some comments pertinent to the great calamity of Boston. The Editor, besides a chapter of his serial story "Ups and Downs," contributes a new Christmas story with the title "They saw a Great Light." An article in this number of peculiar interest is a partial account of a journey from Boston to Washington, made in 1814, written by Edward Everett forty-one years afterward and never before published, in which he relates incidents of interviews with General Humphreys, President Dwight and Professor Silliman in New Haven, Governeur Morris in New York, several other gentlemen of prominence, among them Judge Cooper of South Carolina, on the way to Philadelphia, Charles Carroll of Carrollton in Baltimore, and the leading members of Congress at that time. The subject of James Martineau's paper is "Utilitarianism." Thomas M. Clark contributes a paper on "William Blake, Artist and Poet." Mrs. Greenough's story is continued, and there is a short poem, "Love at First Sight."

The Earth a Great Magnet,—the ninth of the university series of lectures delivered before the Yale Scientific Club, by A. M. Mayer, Ph. D. of Stevens Institute. This is a most profoundly interesting lecture on the subject of magnetism. Published by Chas. C. Chatfield & Co., New Haven, Conn.

Blackwood's Magazine (Am. reprint) for December has the following list of contents: The Parisians, Book III.; A Century of great poets, from 1750 Downwards; A True Reformer, Part X; Middlemarch; New Books; The Strike and the Lockout. Leon. Scott Pub. Co., 140 Fulton Street, New York city; $4 per year.

The January issue of "Arthur" is on our table. The Magazine takes, with this number, its "New Departure" for a higher level and a broader field. It has been greatly enlarged and is liberally illustrated. "Pipsey Potts," begins a new series of her admirable papers. Every subscriber to the Magazine for 1873 will receive a copy of "The Christian Graces," a steel engraving. T. S. Arthur & Son, Philadelphia, Pa.

The January number of Scribner's Monthly gives evidence of an enterprising spirit on the part of its editors and publishers. There is a second article on "New Ways in the Old Dominion." Edward King tells—"How Stanley Found Livingstone." There are new poems by George Mac Donald, William Morris, Christina Rossetti, William Cullen Bryant, Charlotte S. Bates, C. S. Calverley and Bret Harte. There is an article on the reading of newspapers, by P. G. Hamerton. "Victorian Poets" is the title of a paper by E. E. Steadman. T. W. Higginson writes of "Intercollegiate Scholarships," advocating the institution of some competitive trials of scholarships which may do for the intellectual discipline of American colleges what the intercollegiate boat-race does for the physical. C. D. Warner describes, "A Night in the Garden of the Tuileries." "The Pilgrim's Pockets," by Frank R. Stockton, and "The Christmas Club," a ghost story, by Edward Eggleston, are short stories. Saxe-Holm contributes a short story entitled "The One-Legged Dancers. Dr. Holland's serial is advanced a chapter. The editorial departments are excellent.

Harper's Monthly for January is especially rich in matter appropriate to the Christmas season. Mr. O. M, Spencer contributes a paper entitled "Christmas Throughout Christendom." "Where is the Child?" is the title of a romantic story. S. S. Conant gives an English version of an old Christmas carol. "The Christmas Gift" is a poem by Mrs. M. D. Brine. S. S. Conant contributes an interesting and profusely illustrated paper on "Locomotion." Benson J. Lossen contributes another paper, also illustrated, describing the customs of "The Old Romans at Home." Louis Boggee describes the Sailors Snug Harbor on Staten Island. George M. Towle writes a graphic account of the British Museum and its reading room. Instalments are given of the several serials by Wilkie Collins, Charles Reade and Miss Thackeray. Mrs. M'Carthy and Clara F. Guernsey contribute good short stories. Paul H. Hayne, Nellie M. Hutchinson and Lewis Kingsley are the contributors of poetry. The "Old Stager" continues his reminiscences of Washington incidents. In the "Easy Chair," Mr. Curtis discusses the Boston fire and lessons. There are in this number nearly one hundred illustrations.

The Lady's Friend for January has a picture of "The Last Ride of the Wild Huntsman," another one of "Two Widows," and another called "With the Bloom on"—all handsome and successful pictures of their kind. In literature, Mrs. Henry Wood begins her new story, "The Master of Greylands." Besides this, there are "Una and her Prince," by Miss Muzzy; "Our State Dinner," by Amanda M. Douglas; "An Old Maid," by Florence Percy; "Heloise," by Emma B. Ripley; "Seeing and Believing," by M. C. Pyne; "The White Rose of York," by Elise Polko; "Tibbie on her Wedding Eve." Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut street, Philadelphia.

The Boston committee to solicit aid for sufferers by the fire has completed its work. The treasurer has received $330,000.

One hundred and sixty-seven deaths in Boston last week, 63 of small-pox.

The value of the wrecked barque Kadosh and cargo is $148,000. Eight of those on board were lost and nine saved.

A disturbance arose during the municipal election at Tampico, Mexico, and eight persons were killed and wounded.

The funeral of Albert C. Abbott, who died on Thursday of injuries received at the Boston fire, took place in Charlestown, Sunday, and was very largely attended.

Fires are reported at Adrian, Mich., loss $75,000; Springfield, Ky., $30,000; Abington, Ill., $15,000. The Skowhegan Hotel, at Skowhegan, Maine, was totally destroyed; loss, between $50,000 and $60,000.

Forty-five fires occurred in New York city last week, causing an estimated loss of $1,557,760 which was covered by insurance to the amount of $1,780,200.

The following appointments have been made in connection with the postal service between Bangor and Boston: J. F. Jefferds, of South Berwick, from Head to Chief Clerk; Frank C. Emery, of Portland, Curtis Stevens, of Manchester, —— Phalon, of Salem, Mass., promoted from Postal to Head Clerks; Henry Percival, of Waterville, W. H. Bigelow, of Augusta, and —— Cochrane of Bangor, promoted to Postal Clerks from Route Agents.

A letter from Wilmington, N. C., of the 27th, states that Andrew Strong, one of the notorious outlaws of Scuffletown, was shot dead by a young man named Wilson, whom Strong warned to leave the place. The body was delivered by Wilson to the Sheriff, who immediately paid him $1000 for it, which is a standing reward by the county for any of the Lowery gang, dead or alive. Wilson is also entitled to $5000 reward from the State. The only villain of the gang now alive is Steve Lowery.

The Cunard Steamship Siberia, which has been overdue at Boston several days, put into Halifax, Saturday morning, short of coal, having taken in a supply of which she sailed for Boston on the evening of the same day. She is announced to leave Boston for Liverpool on Wednesday, Jan. 1st.

Some of the Massachusetts papers are fearfully fearful that Mr. Boutwell will be chosen Senator and Gen. Butler secured the governorship.

Andrew C. Chester, a prominent hardware merchant of Dover, died of small-pox on Friday.

CARBOLIC ACID IN SMALL POX.—The London Lancet publishes an account by Dr. Watson of several cases of small-pox and scarlet fever, in which the external application of carbolic acid met with marked success. In the case of one patient with small-pox, whom he saw at the period when papulæ appeared, he ordered an enema, and then had the patient—a girl of 11 years—sponged all over with carbolic acid soap-suds. The next day severe attack of confluent small-pox was threatened, but the child was sponged as before, and then her whole body was painted with the carbolic-acid glycerine of the British pharmacopœia. Five grains of Dover's powder were given to allay irritability, and the patient slept for several hours, when she was sponged again. No vesicles formed, and the patient was convalescent in a few days.

SANTA BARBARA, California, is rapidly becoming known as a resort for those in search of health. The evenness and salubrity of the climate are noteworthy. A correspondent of the Evening Post writes from that place that there are no sudden changes in temperature, and the atmosphere is generally dry, permitting invalids to spend the greater part of the day in the open air. The mornings are mild and invigorating; towards noon a gentle sea-breeze springs up, which fans away the heat of the sun during the middle of the day. One day is the type of all the rest during the greater part of the year. Even the rainy season seems to adapt itself to the comfort of the people, for the heaviest rainfalls are during the night; the days are bright, with perhaps one or two showers during the afternoon. Then follow days of uninterrupted sunshine before another rain.

THE MULTIPLICATION OF MACHINERY increases yearly, while the fertility of American inventive genius seems to increase in a larger ratio than the needs of production. Hence the inventor often finds that his contrivance for saving labor, power or time, has been anticipated. The patent solicitor of to-day has a vast field to investigate to enable him to justly decide on the feasibility of a patent for his client. An experience of years can only familiarize him with the more than six score thousand patents already granted; not noting reissues, conflicting foreign patents, and other obstacles in the path of the candidate for letters patent. The solicitor should also possess the faculty of distinguishing and presenting the salient points of an invention, when drawing the claims for application, otherwise his client may not only lose much time and money in prosecuting his claim, but may eventually fail in securing that which is justly his due. Among the most successful solicitors in this country is R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, whose experience of more than thirty years has not only given him all requisite experience, but has made him widely and most favorably known with inventors throughout New England for promptness, energy, and success. He has given much time to the obtaining of patents for Trade Marks, with marked success in this method of securing the designer or manufacturer in his right against imitation. If we are not mistaken, he is the pioneer in this business in America.

A VACCINE WAR.—A rather curious piece of intelligence from Central Asia relates to the outbreak of a mutiny at Chocohent. The cause of this emeute was no other than a somewhat summary proceeding of the authorities in endeavoring to protect the people against the small-pox, one of the scourges of the region. Accompanied by as many Cossacks the government surgeons would enter village after village, and pounce upon the inhabitants, man, woman or child, wherever they might find them, insert the beneficent virus. At Chodshent the terror which preceded and followed the medical cavalcade led to open resistance. Fancying the enigmatical punctures intended to mark those sought out for transportation to Russia, the people rose against the Cossacks, killed a couple of them, and also massacred one of their own elders pressed into assistance at the hateful ceremony. After this the rest can be imagined. A Russian force having entered the city two of the rioters were executed, nine sent to the Siberian mines, ten banished to the North Pole and several thousand fined. Of those banished two were killed by the escort before they were well over the borders of Turkistan.—London Times.

GRAMMAR.—Coming home on the train last week we overheard the following conversation between a young lady teacher, who also writes for the —, and an old gentleman who had always believed he could speak the English language:

Old Gentleman.—"Are there any houses building in your village?"

Young Lady—"No, sir. There is a new house being built for Mr. Smith, but it is the carpenters who are building."

Gentleman.—"True; I sit corrected. To be building is certainly a different thing from to be being built. And how long has Mr. Smith's house been being built?"

Lady (looks puzzled a moment, and then answers rather abruptly)—"Nearly a year."

Gentleman.—"How much longer do you think it will be being built?"

Lady (explosively)—"Don't know."

Gentleman.—"I should think Mr. Smith would be annoyed by its being so long being built, for the house he now occupies being old he must leave it, and the new one being only being built, instead of being built as he expected, he cannot—"

Here the gentleman perceived that the lady had disappeared.

SHORE FISHING.—We are now dependent upon the wherry fishermen for our supply of fish from the sea. Our market boats will fish out of Portsmouth, N. H., during the winter. Thus far, they have not done much. Schooner Comet, Capt. Felch, of this port, on Tuesday last, caught about $200 worth, which is as large a haul as any of the fleet have made in one day. Gloucester is the greatest fishing port in the world, but in the winter season her harbor is not so favorably situated for the shore fishermen as Portsmouth, hence this has become the great centre for the shore fish trade in the country. The fishermen congregate here from the different ports along the coast, and as a general thing, are well paid for their labor. The crew of the Queen of the Bay, of this port, shared $500 each, for their catch last winter. The fleet, the present season numbers thirty sail of vessels, including two steamers, which is a new feature in this branch of fishing. The fish taken are packed in boxes and sent all over the country and to the Canadas, as sweet and fresh as when taken from their watery element. The harvest for the fishermen commences on the close of the holidays, and fish command good prices. It is impossible to glut the market, since the catch is limited, and the markets of the entire country are open to receive them at remunerative rates. Agents representing all the large cities may frequently be seen here on the arrival of the boats with fares, competing with each other for the catch, to send to some distant part of the country.—Newburyport Herald.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.—The edition for 1873 of the sterling medical annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for about one fifth of a century. It combines with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1873 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

HOW UNNECESSARY THE ANGUISH many persons undergo from rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, toothache and earache. We say unnecessary because the application of Mexican Mustang Liniment to the affected part, or a few drops of it in the ear or tooth, affords instantaneous, and what is better, permanent relief. For cuts, wounds, bruises, swellings, and all injuries or diseases which require treatment externally, this liniment is everywhere regarded as the most potent and reliable healing agent in existence. For all external injuries or ailments of horses and cattle, it is infallible.

WHY HAS SOZODONT become the staple Dentrifice of America? Simply because it is impossible to use it, even for a week, without perceiving its hygienic effect upon the teeth, the gums and the breath.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

City Council.

A special meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen was held Saturday evening, Dec. 28th.

The application of John H. Bailey & Co., for store under the City Rooms, was received and placed on file.

Thos. S. Nowell's bill of $1575.60, for Fire Extinguisher, was ordered to be paid.

William Berry's bill for $168.18 was presented, and the Health Committee reported John Clark's bill, with an explanation—both bills having arisen from the action of the Health Department concerning the small-pox. The Board

Resolved, That the claims of Wm. Berry and John Clark, for articles destroyed by order of the Health Officers on account of infection by the small-pox, be referred to the City Solicitor; and that he be requested to report,

1, Whether the Aldermen have any lawful authority to pay such claims;

2, Whether the Aldermen or the City are under any obligation to do so.

The City Solicitor's opinion on the Mayor's veto was received, accepted and placed on file. It is as follows:—

To the Honorable Board of Mayor and Aldermen:

Your communication in reference to the veto power of the Mayor in the case of George E. Barsantes has been received, and in accordance with your request I furnish you herewith my opinion.

The Statute of 1871, Chap. 24, gives to the Mayor of cities a negative upon the action of the Aldermen in laying out highways and in all other matters.

This Statute seems to be very broad and sweeping but very loosely and clumsily drawn, making no provision whatever as to the manner in which this power is to be exercised in this particular case.

I have no doubt that the Mayor's negative can be applied to cases of this kind. The question then arises, in what manner this negative power is to be exercised in this particular case. It seems that at a meeting of your Board, December 12th, an oral motion was made, seconded and passed, That George E. Barsantes be allowed to withdraw his resignation and that he be reinstated. At a subsequent meeting, held Dec. 19th, the Mayor presented in writing his negative vote.

In my opinion when an oral motion is presented to your Board and passed and the Mayor wishes to exercise his negative powers, it must be done then and there; or in other words, this power is to be exercised in the same manner as the power of the Mayor to throw the casting vote when the Aldermen are equally divided.

I am therefore of the opinion that the Mayor could not negative this vote at a meeting held subsequent to the meeting when the vote was passed; and that the negative presented at the meeting held Dec. 19th did not change or affect the vote of the Board in the case referred to.

Respectfully submitted.

Signed { A. F. HOWARD, City Solicitor.

Ald. Hatch introduced a preamble and resolution relative to amending the records of the meeting of Dec. 12, so far as they relate to the vote authorizing George E. Barsantes to withdraw his resignation and be reinstated in office, and to the Mayor's emphatically expressing his dissent thereto as soon as the vote was declared. The resolution was, "That the records of that meeting be so amended as to express the facts above recited." A warm discussion followed, and the motion was laid on the table by the following vote: ayes,—Waldron, Annable, Wilson and Giddings, 4; noes,—Mendum and Hatch, 2.

The City Solicitor's opinion respecting certain provisions of the Ordinance relating to the Fire Department was received and accepted, and said bill was set back in its passage and a committee appointed to confer with the Common Council relating to the Solicitor's opinion, and to amend the bill. Ald. Hatch, Giddings and Waldron were appointed as a committee.

Several small bills on account of Hanover Street reservoir were ordered to be paid.

Voted, That Engine Companies Nos. 5 and 6 be disbanded Jan. 1, 1873, and the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department be authorized to organize companies of ten men for each Fire Extinguisher.

Kearsarge 3

Will dance the old year out and the new year in, and the Eben Simpson company from Biddeford will attend in a body. Congress Hall is elegantly decorated. Grand march at 8 o'clock, Harlow's full band furnishing the music. Tickets at $1.50 may be had of the members of the company.

The decoration of the Hall was done by Mr. Charles N. Merrill, steward of the company. The Kearsarge boys will march to the depot this evening and receive the Biddeford company.

He Didn't Recover.

An action in trover was brought before Judge Page on Monday by Louis Newry to recover from John E. Morrison the sum of $7, a stake put up against a similar amount. Morrison bet that he caught a rabbit in a trap at Kittery and Newry bet he didn't. The money was placed in the hands of Newry's employer, who paid it to Morrison when it was proved that Morrison, did catch the rabbit as aforesaid. Newry wanted his money back and sued for its recovery. His employer discharged him, declaring he wouldn't have such a mean man with him. It was necessary that the money paid by the stakeholder to the winner should be the identical money deposited in his hands. The defendant had no attorney. Geo. E. Hodgdon, Esq., appeared for plaintiff. Judge Page decided in favor of the defendant. Had the case been one of assumpsit, the decision might have been different.

City Matters.

By our report of the doings of the Board of Aldermen at their last meeting, it will be seen that the City Solicitor has submitted an opinion that the Mayor's veto of the resolution restoring George E Barsantes to the position of Assistant Marshal will not stand. This opinion, if it stands, replaces the Assistant Marshal and checkmates the Mayor until the latter makes a new move.

A matter of more vital interest to the city than the confirmation or overthrow of the Mayor's veto power in this particular case, was also acted on by the Board;—a resolution being passed to disband the two hand-engine companies, and to organize instead two companies of ten men each for the Fire Extinguishers. This action seems to us both hasty and ill considered. The two hand engines, Nos. 5 and 6, are serviceable machines, and in case of fire may be valuable auxiliaries to the more powerful steamers in preventing its spread; and disbanding the two companies is a positive weakening of the Fire Department—none too strong, at the best. The two extinguishers may be of more value than the two hand-engines, but very many citizens have grave doubts of this; and however it may turn out, this action of the City Fathers is abandoning a certainty for an experiment — rather venturesome policy when the safety of a wooden city from fire is concerned.

Laconics.

Work is suspended in the Department of Construction and Repairs at the Navy Yard, until Thursday.

A horse belonging to Mr. Charles Brackett undertook to get up an excitement on Market Square by running away, Monday forenoon, but was stopped before he made out much. Another horse, owned by Mr. John Treat, tried the same game in the afternoon, and would have made out better had not a man named Donovan caught him in a pluckily reckless manner while he was at full speed.

The Sons of Portsmouth resident in New York have taken hold of the project of returning next Fourth of July with renewed zeal. Col. E. R. Goodrich writes that they will have a large meeting this week, and his list of Sons who desire to take part in the festivities already amounts to 250.

Judge Page continued a case brought before him on Monday, a city ordinance conflicting with the statutes. Mr. Robert C. Jarvis sued Mr. Harry Freeman for keeping a slaughter house without permission from the Board of Health, in accordance with an old statute.

Preparations have been commenced by Mr. J. C. Tiffany of this city, for the construction of a gasometer at the Farragut House, Rye Beach. Hundreds of gas burners will be used in the lighting up of this fine seaside hotel.

The Lightford house on Lafayette Road, near Four Corners, has been secured by the city authorities, to be used in case of necessity as a small pox hospital. It is about two miles from the city, is large and comfortable and well adapted for the purpose.

The extreme cold, or something else, made mischief with the danger signals on the Eastern Railroad, Christmas day. The signals failed to work, the lights went out, and trains were badly delayed in consequence.

Mr. W. I. Trafton proposes to give a Masquerade Ball some time in January.

Mr. John F. Coles delivered a very effective temperance lecture at the Temple, Sunday evening. The amount paid out for these lectures thus far is $444, only $179.80 being collected. An authorized person will call upon our citizens soon for contributions for this laudable object, the deficit thus far having been supplied from the purse of a well known citizen.

The treasurer of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad has issued notices calling for the first installment of $20 per share on the capital stock, payable on Monday next at the office of the Trust and Guarantee Co. Interest is to be allowed to all who make payments in advance of the monthly call.

The family of Ex-Governor Goodwin is again sadly afflicted, by the death of Mrs. Susie B. Dewey, wife of Commander George Dewey, U. S. N. Mrs. Dewey was the youngest daughter of the Ex-Governor, was possessed of a lovable disposition and was the centre of a large social circle who held her in fond remembrance.

Boston has had 3000 cases of small pox, 750 proving fatal.

Services this evening at the Unitarian church at 7 1-2 o'clock.

The meeting of persons favoring a musical convention takes place this evening at the Methodist chapel on Daniel Street, at half past 7 o'clock.

Mr. Jaques' singing school at the Pearl Street vestry is a grand success. Those holding tickets can attend throughout the term, which will continue much longer than was expected. Tickets for gentlemen, $1.50; for ladies, $1. Mr. Jaques will give one or more public concerts with the help of singers from Massachusetts—to which the holders of school tickets will be admitted free.

Morning Chronicle.

THE ARTIST'S LOVE, by Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth, and Stories by her Sister, Mrs. Frances Henshaw Baden, has just been published. "The Artist's Love" is the best that has ever fallen from the pen of the industrious Mrs. Southworth. Not lacking one whit in the interest which characterises her romances, it is a more elaborate production than she has hitherto given the world. It breathes a fervid spirit of hope, fortitude and thanks—just the story and sentiment suited for the Christmas season. Published in a large duodecimo volume, and sold by all Booksellers at $1.75 in cloth, or $1.50 in paper cover; or copies will be sent by mail, post-paid, by the publishers, T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa., on receipt of price. All of Mrs. Southworth's thirty-five books are put up in a neat box, cloth, full gilt backs, &c. Price $61 25.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE for 1873 is a beautifully printed and illustrated book, and as it is now published quarterly (at 25 cents per year—not half the cost) it may be considered as a first class floral magazine. Subscribers to the Guide who afterwards send money to the amount of One Dollar or more for seeds may also order twenty-five cents' worth extra—the price paid for the Guide. The January number is beautiful, giving plans for making Rural Homes, Designs for Dining Table Decorations, Window Gardens, &c., and containing a mass of information invaluable to the lovers of flowers. One hundred and fifty pages, on fine tinted paper, some five hundred engravings and a superb colored plate and chromo cover. The seeds sent out by Mr. Vick are always found to be as represented, both as to kind and quality. Address James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The success the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

SINGER

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. Does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and reserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove or brick in Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,
